A Dutch lunch will be served. Old Dutch pictures will be exhibited. There will be a merry-go-round to delight the juvenile heart. And the Far Hills Band is already engaged for both days. In fact, none can afford to miss such a treat," especially those who are justly proud of their enviable Dutch ancestry.

To the general public, far and wide, proceedings are promised the additional eclat of having the bazar opened with a speech by Tunis D. Melick, Pluckemin honorary "mayor" perpetual. It is understood, unless his projected visit to Alaska intervenes to prevent it, that he will lend his presence to the great enhancement of the two days' many attractions.

It is proposed to open the first day's exercises with a parade, approximately made up as follows:

Constable James Wood, grand marshal, in the lead. The Far Hills Band, "Mayor" Tunis D. Melick, in Dutch costume. The oldest Dutch descendants, also in ancient dress. Old ladies in sunbonnets, etc. Rev. Thomas D. Wesley, pastor, at the head of the Sunday and day school children, carrying Dutch flags. Followed by all who will fall in line to swell the throng; everybody being invited to wear the oldest-fashioned garments possible of attainment.

REAR ADMIRAL STUART TO RETIRE TODAY.

Rear-Admiral Daniel D. Stuart, who was promoted through the retirement of Rear-Admiral Sperry, September 3, will be transferred to the retired list today. He is a native of New York and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1869. He served practically all around the world. After serving at the New York Navy Yard he went to Cavite for duty at the naval station in January, 1899. He was next on duty at New York and his latest assignment was as commandant of the navy yard at Norfolk.

Through Admiral Stuart's retirement Captain Kossuth Niles will be promoted to the rank of rear-admiral, Commander Thomas S. Rodgers to that of captain, Lieutenant-Commander Casey B. Morgan to that of commander and Lieutentant Walter M. Falconer to that of lieutenant commander.

Miss Blanche Buttfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Buttfield, of Rockview avenue, returned yesterday from Lake Placid, in the Adirondacks, where she spent the summer, and today she left for Smith College, where she is a student.

New Fall Furniture! New Fall Prices!

In anticipation of a busy Fall season, we have stocked our floors with an unusual fine showing of Furniture, Carpets, Rugs & Mattings. The increased facilities and gradual increasing competition in the manufacturing world has brought the standard of quality far above the productions of the past, and with this new fall line we are in a position to offer you better goods for less money. Better in construction, better in finish, more attractive in design. The time of year when the housewife's inspection of the household suggests a new piece of furniture, or a new rug, or perhaps a bedroom calls for a new matting. They're all here in extensive variety. If you halt at the question of finance, the Household Club Plan will adjust that. Come in and learn how.

Gebhardt, Highland Park, Andrew Ely, Dayton; Peter H. S. Hendricks, New Brunswick; Albert S. Kerr, South Amboy; for coroner, William Morgan, South River.

The Carson and Conger faction of the Republican party have named the following ticket: For Senator, District Court Judge E. W. Hicks, New Brunswick; for county clerk, John H. Conger, New Brunswick; for Assemblymen, R. P. F. von Minden, New Market; William Voorhees, Cranbury; John Wicoff, Plainsboro; for freeholders, William Stacey, Perth Amboy; George S. Bunting, Piscataway; William Ely, South Amboy; A. L. Mundy, New Brunswick, and Frank H. Pownall, Jamesburg, all members of the present board.

The other Republican ticket has Senator W. H. C. Jackson for county clerk, Dr. Belloff, of this city, in place of Mr. Wicoff, for Assembly, and Martin J. Ashley, Woodbridge; William Oberman, Deans, and J. Fred Orpen, New Brunswick, with two of the members of the present board, for freeholders.

LIGHT VOTE IN MORRIS, AMENDMENTS ARE CARRIED.

Morris county has given the amendments a small majority.

Very little interest was shown in Dover. Only about three per cent of the registered vote was polled. In the Fourth ward, where 632 are registered, only forty-six voted. The result in the towns was as follows:

First amendment, for 69, against, 50.

Second, for 76, against 61.

Third, for 79, against 61.

Fourth, for 69, against 74.

Fifth, for 73, against 66.

Morristown and Madison went for the amendments by small majorities.

New Providence Township.

The vote on the amendments cast in the Berkeley Lyceum yesterday on the amendments follows. First—for, 3; against, 11; Second—for, 4; against 13; Third—for, 3; against, 13; Fourth—for 4; against, 13; Fifth—for, 3; against, 13.

JOKE ON HUSBAND PROSTRATES BRIDE.

While his bride of three weeks prostrated on account of stories circulated about him, alleging a former marriage in Pittsburg, James J. Manning, of 32 Joseph street, Newark, threatens vengeance on the ones who started the story.

Manning says the story started shortly after his marriage and in a little while reached his wife's ears. She accused him of having been married before, and on his denial worried in secret until she became ill.

"It is an outrage," said Mr. Manning last night. "Of course, it may have been intended as a joke, but it is a mighty poor one. I have an idea who the guilty parties are, and will make it pretty warm for them if I get more proof. At first I laughed at it, but when the wife got sick over it it passed being a joke."

Manning is a brakeman of the Central Railroad. He has advertised that he was not married in Pittsburg.

DEATH FROM LOCKJAW RESULTS FROM SCRATCH.

A scratch on the hand of James Duffard, while combing wool in a Camden factory, two weeks ago, resulted in his death from lockjaw in Cooper Hospital Monday. The scratch, when first seen was so slight that Duffard merely rubbed in some soda ash and bound up the wound.

Early last week, however, the wounded hand began to swell and caused him such intense suffering that he called in his family physician, Dr. Alexander Ross, who saw that his patient was developing symptoms of lockjaw, and on Thursday had him sent to the Cooper Hospital. The disease, however, had gained too great a headway to be conquered, and with the dreaded convulsions, death quickly ensued. Duffard is survived by a widow and two children, daughters. He was fifty-six years old.

A Summer Petticoat.

A new petticoat is invented which was brought about by the demand of women to be hipless. The upper part is made of ribbons, six inches apart and three inches wide. These run lengthwise from a waist belt to a deep muslin flounce of the knees. The flounce may be as full as one wishes it, and as elaborate. The flounce is hooked to the ribbons under full bows of colored satin ribbon. Even if the outside skirt is transparent and the peticoat shows through, the effect is good.

E. H. Clevely, W. W. Warnock and John C. Storm are at Coney Island, today, enjoying the Mardi Gras.

ENORMOUS WOODEN PIPE LINES.

The water pipes of centuries ago were made of wood and during recent years modern methods have caused a revival of the industry. In earlier years wood pipes were made from logs by the slow and rather uncertain process of boring. Such pipes were only used for low pressure service. Today wooden pipes are made of selected staves, manufactured with mathematical accuracy, each stave being a perfect segmen of the whole circle.

Douglas or Oregon fir, obtained in Oregon and Washington, is the wood best adapted for the manufacture of such pipe, this timber, when saturated with water and protected from outside influences, being practically everlasting. Popular Mechanics describes the methods used in banding the staves into pipe and says:

Nearly 11,000 feet of this type of stave pipe, 8½ feet in diameter, has also been placed in operation to furnish water for the turbines of the electric plant that furnishes the power to draw the trains of the Great Northern Railroad through its tunnel in the Cascades. The plant develops 16,000 horse-power. The maximum head carried by the pipe is 168 feet.

"The wooden pipe for this line was delivered on special railroad trucks and consisted of 65 cars of staves of 1,500,000 feet board measure. The steel bands, weighing nearly 2,000,000 pounds, were carried by 37 cars. The malleable cast-iron shoes required for anchoring this enormous continuous pipe line required five large cars."

TREND OF THE BRITISH FARMER TO PROTECTION.

"British Farmers and the Fiscal Question" is the subject of an interesting article in the North American Review by William E. Bear on the status of the English farmer under present conditions. He speaks among other things, of the question of the small holdings urged by the government. To quote:

"From one point of view this proposed multiplication of small holders of land is intimately connected with the fiscal question, for when these little farmers find how poor a living they can obtain from the land they will almost certainly clamor for protection as the only means of saving them from ruin. That they would be supported in such a demand by the great majority of English farmers there is no doubt, as the Central Chamber of Agriculture, consisting mainly of delegates from provincial chambers, representing nearly the whole of England, has passed a resolution in favor of Mr. Chamberlain's scheme of fiscal reform, while no chamber affiliated to the central institution has declared against it. In Scotland, where the farmers are mainly producers of meat, milk and cheese, fiscal reformers obtain less support."

"Were you a bull or a bear in Wall street?"

"Neither," answered the cautious man. "Not having funds to invest, I was a giraffe. I just rubber-necked.—Washington Star.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team plays Bound Brook again Saturday afternoon at Bound Brook. This will be the second of the series of games between the two teams, the Plains taking the first by a score of 3 to 2.

Special elections are a farce as far as the Plains voters are concerned. It cost the State nearly $1.00 per vote for the 22 cast at the election yesterday.

Miss Elizabeth Riley, who has been spending several weeks with Mrs. Ferdinand Schmidt, of Bartle avenue, has returned to her home in New York.

Miss Hoffman, the new member of the corps of teachers, is making her home with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Correy, of Park avenue.

Ernest Clark has purchased a new roadster and rubber tired runabout.

Mrs. Edward L. Hand spent yesterday with friends in New York.

Miss Sadie Lee has returned from a visit with out of town friends.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Plainfield auto 'bus broke down on the seven o'clock trip between Metuchen and South Plainfield last night. The schedule was not interfered with as another 'bus took the place of the damaged one.

The married men are putting in a strenuous week practicing for their contest with the South Plainfield A. C.

Repairs are being made upon the home of Judge W. E. Smith on Brookside avenue.

The local polls were quiet yesterday, only about ten per cent. of the votes being cast.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hubert are making a short stay with relatives in Bethlehem, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lyons, of Plainfield, visited relatives here yesterday.

Endorsed by about 160 of the leading Republicans of the county, the petition announcing the candidacy of James C. Calvert for nomination for election as County Clerk and Frank H. Smith for County Registrar was filed yesterday afternoon in the County Clerk's office at Elizabeth. Other petitions filed yesterday were those of Augustus W. Schwartz, Carlton B. Pierce and Harold Depew, for Republican nomination for election to the General Assembly.

The Republican City Committee meets tonight at 8 o'clock.

HERE AND THERE.

A story of unusual luck in fishing is told by C. O. Deakin, a Wall street broker, who resides on the Clinton avenue hill. Mr. Deakin was fishing with a party of friends at Shur's Landing on the Susquehanna River, Maryland, last week, and while out the second day, he caught 32 striped bass, perfect beauties, each one weighing not less than eight or nine pounds. The prize catch was a twenty pound bass which Mr. Deakin finally succeeded in hauling in after a hard tussle. It was worth the effort, however. He shipped most of the catch to his home here, as well as friends in this city and New York.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

When Charley Grapewin, the popular comedian, appears here at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, he will have a new play which is said to be the funniest vehicle he has had in his entire theatrical career. There are few stars who can play for six years in the same cities without resorting to a new play. Mr. Grapewin has appeared in "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp" for the last six years and to the credit of this unctuous comedian, the boxoffice receipts show that he played to larger business during the sixth year than he did during the first tour. This season, Mr. Grapewin has a delightful comedy called "Above the Limit," which was written by himself and George Totten Smith. The play is in three acts and abounds in funny situations, and the principal role gives the star an opportunity to display his versatility to advantage.

"Three Twins" will be the offering at the New Plainfield theatre, Thursday night, Sept. 23. "Three Twins" contains more musical hits than any other musical comedy. "The Yama Yama Man" has been the most talked of musical novelty in many years and Mr. Ashton Stevens, of the New York Journal, said it was the most titillating piece of stage business ever produced.

MANY AT REUNION OF KEARNY'S OLD BRIGADE.

Considering the few survivors remaining, there was a large attendance at the twenty-eighth reunion of General Phil Kearny's First New Jersey Brigade held at Jamesburg, yesterday.

Surviving members of the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Tenth, Fifteenth, Twenty-third and Fortieth regiments, New Jersey Volunteers, and of Hexamer's Battery, were invited to attend the reunion.

The chapel of the Presbyterian church was placed at the disposal of the veterans for their business meeting. A large tent was erected on the church grounds. Dinner, prepared by the patriotic women of Jamesburg, was served at the close of the business meeting.

The hosts of the day were the members of Sumner Post, No. 74, G. A. R. The program included an address of welcome by Rev. S. J. McLenaghan, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

The present officers of the association are: President, Camille Baquet, Spotswood; E. H. Graeme, New York, recording secretary; S. D. Aspinwall, Newark, corresponding secretary; Thomas T. Tilton, Elizabeth, treasurer.

M. F. Gano, of Grove street, has returned home from a business trip to Agnueville, Virginia.

ASKING FUNDS FOR HUDSON CELEBRATION

Members of the Hudson-Fulton celebration committee yesterday met in the office of Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler at the State House, Trenton, and discussed ways and means for raising the necessary $4,000 for the part New Jersey is to take in the celebration. Those present were Adjutant General Sadler, former Governors Stokes and Murphy, Governor Fort, James Kearney and John Ramsey. It was decided to send out this letter of appeal for funds:

"Three hundred years ago, September 25, Henry Hudson anchored at the entrance to New York harbor, and during the ensuing month made the famous voyage of exploration which gave to the world the first definite knowledge concerning the river which bears his name and opened to civilization the region which now forms the great metropolitan centre of New York and New Jersey.

"At the end of this month, still within the tercentenary dates of Hudson's presence in our waters, New York city and State will enter upon a commemoration of the discovery of the river and of the first successful application of steam to navigation upon it, such as this country has never seen. Beginning with September 25, and continuing for about two weeks, many of the nations of the world will be represented by warships. The Netherlands will send, in addition to the gift of the Half Moon, a warship and a distinguished delegation of about twenty of her foremost citizens. Great Britain will send a cruiser squadron of four warships and high dignitaries. Germany will send four warships and the highest ranking grand admiral. Italy will send a warship and her royal navy schoolship, having on board the future official personnel of the Italian navy. France will send a squadron of three warships. Japan, Brazil, Cuba, Mexico and other countries, both in the eastern and western hemispheres, will be represented by naval vessels and special delegates. There will also be a great inpouring of people from distant parts of our own country, and this section will be on trial as never before.

"New Jersey has a historic as well as a neighborly interest in this great celebration. A committee has been appointed by the Governor of the State to represent New Jersey in this event, and to act with the commission of New York State and New York city. The celebration is necessarily a New Jersey as well as a New York celebration. It will be a source of great humiliation if the New Jersey shores should not be illuminated during the important nights set apart for the naval and other pageants and parades.

"To properly illuminate the New Jersey shore will require about $10,000. Owing to the condition of the treasury, the Legislature did not feel warranted in making an appropriation for any extra purposes. Under the circumstances we are compelled to call upon the patriotic citizens of New Jersey to contribute to this cause. Will you not respond on this exceptional occasion and do something for the honor of our State. Any sum will be gladly received.

"Please send all checks to Former Governor E. C. Stokes, Trenton, New Jersey."

GERMAN CONSUL PLEADS FOR A STRANDED TAR.

Warden Dodd, of the county jail, Monday morning received a letter from the German Consulate at New York, relative to Frederick William Harnish, who is being held at the county jail in Elizabeth for deportation. The letter stated that the German consul was endeavoring to help Harnish in every possible way and would take his case up with the United States Commissioners of Immigration. In the meantime he desired that deportation proceedings be delayed.

Harnish was taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital several months ago, having been hit by a train on the Pennsylvania Railroad. He was discharged after the injuries had healed but since then has been in the hospital several times. As he had only been in the country a short time when he was injured steps were taken to deport him. At the hospital he tried to take carbolic acid, despondent, it was claimed, over word that he was to be deported.

He was sent to the County Jail to await deportation proceedings.

At the jail Harnish claims that he wishes to either go back to his business as a sailor or to go to his home in Germany. He says that he was a sailor on the North German Lloyd Line and when his boat touched New York he went to Elizabeth to visit a friend. While in Elizabeth he was taken sick, he said, and when he was able to return to New York found that his boat had gone.

As he is apparently in good health and anxious to get back to his work and is not held on any criminal charge efforts are being made to secure his release so that he may return home.

The county officials are awaiting word from the United States Immigration officials.

PATERSON GIRL DUPED BY ALLEGED BIGAMIST.

The arrest of George F. Diehl, thirty-five years old, of Stroudsburg, Pa., Sunday night, was the first intimation to Catherine Fulbeam, of Paterson, that her husband was a married man at the time of her marriage to him.

Diehl, it is said, represented himself as a single man, and worth millions. The bride had no knowledge of his former marriage, and when he was placed under arrest she swooned.

Both were given a hearing, and the bride was placed in the custody of her father, Otto Fulboam, at Paterson. It was through the efforts of her father that Diehl's alleged bigamous life was revealed.

Diehl, on the other hand, seems to take his trouble lightly. He had not paid his bill at the hotel, and hasn't the wherewithal to satisfy the proprietor. The New Jersey authorities will bring action against him for bigamy.

Miss Fulboam became enamoured with Diehl during a recent vacation spent at Delaware Water Gap. The girl is considered pretty, and had been employed as a stenographer in a broker's office on Cortlandt street New York, for the past five years. Her marriage took place in Jersey City about four weeks ago. Rev. Mr. Meyer performed the ceremony.

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING.

Two Bayonne Men Arrested With Five Bales of Havana Leaf.

Frank Simmons, of Bayonne, a former captain in the fire department of that city, and Anton Engel, also of Bayonne, were arrested yesterday, charged with smuggling five bales of Havana leaf tobacco, worth about $600 a bale. When arrested they had five bales of tobacco in a wagon and were on their way to Newark. Simmons and Engel will be arraigned today before Commissioner Shields.

It is said that for some time extensive smuggling of tobacco from Havana has been accomplished by an organized gang. The five bales taken in Bayonne were brought from Havana to Constable Hook in a steamer.

COL. TODD SHOT.

Sandy Hook, Sept. 14—Col. Todd, commanding the East ra Artillery District of New York, was accidentally shot in the leg during sub-calibre practice with the big guns at Batteries Ingle and Peck at Fort Hancock Monday afternoon.

Major Rand, the Post Surgeon, was near by at the time of the accident and hurried at once to the aid of his wounded commander. An ambulance was called and Col. Todd was removed to the post hospital. It is not expected the wound will prove serious, although the injured man may be permanently lamed by the injury.

Peach Crop Profitable.

For the first time in ten years the peach crop of the northern part of New Jersey has paid the growers. A decade ago the trees were stricken with a blight which completely destroyed thousands of them. After struggling along for a few years the farmers set out new trees, and this year they bore their first paying crops.

Killed on the Track.

Patrick Green, fifty-nine years old, was instantly killed by a train on the Millstone branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday morning. He was employed on the railroad, and stepped from behind one train in front of another and was ground under the wheels.

The choir of the First Baptist church is expected to return next Sunday from its annual vacation. No changes are announced.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Kitty?" The voice came from the doorway. Kitty was startled for a moment, but it was only La Signorina. Kitty furtively wiped her eyes.

"I am over here by the window. The moon was so bright I did not light the lamp."

La Signorina moved with light step to the window, bent and caught Kitty's face between her hands and turned it firmly toward the moon.

"You have been crying, cara!"

"I am very lonely," said Kitty.

"You poor little homeless bird!" La Signorina seized Kitty impulsively in her arms. "If I were not"— She hesitated.

"If you were not?"

"If I were not poor, but rich instead, I'd take you to one of the fashionable hotels. You are out of place here in this rambling old ruin."

"Not half so much as you are," Kitty replied.

"I am never out of place. I can live comfortably in the fields with the peasants, in cities in extravagant hotels. My mind is always at one height. Where the body is does not matter much."

There was a subtle hauteur in the voice. It subdued Kitty's inquisitiveness.

"Sometimes," said Kitty, drying the final tear—"sometimes I am afraid of you."

"And wisely. I am often afraid of myself. I always do the first thing that enters my head, and generally it is the wrong thing. Never mind. The old woman here will trust us for some weeks yet." She leaned from the window and called, "Pomp-e-o!"

A good stroke sent the gondola up the canal.

From the canal the gondolier answered.

"Now then!" said the woman to the girl.

Kitty threw a heavy shawl over her head and shoulders, while the other wound about her face the now familiar dark gray veil, and the two went down into the Campo to the landing.

Pompeo threw away his cigarette and doffed his hat. He offered his elbow to steady the women as they boarded, and once they were seated a good stroke sent the gondola up the canal. Under bridges they passed. They glided by little restaurants where Venetians in olden days talked liberty for themselves and death to the Austrians, and at length they came out upon the Grand canal where the Rialto curves its ancient blocks of marble.

"There! This is better."

"It is always better when you are with me," said Kitty.

For years Kitty had fought her battles alone, independent and resourceful, and yet here she was leaning upon the strong will of this remarkable woman, and gratefully too.

"Now, my dear Kitty, we'll just enjoy ourselves tonight, and on our return I shall lay a plan before you, and tomorrow you may submit it to the men."

"I accept it at once without knowing what it is."

"What a beautiful palace!" Kitty cried presently, pointing to a house not far from the house of Petrarch. The moon poured broadly upon it. The gondola posts stood like sleeping sentinels, and the tide murmured over the steps.

Pompeo, seeing Kitty's gesture, swung the gondola diagonally across the canal.

"No, no, Pompeo!" La Signorina spoke in Italian. "I have told you never to go near that house without express orders. Straight ahead."

"Who lives there?" asked Kitty.

"Nobody," answered La Signorina, "though once it was the palace of a great warrior. How picturesque the gondolas look, with their dancing double lights!"

"The old palace interests me more than the gondolas," declared Kitty. But La Signorina was not to be trapped.

From the Grand canal they came out into the great canal of San Marco, the beginning of the lagoon.

"La Signorina"— began Kitty.

"There! I have warned you twice. The third time I shall be angry."

"Hilda, then. But I am afraid whenever I call you that. You do not belong to my world."

"And what makes you think that?" There was a smile behind the veil.

"I do not know unless it is that you are at home everywhere, in the Campo, in the hotels, in the theater or the palace. Now, I am at home only in the theater, in places which are unreal and artificial. You are a great actress, a great singer, and yet, as O'Mally would say, you don't belong." Kitty had forgotten what she had started out to say

La Signorina laughed. "Pouf! You have been reading too many novels. To the molo, Pompeo."

At the molo, the great quay of Venice, they disembarked. The whilom prima donna dropped 50 centesimi into Pompeo's palm, and he bowed to the very gunwale of the boat.

"Grazie, nobilita."

"What does he say?" asked Kitty.

"He says 'Thanks, nobility.' If I had given him a penny it would have been thanks only. For a lira he would have added principessa—princess. The gondolier will give you any title you desire if you are willing enough to pay for it."

The Piazza San Marco, or St. Mark, is the mecca of those in search of beauty. Here they may lay the sacred carpet, kneel and worship. There is none other to compare with this mighty square, with its enchanting splendor, its haunting romance, its brilliant if pathetic history.

There were several thousand people in the square tonight, mostly travelers. The band was playing selections from Audran's whimsical "La Mascotte." The tables of the many cafes were filled, and hundreds walked to and fro under the bright arcades or stopped to gaze into the shop windows.

The two women saw no vacant tables at Florian's, but presently they espied the other derelicts—O'Mally, Smith and Worth—who managed to find two extra chairs.

Through her veil their former prima donna studied them carefully, with a purpose in mind. The only one she doubted was Worth. Somehow he annoyed her. She could not explain, yet still the sense of annoyance was always there.

"Gentlemen," she said during a lull, "I have a plan to propose to you all."

"If it will get us back to old Broadway let us have it at once," said O'Mally.

"Well, then, I propose to wait no longer for letters from home. My plan is simple. They say that a gambler always wins the first time he plays. I propose that each of you will spare me what money you can, and Kitty and I will go to Monte Carlo and take one plunge at the tables."

A glorious green emerald lay in the palm of her hand.

"Monte Carlo!" O'Mally brought down his fist resoundingly. "That's a good idea. If you should break the bank think of the advertisement when you go back to New York."

"Be still," said Worth.

"Dash it, business is business, and without publicity there isn't any business." O'Mally was hurt.

"Mr. O'Mally is right," said La Signorina. "It would be a good advertisement. But your combined opinion is what I want."

The three men looked at one another thoughtfully, then drew out their wallets, thin and worn. They made up a purse of exactly $150, not at all a propitious sum. But, such as it was, O'Mally passed it across the table. This utter confidence in her touched La Signorina's heart. She turned aside for a moment and fumbled with the hidden chain about her neck. She placed her hand on the table and opened it. O'Mally gasped. An emerald—a glorious green emerald—lay in the palm of her hand.

"I shall give this to you, Mr. O'Mally," said the owner, "till I return. It is very dear to me, but that must not stand in the way."

"Ye gods!" cried O'Mally in dismay. "Put it away. I shouldn't sleep o' nights with that on my person. Keep it. We'll trust you anywhere this side of jail. But you're a brick, all the same." And that was as near familiarity as O'Mally ever came.

She turned to Smith, but he put out a hand in violent protest; then to Worth, but he smiled and shook his head.

She put the ring away. It was her mother's. She never would smile scornfully in secret at these men again.

"Thank you," she said quietly. "If I lose your money we will all go to Florence. I have another plan, but that will keep till this one under hand proves a failure."

O'Mally beckoned to a waiter.

"Tom!" warned Smith.

GOOD WORK.

Done Daily in Plainfield—Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Plainfield still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, 304 West Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A dull, heavy, bearing-down pain in my back bothered me a great deal, especially when I caught cold. I also had frequent headaches and was at time so dizzy that I could scarcely see. If I did much stooping or lifting, my back became very lame and though I used plasters, I was relieved only for the time being. Finally on the advise of a friend, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. They acted in every way as represented and in a short time rid me of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am pleased to recommend a remedy of such undoubted merit."

CANNON CALLS FOWLER A "CURRENCY CRANK"

Congressman Charles W. Fowler, of Elizabeth, was referred to as a "currency crank" by Speaker Joseph G. Cannon in his address before the American Bankers' Association convention in Chicago, Ill., yesterday. While Speaker Cannon did not mention him by name, every banker knew that the representative from the Fifth New Jersey District was the man to whom he referred. Congressman Fowler was deposed as chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency by Speaker Cannon.

A bombshell was hurled into the convention by Mr. Cannon when he announced his hostility to radical changes in the present currency laws. He declared there would be no possibility of adopting revision in the winter session of Congress, and said the 3,500 bankers who filled the theatre were but a spoke in the immense wheel of national government. His speech was the star feature of the day's program.

ENGAGEMENT FROM ROMANCE.

A romance, which began three years ago, will culminate soon in the wedding of Paul Arata, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Arata, of 203 Perry street, Trenton, to Miss Roselyn Seville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Seville, of Hoboken. No date for the wedding has been set, but the ceremony will be performed early in January.

While attending the wedding of his cousin, Miss Rose Ghio, of Hoboken, three years ago, Mr. Arata met Miss Seville. The friendship gradually ripened into love, and yesterday the engagement of the couple was announced.

RED BANK DENTIST LANGUISHES IN JAIL

The aged Dr. Richard F. Gordon, who has been in the Somerset County jail at Somerville since Sunday, while his young wife has been untiring in her efforts to obtain a bondsman, preserves silence on all matters relating to Miss Madie White, upon whose charge he was locked up. The young woman has brought suit against him for $20,000 damages for breach of promise.

Mrs. Gordon says that she will stand by her husband through his trouble. She makes the journey from her mountain home to the county jail every day to visit him.

Miss White, the complainant, is the youngest daughter of Francis White, of Red Bank. About three weeks ago she returned from California, being summoned home by the illness of her mother. Her father and the other members of the family say they knew nothing of the suit by Miss White until its publication. Miss White is about twenty-five years old, while Gordon is sixty. He has been a dentist in Red Bank many years. His first wife died about two years ago.

CONFESSES, HE SENT BLACKMAIL LETTERS.

Pieter Uregas admitted Monday afternoon, in the presence of Justice of the Peace Charles W. Sedam, of New Brunswick, several Pinkerton detectives and Superintendents John A. Manley and Charles A. McCormick, of Johnson & Johnson's factory, that he had sent three "Black Hand" letters to Mr. Manley. The letters demanded $50,000 in cash, under threat of blowing up the factory, with its 1,500 employes.

Uregas, through an interpreter, said: "I hope Mr. Manley will excuse me. I wrote the letters."

In his trunk at his boarding-house the detectives found several pieces of cardboard similar to what had been put in the box placed by Manley under the big cross in the Keasbey Cemetery to make the box weighty, and give the finder the impression it contained money. The box had been placed according to directions contained in one of the letters.

On being further question, Uregas said he had worked at Johnson & Johnson's some weeks ago, and then had gone to Ashtabula, O., to work. Returning, he tried to get his old job back at Johnson's, but failed. He wrote the letters in an effort to regain his job. He denied positively that any one had prompted him to send the letters, or that he had any accomplices. He got the idea from reading of the Queen of Hungary being killed years ago.

Uregas is not over-intelligent, and could not explain how the letters would get him a job when he signed no name to them. He has a wife living in Hungary.

While the net was closing about Uregas at Keasbey the factory people were in a nervous panic. Mr. Manley, who was not able to read the letters, which were written in Hungarian, had called in a young girl to translate them. She could not hide the dread secret, and it spread soon among the employes.

The grand jury will take up Uregas' case Friday. The maximum punishment for the crime is fifteen years in State prison.

SOCIETY SHOWN LETTERS ROBERT FULTON WROTE.

Two letters which may have an important part if the proposed exhibition of the New Jersey Historical Society in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebration is given, were the centre of interest at a meeting of the society Monday. They were original missives written by Robert Fulton and are now in the possession of Frederick A. Canfield, who displayed them yesterday.

The society has received a number of requests from New York institutions holding exhibitions asking that some of the historical data held by the local organization and connected with Fulton be loaned during the coming celebration. There was some discussion as to whether the requests would be granted, and the matter was put over until a later meeting. The society has much Fulton material which it proposed to place on exhibition in the Free Public Library, Newark. The members are undecided as to holding a local exhibit and there is some talk of uniting with some New York organization. John C. Eisele and Charles A. Philhower, the latter principal of a Chatham public school, were elected members of the society.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Emmons, of Prospect place, are spending a month at Belmar.

IF BASEBALL GAME IS NUISANCE STOP IT

Vice Chancellor Walker handed down an opinion yesterday at Trenton granting a preliminary injunction against the playing of Sunday baseball at Inlet Park, Atlantic City, on the ground that it creates a public nuisance in the vicinity of the park. The Vice Chancellor holds that the court has no power to enforce by injunction the so-called Sunday laws, but, on the contrary, a decision in each case must depend upon whether a nuisance is created.

The complaint was filed by the Rev. John McMillan and John H. Goldsmith, the former alleging as a result of the Sunday games a large number of the boys in his Sunday-school absent themselves and attend the games. With this feature of the complaint the Vice Chancellor says the court has nothing to do. After reviewing the evidence in the case the Vice Chancellor says:

"The playing of baseball will be enjoined, if it be made to appear that the noise and disorderly conduct attendant upon the games amounts to a nuisance in the neighborhood, whereby the peace and quiet of the Sabbath is disturbed and the rest which the complainants are entitled to enjoy on that day is appreciably affected. Each case must stand or fall upon the question of nuisance or no nuisance, as the Court of Chancery has no jurisdiction to inforce, by injunction, the Sunday laws, so-called.

"If this decision be erroneous, there is a court above me to which the defendants may resort for the correction of the error."

CAN'T ASSESS LAWYER'S BILL ON LAND OWNERS.

The action of the borough Council of New Providence, in assessing upon property owners aected by the recent sewer case the bill of Corra N. Williams, attorney of the Health Board, was declared Monday night to be illegal. This information was conveyed in an opinion of Borough Counsel Elmer E. McKirgan, of Summit, submitted at the regular meeting of the Council.

A petition from residents and property owners in Livingstone avenue to have the thoroughfare repaired was referred to the road committee. No funds are available at present.

Collector Arthur C. Doty presented a letter from the county clerk notifying the Council that the borough's share of a county road bond issue amounting to $1,496.75, was due. The Council ordered a warrant drawn for its payment.

Albert E. Jackson, of West Summit, appeared before the Council and called attention to the rapid growth of the borough. He said several farms had been laid as building lots. He suggested that a committee of citizens be appointed with the borough surveyor and that a uniform grade for sidewalks and streets be established, to be submitted to the Council for approval.

Mayor Crane appointed Councilmen William Post and Fred R. Rubsamen to confer with Mr. Jackson and also to consider the advisability of creating a shade tree commission for the borough.

Bills amounting to $600 were approved and ordered paid.

DOVER TO ASK RIGHT TO INCREASE TAX RATE.

The Dover Common Council was notified by the Morris County Board of Taxation Monday night that the county, district school and municipal taxes together will make a rate of $19.59 per $1,000 of valuation, which is $2.09 more than the maximum tax rate, not counting State school tax, allowed by the terms of Chapter 116 of the laws of 1906.

The county board called attention to Chapter 182 of the laws of 1908, which, under such circumstances, allows an increase of the tax rate to an amount not exceeding thirty cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, formal application for such increase to be made by the government body of the taxing district.

The ensuing discussion was brought to a close when Councilman Searing said:

"If we don't ask to have the rate increased, the county and State school tax will be deducted from the sum total of the taxes raised, and we will have to get along with what's left."

A formal resolution, asking the county board to increase the rate, was passed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kirkner and daughter, Miss Margery Kirkner, of West Seventh street, have returned home after spending the past six weeks at the Beach House, Sea Girt.

P. S. C. STOCK NOW PAYS FIVE PER CENT.

The Board of Directors of the Public Service Corporation at a meeting held yesterday afternoon placed the stock of the company on a five per cent dividend paying basis by declaring a dividend of 1¼ % for the current quarter.

The board also authorized the necessary formalities to transfer the gas leases and property of the company to Public Service Gas Company (all the stock of which is owned by Public Service Corporation) in the manner heretofore outlined in the statement made by the president of the company September 1.

The cancellation of the outstanding bonds of the company under the issue of May 1, 1908, and the mortgage securing the same, was authorized, as was the execution of the new general mortgage of the company, securing an issue of $50,000,000 of bonds.

The sale of $8,000,000 at par of the new bonds to bankers was also expressly authorized, the proceeds of which sale will be largely used to retire the collateral gold notes of the company which fall due on the first of November.

The action of the directors in placing the company upon a five per cent divided paying basis was taken upon the recommendation of the executive committee after a careful consideration by that committee of the favorable showing which the company is making both in the increase of its gross business and the economical operation of its properties.

As part of the comprehensive financial plan of the company the board also authorized an allotment to stockholders of record on October 1, 1909, of 25 per cent of their respective holdings of stock at par. The stockholders will be promptly notified of the details of this offer. A very considerable number of the largest stockholders have already notified the management of their intention to take their allotments, and it is thought that a very large porportion of the allotment will be subscribed for.

The proceeds of this sale of stock will be used for further substantial improvements which the company has in contemplation.

STOPS STRIP TICKETS BECAUSE OF SWINDLING.

Trenton is to be treated to a condition like that in Philadelphia some time ago, by reason of the withdrawal of the strip tickets, six for a quarter, by the Trenton treet Railway Company. This announcement was made Monday afternoon to take effect Wednesday on the ground that the company was being victimized by conductors turning in tickets instead of cash fares.

The new rule will apply only to the company's lines within the city limits. The farmers had a better eye for business than the Democratic Board of Public Works. When they gave the franchises to run cars through the townships they made the company agree to sell six tickets for a quarter.

The company will have to live up to its agreement with the people of Hamilton Square, Pennington, Hopewell, Lawrenceville and Trenton Junction. It will do so by selling special strip tickets at the old rate on all these lines, but they will not be accepted in payment of fare for that part of the journey which is within the city limits.

Peter E. Hurley, general manager of the railway, said that the withdrawal of tickets will save the company many hundreds of dollars. Detectives have found large quantities were sold by outsiders at rates which indicated fraud was being practised. It is believed that counterfeit tickets were employed.

JOPLIN BANKER VISITS "THE CITY BEAUTIFUL."

James F. Gallagher, president of the Joplin Trust Company, of Joplin, Mo., with his wife and daughter, are the guests of E. D. Middlekauff and family, of Truell hall. Mr. Gallagher talked today of the great prosperity prevailing in the West and particularly of the lead and zinc section surrounding Joplin, which in the radius of twenty square miles has produced over $200,000,000. This has increased from $9,000 in the year 1873 to $20,000,000 in 1908. He also states that Joplin is one the eve of the greatest boom of its history. Since the increased tariff of $4.50 per ton on zinc ore, the population of Joplin which is now 50,000 is growing at the rate of 1,000 a month.

Although this is Mr. Gallagher's first visit to Plainfield he says he believes it contains more beautiful homes, best streets, and the most beautiful city he has ever visited, and is sorry he cannot remain longer to enjoy the pleasant drives and scenery.

SEE "PAID IN FULL" AT THE THEATRE TONIGHT

In recent years a few plays have made such big hits that two or three companies have been sent out in them, and in one instance four organizations were started, but the number lasted only a short time. That play was not big enough or popular enough to win public support for four companies, yet it was one of the biggest successes of the time. In this fact lies the proof that Eugene Walter's "Paid In Full" is the greatest and most popular play ever produced in America. All last season, beginning in August, 1908, and continuing until last May, five companies appeared in "Paid In Full" all over the United States. This same number is going over the country again this year. This adds a chapter to theatrical history never before written. It shows conclusively that "Paid In Full" occupies a place in public admiration no other play has held, and it is doubtful if another ever attains it. The broad interest possessed by "Paid In Full" is demonstrated by the fact that it scored as big a hit in one part of the country as in another. They like it as well in San Francisco and in New Orleans and Minneapolis as they did in New York, where it ran for two years. Never has a play been in such demand for return engagements. In this respect it has a record unequalled in theatrical history. It has been played as many as five and six times in cities innumerable, and it is a wonderful illustration of its tremendous appeal that in every instance the audiences have been bigger each time it has returned. Therefore its coming to this city will awaken deepest interest when at the Plainfield theatre tonight the Wagenhals & Kemper Company presents it with a New York cast and production.

PERSONAL.

I. D. TenEyck has returned to this city from a stay at Asbury Park.

Mrs. S. A. Wallace, of Park avenue, has returned home from Asbury Park.

William S. Tyler, of West Eighth street, has returned home after spending the summer at Sunapee, N. H.

REGISTERED LETTER FEE IS UP, 8 TO 10 CENTS.

Washington, Sept. 15.—Postmaster-General Hitchcock yesterday signed the order increasing the fee for the registration of mail from 8 to 10 cents, to take effect November 1. This action followed the recommendation of the committee now investigating the registry service, and it is in accord with the views of the registry experts recently in conference on the subject in Washington.

The order also increases the maximum indemnity paid to the owner of a lost or rifled registered letter from $25 to $50, thus doubling the department's liability for valuable articles entrusted to its registry branch. This additional insurance of $25 for two cents is granted at a much lower rate than is offered for a similar amount by any private concern.

Renewing Old Acquaintances.

Frazee and Henry Connett, old-time residents of Plainfield, but now of San Jose, Ill., arrived here last night to renew old acquaintances for the first time in twelve years. They are visiting their nephew, Frank Putnam, of the dry goods firm of Putnam & DeGraw. It is forty-three years ago that the brothers left Plainfield to settle in Illinois and since that time they have been successful. Both are now retired farmers. They are now busy visiting former well-known scenes and shaking hands with many of their friends, who are numbered among the oldest residents.

NOMINATE F. DE L. HYDE

North Plainfield Township Republicans Name Wealthy Man for Freeholder.

CHAS. C. WHEELER CHAIRMAN.

Dr. Moldenke for County Committee and John Beethan for Township Committee.

An enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of Republicans of North Plainfield township was held at Maul's Hotel, last night, when candidates were endorsed for the approaching election. Charles C. Wheeler was made chairman of the meeting, and he was also named as the successor of Dr. Richard Moldenke, as a member of the county committee.

Francis De Lacy Hyde, of Mountain avenue, was placed in nomination as a candidate for freeholder, in opposition to Freeholder William Demler, a Democrat, who will again be a candidate. Dirk de Haas, also a Democrat, is a candidate for freeholder. The nomination of Mr. Hyde was received with much enthusiasm and everyone expressed the opinion that he would be elected by a large majority. Mr. Hyde's acceptance has been received and he has informed the Republicans that he will make a strong fight for the office. He is a brother-in-law of former State Senator Everett Colby.

The Republicans voted unanimously for John Beetham, for member of the township committee to succeed Alfred Brokaw, and he will doubtless be elected. Samuel Cleaves was also endorsed for constable; J. P. Voorhees for surveyor of highways and Charles P. Sebring was elected a delegate to the county convention to be held at Somerville.

DR. BORDEN GIVEN CHANCE TO GET BAIL.

Released in the custody of James D. Major, keeper of the county jail at Somerville, Dr. Richard F. Borden was released yesterday and went at once, on an afternoon train, to his home in Red Bank, where he expects to secure bondsmen to qualify in the sum of $5,000.

Dr. Borden, who is sixty years old, is defendant in civil proceedings brought by Miss Madie White, twenty years old, who claims damages for breach of promise of marriage. As told in this newspaper yesterday there is considerable mystery about the suit, the members of the young woman's family disclaiming any knowledge as to the details.

Dr. Borden is not known at Somerville, but seems to have many friends in Red Bank. His counsel, Attorney General Edmund Wilson, has kept the wires hot this morning in arranging to have him given his liberty so as to secure bondsmen.

His release was finally agreed to by the court, after a conference of the sheriff and Miss White's lawyers.

FOOTBALL PLAYER'S TOE IS AMPUTATED.

Russell Vail, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Vail, of Elmwood place, has lost the second toe on his left foot, as a result of an operation performed by Dr. C. B. Lufburrow and N. W. Currie, yesterday, at the home of his parents. While the cause of the injury to the toe is not known positively, it is thought the young man, who was the star quarterback for the Holy Cross footbal team last year, in kicking the ball injured his foot in some way that was unnoticed at the time.

During the past month the toe refused to perform its function and doubled up causing intense pain. The doctors decided that an amputation was necessary. Mr. Vail is resting comfortably and it will be ten days before he will be able to resume his position with the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, of New York.

Erler—Vliet.

Miss Lilian Irene Vliet, a niece of John Manley, of this city, was married yesterday in the First Presbyterian church of New Brunswick, to Dr. Eugene W. Erler, of Newark. Rev. William W. Knox, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Miss Mary Clay, of Long Island, was the bridesmaid and James Wallace Hegeman, of New York, was best man. Guests from Philadelphia, Washington, Plainfield and Newark filled the lecture room of the church where the ceremony was conducted. A collation was served on the lawn of the parents' residence.

PLANS CONCERT SEASON

Joseph McIntyre Busy in Arranging for Musical Offerings.

ARTISTS ARE OF HIGH RANK.

In Addition to the Galaxy Seen Last Season, Some Others Are Promised.

With the approach of the grand opera season in New York which, unless all signs fail, is to be the most brilliant in the history of Gotham, it is not surprising that the devotees of music are keyed up to the concert pitch and are eager for the initial performances at the rival houses—the Metropolitan and the Manhattan. Each season New York and its environs becomes more and more dependent upon their favorite artists, vocal and instrumental, for their entertainment and Plainfield is ever abreast with the march of progress and cultivation. To this end a brilliant musical season has been planned for this city and Joseph McIntyre, whose chamber concerts have charmed so many audiences in the past, unhesitatingly declares the series of concerts planned for the approaching season will far eclipse all previous efforts.

Only a few years ago a concert with artists of national or international reputations was unheard of in Plainfield. Devotees of music in this city were compelled to journey to New York for their entertainment. With the advent of Mr. McIntyre in Plainfield, however, all was changed and by dint of much patience and no end of hard work he built up a most representative clientelle and by presenting programs of unrivalled merit he was enabled to establish himself firmly in the affections of his patrons.

The first of this season's concerts will be given the latter part of October. When seen today Mr. McIntyre said it is a little too early to announce his plans just yet, but that in a week or so he will submit a list of those artists who are to participate in his concerts, which will amply verify all claims he has made as to the character of entertainment he is to provide this season.

In looking forward to the forthcoming season it might be well to recall what strides Plainfield has made in the cultivation of its musical tastes. When the first of the McIntyre chamber concerts was given there was but a pitiful handful of patrons in attendance. The concert demonstrated that Plainfield's awakening was at hand, however, and with each succeeding concert the attendance increased until now even standing room is frequently at a premium.

Plainfield's awakening may have been slow, but it was nevertheless thorough, as a glance backward at the works heretofore given will prove. Among these might be mentioned the trios by Beethoven, Schubert, Dvorak, Tschaikowski, Gade, Mendelssohn, Haydn, Mozart, Saint-Saens, Brahms, Schutt, Smetana, Arensky and Rubenstein, besides sonatas for different instruments and short solo pieces by the most representative composers for each instrument.

The trio work in the course of the past four seasons has been unquestioned and when it is recalled that artists of the most finished type have been presented to augment the evening's enjoyment, it can be readily believed that Plainfield has risen to the occasion and now demands the very best that can be procured.

Among those heard here as assisting artists might be mentioned Francis Rogers, Julian Walker, Shanna Cumming, Edith Chapman Goold, Gwlym Miles, Carl Dufft, Glen Hall and Paul Dufault, and others.

This array of artists comprises the best known names in the musical world and when Mr. McIntyre declares that those engaged for the coming season are only stars of the first magnitude, it is safe to assert that Plainfield's music loving public has a genuine treat to look forward to this winter.

Brick Pavement Slippery.

Owners and drivers of automobiles in the city and borough are complaining about the slippery condition of the brick pavement, which is frequently sprinkled throughout the day. They declare that it makes traveling dangerous, causing the autos to skid with a great possibility of accident. They assert that the proper way to treat the pavement is to flush it every day thoroughly and then sprinkling will not be necessary.

G.O.P. RECEIVES OPINION

Assistant Attorney General Gaskill Explains a Recent Statute.

FOR THE CITY COMMITTEE.

Appointive Members Are Illegal—Must Elect Members for Districts by Wards.

The Republican City Committee last night received the opinion of Assistant Attorney General Nelson B. Gaskill as the construction to be placed on the Act of 1909 as to the method of choosing members of the city and county committees, particularly as it effects the constitution and by laws of the local G. O. P. committee. By these rules provision is made for the election of a given number of members in each district by wards and in addition for the selection by appointment of some others. It would be impossible, it seems, by the present rules of the city committee to elect by districts.

Following is the opinion as received by Secretary William R. Townsend:

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 14, 1909.

W. R. Townsend, Esq.,
Sec'y Republican City Executive Committee, Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of your letter of Sept. 8th, with reference to the act requiring the election of members of county committees at the primary elections, and I note the quotations from the constitution of your city committee, contained in your letter.

The first question which you present seems to depend upon the constitutional regulation that three members each shall be elected from the first, second and third wards, and four from the fourth ward, and the question is whether these members must be elected severally from election districts or from the wards by election districts. The phraseology of the act in question is, "the members of such county or city committee shall be elected by election districts at such primary elections," &c. You will note the phraseology is "election by election districts," not "from election districts," and this office has held that the words "by election districts" refer to the manner of conducting the election, and not to the source of the candidates or nominees. I had this matter under discussion with Governor Fort, who concurred in this interpretation. So that I find nothing in the act which makes it necessary to change the sources from which the candidates for election from the various wards must come. I assume from a reading of your constitutional provision that the nominees heretofore have come from the wards as such, and this practice, it seems to me, should continue, except that the election should be by election districts, and not by wards.

Your second question is with reference to the increase of membership by appointments by the committee itself. This seems to me under the present statute to be illegal, since it would provide a county committee partially elective and partially appointive, and the act seems to contemplate the election of all the members of the county or city committee; in which view I am, I believe, justified by the opinion of Mr. Justice Swayze, recently appearing in the newspapers, which is, generally, to the effect that all the members of a committee must be elected each year.

Very truly yours,
NELSON B. GASKILL,
Asst. Attorney General.

SNOWBALL TRIUMPHS AT CEDARHURST SHOW.

Frederick S. Moore, the well-known dog fancier of this city, won more honors yesterday at Cedarhurst, L. I., where his toy poodle "Snowball" won all the honor of his class, limited and open. The exhibition was held under the auspices of the Cedarhurst Kennel Club, and is one of the society events of the year on Long Island.

This is the fourth successive time that "Snowball" has brought home the ribbons. He won at Plainfield, Philadelphia and Long Branch. Mr. Moore will take his winner to the exhibition at Atlantic City on Saturday and hopes to repeat. If he does "Snowball" will have won the championship of the east.

Mr. Scarborough to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Northop, of Syracuse, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel O. Northop to Paul C. Scarborough, of this city. CARROLL RECOVERS $26. FOR BURNT OVERCOAT

An interesting question resulting from fire which occurred in the clothing store of Chas. Rogoff on Dec. 16, 1907, was decided in the district court this morning before Judge Isaac Runyon when the suit of Vincent J. Carroll to recover the value of an overcoat, burned in the fire, was settled by a verdict for Carroll for $26. J. Henry Crane appeared for Carroll and Francis J. Blatz was counsel for Rogoff.

According to the testimony adduced Rogoff was fully aware that his gas meter was leaking and it was entirely due to his carelessness in lighting a gas stove in his shop that the fire occurred. Judge Runyon, who was sitting in the absence of Judge William Newcorn, fixed the value of the overcoat at the sum named above, although the testimony as to the actual value of the garment was somewhat conflicting.

It was plainly evident that the testimony of Rogoff while it made him culpably negligent, was not believed in its entirety by Judge Runyon. Mr. Carroll testified that Rogoff used some pretty hard language when Carroll asked him for a settlement, although the required compensation for the loss of the coat hinged on a matter of $2.50.

Fire Chief Thaddeus Doane was a witness in this case and told the story of the leaky gas meter on which the settlement of the suit was based.

JUDGEMENT RESERVED IN MRS. BERRY'S ACTION

Minerva Berry, of 630 West Fourth street, who is suing the Metropolitan and Realty Company, of New York, for $500 damages, alleged to have been suffered by her when the house which she was paying for on the installment plan was sold under foreclosure proceedings to David Hand, of Berkeley, was taken under advisement by Judge Isaac Runyon this morning, after instructing the lawyers in the case to submit briefs.

Mrs. Berry seeks to recover the damages because she has paid into the coffers of the Realty Company $810 on the property, and it was because of the failure of the defendant company to pay interest on the mortgage of $1,500 on the house, held by Mr. Hand that foreclosure proceedings were instituted.

The defendant company claims that Mrs. Berry has forfeited the amount she has paid in for her use and occupation of the premises described in the papers. The house and lot are valued at $3,100, and Mrs. Berry fails to see why she should lose her equity in it because of the failure of another to pay interest on the mortgage held by Mr. Hand.

MINISTERS TO SPEAK AT DUTCH ARMS BANQUET.

The Dutch Arms of Trinity Reformed church will begin the fall and winter work by holding a banquet Friday night, September 24, in the lecture room of the church at 7 o'clock. The following speakers have been secured for the occasion: Rev. William P. Bruce, of Yonkers, N. Y.; Rev. Dr. Isaac W. Gowen, of Weehawken; Rev. Dr. Albertus Broek, of Newark.

It is desired that all men of the church arrange to attend the banquet whether members of the Dutch Arms or not. Tickets and other information can be obtained from the president, Frederick S. Cutter, or Frank P. Storr the secretary.

AUG. WOLTER TO BE CARED FOR BY SOCIETY WOMEN.

Augusta Wolter, the young woman who attempted to commit suicide after alighting from a trolley car at Westfield, was apprenhended by the police of this city yesterday afternoon. Several society women here have become interested in the unfortunate young woman and will take care of her.

From what can be learned the girl is to be pitied rather than censured and her future will be provided for by the women who have interested themselves in her case.

Missionary and Aid to Meet.

The first meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel, for the fall, will be held at the chapel, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and a full attendance of the members is desired. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey, will preside, and plans for the winter will be discussed. Refreshments will be served.

—Neuman Brothers have today a good assortment of fresh peaches, which they are selling at 70 cents and $1 a basket, and there are a few baskets at $1.25.

From 'Frisco, all across the land, to Little Old New York,
Three hundred thousand noble Elks salute this Jolly Cork.
And generations yet unborn, shall loud acclaim his rank,
And proudly pay their homage to our genial Uncle Frank.

CELEBRATING NEW YEAR

People of Isreal are Observing Feast of Rosh ha-Shanah.

SERVICES AT THE SYNAGOGUE.

According to the Ancient Hebrew Calendar the Year 5670 Began at Midnight.

The celebration of Rosh ha-Shanah, or the Jewish New Year, which opened at sunset last evening, will mark the beginning of the year 5670 of the ancient Jewish calendar. With the exception of Yom Kippur, which occurs ten days from now, the New Year is the most widely celebrated festival observed by the people of Israel.

Among the orthodox Jews the celebration lasts two days, from sunset last night until sunset on Friday evening. The reformed Jews, who have abandoned the ritual and many of the older observances, devote one day only, last evening and today, to the festival. During the period, whether one or two days, there is an absolute cessation of business of all kinds among the pious, except such as may be considered as works of charity and necessity which cannot be postponed until the celebration is over.

In the two divisions of the people, there is a divergence in many points of ritual and custom, but in the principal features of worship at this season little difference is seen. Services will be held in all Jewish houses of worship. Vast crowds will assemble at the synagogues and rejoice for benefits received during the year, and pray for health and prosperity during the twelve months to come. The regular churches never are able to contain the worshippers at this feast, and many temporary meeting places will have to be fitted up, especially on the crowded East Side.

Rosh ha-Shanah, which is literally translated the Head of the Year, is also called Yom Hazalkaron, or Day of the Memorial, and commemorates the creation of the world. Another name is "Yom Hadin," or Day of the Judgment, from a legend of the ancient Jews that on Rosh ha-Shanah all creatures stand before the Lord to be judged for their transgressions during the past year, and that their fate for the year to come is recorded then to be sealed on Yom Kippur or the Atonement Day.

Yom Kippur is the strictest fast day of the Jewish calendar. During that period the orthodox and many refored Jews neither eat nor drink, and spend the day in their synagogues. All work is forbidden and the time is given up to prayer and repentance.

Services were held in the local synagogue on New street from 7 to 12:30 today and the local Hebrews were in attendance in large numbers. Rabbis Rottman and A. Cantor from New York sang the service.

VETERANS AT REUNION

Plainfield Members Attend Meeting of Co. I. 5th New York Calvary.

HELD AT RAHWAY YESTERDAY.

Officers Elected and Banquet Enjoyed—Next Year They Meet at Somerville.

Company I of the Fifth New York Cavalry held its fifteenth annual reunion yesterday at the residence of the president of the Veterans' association, John Mundrane, in Rahway. The comrades arrived just before noon and sat down to a sumptuous repast at 1 o'clock. There were nine of the veteran cavalrymen present with their families.

After the banquet a business meeting was held at which the election of officers for the ensuing year took place. John Mundrane was re-elected president and W. M. Randolph, of Washington, secretary. These two officers have endeavored to push through their resignations at each meeting for the past four years, but their comrades have consistently refused to allow them to quit their onerous duties.

After the business of the reunion was finished President Mundrane made a speech in which he expressed the joy at meeting the members again and welcomed them to his home. Several other speeches were made in which reminiscences of the struggles of the command during the Civil War were rehearsed. The Fifth Cavalry was mustered in in 1861, 1,200 strong, and the saddles were decimated twice during the three years of their service. They participated in forty battles and when mustered out in 1864 numbered but 360 men.

The next reunion will take place in 1910 at the home of Job Coddington, in Somerville. Those present were John Mundrane, the president, W. M. Randolph, secretary, of Washington, N. J.; Captain William B. Cary, Augustus Runyon and James Clarkson, of this city; Henry Heck, of Westwood; Captain W. B. Chambers, of Brooklyn; Andrew Bridgeman, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and George Mundrane, of Jersey City.

Candidates' Petitions Filed.

The petitions of Newton B. Smalley, as candidate for Mayor of North Plainfield, and Councilman B. R. Waldron and Morris C. Van Arsdale, as councilmen to succeed themselves, were filed yesterday with Borough Clerk Martin.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL OPENS ON MONDAY.

The opening of the new Washington school, which was scheduled for today, has been postponed until Monday, as it was impossible to get the building in shape to accommodate the pupils before then. Miss M. E. Humpston, the principal, is in her office today, however, making preparations for the opening on Monday so that the pupils may be registered and assigned to their classes as quickly as possible.

The building will accommodate about 600 pupils, but it is not expected that more than 400 will register on Monday. Only the primary and lower grammar classes will be received at the new school.

Miss Myra Rolle Will Speak.

The meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Miss Myra Rolle, a student of the Missionary Institute, Nyack, N. Y., will speak. Miss Rolle expects to go to China in October. She will also address the Rescue Mission meeting in the evening at the same place.

Will Preach in Netherwood Church.

Next Sunday morning, Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will preach at the Netherwood Reformed church, and his pulpit will be supplied by Rev. Royal A. Stout. At the conclusion of the service in the Netherwood Reformed church, a matter of great interest will be presented to the people by Mr. Broek. All are cordially invited.

A Big Clambake.

Erwin Y. Neighbour will give his last clambake of the season Sunday. The 'bus line will run from Park and North avenues direct to the "bake." As the clambakes of Mr. Neighbour are well known in Plainfield a crowd and a fine time are anticipated.

SUMMIT PLANS FOR ITS NEW CITY HALL.

Summit, Sept. 16.—Plans were submitted Tuesday night by Architect William A. Balch, the city building inspector, for the remodeling of the Colonial Hall building in Springfield avenue. The property was recently purchased by the city and is to be converted into a city hall. The plans were reviewed by Mayor J. Boyd Risk and members of Common Council. They provide for headquarters for the police department, office for the chief of police, large courtroom, jury-box, enclosures for witnesses and prisoners, judge's private office and jail on the first story.

On the front end of the present structure there is to be built a mezzanine gallery. The second story will contain the council chamber, forty by sixty feet, and five offices, besides two offices for the city clerk. A large vault will also be located near the city clerk's offices.

In the rear of the second story, one on either side, will be two apartments, each containing five rooms and bath for the drivers of the two fire companies which are to be located in the one-story brick addition. This is to be erected on the corner of Bank street and Summit avenue, this property having been purchased by the city from William Woestendiek.

This addition will be connected with the present structure. Sliding poles will be provided for the drivers from their apartments to the headquarters of the fire companies on the first floor. There will be five spacious offices on the third story and possibly a gallery, although this has not been definitely settled. On this story there will also be a large room for the storing of the maps and other documents of the city's engineering department.

The rear wall of the present building facing Bank street is to be torn out and an imposing front will be built. Work on the one-story addition is to be started shortly, as it is expected this structure will be completed November 1. On that date the present tenant of the Colonial Hall building will vacate and the work of altering the main building will then be started.

—The realty change whereby U. B. Crane sold his building to Leo Sionim, refers to Mr. Crane's one-story building on East Front street and not the one on West Front street, occupied by George J. Finger.

HUDSON CELEBRATION PLANS ARE COMPLETE

Arrangements have been completed at Trenton for the Hudson-Fulton celebration, and the placing of the Portsmouth in the various parades that will take place incident to the event. Commander Edward McC. Peters had a long consultation with the Adjutant General, and went over the details as to placing his ship during the last week in September and the first week in October.

The ship will be located directly opposite the reviewing stand at 110th street, New York, September 25, the day of the naval parade. On board will be Governor Fort, his staff, members of the commission and about 100 invited guests.

Commander Peters will sail his ship to Newburg, September 29, where it will be the official boat during the parade of that day. Governor Fort and invited guests have been invited to go aboard and witness the passing of the ships at that point. The Portsmouth will be returned to her berth in Hoboken, October 2. The Governor's party will be taken to the Portsmouth on a tug the morning of September 25, which will be provided by Commander Peters. She will leave the Pennsylvania dock at 11:48 in the morning.

GOV. FORT, IN SPEECH, TO "CALL THE ROLL"

Essex County's Republican primary campaign will be enlivened next Wednesday night when Governor Fort will appear at the New Auditorium in Newark to discuss "broken pledges." The Executive will be sole speaker, and has consented to be present at the solicitation of a number of local citizens. He will take advantage of the opportunity to "call the roll" of those legislators who fought or voted against "reform" measures in Trenton last winter, and will have words of praise for those lawmakers who supported popular acts. By so doing, the Governor believes he will be fulfilling his promise made after the lawmill closed last spring. George R. Howe, of East Orange, will preside at the meeting.

The meeting in question has been under consideration ever since the Governor returned from his vacation trip ten days ago, but no definite date for it was set until yesterday. It is to be a Republican gathering, but not factional. There is a possibility that the Executive will repeat his refutation of the allegations that he is in back of Carl Lentz's candidacy for the chairmanship of the county committee and will likely urge the selection to that position of his personal aide, Colonel Austen Colgate, the choice of the "new idea" forces.

"Broken pledges and the shortcomings of the Republican party" will be the Governor's text, according to what he said yesterday, and he declared he would mince no words in his criticism of those who have sought to make the party a party of the "interests" rather than a party of the "people." It is understood that what he says will be addressed to the whole State rather than to a particular locality, and will not be intended as a defense of those who are opposing the "regulars" in Essex. The Governor's sympathies are with the "new idea" forces, however, and it is understood he will not neglect the chance to express a thought or two favorable to the principles advocated by those in the "new idea" movement.

When the Legislature, adjourned last April the Governor lost no time in asserting he was out against the return of those lawmakers who had been overfriendly to the "special interests." He declared he would strike at the renomination of these individuals and would campaign, if necessary, to defeat them. The local meeting is the Governor's first step toward carrying out that policy and if it can be arranged he may speak in other sections of the State during the campaign.

PARENTS TRYING TO ADJUST SON'S AFFAIRS.

West Hoboken, Sept. 16.—After making good to the amount of over $10,000 on notes and other obligations of their son, Henry Singer, Mr. and Mrs. John Singer yesterday began proceedings to attach about fifteen thousand dollars' worth of their son's property.

Henry Singer, a local lawyer, has been missing for about two weeks. A few days after his departure a message was received from St. Paul, Minn., signed "Operator," stating that Singer had committed suicide in Chicago. This was not regarded seriously because of the way the message was signed and because it came from so far away from the point where he is said to have met his death.

Young Singer enjoyed a wide acquaintance. He was supposed to have an extensive practise and was prominent in the "new idea" Republican ranks.

Inquiry into his affairs after his disappearance revealed a sad state of things, it is said, and his father and mother immediately started in to make good for their son and save what they could from the wreck.

Marquard, the "$11,000 beauty," purchased by McGraw last season, pitched against Boston on Tuesday, and although he allowed but three hits, Boston shut out the Giants by a score of 3 to 0.

The Y. M. C. A. team will play the Kenwood A. C., of Newark on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon. The Kenwoods are said to be an exceptionally fast aggregation and now that all the Y. M. C. A. players are home a good contest should result.

Jersey Fighter Loses.

Newton, Sept. 16.—"Joker" Card, the Branchville fighter, was taken out of the ring badly beaten during the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at the Donovan Athletic Club, Port Jervis, N. Y., with Tommy Tracy, of New York, Tuesday. Card was being badly punched and his removal from the ring was to save him from a knockout.

30TH N. J. VOL. HOLD THEIR ANNUAL REUNION

The surviving members of the 30th Regiment, N. J. Vols., including Peter V. Weaver, David R. Weaver, Nelson Runyon, Theodore I. Runyon, Randolph Thorn, Tenadore Van Cleef, and others from this city, held their annual reunion at Somerville yesterday. A business meeting was held in the morning at the rooms of Gen. Wadsworth Post, G. A. R., when the officers were re-elected for the coming year and reports were presented.

Afterward a banquet was held at Cawley's Hotel, where speeches were made by Mayor Kenyon, of Somerville; Lawyer Frederick Pope, Nelson Runyon and others. The speeches were of a reminiscent character and stirred the hearts of the old soldiers as important scenes and incidents of the Civil War in which they had a part were recalled. There were about sixty members of the regiment present.

W.C.T.U. WORKERS MEET

Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson Again Chosen President of Temperance League.

SUPERINTENDENTS ARE NAMED.

Reports of Year's Work Submitted —Memorial Service and Informal Addresses.

Interesting reports, election of officers and a general discussion of the past year's work, comprised the chief business at the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union being held in the rooms on Madison avenue today. There was a good attendance of members and Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, as president, was in the chair.

These officers were chosen for the coming year:

President, Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. P. B. Bennett; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Bodine; treasurer, Miss May E. Howlett; auditors, Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse; vice-presidents: Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Mrs. W. A. McClurg; Grace Episcopal church, Mrs. Cornelius Bristol; First Baptist, Miss Anna Boice; First Presbyterian, Mrs. Remsey Blair and Mrs. Augustus Searing; Park Avenue Baptist, Mrs. David Smalley and Mrs. L. A. Udell; Friends, Mrs. C. E. Vail; Congregational, Mrs. A. C. La Boyteaux and Mrs. William Van Alstyne; Trinity Reformed, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse; Seventh-Day Baptist, Mrs. David E. Titsworth; First M. E., Miss Susie Jackson and Mrs. Frank Rowley; Grace M. E., Mrs. James Lunger; Temple Baptist, Mrs. Gilbert Van Nest. Mrs. J. W. Yates and Mrs. Elizabeth Parse were re-elected honorary vice-presidents, according to the annual custom.

These superintendents were also elected for the ensuing year: Evangelistic, Mrs. Gilbert Van Nest; social, Mrs. Ira N. West; soldier and sailor, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins; press, Mrs. M. C. Dobbins; mothers' meetings, Mrs. Ramsey Blair; literature, Mrs. L. A. Udell; legislation and petition, Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson; systematic giving, Mrs. Ramsey Blair; railroad, firemen and trolleymen, Mrs. M. J. Staats; prison and almshouse, Mrs. Gilbert Van Nest; Sabbath Observance and Sunday-school, Mrs. Mary Winter; flower mission, Mrs. John Manley; Loyal Temperance Legion, Mrs. Gilbert Van Nest; scientific temperance instruction, Miss Anna Claypoole.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. P. H. Bennett, gave an interesting resume of the year's work, showing how much has been accomplished in all departments. She called attention to the awarding of the $5 prize to Allan Fitz Randolph, of the '09 graduating class of the Plainfield High School, for his essay, also the part taken by the union in the Charter Day celebration, during which a float was placed in the parade and the rooms were kept open for the entertainment of visitors. The present membership of the union is about 200 and much progress has been made in temperance work.

The report of Miss May E. Howlett, treasurer, showed the receipts for the year to be $622.89 and the disbursements, $611.60, leaving a balance of $5.79 to start the new year.

Shortly after the morning session a memorial service was held for Mrs. Mehala Sims and Mrs. Oliver B. Leonard, who died since the last annual meeting. Mrs. Sims was the oldest member of the union and both were much beloved by every member of the union.

The afternoon session was devoted chiefly to the reports of the various departments and a discussion of plans for the winter, concluding with devotional exercises. Attention was called to the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Union County W. C. T. U. to be held at the First M. E. church, Thursday, September 23. The chief address will be delivered by Rev. Dr. C. L. Mead, of Hoboken.

COMPROMISE BETWEEN P. S. C. AND RAILROAD.

The Public Service Corporation agreed to the terms of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, last night, as to the depth which they should sink their pipes under the railroad crossing at New Market and finished the work this morning. The prospective customers of the gas company may now be served.

Superintendent Melick, of the P. S. C., went to the battle field late yesterday afternoon and after a conference with the railroad officials agreed to sink the gas pipes five feet instead of three as they had at first proposed. The force of laborers from the railroad company was then sent home and the gas company's workers allowed to lay their pipes in peace. The gas company is going to keep its force of 100 men at work in New Market for some days until they have laid the pipes through the streets on which they expect to have patrons, and connect the houses.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl got back to the borough last night after a two weeks' visit with friends at Cornwall-on-Hudson.

New Fall Furniture! New Fall Prices!

In anticipation of a busy Fall season, we have stocked our floors with an unusual fine showing of Furniture, Carpets, Rugs & Mattings. The increased facilities and gradual increasing competition in the manufacturing world has brought the standard of quality far above the productions of the past, and with this new fall line we are in a position to offer you better goods for less money. Better in construction, better in finish, more attractive in design. The time of year when the housewife's inspection of the household suggests a new piece of furniture, or a new rug, or perhaps a bedroom calls for a new matting. They're all here in extensive variety. If you halt at the question of finance, the Household Club Plan will adjust that. Come in and learn how.

TO CLOSE NOTED HOTEL; J. C. BENDER TO RETIRE

The Lorriane Hotel, famous throughout the county as a rendezvous for social and political outings, will cease to exist after October 1. John C. Bender, who is probably one of the best known hotelkeepers in the county, will retire as proprietor of the hotel on that date. His decision to retire is the result of an increase in his wholesale meat business and has been contemplated by him for several years.

Mr. Bender has been in the hotel business in Roselle Park for eighteen years, during which time he has been the host of hundreds of large social gatherings. Mr. Bender's business will be taken up by his manager who bought him out. The manager will open a place of business across the street from where the present hotel stands and in the brick building at Westfield and Sheridan avenues. This building is now occupied by the Shuster Brothers, grocers. This concern will move within a few days to a handsome new brick building next to the building where the grocery is being built by the Shuster firm.

The Lorraine is famous as a roadhouse. For years it has been the stopping place of driving and automobile parties. Connected with the hotel are bowling alleys and the place was the headquarters for years of well known county bowling clubs.

Among organizations and social clubs that held annual dinners and gatherings at the hotel are the Hall Fellows Well Met Club, the Letter Carriers, firemen's associations, the Triangle A. C., the G. A. R., Liederkranz, Daisy Bowling Club, Lady Pioneers, the Teller Association and many German societies. Organizations and dinner parties from surrounding cities often held gatherings there. The grove connected with the hotel every summer was utilized as picnic grounds.

Mrs. Isaac Stites.

Mrs. Margaret Stites, widow of Isaac Stites, died yesterday at her home, 204 Somerset street. She was sixty years old and had been ill for only a week. The cause of her death was heart failure. She has been a resident of Plainfield for the past three years. She was born in Bayonne. The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 9:30 from her late residence. A solemn high requiem mass will be said at 10 o'clock at St. Joseph's church by the Rev. William E. Miller. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

HOW ABOUT THAT OLD STRAW HAT?

The open season for summer bonnets closed at midnight, after which hour any man caught wandering around under a straw hat cover lays himself open to suspicion of being married or broke.

That's what makes it so easy to pick married men after September 15. Most of those who have promised to love, cherish and support will wear their straw hats until October 1. Many will be compelled to wear them after that date, and quite a few will drop the ribbon over their ears to shut out the icy blasts.

But to get back to the straw hat. It has earned a long rest. It has been among those present since May 15, and after four months without missing a single performance it will now go into retirement. Four months have worked wonders in its complexion, and from a peroxide blonde it has changed to a decided brunette. Most straw hats go into the ash barrel at the end of the season, but a few careful citizens will wrap the 1909 model up in paper and place it on a shelf. When they try it on next summer they will wonder how they ever escaped assassination while wearing it.

It is up to the man of the house to ask his better nine-tenths where she put that derby last fall. She dove under the refrigerator or in the closet under the sink and dragged out something that looked like a bird's nest. She brushed it off, smoothed down the feester in the crown and set it on his head at a jaunty angle. And she had the nerve to tell him it looked just like new. And he believed it.

"Paid In Full."

"Paid in Full" had a double significance last night for the reason that those who attended the performance at the Plainfield theatre were fully recompensed as well as bluff Captain Williams who likes a square man. The house was nearly full and the play was presented in a maner above criticism. All the parts were in capable hands, but special credit is due Thomas Coffin Cooke for interpretation of a difficult part as the defaulter and Miss Edna Brothers as his wife. They were natural and held the audience from the beginning to the end.

Dog Decree Expires Today.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk's decree of July 23 relating to dogs running loose expires tonight. After today dogs may run at large just as they did before the order was issued.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION NOV. 17-19

The State convention of the New Jersey Sunday School Association is to meet this year in East Orange in the Munn Avenue Presbyterian church, November 17-19. Programs are being distributed by the State Secretary, the Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, at the association headquarters in Newark. The list of speakers includes Governor Fort, the Rev. J. D. Adam, Rev. Franklin McElfresh, of Chicago; William D. McKenzie, of Hartford, Conn.; E. D. Soper, Dr. Homer C. Stuntz, Wilbert W. White, of New York; the Rev. John F. Carson, of Brooklyn. A thousand delegates are expected, representing all departments of the Sunday school.

The county Sunday school convention season is now on. Every county in the State holds its annual Sunday school convention in the fall, beginning with Somerset, September 8, and ending with Atlantic, November 5.

Attacked with Blood Poisoning.

William H. VanSickel, formerly of this city, but now living at Cranford, is suffering from a severe attack of blood poisoning. While at work on Monday in the butcher shop of Mr. Schwartz, where he is employed, a meat hook gashed his left arm and was temporarily treated. The next day he suffered intense pain and upon consulting with a physician learned that blood poisoning had developed. Prompt medical attention doubtless prevented serious consequences. Mr. VanSickel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. VanSickel, of East Third street, and is well-known here.

Big Bill at Proctor's Today.

The new vaudeville bill at Proctor's theatre today and for the rest of the week, is perhaps the most expensive one engaged since the playhouse was opened. The headliner will be Linton & Lawrence, in a clever comedy sketch, "The Piano Store." They carry their own scenery. The Winkler Kress Trio, grotesque acrobats, are said to be the best in their line, while the Prampins, will appear in musical capers. Kramer & Krebs, the famous juvenile team, which made such a hit here months ago, will return in a new act.

Mrs. Saugstad Goes to Washington.

Mrs. Olaf Saugstad, of Carlton avenue, who has been under treatment at Muhlenberg Hospital, was taken to her former home in Washington today, where her father, who is a practicing physician, will care for her. Her condition is not serious.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Mr. Grapewin's new play, "Above the Limit," is the funniest he has ever had. The principal character is Jimmy Hicks, a poor boy of the slums, with an incessant flow of slang. He meets a wealthy girl and falls in love with her, but realizing the difference between them, makes up his mind to gain an education. He goes abroad in the capacity of manager for his brother who is a jockey for a millionaire turfman, and devotes his time and efforts to uplifting himself. Five years elapse and during that time Jimmy succeeds in accomplishing his object. He returns to America, a polished gentleman, meets the woman who has been the inspiration of all his labor and ambition and presses his suit for her hand. She, realizing the innate strength and manhood of the man, falls in love with him and all ends happily. There is a strong plot and Jimmy proves himself a hero and diplomat on several occasions. The show will be seen here on Saturday afternoon and night.

"Three Twins,' which comes to the Plainfield theatre Thursday night, September 23, is positively one of the best musical comedies that has ever been produced. It ran in Chicago for five months at the Whitney Opera House, and ten months at the Herald Square Theatre in New York. "Three Twins" is a musical comedy with a plot and many novel features, the conglomerate nonsense, the riot of color, and the spirited movements make such an agreeable attack on one's senses that it matters not under what name the revelry goes. The music titillates and tantalizes, and the witty lines and dept clowning excites one to laughter. Mr. Jos. M. Gaites has so lavishly costumed the beautiful show girls that they are pleasing to the eye. In the second act there are eight of the handsomest Parisian Directoire gowns worn by beautiful and shapely girls. The electrical effects are marvelous, the faceograph being a distinct novelty, the electrical aerial swing being an amazon structure of steel, illuminated with over 2,000 electric lights revolving at a rapid rate with six girls in the baskets singing "The Cuddle Song" is said to be one of the most beautiful finales ever staged.

Will Discuss Police Pensions.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday night, when steps will be taken to submit to a vote of the people at the November election the question of granting pensions to police officers. The members of the Council are in favor of submitting the question and it is believed that if this is done it will be carried.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS AT TRINITY REFORMED

The first meeting of the fall sessions of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the church with an attendance of 41. Mrs. R. V. Kinney, superintendent of the society, was present as was also Rev. John Y. Brock, who made an address to the members. Mrs. Kinney's assistants for the coming year are Lawrence French and Miss Maud McAfee.

Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl was elected superintendent of the beginner's department with Helen Leithouser and Elmer French to assist her. The officers elected were: President, Adelaide Cole; vice-president, Jennie Sears; second vice-president, Louise Seader; secretary, Alice Auten and treasurer, Marion Wooley.

The following committees were appointed: Prayer meeting, Lawrence French, chairman. Music, Mrs. Rosenstiehl, Adelaide Cole and Helen Leithouser. Lookout, Harold Humbert and Marjory Storr. Scrapbook, Nellie McAfee, Russell Kinney, Adele Freeman and Howard Willett. Flower, Elizabeth Chickering, Gladys Humbert, Alfred Willett and Russell Sears. The social committee will consist of the superintendents and officers of the society. After the business meeting a social hour was spent and refreshments served. The prospects for a happy season of work among the Endeavorers of this church are very bright and future meetings are being looked forward to with anticipatory pleasure and profit.

AMENDMENTS DEFEATED BY 25,950 PLURALITY

harles Lanning, living at Bush-n, near Bordentown, fell twenty-feet from an apple tree and was ly hurt.

ames Riggins, seventy years old, Mullica Hill, fell from the hay-w of Isaac White's barn and sus-ed serious injuries.

A man masquerading in woman's thing has been giving spooning uples a scare these pleasant eve-gs at Paulsboro. Shots were ex-anged between a young man with girl and the masquerader Monday ght.

Frank Davis, son of Aber Davis, Marlboro, fell thirty-eight feet om the top of his father's silo, ighted on his hands and toes and us, he believes, saved his life. One ot is badly broken and he suffers verely.

Over 800 resident gunners' li-enses have been issued in Atlantic ounty up to date, indicating gener-lly that sportsmen are complying ith the new law. The $800 in fees ill be forwarded to the State Game nd Fish Commission, to be used for he propagating of game.

Alleging permanent injuries in a rolley collision, Mrs. Ella Mutzer of 1031 Atlantic avenue, and Mrs. Louisa Rondfrey, of 3751 Mickle street, through William C. French, in Camden, entered suit against the Public Service Railway Company to recover $15,000 damages.

Because of ill health, Thomas N. Nekervis yesterday retired as secre-tary and treasurer of the Central Trust Company, Camden, but still retains membership in the board of directors. John B. Clement, son of former Sheriff Daniel Clement, of Philadelphia, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Members of the First Baptist church of Hoboken got a real sur-prise when their pastor, Rev. Charles F. Fields, resigned his charge to ac-cept a call to the Baptist church of Ogdensburg, N. Y. It was while the pastor was on his vacation that he preached in the church of Ogden-burg. The congregation sought im-mediately to obtain him for a per-manent pastor. The resignation will take effect October 1.

While William Carll, a merchant, was driving on the Fairton road, near Bridgeton, yesterday afternoon, his horse became frightened at a trolley car and collided with another team. He and his wife were thrown out. Carll, clinging to the lines, was dragged nearly fifty feet, when his horse went into a wire fence, over-turning the wagon on him, breaking his ankle and severely injuring him. His wife escaped with severe bruises.

A wild man who had been a terror to women and children of Franklin-ville was captured between Frank-linville and Porchtown yesterday af-ternoon by a posse headed by Con-stable Fenton Lowder, of Newfield. When pursued the wild man waved his arms high in the air and, with yells rushed into a thick swamp and it was necessary to secure axes and hatchets to cut him out.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Joe Weber's Travesty Company, which will begin a week's engage-ment at the Grand Opera House, New York, Monday evening, Septem-ber 20, is a good example of the modern high-class travesty company. It is composed of eighty players. There are eighteen speaking parts in "The Merry Widow and The Devil" besides thirty-two girls and six chorus men and a pony ballet of ten. Added to this are the manag-erial and working staff, musicians, maids, valets and dressers of the chief players.

Chauffeur's License is Revoked.

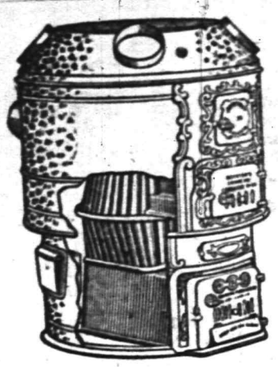
Trenton, Sept. 16:—The license of Chauffeur F. L. Newman, of Plain-field was revoked yesterday by Com-missioner J. B. R. Smith, of the State motor vehicle department. Last Sat-urday night Newman was sent out with a car about 7 o'clock, and upon returning to the garage he left the car outside and rang up on the in-dicator his returning time, which was 9:11 o'clock p. m. He then took the car, and, with a party of friends, engaged in a "joy ride" which lasted until 4:20 o'clock Sunday morning. He was arraigned before Judge Run-yon and held in $500 bail for the grand jury.

Excise Commissioner Reappointed.

New Brunswick, Sept. 16.—Judge Lyon, in the Middlesex County Court yesterday morning, reappointed James Anderson, of this city, as a member of the excise commissioners. The strict enforcement of the law in-sisted upon by the present board, and the refusal of the board to re-new several licenses because of al-leged violations, has not met with the approval of some of the dealers and their friends and a change was hoped for. The court, however, by its action, has given notice that it is satisfied with the present board. The reappointment is for three years.

Mayo Williamson Hazeltine.

Mayo Williamson Hazeltine, of New York, died at Atlantic City Tuesday. He was sixty-eight years old, and since 1878 had been the literary editor of "The New York Sun." He was born in Massachu-setts, and was graduated from Har-vard in 1865. He was well known in this city.



The BOYNTON Square Fire-Pot Furnace

develops every atom of heat energy possible, by complete combustion, and leaves no clinkers and no waste.

The square pot burns less fuel and it thoroughly consumes all it takes—a double economy. All your earnings don't go into the fire when you run a BOYNTON.

For cleanliness and the trifling care necessary to run it the BOYNTON is easily the first choice of every man who takes the trouble to get ac-quainted with it. Look up the BOYNTON dealer in your town. The price is not prohibitive.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 19, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—"Pilgrim's Progress" series.—IX Vanity fair.—Eccl. i, 12-18; ii, 1-11.

In his description of Vanity Fair Bunyan has given us a most vivid picture of the vanities that exist in this world that tend to tempt the Christian on his journey to the Celestial City. The fair itself is very much indeed like the world, and the temptations and difficulties that beset those on the way to the heavenly city are characteristic of those which all meet who try to live a Christian life. Particularly was this true in Bunyan's day, with little less application today and for all days.

The town of Vanity, in which the fair was held, was on the direct road to the Celestial City. Every pilgrim of necessity, therefore, had to pass through it. The same is true today. We are in the world and must meet the temptations of the world. The glare and glitter of worldliness, especially for the young and inexperienced, are very attractive and seductive. Many stumble into the pitfalls that are set for them. Even Solomon, known for his wisdom, was for years completely under the spell of worldliness. In all its varied forms, he drank to the very dregs the cup of worldly attractions. But when it was all over he pronounced it "vanity of vanities" and urged the young to "remember their Creator in the days of their youth." He had failed to do so, and had paid the penalty. The world had deceived him as it has millions of others. Let us, however, not be among that number. Instead of waiting until we have wasted our lives and then offering them to God, let us consecrate them to him now "in the days of our youth" and give to Him the best of our life instead of its fag end.

The fair at Vanity was perpetually open. It was not a temporary exhibition, but a continual performance. The vanities of life are always with us. No period in life is without them. In youth, in manhood and in old age the world still has its temptations for us. Their forms may change at different periods, but only because different things appeal to us at different ages. Each age of life has its peculiar temptations, so that we must be constantly on our guard.

Bunyan also pictures Christ at Vanity Fair. In the wilderness Satan showed him the glories of the world and tried to tempt Him with them, but Christ was not overcome. He came off victorious. We may do the same if we follow His example and trust in Him to aid us. "In the world," He says, "ye shall have tribulations, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Through Him we may overcome it.

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. i, 10-19; xvi, 18; xxii, 1-10; xii, 1-8; Isa. xxviii, 1-5; Matt. iv, 1-11; v, 8; John xv, 18-27; xvi, 33; John ii, 15-17; Rev. xxi, 1-5.

The Top Button.

Emperor William of Germany likes to wear the army uniform. When he sits at his work table in his palace in Berlin he is in the habit, for the sake of comfort, of unbuttoning the stiff military coat and throwing it open. But when, as frequently happens, some body of soldiers marches by, the emperor at once buttons his coat to the very top and stands up at the window to receive their salutes. One day a member of his court, seeing the emperor do this, asked him, "Your Majesty, why are you so particular to button your coat, even to the top button, when the troops are marching past?"

"My soldiers," replied Emperor William, "have never seen me with my coat unbuttoned, and I don't intend that they ever shall." And then he added with great impressiveness, "The efficiency of an army is a matter of the top button."

That is true of any army, and it is also true of a man. Slovenly in one thing, slovenly in all things. Nothing spreads over a life so quickly as carelessness. It is the top button that makes the difference between a cheerless home and an abode of comfort—whether the bread shall be sweet or sour, the pit crust heavy or flabby, the beds pleasant to sleep in or destructive of slumber. It is the top button that makes the difference between a successful business and bankruptcy. It is the top button that decides whether or not you are a success in the Father's business, doing your best with every Sunday school lesson you teach, every Christian Endeavor prayer meeting speech you make, every friendly letter you write, or letting your second best or your tenth best answer.—Caleb Cobweb in Christian Endeavor World.

Hindoo C. E. Workers.

Many Hindoo Endeavorers spend their vacations in traveling among the villages preaching Christ. They often use the magic lantern. Sometimes they take passage on railroad trains and move from car to car as the train speeds on, till they have preached to all the passengers. There is a girls' society in Madura, India, that all alone organized and conducted a Sunday school for ninety weaver boys for whom no other Christian work was done.

After Twenty-five Years.

At a recent meeting in Belfast, Ireland, Dr. Clark told that a short time ago a census was taken of the first fifty Christian Endeavor societies formed in America, and as a result it was found that all but eight are still in existence. A magnificent record after almost twenty-five years!

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"You let me alone," replied O'Mally. "A quart of Asti won't hurt anybody."

Early the next morning she and Kitty departed for Monte Carlo in quest of fortune. Fortune was there, waiting, but in a guise wholly unexpected.

CHAPTER XI.

A BOX OF CIGARS.

ON the way up to Rome Hillard and his pupil had a second class compartment all to themselves. The train was a fast one, for the day of slow travel has passed in Italy, and the cry of speed is heard over the land.

There was a change of cars at Rome and a wait of two hours.

After luncheon Merrihew secretly bought two boxes of cigars to carry along. They were good cigars and cost him $15. He covered them with some newspapers and at the station succeeded by some legerdemain in slipping them into one of his cases. Hillard would have lectured him on his extravagance, and this was a good way to avoid it. But some hours later he was going to be very sorry that he had not made a confidant of his guide.

As they were boarding the train they noticed two gentlemen getting into the forward compartment of the carriage.

"Humph! Our friend with the scar," said Hillard. "We do not seem able to shake him."

"I'd like to shake him. He goes against the grain somehow." Merrihew swung into the compartment. "I wonder why the Sandfords dropped him?"

"For some good reason. They are a liberal pair, and if our friend forward offended them it must have been something outside the pale of forgiveness. But I should like to know where old Giovanni is. I miss him."

"Poor devil!" said Merrihew, with careless sympathy.

The train started.

"Monte Carlo! Gold, gold, little round pieces of gold!" Merrihew rubbed his hands like a miser.

"Hard to get and heavy to hold!" quoted Hillard. "I suppose that you have a system already worked out."

"Of course. I shall win if I stick to it."

"Or if the money lasts. Bury your system, my boy. It will do you no good. Trust to luck only. Monte Carlo is the graveyard of systems."

"But maybe my system is the one. You can't tell till I have tried it."

Soon the train began to lift into the mountains, the beautiful Apennines. By the time they arrived in Genoa, late at night, both compared favorably with the coalers in the harbor of Naples.

Early the next morning the adventurers set out for Monte Carlo—more tunnels; a compartment filled with women and children. But the beauty of the Riviera was compensation.

Ventimiglia, or Vintimille, has a sinister sound in the ears of the traveler if perchance he be a man fond of his tobacco. The train drew in. A dozen steps more and one was virtually in France. But there is generally a slight hitch before one takes the aforesaid steps—the French customs. A porter popped his head into the window.

"Eight minutes for examination of luggage!" he cried.

"Come, Dan," cried Hillard; "lively if we want good seats when we come out. We change trains."

After a short skirmish they located their belongings. They would have to be patient.

Among the inspectors at Ventimiglia is a small, wizened Frenchman with a face as cold and impassive as the sand blown sphinx. He possesses, among other accomplishments, a nose peculiar less for its shape than for its smell. He can "smell out" tobacco as a witch doctor in Zululand smells out a "devil." Fate directed this individual toward the Americans. Hillard knew him of old, and he never forgets a face, this wizened little man.

"Monsieur has nothing to declare?" he asked.

Hillard made a negative sign and opened his cases. With scarce a glance at their contents and waving aside the coupons the inspector applied the chalk and turned to Merrihew.

"Monsieur has nothing to declare?" he repeated.

Merrihew shook his head airily. "Niente, niente!" he said in his best Italian. He did not understand what the inspector said. He merely had suspicions.

"Look!" suddenly exclaimed Hillard.

Passing out of the door which led to liberty and to France, their luggage guaranteed by cabalistic chalk marks, were two women. One of them was veiled; the other was not.

"Kitty Killigrew, as I live!" shouted Merrihew, making a dash for the door.

But the inspector blocked the way, beckoned to a gendarme, who came over, and calmly pointed to Merrihew's unopened cases.

"Open!" said the inspector.

"But"— Merrihew struggled to pass.

"For heaven's sake," cried Hillard, "be patient and open the cases at once."

Merrihew handled his keys clumsily. It is ever thus when one is in a hurry. Finally he threw back the lids, feeling that in another moment he must have shouted Italian or French out of pure magic simply to tell this fool inspector what he thought of him.

"Oho, monsieur in a hurry!" mocked the inspector. "Nothing, nothing!" He took out two boxes of cigars.

"Why the devil didn't you tell me you had them?" Hillard demanded wrathfully. To find the women by this stroke of luck and then to lose them again for two boxes of cigars! It was maddening.

The inspector went through Merrihew's possessions with premeditated leisure. Everything had to come out. He even opened the shaving sets, the collar box, the pin cases and the tie bag.

"Will you hasten?" asked Hillard. "We do not wish to miss this train."

"Others follow," said the inspector laconically.

Hillard produced a five franc piece. The inspector laughed without noise and shook his head. This one inspector is impervious to money or smooth speeches. He is the law personified, inexorable.

Hillard strained his eyes, but saw neither Kitty nor the veiled lady again. Doubtless they were already on the train. Had Merrihew been an old traveler he would have left him to get to Monte Carlo the best way he could, but Merrihew was as helpless as a child, and he hadn't the heart to desert him, though he deserved to be deserted.

Ding-ding! went the bell. Wheewhee! went the whistle. The train for Monte Carlo was drawing out, and they were being left behind. Hillard swore and Merrihew went white with impotent anger. If only he could hit something! The inspector smiled and went on with his deadly work. When he was certain that they could not possibly catch the train he handed the cigars to their owner and pointed to a sign the other side of the barricade.

"What shall I do now, Jack?" Merrihew asked.

"I refuse to help you. Find out yourself."

So Merrihew, hopeless and subdued, went into the room designated, saw the cigars taken out and weighed, took the bill and presented it with a hundred lire note at the little window in the off room.

Procuring his change, he found Hillard sitting disconsolately on the barricade.

"I hope you are perfectly satisfied," said Hillard, with an amiability which wouldn't have passed muster anywhere.

"Oh, I'm satisfied," answered Merrihem. He stuffed his pockets with cigars, slammed the boxes into the case and locked them up.

"I warned you about tobacco."

"I know it."

"You should have told me."

"I know that, too, but I didn't want you to lecture me."

"A lecture would have been better than waiting here in this barn for three hours."

"Three hours?" despondently.

"Oh, there's a restaurant, but it's not much better than this. It's bad—flies and greasy plates."

And by the time they had found the Ristorante Tornaghi—miserable and uninviting—they were laughing.

"Only I wish I knew where they were going," was Hillard's regret.

"They?" said Merrihew.

"Yes. The woman with Kitty is the woman I'm going to find if I stay in Europe ten years. And when I find her I'm going to marry her."

"Sounds good," said Merrihew, pouring himself a third glass of very indifferent Beaune.

"And they may be going anywhere but to Monte Carlo—Paris, Cherbourg, Calais. In my opinion, Monte Carlo is the last place two such women are likely to go to alone."

So they sat in the dingy restaurant, smoking and laughing and grumbling till the next train was announced. At 4 that afternoon they arrived without further mishap at the most interesting station of its size in Europe, Monte Carlo.

And then into the omnibus adjoining came the man with the scar.

* * * * * * *

The Riviera, from San Remo on the Italian side to Cannes on the French, possesses a singular beauty.

Villefranche stands above Nice, between that white city and Monte Carlo. It is quiet and lovely. For this reason the great army of tourists pass it by. There is no casino, no band, no streets full of tantalizing shops. On the very western limit of Villefranche, on the winding white road which rises out of Nice, is a modest little villa, so modest that a ballerina would scorn it and a duchess ignore it.

In the balcony La Signorina reposed in a steamer chair, gazing seaward. The awning cast a warm glow as of gold upon her face and hair, a transparent shadow. She was at this moment the most precious thing upon which the eye may look, a wholly beautiful woman. Kitty Killigrew, standing in the casement window, stared at her silently, not without some envy, not without some awe. What was going on behind those dreamy eyes?

"Hilda?" said Kitty.

"Yes, Kitty."

"Who and what are you?" Kitty asked bravely.

La Signorina's eyes wandered till they met Kitty's.

"And what good would it do you to know? Would it bring money from home any sooner? You already know that I am unhappy. The adventuress always is."

"Adventuress?" Kitty laughed scornfully. "The proprietor pretends he does not know you, but I am certain he does. He forgets himself sometimes in the way he bows to you."

Kitty paused, then asked:

"Won't you tell me what the secret is?"

"How beautiful that white sail looks!"

"You know all about me," went on

La Signorina turned again in a passion fierce and sudden.

Kitty stubbornly.

"Because you told me. I never asked you a single question."

"Is it—love?"

"Love!" La Signorina shrugged. "Poor Kitty, you are trying in vain to make a romance out of my life. You should not read so much."

"It is not curiosity," declared Kitty. "It is because I love you and because it makes me sad when I hear you laugh, when I see you beat your hands against the chair as you did just now."

La Signorina turned again in a passion which was as fierce as it was sudden.

"There is a man," she hissed, her eyes dilating. "But I loathe him, I hate him, I abhor him! And were it not wicked to kill he would have been dead long ago. Enough! If you ever ask another question I will leave you."

"I am sorry," said Kitty. "He was false to you and broke your heart."

"No, Kitty, only my pride."

"It is a strange world," mused Kitty. "Let us turn to our affairs. I received a letter today."

"From home?" eagerly.

"I have no home, Kitty. The letter is from a friend in Naples. Mr. Hillard and Mr. Merrihew, friends of yours, are in Italy."

Kitty could scarcely believe her ears. "Where are they? Where are they stopping?"

"That I do not know. But listen. They have started out to find us. When I tell you that Mr. Hillard is the gentleman I dined with that night before we sailed you will understand my reasons for wishing to avoid him. From this time on we must never appear on the streets without our veils. If by chance we meet them we must give no sign. It will be only for a little while. Your letter will come soon, and you may renew your acquaintance with these two gentlemen when you return home. It may be hard for you, but if you wish to stay with me my will must be a law unto you."

"Not to speak to them if we meet them?" urged Kitty in dismay. "But that is cruel of you. They are both gentlemen."

"I do not know Mr. Merrihew, but I can say that Mr. Hillard is a gentleman. As for being cruel, I am not; only selfish."

"Are you not a queen who has run away from a kingdom?" asked Kitty bitterly. "One reads about them every day in the papers."

"My dear, you are free to choose one of two paths. I shall not urge you one way or the other, but you must choose now."

Several minutes passed. Kitty looked out to sea, and La Signorina closed her eyes. In her heart Kitty knew that she could no more leave this woman than she could fly. She was held by curiosity, by sentiment, by the romantic mystery.

"I have chosen," she said at length. "I shall stay with you."

"Thanks, Kitty. And now the affairs of the company. We have played three days and have lost steadily. Tonight will be the last chance. Win or lose, tomorrow we shall return to Venice. I do not like the idea of going to Monte Carlo at night. It is not exactly safe. But since beggars mustn't be choosers we must go. Again I warn you to speak to no one while I am playing and under no circumstances raise your veil. They have begun to notice us, but it will end tonight. I was mad to think that I could win. And, by the way, Kitty, we shall not go back to the Campo Formosa."

Kitty accepted this news brightly. If there was one place she hated it was the Campo.

"Now run and dress," advised La Signorina. "Let me dream a little more while the sun sets."

She knew men tolerably well. After thirty they cease to follow visions—they seek tangible things. No, they must never meet again. It would not be wise. Her heart, galled by disillusion, might not withstand much storming. And she had no wish to add this irretrievable folly to the original blunder. She was afraid.

No; they must go their separate ways till the end. With a sigh she rose and went into the room. Kitty was busy with the finishing touches of her toilet. The older woman kissed her fondly.

"And do you realize that you are the most beautiful woman in the world?" asked Kitty.

"Little flatterer!"

"And if I were a man"—Kitty paused—"I'd fall in love with you and marry you."

La Signorina looked into the mirror.

CHAPTER XII.

GRAY VEILS.

THE fascination of Monte Carlo is not to be described—it must be seen. Vice shall be attractive, says the mother of Satan. At Monte Carlo it is more than attractive; it is compelling. A subtle hypnotism prevails, the lure of gold. Fool and rogue, saint and sinner, here they meet and mingle and change. To those who give Monte Carlo but a trifling glance, toss a coin or two on the tables and leave by the morrow's train it has no real significance. It is simply one of the sights of Europe.

To this latter class belonged the two young men. They had no fortunes to retrieve, no dishonesty to hide, no restitutions to make, no dancers to clothe and house. It was but a mild flirtation.

They had searched Nice and Monaco and Mentone, but the women they sought were not to be found. They decided, therefore, that the women had gone on to Paris.

"My system needs a tonic," said Merrihew.

"We'll hold the funeral after tonight's play. Of all the damfool games it's roulette."

"And I can prove it," Merrihew replied. "I have just $50 left." He took out the gold and toyed with it. "Can't you hear it?" he asked.

"Hear what?"

"The swan song of these tender napoleons."

Merrihew had played the numbers, the dozens, the columns, the colors, odd and even. Sometimes he would win a little, but a moment later the relentless rake would drag it back to the bank.

"Nature has done this very prettily. Quite clever with her colors, don't you know," he drawled, plucking the down on his upper lip, for he was trying to raise a mustache, convinced that two waxed points of hair at each corner of his mouth would impress the hotel waiters and other facchini—baseborn.

"Don't be a jackass!" Hillard was out of sorts.

"You agreed with me that I was one. Why not let me make a finished product?" good humoredly.

"Well," Merrihew finally said, "you might as well let me have my letter of credit now."

"You will not set eyes upon it till we return to Genoa. That's final. I know you, my boy, and I know Monte Carlo. Even with your fifty, a watch and a ring I'm afraid to trust you out of sight."

"I can see that you will never forgive nor forget those bad cigars. Come on. We'll take a look at our Italian friend. He's a bad loser. I have seen him lose his temper too. It's my opinion that he's a desperate man."

"They usually are when they come to Monte Carlo."

So they walked round to the entrance to the gaming halls, where the lights, the gowns, the jewels, the sparkling eyes, the natural beauty and the beauty of enamel, the vague perfumes, the low murmur of voices, the soft rustle of silks, the music of ringing gold, all combine to produce a picture as beautiful as a mirage and as false. They joined the never ending procession which passes in and out of the swinging doors day after day, year after year.

"There's the chap with the scar. He is a handsome beggar," Hillard admitted. "I wonder what sort of blackleg he is. He's no ordinary one, I'm certain. I begin to recognize the face of the man with him. He's a distinguished diplomat."

The Italian played like an old hand, a number once in awhile, but making it a point to stake on the colors. Red began to repeat itself. He doubled and doubled. On the sixth consecutive turn he played the maximum of 12,000 francs and won. The diplomat touched him on the arm significantly, but the player shook his head. Ten minutes later he had won 40,000 francs. Again he refused to leave his chair.

"If he stays now," said Hillard, "he will lose it all. His friend is right."

"Forty thousand francs, $8,000!" murmured Merrihew sadly. Why couldn't he have luck like this?

Hillard was a true prophet. There came a change in the smile of fortune. The game jumped from color to color, seldom repeating, with zero making itself conspicuous. The man with the scar played on, but he began to lose—small sums at first, then larger till finally he was down to his original stake. The scar grew livid. He waited five turns of the wheel, then placed his stake on the second dozen. He lost. He rose from his chair scowling. His eye chanced to meet Hillard's, and their glances held for a moment.

"Fool!" said Merrihew in an undertone as the man strolled leisurely past them. "Eight thousand and not content to quit!"

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, will exchange pulpits with Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale, of Marconnier chapel, on Sunday, September 26, at the morning service.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will hold its first meeting for the fall on Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. Every member is urged to attend to arrange plans for the Junior parade to be held during the State Endeavor convention.

Orton G. Dale and family, of East Seventh street, have returned to their home at the end of the season spent at Bay Head, where they had a cottage.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Frederick F. Dawes, assistant teacher with T. George Dodworth, of New York, will begin their fourteenth season in classes for dancing and polite training at the Seminary on Tuesday, October 12.

—Among the specials at Neuman Brothers' today is an extensive variety of fruits and vegetables, everything that one could wish for, at reasonable prices. These vegetables are carefully selected and will give entire satisfaction.

P.H.S. FOOTBALL SQUAD READY FOR PRACTICE

Captain Philips, of the P. H. S. football squad, expects to begin the "trying out" process next week. The material available this season looks good to him and it is believed that the High School will have a strong representative team. There are several members of last year's eleven available and some new candidates. Of last year's team the following will try for positions: Philips, Carpenter, Clark, Bristol, Riffert, Ramsel, Ricketts and Widowson.

The big Welshman is in even better condition than last season, and that is saying a good deal. Captain Philips expects to try him in one of the back positions, but if that does not work, he will hold his old position as guard.

Among the candidates are Nash and Lindsay, formerly of the Holy Cross team. Nash will surely make one of the back positions, for he is credited with splendid work on the gridiron last year. Although the High School lost a small percentage of games last season, Captain Philips predicts making a better record this year.

BOWLING.

The pin knights of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, will roll a practice game at Campbell's alleys tonight.

The individual tourney which is to open at the local alleys next week is creating a great deal of interest among the local cracks, who are taking advantage of every opportunity to get in shape for the competition.

The Raritan bowlers and the Armrights will clash tonight at Campbell's allayes in a five-man match. The local team will consist of Kiely, Nash, Radin, Skelly and Campbell, while their opponents will be Matthews, Vliet, Butscher, J. Schaub and W. Schaub.

Women's Tennis Tournament.

The women's tennis championship tournament will be played at the Plainfield Country Club, beginning Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Entries will close with Miss Elsie Goddard on East Ninth street, tomorrow night. The telephone number is 809-R. The entrance fee is fifty cents.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. C. Pfender, of East Ninth street, is stopping at the Ashland, Asbury Park.

W. D. Murray, of West Ninth street, has returned from his outing at Big Moose, N. Y.

Dr. B. vanD. Hedges has returned from a sojourn at the Belgrade hotel, Belgrade Lakes, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown, of Brooklyn, are stopping for a time at the "Homestead," Washington avenue.

Miss Florence Hill, of Westervelt avenue, stenographer at the First National Bank, is detained at home by illness.

Mrs. S. T. Wilson has returned to her home on Sycamore avenue, after spending several weeks at Mouse Island, Maine.

Mrs. H. K. Dumont and son, Roger, of Prospect place, who have been spending the summer at Bethlehem, N. H., have returned home.

Miss Stahlberger from New York, is among the new teachers at the North Plainfield High School. She occupies the position formerly occupied by her sister, now Mrs. Parsons.

State Road Supervisor R. A. Meeker and family, who have been enjoying bungalow life at Locust drive, Asbury Park, have returned to this city and taken up their residence at Truell Hall.

Councilman and Mrs. Julius Stahl returned yesterday from a two weeks' trip to Asbury Park, Atlantic City and New York. They took in the Mardi Gras at Coney Island and the Candy Show at Madison Square Garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baldwin Drake have leased their home furnished on Duer street, and October 1 will leave for Canyon City, Colorado, where they will make their home in the future. Their children will accompany them. This change has necessitated that Mr. Baldwin give up his excellent position in New York, which he has held for several years.

OLD QUESTION REVIVED BY N. J. AND PA., R.R.

Morristown, Sept. 16.—With the application of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Railroad to the Morris Township committee for permission to run its tracks under the Lake road, the old story of the railroad's control by the Pennsylvania and its ultimate extension to the Pennsylvania's Belvidere and Delaware division has been revived. Pennsylvania representatives are reported to be working on rights of way between Morristown and Newark, connecting with the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Hudson tunnels.

The New Jersey and Pennsylvania desired to extend its road into Morristown at Speedwell avenue, just at the top of Speedwell hill. By doing this it would connect with the Morris County Traction Company's Speedwell avenue line and thus obviate the necessity of conveying passengers from Morristown to its terminal at Watnong by stage.

The company has asked the Township Committee for authority to raise Lake road six feet above its present grade just a few feet west of the Lake road bridge, enabling it to place its tracks at twelve feet below the present grade. If this is done, however, it will necessitate the raising of the bridge over the Whippany River at this point and negotiations have been started with the county authorities toward this end. It is the intention of the company to put in a bridge eighteen feet wide, the same width as the present bridge, to carry the road over its tracks.

The New Jersey and Pennsylvania Railroad, formerly called the Rockaway Valley, was built about fifteen years ago by J. E. Melic, and runs between Watnong, about two miles from here, to Whitehouse Station, where it connects with the Central Railroad of New Jersey. About ten years ago the Haines brothers, of Maryland, secured control of the road and had about succeeded in grading a right-of-way across the Speedwell pond from Speedwell avenue to Watnong when they lost control and it passed into other hands, who did not continue the work.

RECEIVER MAKES ROAD PAY.

Camden and Trenton Railway Company's Balance Now is $25,204.21.

General F. Sadler, Jr., receiver of the Camden and Trenton Railway Company, filed at Trenton yesterday in the Court of Chancery his report for the last three months. Chancellor Pitney then made an order allowing him $1,500 on account of his services, with an additional $500 for counsel fees.

The report of the receiver shows that the cash fares for June were $17,198.90; for July, $19,945.55; for August, $19,889.50—a gain of $2,763.40 over the same quarter last year. The receipts from other sources were $1,194.93, and the balance in bank September 1, the day the report is dated, was $25,204.21.

Boonton Property Owners' Grievances

Boonton, Sept. 16.—Common Council met Tuesday night for the purpose of hearing the report of the Board of Commissioners regarding the assessments made for the improvements, and the damages incurred in the improvements made, during the last year to William and Spruce streets, and to give a hearing to property owners on these streets, if they had any grievances. Edward J. Sutton, who owns property on William street, said he had built the stone wall in front of his house according to the lines given him in 1907 by City Engineer Gordon; that when the improvements were made they undermined his wall, and now assess him for improvements. A large number of the property holders entered complaints. The grievances were referred to a committee.

Irby—Phillips.

Miss Ella Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, of 610 West Fourth street, and William J. Irby, both of this city, were married last night by the Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. Miss Frances Bookes acted as bridesmaid and Richard Harvey as best man. The bride was given away by her father, William Phillips. The house was prettily decorated with flowers, red, white and yellow blossoms. The bride received many handsome presents from he friends. Mr. and Mrs. Irby will reside in Plainfield.

Mrs. Agnes Maloney.

Mrs. Agnes Maloney died early this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas I. Walsh, 353 East Third street. She was sixty years old and had lived in Plainfield for many years. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Thomas L. Walsh and Miss Anna Maloney. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Debele left this morning for a few days in New York. He will attend the Candy Show at Madison Square aGrden.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Randolph, of Washington, N. J., have been the guests of Mrs. Jane L. Dunham, of 121 West Fifth street, for the past two days. Mr. and Mrs. Dunham are brother and sister. Mr. Randolph is a member of Company I, Fifth New York Cavalry, who held their fifteenth annual re-union yesterday at Rahway.

OIL ROAD FOUND BEST

Cars Going at Thirty Miles an Hour Leave Little or No Impression.

ENGINEER GAVETT PRESENT.

Bergen County Engineer Proves His Theory That Heavy Wagons Do the Most Damage.

Three strips of macadam road, prepared in different ways on the Ridgewood road through Glen Ridge were tested yesterday before sixty men prominent in the automobile and road matters in the State. Among those in the party was City Engineer Andrew J. Gavett, of this city. The test was made by running automobiles of practically the same weight over the roads at different rates of speed—ten miles up to sixty—and noting the effect on the road. The first strip tested was a portion of the road left untended for a year and a half, but which in spite of the almost constant automobile traffic, was in fairly good condition. It was found that when the automobiles were run over the road at the rate of twenty-five miles no effect other than a compression was noticeable.

At thirty miles an hour some of those watching the effects said there was a slight "strip," meaning a casting aside of the lighter stones forming the surface of the road to one side. At forty the strip became decided, and as sixty there was no doubt that considerable of the surfacing was cast aside. During the progress of the tests all other traffic was held up.

The next piece of road tested was a strip that had been treated with one coating of oil. Even the highest speeds failed to make any noticeable impression on the road treated in this manner, and beyond a slight scattering of the dust directly in the track of the speeding wheels the road remained the same as if no car had passed over it.

Tests were then made on a strip treated with clay binder in the old-fashioned way. The results showed that, while not as efficient as the oil roads, the clay roads held together better than the untreated road.

The theory of Essex County Engineer James Owen, who conducted the tests, is that there is a popular delusion in regard to the amount of damage done roads by automobiles. To prove his statement, Mr. Owen had four big coal wagons, drawn by heavy dray horses, pass over the road after the automobile tests were finished. After their passing, the heavy marks of the horses' hoofs had loosened stones twice the size of those whirled up by the automobiles. The majority of the party was satisfied as to the strength of Mr. Owen's theory.

FROM THE BOROUGH'S POLICE COURT BLOTTER.

Louis G. Blumetias, twenty-three years old, of Westervelt avenue, who was arrested on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct yesterday, was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver in the borough police court this morning. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2.

James Gorman was also arraigned in the court this morning for intoxication. A telephone message to Chief Weiss from a house at Pearl and Somerset streets brought the information that a man was sitting in front of the premises and refused to move. Previous to this he had entered the house and the owner had to put him out by force. He pleaded guilty, so Judge Dolliver suspended sentence on him after he had promised not to repeat his offense.

Veterans Hold Reunion.

The annual reunion and clambake under the auspices of the Veterans' Association of the New Jersey Central, was held yesterday at Pleasure Bay. Nearly all of the members were present, including Joseph A. Haynes, J. F. Garretson and C. H. Schmerhorn, of this city. Several officials of the road, including W. G. Besler, W. C. Hope, C. W. Huntington were present and made addresses. The affair was strictly informal and it proved one of the greatest enjoyment to the railroad veterans.

A. E. Kenney Declined.

It was A. E. Kenney, and not D T. Kenney, who declined to accept a nomination for the borough mayoralty at the Democratic caucus in the borough on Thursday night. A. E. Kenney is a member of the North Plainfield Board of Health. D. T. Kenney is not in politics.

ROCK ISLAND DIRECTORS TO INSPECT OUR ROADS

For the purpose of getting ideas on road construction and improved roads, Chairman Yokum, of the executive board of the Rock Island system and other directors of that road will make a two days' tour of New Jersey's highways next week. They will be met on their arrival in the R. I. system president's car on Wednesday morning at Broad street station, Philadelphia, by representatives of New Jersey, including Governor Fort, State Road Commissioner Gilkyson, Adjatant General Sadler and State Road Supervisor Meeker in automobiles provided for the two days' inspection tour.

This will be the route on Wednesday: Camden, Berlin, Hammonton, Tuckerton, Toms River, Lakewood, Point Pleasant, Sea Girt, Belmar, Asbury Park, Long Branch, Seabright, Rumson road, Matawan, Old Bridge, New Brunswick. After spending the night in their private car at New Brunswick, the party, excepting Governor Fort, will make an early start and their route will be through Spottswood, Helmetta, Jamesburg, Cranbury, Princeton, Kingston, Rocky Hill, Duke's Farm, Somerville, Bed Minster, Far Hills, Bernardsville, Basking Ridge, Millington, Berkeley Heights, New Providence, Summit, Short Hills, Chatham, Verona, Overbrook, Upper Montclair, Nutley, Carldstadt, Hackensack and Jersey City. Thursday night the western men will board their car at Grand Central station preparatory to viewing roads in New York State.

GOVERNOR'S PART IN BIG RIVER FETE

After a consultation yesterday with Adjutant General Sadler Governor Fort completed arrangements for his part at the Hudson-Fulton celebration. The executive and his party will leave the Pennsylvania Railroad pier on the morning of September 25 at forty-eight minutes after 11 o'clock on a tug and proceed to the Portsmouth, which is to be anchored at 110th street, directly opposite the reviewing stand.

With Governor Fort will be his family, his staff, the members of the Hudson-Fulton Commission and their wives, the members of the Senate and their wives, the Speaker of the House and his wife, the heads of State departments and their wives, and some of the higher officers of the National Guard and their wives. After Governor Fort views the parade he will leave for Spring Lake with his family.

Governor Fort plans to occupy the reviewing stand on September 30 on which will be Governor Hughes and other State and national officials. The Fourth New Jersey Infantry will participate in this parade. The Hotel Astor, Manhattan, will be Governor Fort's headquarters during the following week.

Governor Fort and his staff will be entertained at the Palastine Hotel, at Newburg, on September 30. With other prominent Jersey men he will view the naval parade from the Portsmouth, off Newburg.

Governor Fort yesterday received word from the Navy Department that the fleet of battle ships en route to the New York celebration would approach near enough to the Jersey coast next Tuesday afternoon to be seen from all of the shore resorts from Barnegat City north.

Mrs. Berry Gets a Decision.

Judge Isaac P. Runyon, sitting for Judge William Newcorn, in the District court case of Mrs. Minerva Berry against the Metropolitan Mercantile & Realty Company, today gave a decision in favor of the complainant, in her suit to recover $500 for failure to convey the property at 6:30 West Fourth street. Mrs. Berry is awarded the full amount. Robert Newton Crane represented the complainant and V. W. Nash, Jr., the defendant company.

Gellar's Case Postponed.

Henry Gellar, twenty years old, was taken into custody last night by Chief Marshal Weiss on the charge of disorderly conduct. He was among the five who caused a disturbance in North Plainfield on Labor Day evening. William G. DeMezz appeared as counsel for the young man. He asked that the case be set over for a week, and that the prisoner be released in his custody. Recorder Dolliver granted the request.

Announce Engagement.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Godwin Beard, of Hillside avenue, to Miss Margaret Hudson Randall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Randall, of Newville, Pennsylvania.

HUNDRED THOUSAND DEAL

Big Tract to Be Transformed Into High Class Residential Park.

HOPE COMMON THE SITE.

Charles H. Lyman Negotiates Transfer to Ernest Sharpe of Leonard and Niles Properties.

Charles H. Lyman, the real estate broker, has just closed one of the most important realty deals made within some years, whereby Ernest Sharpe becomes the owner of the Leonard property and Niles tract, better known as Hope Common. The tract is bounded by Sherman, Plainfield and Grant avenues and continues through to Stelle avenue and Randolph road, comprising in all about thirty-five acres. The change in this property means that Hope Common will not be available in the future for athletic contests which made it famous in the past.

This is doubtless the largest unimproved tract of land sold here in a long time, and it is Mr. Sharpe's intention to begin at once the development and improvement of the same. The tract will be divided into lots having a frontage of one hundred feet and it will all be restricted and devoted to the building of only high-class houses.

This property has been in the Leonard and Niles families for a great many years and has always been considered ideal for building purposes owing to the advantageous character of the soil, the high land, making perfect drainage. The consideration in the deal was about $100,000.

Mr. Sharpe has not decided just how many houses he will build, but as there is quite a demand for the style of dwelling he has in mind, he will undoubtedly erect a number of modern houses.

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW IS NECESSARY EVIL.

After counsel amends a petition for divorce on the ground of desertion in accordance with the wishes of the court. Vice Chancellor Garrison at Jersey City, will sign a decree nisi in favor of Edward P. Grady against Mrs. Annie Grady, both of Jersey City.

In granting the decree the Vice-Chancellor will hold that a wife cannot object to the presence of her mother-in-law in the home which her husband offers her unless the wife can show that the conduct of the mother-in-law is such as to make her undesirable.

The Gradys were married February 4, 1894, first by a Roman Catholic priest and later by a Protestant minister. Mrs. Grady is a Catholic. The case was heard on July 14 of this year. The husband's testimony was to the effect that he and his wife moved about considerably in their early married days; that they quarreled frequently; that his wife refused to cook his meals and stayed away from home at different times.

Grady said that in 1906 articles of separation were signed; that he didn't want to sign them, but his wife pursued him and threatened to kill him if he did not. He also charged that on one occasion she slit his coat up the back in an attempt to stab him.

Mrs. Grady in her testimony denied the charges of her husband and said she couldn't live with her husband because his mother, who lived with him, was offensive.

Fined $3 for Misconduct.

Standing room only could be found in the city court room this morning when City Judge Runyon took his seat and when the case of Aleck Kane against Fred Randolph was concluded breathing space was at a premium. Most of the crowd was attracted by the hearing to be given Nathal Semmer, the alleged fire-bug. Judge Runyon fined Randolph three dollars for disorderly conduct which was paid.

Miss Baxter to Wed.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Katharine Crissey Baxter, daughter of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles J. Baxter and Mrs. Baxter, of Trenton, to William Flowers Grove, of Elizabeth, on October 2. Mr. Baxter and family were residents of this city a few years ago and they have many friends here.

ROAD WORK DIFFICULTY SETTLED BY SUPERVISOR

State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker was in Washington, yesterday, where he held a conference with officials of the War Department relative to the re-building of the road between Rio Grande and Holly Beach, which is on the five mile beach in the southern part of the State. As a result objectors who held up the work, withdrew their remonstrances and the work will be continued according to the original plans.

The State has been re-building the road between Rio Grande and Holly Beach, developing the same as a summer resort. The growth of the improvement was practically stopped because of the poor connection between the mainland and the shore. At this place there are numerous small resorts on the sandbar about three miles off of shore.

The State approved plans and specifications for a highway between Rio Grande on the mainland and Holly Beach, the road to be four feet above the meadows, insuring a safe dry road, even in the highest tides. As a result of these improvements there were numerous streams to be filled in, making a solid road in place of a chain of bridges which were located about one-third the length of the improvement.

The work was progressing satisfacory, when complaints were filed with the War Department, statting that the construction interferred with navigation. In consequence of this the contractor and the Board of Freeholders of Cape May county stopped the work and nothing was done until new plans were prepared according the wishes of the chief engineer.

This work was under the general supervision of Captain Louis H. Rand. Negotiations were received at the beginning of the shore season. As the contract required that all work be suspended from July 1 to October 1, the matter was held in abeyance until yesterday, when the final interview was held. The objections filed in the office of Captain Rand, were withdrawn, and there was forwarded to the Secretary of War, with recommendations, papers, asking that the work be allowed to proceed along the original plans and specifications.

This road is considered an absolute necessity to the shore section. There are so many patrons who travel there from Philadelphia and other large cities in their automobiles. Wildwood, the next borough to Holly Beach, has a speedway, where auto races are held. There is a gravel road there seventy feet wide and so well built that a mile has been made in forty-two seconds, a record hard to beat anywhere.

SIDEWALKS THROUGHOUT BOROUGH NOW PLANNED

An ordinance extending the limits in which property-owners are compelled to lay sidewalks, was introduced at the adjourned meeting of the Borough Council last night and passed on its first reading. Notices were ordered posted about the borough informing the taxpayers of a public hearing and that it is the intention to pass the ordinance on final reading, Wednesday night, September 29. The ordinance includes all streets within the borough, but outside of the fire limits, walks other than those called for may be laid at the discretion of the Council.

Petitions were received asking the Council to macadamize Regent street, from Somerset street to Watchung avenue, and to widen and macadamize Clinton avenue from Greenbrook road to Green brook. Favorable action was taken on the first petition in accordance with a resolution offered by Councilman Waldron and the matter was referred to the street committee.

In accordance with a resolution Clerk Martin was instructed to notify James D. Frazee and M. F. Gano, of Grove street; Andrew Lutkins and Gotfried Kruger, of Somerset street, and the Mundy Estate to either repair the sidewalks in front of their property or lay new ones.

Permits were granted to Thomas Moran, of Regent street, to elevate his house and build an extension and to George L. Chandler to build a house on Westervelt avenue.

Has Reached No Decision.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, who recently received a call from the First Baptist church of Rochester, Pa., has not announced his decision as yet and probably will not for some days. Mr. Finn has been pastor of the local church eight years, having succeeded Rev. J. W. Richardson, now of Stamford, Conn.

SNEAK THIEF IS HELD

George Gardner Sent to Elizabeth for Trial on Charge of Stealing Cigars.

BENNETT BRITTIN COMPLAINANT

Tried to Sell $2.50 Worth of Cigars For Fifty Cents—Held For Grand Jury.

George Gardner, who has been held since Thursday afternoon on a charge of stealing cigars from Bennett Brittin, of 1220 West Front street, was up for a hearing before City Judge William Runyon this morning and held to await the action of the grand jury in $100 bond.

Gardner was apprehended near his home in Phillipsburg, on Wednesday and was brought to this city for trial on the charge of stealing cigars of the value of $22.50 from Mr. Brittin on the afternoon of August 12 last. Marshal William Sliney, of Dunellen, who arrested Gardner on that date testified as to the circumstances under which he took Gardner into custody. James Benson, another Dunellenite, told how he bought the cigars Gardner was offering for sale. Benson said that he secured the cigars for fifty centss and that Gardner said he needed the money. Gardner afterwards said that he had more than two dollars in his pocket and consequently could not have been hardup enough to need fifty cents for something that was sworth $2.50.

William Romaine, the bartender of Maier's hotel, where the transaction took place, told of Gardner's offering the smokes for sale. From all the testimony brought out there appears to have been another individual a dark horse, so to speak, who sold the cigars to Gardner for the trifling sum of thirty cents. As a matter of fact there was another man, undoubtedly a pal of Gardner's who had the stock in trade of the pair and who has made himself scarce. This of course Gardner denies, but all three of the witnesses from Dunellen are positive of the presence of the other man.

Mr. Brittin also testified, identifying the box which was offered in evidence by Assistant Prosecutor Hetfield. Gardner was sent to Elizabeth for trial. He has a police record.

DYER LOSES DIVORCE SUIT.

Vice Chancellor Walker Sees Case of Mutual Desire to Separate.

Vice-Chancellor Walker filed in Court of Chancery at Trenton yesterday a memorandum to the effect that William M. Dyer, of Newark, has not made out a case in his suit against his wife for divorce.

Dyer relied on letters to prove that his wife had deserted him when he refused to consent to a visit which she proposed to make to relatives. In the opinion of the Vice-Chancellor "it looks like a case of separation by mutual consent."

Sentence Suspended.

James Fleming, forty-five years old, and his daughter, Sarah, fifteen years old, both of Allen place, were arrested yesterday afternoon for trespassing on the Park Golf Club grounds. The Flemings went to the hills to gather mushrooms and they did not notice the new signs stating that anyone trespassing on the property would be punished. The groundkeeper saw them and telephoned to Chief Marshal Weiss, who appeared and arrested them. They were arraigned before Recorder Dolliver, who suspended sentence.

Horse and Cart Take a Somersault.

A horse and a dump cart used in hauling dirt from a cellar on Madison avenue, between Front and Second streets, to the lot between Mr. Mantz's house and Green book, turned a complete somersault, this morning, landing in the brook. The man in charge backed the horse too near the brook, the animal losing his footing and going over the embankment. There was no damage, but it required considerable effort to rescue the horse and cart.

Governor Names Tuberculosis Board.

In accordance with the law passed by last winter's Legislature creating a State Tuberculosis Commission, Governor Fort yesterday named the following commission: Bishop James McFaul, of the Catholic diocese of Trenton; William Cirhauffler, Lakewood; Sidney G. M. Colgate, Orange; William C. Smallwood, Newark, and Mrs. William T. Dayton, Trenton. The commission will begin its work at once.

J. FRANCIS MEANEY BECOMES A BENEDICT

Miss Blanche L. Giles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Giles, of West Front street, and J. Francis Meaney, also of this city, were married at 12 o'clock noon today at the rectory of St. Mary's church. Rev. B. M. Bogan, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a traveling suit, with hat to match. She was attended by Miss Mary Dunn, of St. George, S. I., as bridesmaid, who wore an empire gown of a blue shade. The best man was Vincent I. Meaney, brother of the groom. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left on an extended wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in Plainfield for a time. Mr. Meaney is engaged in business in New York city.

MISS ROLLES TALKS OF MISSION TO SO. CHINA

Miss Myra Rolles, of Tottenville, Staten Island, was the speaker at the Missionary and Christian Alliance in the W. C. T. U. rooms yesterday afternoon before a large audience. Miss Rolles will leave New York about the fifteenth of next month for south rn China by way of Vancouver, for the missionary field in that country. She will be accompanied by Miss Lucy Jones, of Rochester, Kentucky, who is making her second trip to the land of the heathen. Miss Rolles' talk was along the lines of missionary work and gave in great detail the present conditions in Wu Chow, the place to which she will devote the next seven years of her life.

Among other things she stated that there are 1,400 cities in China where the natives have not yet heard of the Gospel and since the door has been opened for the activities of the Christian nations the opportunities were great for the propaganda of Christianity. Polygamy, she said is a common practice among those who can afford to keep more than one wife and a female child is looked upon as an unwelcome intruder in the family circle and was either killed or sold into slavery or worse.

She said that China is awakening and the greatest opportunities await the workers who are venturing into that hitherto idolatrous and superstitious nation. A newspaper has been started in Pekin which is conducted for and by the women and it already has a great circulation considering the fact that only one in three hundred women can read. Miss Rolles' concern is mainly for the women of China. The fact that the New Testament has been allowed to be put beside the great Chinese classics is considered to be a forward step in the redemption of the country.

Many things are necessary for the missionary to those strange lands and the equipment must be made with an eye to the necessities. For these things about $250 is necessary and nearly all that amount has been raised, and no doubt is felt that the balance will be forthcoming before the date set for Miss Rolles' departure. She is being sent out by the Christian Alliance of Nyack, New York.

WARREN CHAPEL SOCIETY PICNIC IN OCTOBER.

The Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel held its first fall meeting yesterday with an unusually large attendance. In the absence of the president, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. John Schenck.

It was decided to hold the all-day picnic at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett on the mountains on October 15, and the all-day sewing meeting will be held on October 21 at the chapel. Following the meeting refreshments were served, under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Snyder.

Meeting of Fire Company.

The meeting of the Middlesex Volunteer Fire Company was held last night in the fire house at South Plainfield. The attendance was very poor. The only report heard was that of the hose commission, which told of the erection of an alarm and drying tower on the south side of the building. The tower is forty feet high and has an alarm bell on the top. They also reported the receiving of a number of subscriptions toward the cost of the hose. The subscriptions are coming in very rapidly. The receipts of the meeting were $38.75 and the expenses $1.00.

ALLEGED FIREBUG IS HELD

Nathan Semmer to Await the Action of the Grand Jury.

BONDS ARE FIXED AT $2,000.

Testimony Points to Suspicious Circumstances Surrounding Sunday's Fire.

Nathal Semmer, the alleged firebug, whose store was gutted by the flames Sunday night last, was held for the action of the grand jury in $2,000 bonds in the city court this morning by City Judge William Runyon. Testimony tending to show that there were suspicious circumstances surrounding the fire was given by several witnesses. The accused was represented by W. A. Coddington and V. W. Nash, Jr., while Walter Hetfield, Jr., looked after the State's side of the case.

After the reading of the complaint George Mitchell, colored, of 661 West Third street, was called to the stand and told the court that he knew the prisoner only by sight and saw him at about 11:30 the night of the fire walking down West Third street looking for an officer. Mitchell questioned Semmer as to the trouble and was told that his (Semmer's) house was on fire. Mitchell ran after Patrolman Vanderweg who had passed there a minute or two previously and the two ran to the fire alarm box and the patrolman turned in the alarm. From there they ran in the direction of Semmer's store and by the time they arrived the ffont of the store was a mass of flames. Mitchell said that Semmer did not appear excited at the time.

William Hooper, also colored, who in company with Noble Henry and Edward Peterson had been drinking soda in Semmer's place at about 11:10 testified that Henry was pushed out of the door by Semmer when he did not move fast enough to suit him. Hooper also said that the alarm was turned in shortly after he arrived in his home at 536 West Third street. After a while saw Semmer walking up and down the street opposite the store, but appeared to be calm in the face of what was transpiring. Henry corroborated Hooper and added that after leaving the store Semmer walked toward the alley alongside the house which leads to the rear of the burned premises.

James McEvoy said he saw Semmer coming down the middle of the road walking and heard him ask for a policeman. When he heard that Semmer's place was on fire he and Martin Kane ran down to the place and while Kane ran upstairs to warn the sleeping tenants he (McEvoy) tried to get into the store by kicking in the door. He injured his foot in this way but the fire became so hot that he abandoned his efforts to enter. Kane corroborated this testimony, but could not say who was asleep in the hous as he could not see in the dark.

George Ruggles, colored, of 507 West Third street, was the next to testify and told practically the same story as Kane, regarding the time of the fire.

Captain Frederickson also told of the time the alarm was sounded and told of his search of Semmer revealing the insurance policy which was found in Semmer's pocket. The finding of the policy is one of the strong points of the prosecution, although the policy shows considerable pocket wear, being dirty, creased and worn through in spots.

Sergeant Overbaugh was the strongest witness for the State. He said he questioned Semmer after he had found him and that Semmer said the fire broke out while there were eight or ten persons in the store. Semmer also told him that he saw the fire start while these people were in the store. Sergeant Overbaugh and Roundsman Higgins arrived at practically the same time, after the fire had been extinguished, and they saw Morris Sachar, owner of the building, who said that Semmer was the only person in the store at the tie the fire broke out. Semmer told Overbaugh that he valued his stock at $100. The value of the soda fountain was not stated, but it was concluded to have been a cheap affair. Detective Sergeant Flynn, who made an investigation of the premises the next day and found the lock on the door broken. This was taken to mean that Semmer had locked the door after leaving.

Former City Judge W. A. Coddington, of counsel for the defense, summed up the case for Semmer and declared that there was no evidence on which to hold Semmer. Proof was wanting of intent and there was not sufficient motive in the light of the amount of the insurance policy, $300. Mr. Coddington explained that the police must have some one to arrest on account of the fire and they had singled out Semmer as the

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The fall meeting of the West Jersey Presbytery will be held in Haddon Heights church Tuesday next, September 21.

The twenty-fifth annual convention of the Camden county W. C. T. U. will be held in the First Presbyterian church, Fifth and Penn streets, Camden, Tuesday next, September 21, all day and evening.

Hurled from the seat of the wagon when a trolley car struck his team from the rear, Charles Parker, sixteen years old, of 818 Walnut street, Camden, sustained general body bruises and lacerations yesterday.

B. F. Sweeten & Sons, of Camden, who installed the sewer system in Millville, several years ago, brought suit in the Supreme Court for an alleged balance of $4,702.57. The Council claims the balance is less, and will contest the suit.

Because John Mason, of South Millville, threatened to shoot his wife and three children, he was exiled from the city by Justice of the Peace Oliver yesterday. On condition that he will remain away from his family and this section of the county he will not be prosecuted.

Frederick Spinnler, of 41 Barhans avenue, Paterson, went on a rampage yesterday afternoon, threatened to kill his wife, after arming himself with an axe, knife and gun, and then smashed most of the furniture in his home and also damaged the weather boards on the front portion of the building in which the family live. Spinnler was locked up.

Great preparations have been made for the dedication of Clayton Borough's new $40,000 schoolhouse today. A ninety-foot flag pole has been erected and the P. O. S of A. will present a flag to the school. Rev. Edward Mount, of Williamstown, will make the presentation speech, and the flag will be accepted by Rev. W. F. S. Nelson, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Rev. Edmond J. Kulp, of Camden, will make the dedicatory address.

Mayor Lincoln, of Gloucester City, received word yesterday of the destitute condition of Morris Leon, a German shoemaker, and upon investigation learned that the wife and five children, who live on Jersey avenue, near Third street, had nothing to eat all day Wednesday, and the children went to bed that night hungry. Leon was taken sick on Monday and was taken to a Philadelphia hospital. An order for food was given to Mrs. Leon, and the family will be properly cared for.

Joseph Riley, a former member of the Millville baseball team, has been landed in the Salem county jail, charged with wife desertion. Riley, it is alleged, eloped with his "affinity," Miss Della Handle, last March, after having drawn his pay of $285 at the glass works. He left his wife and two children and was not located until this week. Mrs. Riley moved to Millville after the elopement and states that she will not take her husband back under any consideration.

Edward and Paul Sjorstrom, eleven and nine years of age, were arrested in Wildwood yesterday and taken to the county prison at Cape May Court House. They will be taken to Trenton to be tried in the Federal Court, charged with robbing the mails. The boys were arraigned before a magistrate, when they acknowledged taking from combination postoffice boxes many letters containing checks, which are said to have aggregated $1,000, but which they claimed they destroyed. They also got several dollars in cash and stamps.

It is assured now that the labors of seven years by Assemblyman Benjamin H. Crosby for the establishment of a beacon light at the point of Tucker's Beach will be rewarded, as word comes that the material for the light has been shipped and will reach Tuckerton in a very few days. The establishment of this light will mean much to craft coming in and out of Little Egg Harbor Inlet as the beach has been making up to the south of Tucker's Beach Lighthouse so fast during the last few years that the light has been somewhat misleading and the beacon has long been felt necessary.

CHILD GIVES MURDER CLEW.

"I Know Who Killed Papa," He Says, and Arrest Follows.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 18.—Herbert Holmes, 19 years old, is under arrest charged with being an accomplice with Mrs. Gus Carlsen, of Nanaimo, in the murder of her husband, whom, she declares, was strangled by burglars who left her bound and gagged.

Evidence is promised showing a liasion existed and that Carlsen had threatened to kill Holmes, who formerly boarded with them, if he ever visited the wife. The new arrest followed a statement volunteered to Police Chief Crossan by Carlsen's seven-year-old son, who declared:

"I know who killed my papa and who is going to be my new papa."

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

The Bon Ami Club baseball team will have as its opponents today the strong Raritan Juniors of Raritan. The home boys were defeated by this team last Saturday in a hotly contested game. They are out for revenge today and there is a barrel of excitement in store for the spectators.

Collector Jacob K. Brokaw and son Herbert had six of their fine black-breasted red game fowls entered in the Staten Island fair last week and have just been awarded four first prizes, one second and a third.

The topic for discussion next week by the Raritan Valley Grange is "Reforms in Wearing Apparel." This includes men's as well as women's clothing.

Mrs. J. H. Kenney and children, who have been spending the past three weeks with Mrs. George Van Nortwick, have returned home.

Charles K. Levy has sold, through the agency of D. N. Messler, his house and lot on the corner of High and Davenport streets.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Second Reformed church will hold an entertainment in the chapel on October 7.

It has been decided by the members of the hook-and-ladder company of this place to hold a minstrel show in January.

D. H. Beekman and family, of North Branch, moved to their winter home in this city yesterday.

Miss Carrie Moorhouse, of Raritan, is one of the teachers in the Lafayette School.

Today is the last day for filing petitions with the borough clerk for borough offices.

Next Tuesday the fall term of court will open. The list of causes is quite heavy.

RARITAN.

Ten graduates of the North Branch School last June have entered the High School at Somerville. They are Edna Bell, Ethel Waldron, Johanna Little, Florence McCullough, Irma Vanderbeek, Helen Pfaff, Margaret Flynn, James Flynn, William Van Fleet, Mary Widutes has entered Raritan School.

Extensive preparations are being made at Pluckemin for the "Dutch fair," which is to be held on the church grounds Thursday and Friday night next week. The Union Cornet Band of Far Hills will furnish the music.

J. Milton Michael and Arthur K. Niles have gone on a camping trip on the Delaware River ten miles above Delaware Water Gap. This is the third year these gentlemen have camped at this point.

Tilghanan Haas, who has been head miller for William Adair for seven years, has resigned to take a similar position with W. H. H. Wyckoff & Sons.

John Daniels has purchased the property on First street where the Rev. Father Varanelli now resides, and will occupy it soon with his family.

Daniel Plower has returned to New York, after spending a two weeks' vacation with relatives here.

The ladies' prayer-meeting of the Reformed church was held at Mrs. Peter Housel's yesterday afternoon.

The Neshanic A. C. will play the strong Reaville team on the home grounds this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kenyon are at Atlantic City for a week's stay.

WESTFIELD.

The school garden committee of Union County Board of Agriculture will make an inspection of the school gardens of the county next Wednesday afternoon. The committee consists of D. T. Magie, Roselle; F. C. Woodruff, of Cranford, and Charles Brewer, of Clark Township. There are gardens at Unionville, Roselle, Berkeley Heights and Summit.

The foundry of the Thatcher Furnace Company at Garwood will be started up again October 1. The foundry has been idle for a couple of years. About fifty men will be given employment.

The Garwood Republican Club held a meeting at the old schoolhouse Thursday night and made a slate for local candidates.

—George Dufford, of West Front street, has returned from Phillipsburg, where he has been working for the New Jersey Central.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Defeat of the Amendments.

The defeat of the constitutional amendments at the polls yesterday was decisive, judged by the number of votes cast for and against the proposed changes. But the great bulk of the voters of New Jersey failed to go to the polls to record their opinion on one of the most important propositions ever submitted for their consideration. Yet it cannot be fairly said that these amendments were rejected entirely by default. There had been organized opposition to them from the start. With only a few exceptions, the machine leaders of both the big political parties worked for the defeat of the amendments. The organized labor leaders also joined the ranks of the opponents, and so did the Socialists. The independent vote was divided, while the rank and file of the voters of all parties were apathetic.

The only organized effort for overcoming the opposition was in favor of the judiciary amendments, and this was conducted by the State Bar Association. The members of that body, however, confined their activities strictly to written arguments showing the need of the proposed changes and the benefits that would result from their adoption. There was no practical campaign on the part of the lawyers for getting out the vote, and that branch of activity was left entirely to the opponents of the propositions. Under these circumstances the result was almost a foregone conclusion, especially when the fate of similar amendments in this State is remembered.

It seems almost impossible to arouse the people of New Jersey to the point of voting on abstract propositions when there is no personal controversy involved. They will turn out to the polls at the primaries and elections when they have before them the selection and election of candidates, and they will record their preferences with enthusiasm and ordinarily with discretion. Only about seventeen per cent. of the voters of Newark went to the polls yesterday, and the percentage in the rest of the State was perhaps smaller. At least eighty-three per cent. of the voters were thus shown to be indifferent to the outcome. As in the voting machine elections, this proved the absolute worthlessness of the referendum.

Governor Fort endeavored at almost the last moment to arouse interest in the contest by platform arguments, but his effort, like that of the legal fraternity, was fruitless. This fact was due to no weakness in his belated presentation of the subject, but to conditions that nobody could overcome by merely printed and spoken words.

The people of the New Jersey must, as a result of the vote yesterday, bear the ills inflicted upon them by the Constitution as it now exists for at least another five years. There is absolutely no hope of bringing about the holding of a constitutional convention. The courts must go on in the old way, and the only hope for relief from present election methods is to be found in the repeal of the anti-spring election law. It is not to be expected, however, that those who worked for the defeat of the amendment calling for the choice of Assemblymen by districts and for the extension of terms of officeholders so as to bring about the separation of general and local elections will now join hands for the reform that, previous to the special election, they declared could be so easily secured by the repeal of the offensive Meeker act.—Newark News

MIDDLESEX COUNTY FIGHT WORRIES THE LEADERS.

New Brunswick, Sept. 18.—State leaders are expected to take a hand in the Republican factional fight in Middlesex before long, on the ground that the present strife will disrupt the party here. County Clerk John H. Conger and former Senator Theodore Strong, leaders of the two factions, want to fight to a finish and have the war, which has been pending for the past five years, settled for all time, but it is thought that pressure can be brought by the State leaders to call off one or the other.

Republicans see nothing but defeat ahead if the quarrel is not patched up, but are willing to suffer defeat for the sake of settling the old party score.

Strong has been the recognized Republican leader of Middlesex County since 1901, when he was elected to the Senate. Before that Robert Carson was the leader. Carson has retained some of his old power by being close to the distribution of the Federal offices, while Strong has been in charge of State patronage. Strong's turndown by Governor Fort last April, when he declined to reappoint Strong's candidate for prosecutor, was thought to be the death blow of the leader, but he insisted upon putting a ticket in the field this fall.

Much of the old machine is with Strong, including the county committee, but the Conger faction will endeavor to capture the committee at the primaries this month.

The proposed Gloucester County boulevard from Woodbury to Red Bank will undoubtedly become a reality. The proposition was favored by the Board of Freeholders yesterday.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

Scores of Plainfield Readers Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Urinary trouble, diabetes.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all.

Plainfield people endorse our claim.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, of Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Though I have had no occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills in the past few years, I value them as highly as ever. My kidneys were weak for years and I suered severely from backache. I was unable to sleep well and when I arose in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Every cold I caught settled in my kidneys and aggravated my suffering. I doctored but the medicines I used did me no good. At length I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and procuring a supply at Randolp's Pharmacy, I began taking them. They went directly to the seat of my trouble, disposing of the pains and making me feel like a different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Don't Wrestle With Furnace Clinkers

Clinkers just naturally pass right through the grate of the Boynton.

If they hesitate, the cutting bar smashes them. There is no chance of clogging. The intense and uniform heat of the reduces nearly everything to the finest ash. That's because a square pot develops more heat per unit of fuel than any other kind. That's economy.

The Boynton has some other exceptional features too—the fresh air supply—the dust flue—the square ash pit. Any BOYNTON dealer will be glad to explain how these points reduce the care and cost of up-keep.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

The Plainfield Baseball club will meet the strong St. Benedict's at Dunellen this afternoon.

The Y. M. C. A. team will cross bats with the Kenwood A. C., of Newark, at Crescent Oval, this afternoon.

The big league teams are now on the homestretch and some of the players wish the season was over.

The Boston Doves opened and closed their season's series with the Giants with a victory.

Those Philadelphia fans certainly hold that "grudge" against "Ty" Cobb, for his apparent deliberate spiking of one of the Athletics' players.

For a slugger of renown Eddie Collins did not hit much in the New York series just ended. He made one hit in four games and his walloping average was .100.

It has been some time since a manager to succeed McAleer has been named. This matter will have to be settled by next April.

Sallee's thirty day suspension was commuted to twelve by Warden Bresnahan and the convivial pitcher is once more back in the Cardinal fold.

It is the privilege and custom of teams in the ruck to try out new material at this time of the year, and if done impartially so far as opponents are concerned no other club has a kick coming.

GOLF.

Today's events at the Plainfield Country club will include the weekly competition for the Fall Handicap cups, Classes A and B. There will also be a dinner dance at the club tonight.

Play for the President's, golf club and Oakmont cups, will be the features at the Park Golf club, today, while there will be a tennis tournament for mixed couples on the club's courts. There will be the usual social features.

The college golf players have had a very busy week of it, contesting for the annual honors. Plainfield was represented in this competition a few years ago when Robert Abbott, of this city, playing for Yale, won the Intercollegiate championship. Since then no Plainfield young man has aspired for the honor.

The women's golf events at the Plainfield Country club will soon engage their attention. In the spring there were several scheduled events and they brought out a large field.

The Park Golf club continues to increase its membership, showing that the borough organization is very popular.

THE LETTER.

Terence, dear, I got yer letther—
Shure, me bye, I was that glad,
That I up an' danced a measure,
Just t' kape from goin' mad.

All about the byes it tould me,
All about the swate colleen,
Th' ould 'ooman and th' childer,
Playin' on th' dear ould green.

Thin, I showed it t' Mulvaney,
"Faix," said I, "'twill plaze th' lad."
Whin he'd read it howandiver,
Shure, I saw 't made 'im sad.

Said Mulvaney, "'Tis me breakfast,
"Doesn't sit well on me chist,
"I've a tuggin' in me stummick,
"In me eyes a sort av mist!"

Said I, "'Tis a could Mulvaney
"That yez caught"—an', as I spoke,
Fumbled round in all me pockets
For me little poipe t' smoke.

Terence, dear, I got yer letther
Wid th' tang ay th' ould sod.
How me heart yearns fur ould Ireland—
Love Her? Yis!—Thanks be t' God!

DEFENDS STATE OFFICIAL.

Health Board Calls Arrest of Its Analyst in Atlantic City Persecution.

The State Board of Health characterizes as persecution the arrest of William S. Tice, the Board's analyst, who has been held in bail for the Atlantic City Grand Jury on the charge of assaulting the proprietor of the San Jose Hotel.

According to the allegations Tice was doing his duty as an inspector, getting evidence on the use of oleomargarine, when he was taken into custody for the larceny of two pounds of a substance said to be butter from the hotel kitchen. He was acquitted of this charge, but later was arrested on a charge of assaulting Garwood, the hotel proprietor. Governor Fort declined to take any action in the matter yesterday.

Tried on Bad Check Charge.

Giving his home town as Plattsburg, N. Y., a man who says he is William Franklin was arrested in Newark by Detective Sergeants Ryan and Farrell last night on a charge of attempting to pass worthless checks. Four checks for $10.50 each and one for $21.20 drawn on the Union National Bank, of Newark, were found in his pockets.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

February 9, 1871.

On Sunday evening last, a narrow escape from fire occurred in North Plainfield. The members of the household of Mr. J. Wesley Johnson, upon their return to their home in Somerset street during the evening discovered that a pile of wood left behind the stove to dry, had ignited during their absence, and but for their timely arrival the house would have caught fire and been consumed.

On Friday morning last, a young gentlemen with his bride seated themselves in the palace car of the 10:30 express train on the New Jersey railway at Jersey City, but just before the train started, the young man slipped out of the car, and the train slipped off without him. He rushed frantically to the superintendent's office and offered him $100 if he would enable him to overtake his bride. The offer was accepted; the special engine was placed at his disposal, and the train was overtaken at Rahway, the single engine making the run in thirty minutes.

A Grand Masquerade Ball will be held at Smith's hall, North Plainfield, Monday evening, Feb. 20. The proceeds will be devoted to aid the widows and orphans of fallen German soldiers in the Franco-German War. All are invited to participate, whether French, German, English, Prussian, Dutch, Hollander, or Yank. Tickets, $1.00. To be had of the committee, Fred Casper, S. Tliag and Mr. Bieter.

We are glad to learn that our friend Gus Frazee, the expressman, will soon be able to resume his duties as expressman. It will be remembered that Mr. F. injured his hand by a fall by running to Hartfelder's fire Jan. 3rd, and in consequence thereof had to have one of his fingers amputated, since which he has been confined to the house, with a prospect of losing his hand. He is, however, now improving, and we hope will soon be able to resume his trips to and from the city. His business is now conducted by his son-in-law, Alex. Sargeant.

February 16, 1871.

The Common Council will at its meeting on Monday evening next, the most like elect a member in place of Mr. Campbell, resigned. We heard mentioned in connection with that position the names of George T. Young, J. Frank Hubbard, George R. Pound, A. D. Cook, Isaac Pangborn and Alfred Berry, all good.

Our old friend Manning Jennings has not forgotten his duty in case of an alarm of fire as was proven on Monday last by his gaining admission into the M. E. church and ringing the bell.

During the past few days of sleigh riding carnival, the Fanwood House, at Scotch Plains, has received many visitors, and all agree in saying that Mr. Britton is just the right kind of a man to keep the house. So say we.

Mr. Hartfelder, whose carpenter shop was burned on the morning of Jan. 3rd, has built another shop on the old site and is now busy at work again. The new shop is a frame two-story and a half building, with basement, wherein is located horse power drive machinery above. Mr. H is an energetic man, and we are glad to see him at work again in his new shop.

A change in the time table of the Central R. R. Co. went into effect on Monday last. The time for the arrival and closing of the mails is also changed. The Western all now arrives at 4:30, and the Eastern mail closes at 4:00.

Property owners on Cherry street are alive to their interests and improving their property. Mr. J. M. C. Smith is excavating in front of his building known as the market, and proposes building an addition even with the walk, and making a store 40x17 feet, with an extension 24x12 feet, the whole to be occupied about the first of April by Freeman & Philpitt, Grocers. The front is to be similar of that of M. Vermeule's building.

WASHING A SWEATER.

It is no difficult matter to wash a sweater at home, and it usually comes out as well as if it had gone to the cleaner. Wash it in tepid soap suds, rinse it thoroughly and spread it on the grass if there is grass. If there is not a yard, hang it on a coat hanger which has been thoroughly padded with a towel, says the New York Evening Sun. The trouble in drying wool sweaters is the stretching of the sleeves from the additional weight of water and the stretching out of shape of different parts that are clipped to the line by clothes pins. One woman who washes her own sweater threads the sleeves through a clothes line and straightens the garment on the line. If there is clean grass, it is as well to dry it on the ground, straightening the garment perfectly while it is wet. But the sun tans a white sweater and it should be dried on a cloudy day if this means is used.

scapegoat. Assistant Prosecutor Walter Hetfield, Jr., repudiated any such motive on the part of the police and claimed that such cases as this one must largely be made out of circumstantial evidence, and he believed there was enough of that here to warrant the holding Semmer for the grand jury. He claimed that if Semmer was innocent of the charge of arson he should have taken the witness stand and told his story. Semmer's counsel evidently think it wise not to put the man on the stand at this time, so his story was not heard.

Judge Runyon held the prisoner to await the action of the grand jury in the amount fixed by Judge Atwater, $2,000.

AEROPLANE ONLY A TOY.

While the authorities at Washington have been considering the expenditure of a large amount of money for further experimentation with flying machines the British defense committee has just reported against aeroplanes and in favor of dirigible balloons. The success of Count Zeppelin with his balloon, which far outclassed that of all those who have been testing aeroplanes, justifies the decision of the British committee. The aeroplane is like a kite and hardly more useful, while the balloon has been in use for years. It can be handled and managed satisfactorily, while any sudden change in the wind may upset or divert an aeroplane, to the peril of its navigators. Thus far, in spite of all the talk about the Wrights, Latham, Bleriot and others, the aeroplane has proved itself nothing more than a toy. It is hoped that the Federal Government will not permit the public moneys to be wasted on experiments with aeroplanes, when it has been established that the dirigible balloon offers greater usefulness for all the purposes of the army and navy. We are glad to hear of the annulment of the contract for the Herring flying machine and the statement that something like $16,000 of the original allotment for the development of aeronautics will accordingly be returned to the general fund of our army board of ordinance.—Leslie's Weekly.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be held at the usual hours. Sunday school, 9:20; morning preaching by pastor, Rev. F. K. Mathiews, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7:30.

John Wade, who has been spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade, of Stanbury avenue, has returned to his studies at the Ohio Theological Seminary.

Rev. Mr. Hollingshead, of Drew Seminary, will occupy the pulpit at the Methodist church tomorrow at both the morning and evening services.

A meeting of the township committee was held in the town rooms last night. Only the regular routine business was transacted.

The local ball team accompanied by a few fans are playing the Flemington team this afternoon at Flemington.

Mrs. Daniel Schenck, of Forest avenue, has recovered from her recent illness and is able to be around again.

Miss Florence Wade is spending a week's vacation enjoying the scenery in the Catskill mountains, New York.

Anthony Dobbins, of Newark, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Robert Walpole, of Front street.

Edwin Fancher is having an addition built to his home on Martine avenue in the borough.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rogers and children accompanied by Mr. Rogers' mother left this morning for Ocean City, California, where they will stay with W. J. Davis, formerly of New Market, and brother-in-law to Mr. Rogers. They intend to stay in the west until Spring, when they will return to New Market, but it is very probable that they will return again and make their home in California.

The recent rains have made some of the streets rather muddy. Perhaps it would be better to get a street dryer than to squabble about the street sprinkling bills, some think.

Robert L. Pierce sold six lots on Madison avenue to Dr. Thomas Platt. Mr. Pierce acted as agent for Nathaniel Hill.

The boys are spending their afternoon's gathering mushrooms. They are unusually plentiful just now.

Mrs. Wright has gone to Short Hills for a two weeks' vacation.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The ball to be held by the John Soleiski society in Washington hall tonight, promises to be the most successful ball in the history of the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hubert have returned from Bethlehem, Pa., where they made a short stay with relatives.

James Galligan has much improved his residence on Front street by the recent extensive repairs.

Thomas Bohl is confined to his home by illness.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A French Canadian play with a splendid actor at the head of a well recommended company, is announced for presentation at the Plainfield theatre Tuesday, September 21. "L'Habitant," a Drummond story in dramatic form, with Mr. Ryan as Joe Laplante, the habitant, is sure to appeal to theatregoers, who like what is best in modern drama. The play is said to be thrilling and especially characteristic of the Canadian woods, and Mr. Ryan's interpretation is ranked by many as one of the finest interpretations of the stage today.

Collante Skirt Effect.

In spite of the complication of flounces, shirred yokes and swathing, floating draperies, the skirt effect is decidedly collante. In general the cuirass effect of bodice prevails, beginning at the height of the bust, below the becoming guimpe, and reaching below the hips to meet a gathered or plaited skirt. Notwithstanding this circling line, the edge at the low bodice cutting the figure, the silhouette remains slender from the cleverness of its arrangement. Sometimes round, the cuirass effect is varied with lengthening sides, leaving ample fulness below the shortened back.

NO CLEW TO CHILD SLAYER.

Utica Murders Are Still Far From Solution.

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Unless something more tangible in the line of clews than has thus far been uncovered develops very shortly in the mystery surrounding the murder of the two children, Therosa Procopio and Ferdinando Infusano, and the wounding of Fannie Infusano, it is extremely doubtful if the pepetrator of the deed will ever be brought to justice.

Hundreds of clews have been run to earth. The sum total of these efforts is the holding in police headquarters of Micele and Theodore Rizzo, brothers, whom Fannie Infusano has said were not involved in the crime.

Last night Chief Brophy said that in the absence of any new clews the police will concenterate their energies in tracing the recent movements of the Rizzo brothers, and in a few days, when Fannie Infusano has had opportunity to recover, he will again take the brothers to the hospital and give the girl another chance to scrutnize them.

NOVEL TOBACCO POUCH.

A tobacco pouch that is easily made by the girl who embroiders only a little is of gray, tan or dull blue homespun linen, embroidered with a conventional design of crossed pipes on one side of the pouch and with the monogram of the owner on the other side.

Cut the linen in two pieces with a rounding bottom and bulging sides, narrowing to a neck and widening again above it. Stitch the two sides together to the neck, where there is a casing, and leave the upper part or ruffle open at each side.

Line bag with oiled silk if you can find it in a color that looks well with the pouch; if not, with a heavy waterproof silk.

Embroider the pipes in Kensington stitch in a dark brown filo, using a lighter tone of brown in centre of bowl for high lights. The mouthpiece and rim of the pipes can be worked in gold thread., or, if you fear that tarnishing, in an old gold filo.

ORNAMENTAL BANDS.

A new movement seen in the latest foreign gown boxes unpacked is the addition to the short-waisted band ornamented low corsage for evening wear of tabs of net covered with Spanish white bugle and coral work with intermixed silver and pearl. These hanging tabs carry out the corsage band color suggestions, and were they join the bodice a beltlike finish is given to the waist. These tabs barely reach the knee line, but their straight-across ends are strung with long, fringe-like ropes of pearls, crystals or any other fancy bead chosen, which dangle and swing quite low on the skirt in front. Only brunettes can stand this gay melange of colors, often relieved by shoulder drapery of black maline, while stole front pieces on gowns, single ones being more often seen lately, if with the same brilliant work upon which foreign colors and style of handwork, produce naturally original effect greatly admired.

Blackmailer Is Indicted.

New Brunswick, Sept. 18.—The grand jury yesterday afternoon indicted Peter Uregas, the Keasbey man, who is charged with sending threatening letters to John A. Manley, one of the superintendents of Johnson & Johnson's big plant here. The evidence against the man was strong, even without his own confession. Uregas wrote three letters to Mr. Manley demanding that he leave various sums ranging from $20,000 to $50,000 in the cemetery at Keasbey, threatening that if he failed to do so the writer would kill Mr. Manley and his family and blow up the Johnson & Johnson plant.

Newark Pries Wins Libel Suit.

The Rev. James Zuccarelli, of St. Rocco's Roman Catholic church, in Newark, procured a verdict for $1,000 from a Sheriff's Jury in Newark yesterday afternoon in a suit for libel which he began against Salvatore Musumecci, of No. 11 Bedford street. The latter is a brother-in-law of the priest. During a law suit Musumecci in open court, cried out that the priest was an assassin. Soon after that occurence Musumecci fired a shot from a pistol while Father Zuccarrrelli was coming from the rectory. The bullet missed. Musumecci is now serving a sentence of eighteen months for the shooting.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Cumberland county, the home of ex-Gov. E. C. Stokes, who aspires to take John Kean's seat in the United States Senate in 1911, is now in the throes of a bitter factional fight for the Republican nominations for the Assembly at the coming primaries in Cumberland county. There are six candidates in the field for the two nominations, but the greater interest is centred in the strenuous fight that Issaac T. Nichols, who served in last year's House, is making for a renomination. Mr. Nichols has paired with "Lou" Miller, an ex-Assemblyman, who has a reputation of being a hard fighter.

The petition of Republican candidates in the borough were filed this morning with Borough Clerk Frederick Martin. They are Mayor, Newton B. Smalley, term two years; councilmen, B. R. Waldron and Malcolm G. Van Arsdale, term three years; members of the county executive committee, N. B. Smalley, from the first district, B. R. Waldron, from the third district and Edward P. T. Smith from the second district.

Boy Murderer's Last Chance.

Trenton, Sept. 18.—Governor Fort yesterday decided that he would call a special session of the Court of Pardons on Friday, of next week, to consider the case of young Walter L. Zeller, sentenced to be electrocuted for the murder of his grandfather, at Brighton, last winter. The youth is now in prison under a reprieve, which expires on September 30. Commutation to life imprisonment is sought for Zeller, because his two young companions in the murder got off with that penalty.

Seven Years for Drugging Women.

Passaic, Sept. 18.—Seven years in State's prison was the sentence meted out to Peter Stankowitz, of Passaic, by Judge Francis Scott, yesterday for giving knockout drops to Katherine Solowensky and Mary Durac, and robbing them of $600 and $220 respectively.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

The Hippodrome enters upon its third week Monday with the three big new spectacles which have received the highest commendation from the press and public. Nothing more elaborate in the way of spectacular entertainment has ever before been provided for theatregoers. This seems to be the general opinion and the greatest indication of public interest is shown by the box office receipts which continue to exceed last year's records. "A Trip to Japan," "The Ballet of Jewels" and "Inside the Earth" are all marvels of scenic beauty and the glittering ballet led by Mlle. Albertina Rasch, the dainty little premiere from Vienna, is by no means the least attractive portion of the gigantic show. A complete circus is included in the entertainment and there are many scenic surprises including the astonishing finale when an army of silver clad men and maids march into the water and disappear from sight in most extraordinary fashion. The Hippodrome will probably have its banner season this year.

"The Bridge," the new play by Rupert Hughes, in which Harrison Grey Fiske is presenting Guy Bates Post as a star at the Majestic hTeatre, is distinctly a play of "today." It vibrates with the spirit of the new America that has arisen in the last decade—the America of endeavor and achievement. Mr. Hughes strikes an entirely new note in the ever broadening field of American drama, pointedly exposing the hollowness of class distinction in this country by glorifying the worth of men who carve for themselves noble careers without the aid of inherited wealth and position.

In the parlance of the first nighters who gathered to receive Lillian Russell in her new comedy, "The Widow's Might," in New York the past week, the consensus of opinion was that the fair Lillian wins again. Edmund Day's comedy of Wall Street which is her stellar vehicle for the present, turns out the play that permits Miss Russell to shine in new surroundings with all the charm and feminine graces that have long combined to make her an institution on the American stage. A surprising element of her new character which was particularly noticed was that the former queen of comic opera has ripened in her art as a comedienne and the fact of most note was the splendid advancement she has made in this difficult branch of art. Her development has added to her poise and charm, and withal her work in the central character of this interesting story of Cupid and the Stock Exchange was so clean cut and convincing that Miss Russell lifted the piece into success and by force of her personality and wonderful stage presence made it a decided hit.

NEW JERSEY FAIR.

New and Novel Features Will Be Introduced.

October 9 to 17, inclusive, are the dates set for the New Jersey Fair of 1909, at Olympic Park, Newark. This big event, which has now come to be recognized as one of the most interesting annual exhibitions of its sort in this section of the country, will be on a much larger and more elaborate scale this year than ever before. New and novel features will be introduced and all of the old departments will be strengthened and enlarged.

Judging from the unusually great number of applications already received for space in the exhibition buildings and for other concessions, the general display of agricultural products, industrial wares, etc., and the variety of special amusement features will bear favorable comparison with the best offerings of big fairs elswhere that have been established for years.

A special effort of the management will be to infuse life and spice into every day's program of events during the entire nine days of the fair. In conformity with this idea a series of high-class horse racing meets has been arranged for each afternoon, excepting Sunday

THE FLEET IN A FOG.

Navigation in a fog at sea is always perilous, even for single ships, but the dangers are increased a hundred fold for a fleet. Sound signals of every kind are in use, mostly by means of foghorns and sirens and also by firing guns from the flagship, the rounds and intervals between the reports being regulated by code so as to convey exact meanings to all concerned. At the same time, to prevent collisions, the first precaution taken on board every ship of a fleet is to put a fog buoy overboard the moment a fog comes on.

The buoy consists of a large cask painted red, which is attached at the stern of every ship by a rope of grass fibre, a material that floats on the surface. Each ship pays out astern a length of rope equivalent to the intervals kept between the ships of the fleet—two cables (400 yards) in close order, four cables in open order. The cask should float at the bows of the ship next astern, splashing up the water as it is towed over the waves. Station is kept throughout the fleet whatever the speed of the ships by every vessel keeping her bows close up to the splash of the fog buoy towing in the wake of her immediate leader in line.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

In the meantime the lamps in the casino had been extinguished. In the harbor the yachts stood out white and spectral. The tram for Nice shrieked down the incline toward the promontory. At the foot of the road which winds up to the palaces the car was signaled, and two women boarded. Both were veiled. They maintained a singular silence. At Villefranche they got out. The women stopped before the gates of a villa and rang the porter's bell. Once in the room above, the silence between the two women came to an end.

"Safe! I am so tired. What a night!" the elder of the two women sighed.

"What a night truly! I should like to know what it has all been about. To run through dark streets and alleys, to hide for hours, as if I were a thief or a fugitive from justice, is neither to my taste nor to my liking."

"Kitty," she began sadly, "in this world no one trusts us wholly. We must know why. Loyalty must have reasons; chivalry must have facts. You have vowed your love and loyalty a hundred times, and still when a great crisis confronts me you question, you grow angry, you complain, because my reasons are unknown to you. It was blind terror which made me run. I counted not the consequences. I shall tell you why I am lonely, why the world, bright to you, is dark. I am proud, but I shall bend my pride." With a quick movement she lifted her head high, and her eyes burned into Kitty's very heart. "I am"—

"Stop! No, no! I forbid you!" Kitty put her hands over her ears. She might gain the secret, but she knew that she would lose the heart of the woman it concerned. "I am wrong, wrong. I have promised to follow you loyally, without question. I will keep that promise. I am only angry because you would not let me speak to Mr. Hillard. He is very handsome," Kitty added thoughtfully. "He is strong too."

"Strong and cruel as a tiger. How I hate him! But thank you, Kitty; thank you. Sooner or later, if we stay together, I must tell you. The confidence will do me good." Kitty approached, and La Signorina drew her close. "I have wrought harm to no one. But on my side they will tell you that I have been terribly wronged. And all I wish is to be left alone, alone. It was cruel of me to forbid you to speak to Mr. Hillard. But I wish him to recollect me pleasantly, as a whimsical being who came into his life one night and vanished out of it in two hours."

"But supposing the memory cuts deeply," ventured Kitty. "Men fall in love with less excuse than this."

"Nonsense!" La Signorina opened the window to air the room. She lingered, musing. "You are very good to me, Kitty."

"I can't help being good to you, you strange, lovely woman, for your sake as well as for mine. Now I am going to write a letter."

La Signorina still lingered by the window.

Merrihew was pocketing currency in exchange for his gold when Hillard passed an open letter to him:

My Dear Mr. Hillard—Do not seek us. It will be useless. If Mr. Merrihew is with you, tell him that some day I will explain away the mystery. But this please make plain to him—if he insists upon searching for me he will only double my unhappiness.

KITTY KILLIGREW.

Merrihew soberly tucked the letter away. "I knew it," he said simply. "She is in some trouble or other, some tangle, and fears to drag us into it. Who left a letter here this morning?" he asked of the concierge.

"A small boy from Villefranche."

"Just my luck," said Merrihew. "I said that it would be of no use to hunt in the smaller towns. Well, we had better take the luggage back to the rooms. I am going to Villefranche."

"You will be wasting time. After what happened last night I am certain they will be gone. Let us respect their plans, hard as it may seem to you."

"But you?"

"Oh, don't bother about me. I have relegated my little romance to the garret of no account things, at least for the present," said Hillard, with an enigmatical smile. "Make up your mind—we have only twenty minutes."

"Oh, divine afflatus! And you lay down the chase so readily as this?" Merrihew was scornfully indignant.

"I would travel the breadth of the continent were I sure of meeting this woman. But she has become a will-o'-the-wisp, and I am too old and like comfort too well to pursue impossibilities."

"But why did she leave you that mask?" demanded Merrihew. "She must have meant something by that."

"True, but for the life of me I can't figure out what."

"But I don't like the idea of leaving Kitty this way without a final effort to rescue her from the clutches of this fascinating adventuress."

"I admit nothing, my boy, save that the keenness of the chase is gone. As for Kitty, she's a worldly little woman and can take good care of herself. Her letter should be sufficient."

"But it isn't. A woman's 'don't' often means 'do.' If Kitty really expects me to search for her and I do not she will never believe in me again."

"Perhaps your knowledge of women is more extensive than mine," said Hillard.

But this flattery did not appeal to Merrihew. "Bosh! There's something you haven't told me about that makes you so indifferent."

This was a shrewd guess, but Hillard had his reasons for not letting his friend see how close he had shot. "A lady? Grace of Mary, that is droll!" He could not cast this out of his thought. He floated between this phrase and Mrs. Sandford's frank defense of her girlhood friend.

"Time flies," he warned. "Which is it to be?"

"We'll go on to Venice. It would be folly for me to continue the hunt alone."

At 7 that evening they stepped out of the station in Venice—the blue twilight of Venice that curves down from the hollow heavens, softening a bit of ugliness here, accentuating a bit of loveliness there. Here Merrihew found one of his dreams come true, and his first vision of the Grand canal, with its gondolas and barges and queer little bobtailed skiffs, was never to leave him. Hillard hunted for his old gondolier, but could not find him. So he chose one Achille, No. 154. With their trunks, which they had picked up at Genoa, and small luggage in the hotel barge they had the gondola all to themselves.

Instead of following the Grand canal Achille took the short cut through the Ruga di San Giovanni and the Rio di San Polo.

Out into the Grand canal again. As they swept under the last bridge before coming out into the hotel district Hillard espied a beggar leaning over the parapet. The moonlight shone full in his face.

"Stop!" cried Hillard to Achille.

The beggar took to his heels, and when Hillard stepped out of the gondola the beggar had disappeared.

"Who was it?" asked Merrihew indifferently.

"Giovanni!"

CHAPTER XIV.

O'MALLY SUGGESTS.

IN a bedroom in one of the cheap little pensiones which shoulder one another along the Riva degli Schiaboni sat three men. All three were smoking execrable tobacco. The castaways of the American Comic Opera troupe were on the anxious seat.

"O'Mally, what's your opinion of La Signorina?" said Worth.

"What about her?"

"What do you think of her? She's not one of us; she belongs to another class, and the stage is only an incident."

"Well, I don't know what to think. I've pumped Killigrew, but she seems to be in the dark with the rest of us. That ring and the careless way she offered it as security convince me that she doesn't belong. But what a voice!"

"She is without exception one of the most beautiful women I ever saw or care to see," rejoined Worth.

Smith and O'Mally exchanged a swift, comprehensive look.

Worth rose to go to Cook's office for possible letters, but abruptly returned to announce that the two ladies had returned from Monte Carlo. The actors proceeded to the parlor and greeted the prima donna and Kitty.

"We lost," explained the latter.

"I was very foolish," said the erstwhile prima donna. "I might have known that when one is unlucky one may become still more unlucky. But I did so wish to win. I wanted to bring back enough gold to send you all to America."

"But what was to become of you?" asked Worth.

The question was not expected. "Oh, Italy is my home. I shall find a way somehow. Put me out of your thoughts entirely. But I am sorry to bring you this bitter disappointment, for it must be bitter."

"There is one thing I wish to understand thoroughly," put in Worth slowly.

"You have guaranteed our credit at this hotel. By what means?" Worth held her eye with courage.

"With my word," she answered.

"I know something of these foreign hotel managers. Words must be backed by values." Worth's eye was still steady and unwavering. "If, as I believe, you guaranteed our credit with jewels we must know."

"Is it from a sense—a misguided sense—of chivalry?" she asked, her lips suggesting a smile.

"You are evading us," went on Worth.

"You insist, then?" coldly.

"Positively insist. If you do not tell us we shall be forced to take our chances elsewhere." Worth pressed a button. A servant appeared. "The manager at once."

La Signorina dropped her veil and sat stiffly in her chair. Kitty moved uneasily. The manager appeared. He bowed.

"Madame here," began Worth, indicating La Signorina, "has guaranteed our credit at your hotel."

"Yes. Is not everything satisfactory?" asked the manager eagerly.

"What security did madame advance?"

"Security?" The manager looked at La Signorina, but she rendered him not the least assistance. "I have given my word to madame not to tell."

"Then three gentlemen shall leave. Make out our bill at once!"

The manager appealed to the lady.

"You are foolish men," spoke La Signorina. "If the manager wishes to tell you he may do so."

The manager brought forth a fat wallet and opened it. Out of this he took a flat object wrapped in tissue paper. Very tenderly he unfolded it. The treasure was a diamond pendant, worth at least $1,000.

"I was to keep this simply till madame chose to reclaim it. Nothing has been advanced against it." A new thought came into the manager's mind, and he turned slightly pale. "If it is not madame's"—

"It is mine," said La Signorina. She was very angry, but her sense of justice admitted that Worth was perfectly right. "Once more I ask you not to make me miserable by forcing this trinket back upon me. Will you do me the honor to wait till tomorrow morning?"

The three men exchanged looks.

"Till tomorrow morning, then," said Worth. The manager was glad to escape.

La Signorina raised her veil. From her girdle bag she took a letter. "This letter is from a friend I have always known. Has any one of you ever heard of the Principessa di Monte Bianca?"

Her audience leaned forward attentively as she read the letter:

My Dear—I was very glad indeed to hear from you, and I shall be only too happy to offer you the temporary assistance you desire. You will recollect that I possess a villa just outside of Florence, a mile or so north of Fiesole. The villa is furnished and kept in repair by an ancient gardener and his wife. You and your friends are welcome to occupy the Villa Ariadne as long as you please. Of course you will find all the chests, bureaus, sideboards and closets under seal, for I have not been there since the death of my father. None of the seals may be removed till I occupy the villa legally. However, the gardener and his wife have silver and linen and china, and with these you will be able to get along nicely.

LA PRINCIPESSA DI MONTE BIANCA.

"The question is, Shall we accept this offer?" She refolded the letter. "This was the plan I had in mind when we went to Monte Carlo, and a much better plan too."

"Of course we shall accept it," said Worth.

"But what's the matter with your playing the princess to the neighbors?" suggested O'Mally, his eyes laughing. "I'll be the concierge, Smith the steward and Kitty your maid."

"And I?" asked Worth.

"Oh, you can be her highness' private secretary and attend to the correspondence."

The laughter which followed this was light hearted and careless. Only La Signorina did not join the merriment. She rose with a determined air.

"Mr. O'Mally makes a very good suggestion. It will be an adventure worth recounting. I shall go as the princess. Her highness commands! Will it not be delightful?"

The manager brought forth a wallet.

Worth looked at O'Mally, who looked at Smith, who looked at Kitty; then all four looked at La Signorina.

"Are you not lightening our trials by joking?" asked Worth dubiously.

"Call it madness, if you like. I shall go as the princess."

"But the authorities! It will be prison."

"I am sufficiently armed for any event. It all depends upon your courage."

"Oh, if you take that tone," said O'Mally, coloring, "why, the thing is done. No one can call me a coward."

"I shan't desert you in a strait like this," remarked Worth quietly. "Only I think La Signorina rather cruel to force such a situation upon us when it was entirely unnecessary."

"It is agreed, then," continued La Signorina, "that tomorrow we depart for Florence as the Principessa di Monte Bianca and suit?"

* * * * * * *

It is in early morning that one should discover the Piazza San Marco. Few travelers, always excepting the Teutonic pilgrims, are up and about. The doves are hungry then, and they alight on your hands, your arms, your shoulders and even your hat. In a moment they are fluttering about you like an autumn storm of leaves, subsiding quickly.

It was such a picture Merrihew and Hillard, his guide, came upon the morning following their arrival. They had not visited it during the night. They had, with the usual impatience of men, gone directly to the Campo Santa Maria Formosa for the great reward. They had watched and waited till near midnight, but in vain.

Suddenly Hillard stopped. He gave a sharp exclamation and darted to one side to grasp the arm of a neat little woman who was buying corn. It was Bettina. But the maid refused absolutely to reveal the hiding place of her mistress, La Signorina, and Kitty.

Hillard offered her a hundred lira note ($20).

Bettina, strongly tempted, finally refused the bribe. She threatened to call the carabinieri, moreover, if Hillard followed her.

Hillard rejoined Merrihew, discouraged.

As they passed out of the quadrangle a man accosted them. It was Giovanni, with a week's growth of beard on his face, his shoes out at the toes.

"Follow me," he said softly.

He led them through tortuous streets, over canal after canal, toward the Campo San Angelo. He came to a stop before a dilapidated tenement. The three mounted the dusty, worn stairs of stone to the third landing. Giovanni opened a door and bade them enter.

Seated by the window which overlooked the little canal was a young woman. Her hands lay passively in her lap, and her head was lowered.

"You have found her!" whispered Hillard, a great pity swelling his heart.

At the sound she turned her head. Her face, thin and waxen, was still beautiful, ethereally beautiful, but without color. She was perhaps three and twenty.

"I have brought an old friend to see you," said Giovanni.

She stood up.

"We are going back to the Sabine hills, Enrichetta and I." The old man rubbed his hands joyously. "Eh, carissime?"

"Yes, father," with a faint smile.

Giovanni pushed his friends into another room, closing the door.

"I found her," he said in English, the chords in his throat standing out. "And, mother of Christ, how I have suffered! She was dancing. She had to sit at tables and drink with the men—that or the Seine. When she saw me she gave a great cry and fell. She has not been like herself, but that will pass away in time. Now she sits in silence and broods. I went to the Italian ambassador. He heard my story in full. He wrote personally to the king. Today I am free. I have had to walk from Milan almost. I had little money. That letter of credit—so you call it—is with my cousin in Sorrento."

"And the man?" Hillard could not refrain from putting this question.

Giovanni looked down. "The signor told me never to speak of that again."

"So I did," replied Hillard. "But all is changed now.

"Go back to your hills with your daughter and leave vengeance in the hands of God. Forget this man who has wronged you. Forget."

"If he does not cross my path and if she lives. I have suffered too greatly to forgive and forget. I promise not to seek him."

The old man went down to the street with them. They were so kind. He hated the thought of losing them. They waved their hands cheerily and vanished from sight. They never saw Giovanni again, yet his hand was to work out the great epoch in Hillard's destiny.

CHAPTER XV.

THE ARIA FROM "IL TROVATORE."

"SHALL we take a look into the Campo Formosa again tonight?" asked Merrihew, stepping into the gondola.

"It will be a waste of time. Bettina will have warned them. What's the Italian coming to, anyhow? She refused a hundred francs. But I can see that Mrs. Sandford had a hand in this latest event. She has probably written that we might look for them in the Campo."

"All right. We'll listen to the music," grumbled Merrihew. He wanted to find Kitty right away. Hillard's indifference annoyed him.

"To the barges of the troupes!" said Hillard to Achille.

In the great canal of San Marco the scene was like a water carnival. Hundreds of gondolas, with bobbing lights, swam slowly round the barges of the serenaders, who, for the most part, were fallen operatic stars or those who had failed to attain those dizzy heights.

What was that? Hillard was no longer lethargic.

From a gondola on the far side of the barge, standing out of the press and just beyond the radiance of the lanterns, came a voice which had a soul in it, a voice which broke into song for the pure joy of it—clear, thrilling—a voice before which the world bows down. The prima donna in the barge was clever; she stopped. The tenor went on, however, recognizing that he was playing opposite, as they say, to a great singer. Hillard's heart beat fast. That voice! There could not be another like it. And she was here in Venice!

"Quick, Achille!" for the far gondola was heading for the Grand canal.

Merrihew understood now.

"Follow!" commanded Hillard. "Ten lire if you can come up alongside that gondola. Can you see the number?"

"It is 152, signor—Pompeo. It will be a race."

At each stroke Merrihew swung forward his body. The end of the race came sooner than any one expected. A police barge nosed round an ell. By the time Pompeo was off again the ferrule of the pursuing gondola scraped past Pompeo's blade. Pompeo called, and Achille answered. There was a war of words, figure of a dog, name of a pig. Achille was in the wrong, but 10 lire were 10 lire.

Hillard caught the gondola by the rail and clung. The race was over.

"Signorina," said Pompeo, boiling with rage, "shall I call the police?"

"No, Pompeo," said his solitary passenger.

"To the Campo, Pompeo. Mr. Hillard, will you kindly follow? I would speak to you alone, since there is no escape."

The way to the Campo Formosa was made without further incident.

The gondolas became moored. Hillard jumped out and went to assist La Signorina, but she ignored his outstretched hand.

"What is it you wish?" she asked.

"One look at your face," he answered simply.

She slowly removed the veil. Then, for the first time, he looked upon the face of this woman who had burdened his dreams. The face was not like any he had conjured. It seemed to him that Vecchio's—Paola Vecchio's—Barbara had stepped down from her frame—beauty, tranquil, flawless beauty. A minute passed. He was incapable of speech; he could only look.

"Well?" she said in the same expressionless tone.

"Let us begin at the beginning," he replied.

"Since this is to be the end."

"Why did you permit me to dine with you that memorable night?"

"A regrettable impulse."

"And why, after all had come to an apparent end—why did you send me that mask?"

"It is unanswerable. Truthfully I do not know."

"Who is that man—the Italian with the scar?"

"I will not answer that."

"'A lady? Grace of Mary, that is droll!'"

"Why do you say that?"

"I am only quoting the man with the scar. Those were the words he used in regard to you."

"Perhaps he is right. Perhaps I am not a lady according to his lights." But she laughed.

"Do not laugh like that. What you are or have been or might have been to him is nothing to me. Only one fact remains clear, and that is I love you."

"No, Mr. Hillard, you are only excited. I may be a fugitive from the law."

"I do not believe it."

"There may be scars which do not show," she faltered—"in the heart, in the mind. I am sorry, terribly sorry. Heaven knows that I meant no harm. Forget me!"

"Forget you! Tell me what prevents friendship between us."

"You say you love me. Is that not answer enough? Give up all idea, all thought, of me. You will only waste your time. Come, is your love strong enough to offer a single sacrifice?"

"Not if it is to give you up. Oh, do not worry about persecution! I shall only seek to be near you."

"Good night," she said, "and good-by!" She wound the veil round her face, took half a dozen steps, halted and turned, then went on into the dark.

* * * * * * *

The Villa Ariadne rested upon a small knoll half a mile or more north of and above Fiesole, from which the panoramic beauty of Florence was to be seen at all times, glistening in the sun, glowing in the rain, sparkling in the night.

Life ran smoothly enough at the Villa Ariadne. La Signorina at the very last moment surrendered to the entreaties of Kitty. She agreed not to pass herself off as the princess. Among themselves each played the role originally assigned. La Signorina seemed to enjoy the farce as much as any one. It was a great temptation not to steal a look into the marvelous chests and sideboards, bulging as they knew with priceless glass and silver and linen and laces. But La Signorina each day inspected the seals and uttered solemn warnings.

They had now lived in the Villa Ariadne for two weeks, a careless, thoughtless, happy go lucky family.

Today was warm and mellow. On the stone bench by the porter's lodge hard by the gate sat the old Florentine and O'Mally. From some unknown source O'Mally had produced a concierge's hat and coat, a little moth eaten, a little tarnished, but serviceable.

"Pietro," said O'Mally, "I've got an idea. If any tourists come today I propose to show them around the place."

Pietro's eyes flashed angrily. "No, no! Mine, all mine!"

"Oh, I am not going to rob you! I'll give you the tip. What I want is the fun of the thing."

(To be Continued.)

"So you want the privilege of voting for people of whom you approve?"

"No," answered the suffragette. "I desire the satisfaction of publicly refusing to vote for people whom I don't like."—Washington Star.

BOWLING.

The Raritan team handed the Armrights a surprise package at Campbell's alleys on Thursday night when they walked away with all three games.

Pat Connolly was pressed into service in Thursday night's match, and rolled in good form.

It is more than probable that another match will be arranged with the victors of Thursday night for some night next week. The locals are more than anxious to get back.

Charley Matthews, of the Raritan team, got working on a string of strikes in the second game and rolled up a total of 255, which was high score of the night.

Entries for the individual tourney to be held at Campbell's alleys, will close on Monday night. Matthews and Schaub are the latest to send in their entry.

FOOTBALL.

The Liberty Athletic club, Inc., of Elizabeth, would like to arrange games with all football teams averaging 160 pounds, actual weight, who can put up a first class exhibition. Games to be played Sundays and holidays in an enclosed field at Elizabeth. A substantial guarantee will be paid all first-class teams. Communicate with F. Brugger, assistant manager, Liberty Athletic Club, Inc., 459 Franklin street, Elizabeth, advising actual weight of team, guarantee desired and all open dates.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Robert Love, superintendent of the West End Tabernacle and Percy W. Cannon, the blind chair caner, will make addresses at the New Market Baptist church, tomorrow morning.

The Sunday-school of the Temple Baptist church will resume its afternoon session tomorrow, the hour being 2:45 o'clock. Preparations are being made to inaugurate the graded system on October 3.

The Christian Endeavor society of Trinity Reformed church will meet tomorrow night at 6:45. The topic will be "From the Pilgrims' Progress series, "Vanity Fair," and Cornelius F. Schenck will be the leader.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor, at the morning service at All Souls' church, Park avenue, tomorrow morning, will preach on the subject, "English Impressions." The Sunday school will re-open at 12 o'clock noon.

"The Birthday Social" of the Primary Union will be held at the home of Mrs. Williams, 319 East Sixth street, Monday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. The members are requested to bring work and dime for refreshments.

Hugh Fawcett will conduct the meeting at the Rescue Mission tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Monday night the mission will celebrate the first anniversary of the conversion of John C. Hall. Several pastors of the city will be present and there will be special music.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey will preach at Warren chapel tomorrow morning and night, and Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The morning topic will be "The Christian's Breaking Strength." In the evening the Boys' Brigade will attend the service in a body.

The Right Rev. William George McCloskey, Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Kentucky, and the oldest Catholic Bishop in the United States, both in years and in point of continuous service, died yesterday of ailments incident to old age at Louisville, Kentucky. The Bishop was in his eighty-sixth year. He had been the head of the Kentucky Diocese for forty-one years, and was honored and loved by Catholics and Protestants alike. For some time the Bishop had been in feeble health.

Chicken Acts Like a Monkey.

A monkey headed chicken which laps water and shows signs of teeth in its jaws is being exhibited by Elmer E. Smith, of South Orange. The fowl is a white pullet with a body of normal shape. There is no indication of a comb, and in addition there are no gills or beak. There is, however, a perfectly formed mouth and nostrils, and the ears are distinct, standing out from the head like those of a human. Although handicapped by an absence of claws the bird is not unable to scratch, and it is a persistent searcher after worms. It has but once claw on each foot.

Insufficient Acquaintance.

An Italian applying for naturalization before Judge Adrain in the Common Pleas Court at New Brunswick yesterday was asked:

"Do you know the Constitution?"

"Yes," he replied.

"What do you think of it?"

"Oh, he very good fellow."

The application was refused.

Miss Amy L. Case, of West Fifth street, is spending three weeks with relatives at Flemington.

Mrs. Benjamin O. Doane, of Sandford avenue, has gone to Liberty, N. Y., for the benefit of her health.

Miss Florence Howarth, of Yonkers, N. Y., is visiting her cousin, Miss Avis Aldrich, of Sherman avenue.

David J. Carney, of Lincoln place, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Haynes at their Lake Hopatcong cottage.

Mrs. Eva C. Laing, of Washington, D. C., is visiting at the home of her cousin, Mrs. A. L. Force, of Duer street.

Letter-carrier and Mrs. Frank W. Bailey, of Duer street, are spending a few days with relatives at Cherryville, Hunterdon county.

A bridge whist party was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Charles Nash. Cards were played and refreshments served on the piazza.

Dr. and Mrs. George Megargee, of Willow avenue, who have been spending the past three weeks at the Chalfonte Hotel, Atlantic City, have returned home.

Alexander Milne, who has the contract for erecting F. E. Smith's new house on Central avenue, has the cellar dug and the first floor beams up and the work is being pushed rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Christopher and son, William H. Christopher, Jr., and Miss Caroline Brophy, a sister of Mrs. Christopher, all of New York city, who have been occupying the Saunders' house on Westervelt avenue for the summer, will return on Wednesday to their New York home in the Hotel San Remo, 75th street and Central Park west.

SUCCESS IS ASSURED TO HALF-PAY PLAN.

Hospital Collection Next Saturday Will Undoubtedly Be Large—Committee Very Hopeful.

Another enthusiastic meeting of the Hospital Half-Pay day committee was held last night at headquarters, 68 Broad street, Elizabeth. Alfred A. Stein, chairman of the committee, reported that Mayor Herman, of Roosevelt, had assured him that the borough would give its support to the project.

D. F. Hennessey, chairman of the committee on banners, reported that large signs had been hung at Broad and West Grand streets, in Union square and First and East Jersey streets, and that additional banners advertising the event would be sent to Rahway and other suburbs. A banner will be placed at the intersection of Morris and Westfield avenue next week.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Ryan, Cissel, Connolly, Mahor and Hennessey was appointed to attend the meeting in Cranford next Monday night. It will be held in the township rooms.

It was decided to have the captains and lieutenants meet at the City Hall next Thursday night for final instructions as to procedure on the following Saturday—the date of the collections. About 129 captains and lieutenants expect to be present.

Buttons for the contributors, as well as the large family envelopes, will be distributed on Monday night. Bank clerks will be asked to be present at the conclusion of the collections to count the money. Messrs. Black and Willett were appointed to arrange this matter. The money from each ward will be placed in bags.

Progress was reported in Kenilworth.

E. H. Karr, who leaves Elizabeth for the West until the winter, was thanked for his work in behalf of the half-pay-day movement.

NEWARK DETECTIVES FREED.

Sentence Suspended in Atlantic City Riot Case.

Atlantic City, Sept. 18.—After a trial lasting all afternoon and evening Frank Jerecke and William A. Blazier, Newark detectives imported by the prosecutor to raid gambling houses here, were convicted of disorderly conduct in connection with the small riot at the foot of South Carolina avenue.

But because Recorder Keffer said he felt that the detectives had fired their revolvers with no intention of doing bodily harm to anyone, although a young woman had been accidentally shot, he suspended sentence and discharged the prisoners.

REV. MR. FINN RESIGNS

Park Ave. Church Pastor to Relinquish Charge on October 17.

GOES TO ROCHESTER, PENN.

Since Coming Here Five Years Ago He Has Placed Church on Firm Financial Basis —His Work.

Rev. A. E. Finn, who has been pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church since January 3, 1905, has tendered his resignation to accept the call to become pastor of the First Baptist church, of Rochester, Pa.

Mr. Finn's resignation was read to his congregation by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, who exchanged pulpits yesterday morning for the express purpose. While a few members of the congregation had an inkling of the resignation the majority did not; and there was a general expression of the sincerest regret. Mr. Finn will begin his new work at Rochester on October 24.

When Mr. Finn came from the Baptist church of Cherryville, Hunterdon county, to become the pastor of the local church, on January 3, 1904, there was a floating and mortgage debt of nearly $12,000. This has been reduced to $5,000. A new steam heating plant has been installed at a cost of $1,000, a new carpet laid, the building thoroughly overhauled and painted outside, acoustic difficulties overcome, a fine property opposite the church secured as a parsonage, missionary offerings largely increased to foreign missions, about 200 per cent., and 119 members have been added to the church.

Mr. Finn's resignation follows:

"It has been our privilege and pleasure under the guiding providence of our Father to be associated in Christian work for five years and nine months, during which time we have had the privilege of witnessing many marked evidences of the divine favor. Courtesy and kindness have been akin to that love so wonderfully described in the thirteenth chapter of first Corinthians. Your loyalty and devotion to the word of God and the Church of Jesus Christ has been a stimulus to my minstry. The manner in which you have responded to every plan that I have developed for the prosperity of this vineyard has brought joy to my heart. In view of all these things I find it difficult to say what must be said—A very hearty and unanimous call has come to me from another field, a field that presents a large opportunity for Christian work.

"The call appeals to me as a call from God and bears with it the necessity of severing my relationship with you as pastor. Believe me, I have not taken this step without weeks of prayer and meditation on the subject and I feel that it is God's will that I should go and work in another field. It is always a joy to listen to the voice of God and to follow His leading, but in doing so very frequently painful seperations must be endured. I am both sad and sorry to leave the work in which I have been so happy but God's call seems clear and distinct and His call I must obey. I therefore tender my resignation as pastor of this church to take effect on the 17 of October. May the richest mercies and favors of God continue to abide with this church and with each member of it is the prayer of your sincere friend and pastor."

Preached an Excellent Sermon.

Royal A. Stout, of Rutgers Theological Seminary, stated supply in charge of the recently erected Netherwood Reformed church on Leland avenue, exchanged with Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning. The young man took for his subject "The Power of the Cross," and his text from Cor. 1: 18. His interpretation of the text was clear and convincing and Mr. Stout was warmly congratulated at the close of the service and many expressed a desire to hear him again.

Funeral of Mrs. L. W. Milliken.

The funeral services of Mrs. Louise Ward Milliken, wife of Foster Milliken, formerly of this city, who died at Lake Placid, on Friday, were held this afternoon at the residence of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Jas. W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery. Mrs. Milliken, whose husband was for many years the head of the firm of Milliken Brothers, formerly lived here. She spent her early life at Syracuse, N. Y.

PATRICK REGAN SLUGGED

Turbulent Boroughite Found Helpless in Ditch After Fight with Peter Wilson.

HAD THREE RIBS FRACTURED.

Frank McGunning Accused of Helping Wilson—Both Men Released Under $200 Bail.

Patrick Regan, of Harrison street, North Plainfield, is in the Muhlenberg Hospital today, with three broken ribs and a badly bruised face and body, and Peter Wilson is out under $200 bail as a result of their fight on Saturday night on Greenbrook road near Somerset street. Marshal Pope was sent to the scene of the fight by Marshal Weiss, who was told by one of the neighbors that a man was laying in the ditch and looked as though he were dead.

Pope found Regan with his face badly cut and evidently in great pain in a ditch on Greebrook road. He hailed a passing carriage and took the injured man to the borough police station. Here he was attended by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, who sent him to the hospital.

Wilson, in the meantime had given himself up to the police. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Snape on the charge of felonious assault and released under $200 bail. Regan had accused Frank McGunning, brother-in-law of Wilson, of helping to beat him. The police got him. He was araigned before the justice shortly after Wilson on the some charge. He also was released on $200 bail.

The story Wilson tells is, that Regan had been speaking ill of his wife ever since she appeared against him as a witness in the borough police court. He met her yesterday afternoon, Wilson claims, and made some insulting remarks. When he got home she told him about them and he decided that he would have to stop it. He says that he then went out to remonstrate with Regan, but when he attempted to talk to him, that Regan insulted him and said that he could take care of a dozen men like him. Regan then made a pass at him, said Wilson, and he naturally hit him back. He denies that McGunning interfered in the fight. The doctors at the hospital say that Regan will not be out for at least three weeks.

COST OF RELIEF FOR WHITE PLAGUE PATIENTS

The following communication was received today from Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, secretary of the Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis:

Editor, The Daily Press:

"Will you kindly allow me to correct a statement made in your issue of Friday, September 17, to the effect that cost of maintaining the new tuberculosis pavilion, now in process of construction at Muhlenberg Hospital, would be $1,000 per month.

"Provision has been made for the treatment of only eight patients, and at this rate the weekly cost of maintenance would be over $30 for each patient. In looking over the reports of other institutions devoted exclusively to the treatment of tuberculosis, we find that the average cost per patient varies from seven to ten dollars per week.

By using the executive forces already in charge of Muhlenberg Hospital, to administer the new tuberculosis pavilion, a considerable element of expense will be eliminated; and $250 per month ought to more than cover the entire cost of maintenance.

Other cities are taking active measures in caring for the victims of the Great White Plague, and Plainfield cannot afford to neglect its own unfortunates. The new building will be ready for occupancy early in October, and the success or failure of the work will depend entirely upon public interest and public generosity.

"We believe that the management will be wise and economical, and to correct any misapprehension—particularly in regard to the cost of maintenance—we ask you to kindly make this correction.

"Yours very truly.

"B. vanD. HEDGES.

"Secretary Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis."

Superintendents of W. C. T. U.

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. last Thursday two new superintendents were appointed: Mrs. W. J. Hamilton for the Mothers' Meeting, and Mrs. Henry Thomas for the Loyal Temperance Legion. The other eight departments will retain the same superintendents as last year.

WAGON UPSET; HIP BROKEN

Mrs. W. J. Case, of Binghamton, Thrown from Runabout —Taken to Hospital.

STRUCK BY TROLLEY CAR.

Mr. Case Escapes Injury—Accident at Park Avenue and Fourth Street—Trolley Crew Not Held.

An accident which nearly cost the life of Mrs. W. J. Case, of Leicestershire, a suburb of Binghamton, N. Y., occurred shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday night at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street. Mrs. Case with her husband was driving a runabout up Park avenue and as they crossed Fourth street trolley car No. 109, in charge of Motorman Casenose and Conductor W. W. Drake, ran into the runabout spilling both the occupants out. In the fall to the pavement Mrs. Case sustained a fracture of the hip and contusions of the body.

The injured woman is about sixty years old and the shock will materialy retard her recovery. Dr. Currie, who was called attended Mrs. Case and had her taken to Muhlenberg Hospital. Mr. Case, although thrown to the ground sustained no injuries beyond a shaking up and was able to accompany his wife as far as the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Case were here on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. B. Carpenter, of Oak Tree, and had been on a shopping trip to the city. They were on their way home when the accident happened. The trolley crew were not arrested. Casenose claims that his car was moving very slowly at the time of the accident and that the driver of the horse was responsible for the accident as he did not heed the warning bell when sounded.

The car had just begun to move after allowing some ten or twelve passengers to alight at the corner of Park avenue. The rear wheel on the right side of the runabout was pushed up so as to tip the wagon over throwing the two old people out. Dr. Currie said yesterday afternoon that barring complications which are not expected Mrs. Case would recover.

PAUL THE TRAVELLER AND MAKER OF HISTORY

At the Congregational church yesterday morning, Rev. C. L. Goodrich preached before a large congregation. He chose as his subject "Paul as a Traveler." He compared the journeys of Paul to those of the modern travelers, contrasting his methods of travel with the modern methods, his aim with those of the present day tourist, making his discourse not only elevating but instructive and interesting.

The hardships that Paul endured in his journeys to Antioch, Asia Minor, Macedonia, Greece and Rome, from Jerusalem, on foot with the occasional aid of a donkey and the long tiresome and hazardous trips on the water in small sailing boats were described. If he had kept a diary, Mr. Goodrich said, it has been lost as so many books which we would prize so highly have been. As it is, he said we have to be satisfied with the scanty notes furnished us by Luke.

The motives of those making long journeys today, pleasure, study and business, were placed beside that of Paul, to work not for hs own pleasure nor profit, but to help other men and to accomplish the mission given him by his Master.

But, he said, there are still some travelers journeying for the same purpose that Paul did, the missionaries.

Another difference is, it was shown, that Paul went about making history while ordinary tourists are reviewing it. To such an extent did he make history that in following history, the travelers interest in his life surpasses even that aroused by the dramas of Shakespeare or the wars, and relics of the middle ages. And, where Paul spread the seed some took root and grew. It became the foundation for the great European church and Christianity, the English church and Christianity and the American and Anglo-Saxon Christianity with its enlightment and progress. Yet, whatever great future these mighty institutions may have they will owe much of it to Paul.

MISS FLORENCE R. HILL VICTIM OF NEURASTHENIA

Miss Florence Rosamond Hill, aged 25 years, daughter of Mrs. Mary Barber Hill, of 58 Westervelt avenue, died Saturday night at her home following an illness of about a week. Death was due to nervous prostration and a complication of other troubles. Miss Hill was born in Elmira, N. Y., and had been a resident of Plainfield about seventeen years.

During the past six years she was the private secretary for Augustus J. Brunson, president of the First National Bank, and she always applied herself very closely to the difficult work. During the summer she was granted a two weeks' vacation and this seemed to benefit her, but a week ago she was taken suddenly ill and failed to rally.

Miss Hill was a communicant of Grace church and a member of the Sunday-school, being a faithful attendant at the services. She is survived by a mother, a sister, Miss Juliet Hill and a brother, Oliver B. Hill, all of this city. The funeral service will be held from the home tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and the burial will be at Hillside cemetery.

JOSEPH MILANI'S STORE ROBBED BY CLEVER RUSE

A bold robbery was committed at 11 o'clock this morning in the store recently opened by Joseph Milani on West Front street, next to C. M. Nagle's pharmacy. Mrs. Milani was alone in the store at the time, when a stranger walked in. He pretended to be a health officer and invited the woman to the rear of the building to call her attention to a supposed violation of health rules.

During the absence of the woman, two men, said to be companions of the stranger, entered the store and got away with about $35 or $40, together with some valuable papers. When Mrs. Milani returned she discovered her loss, but the stranger had also disappeared. The police were notified and are now endeavoring to locate the men.

Appeal for Systematic Giving.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, occupied the pulpit at the Netherwood Reformed church yesterday morning, and following his discourse made an appeal to the congregation for regular systematic giving by the envelope system for the support of the church. There was a liberal response and two-thirds of the amount needed was pledged. A committee was named to make a canvass of the community and complete the work of securing the balance needed for the regular support of the church.

Will Be Toastmaster.

Robert Clark, Jr., will be the toastmaster at the banquet of the Dutch Arms in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church next Friday night.

SUICIDE OF AMOS MUNDY; HANGED HIMSELF SATURDAY

Amos Mundy, of Springdale, was found hanging dead in a building on which he had been working in Bound Brook this morning, by some of the other carpenters engaged on the job. Mundy had been working on the building for some time past, but did not work last week, and his actions during the last few days gave the impression that he was laboring under some trouble which he is not known to have confided to anyone.

The body was discovered hanging to the rafters of the new building and was immediately cut down, but life had been extinct for many hours. It is believed that Mundy waited until the workmen had quit on Saturday and then entered the place and hung himself. It is thought that he was despondent over financial matters and fearing further trouble decided to take the shortest cut to oblivion. The body was taken this morning to Edgerton's morgue at Bound Brook. Mundy leaves a widow and had no children.

CELESTIAL BOOZE FIGHTER CREATS DISTURBANCE

Lewis Voy, a celestial with a love for whiskey, got into the toils Saturday night when after drinking several glasses of his favorite substitute for rice wine he sought a couch on the sidewalk on Madison avenue near Front street. He was gathered in by Patrolman Payne and was dead to the world when placed in a cell at police headquarters. This morning when arraigned before City Judge Runyon, Voy through an interpreter said that he knew nothing about what he had done. It transpired, though, that on awakening in his cell during the night he became frantic at his unusual surroundings and tore up the bedclothing and otherwise created a disturbance.

Patrolman Payne said this morning that the chinaman was so drunk that he wanted a barber to shave off his queue, but had to be satisfied with just an ordinary shave. Through the interpreter Voy told the court that some boys had blown a powder into his face which he inhaled and which must have been full of dope as it made him drunk. It was learned, however, that he had absorbed no less than four full glasses of whiskey within ten minutes at a local saloon. He was allowed to go. Voy was the second chinaman ever arrested in this city.

Has Not Withdrawn from Race.

Dirk de Hass, of Watchung, who recently announced himself as a candidate for freeholder on the Democratic ticket in opposition to Freeholder William Demler, denies the rumor that he has withdrawn. He says that he is in the fight to a finish and if he is defeated for the nomination on the Democratic ticket, he will run on an independent ticket.

TELLS OF ENGLAND'S WAR PREPARATIONS

Rev. A. C. Nickerson Says That England is Today a Vast Camp Getting Ready for Military Service.

CONFLICT WITH GERMANY.

Well Informed Englishmen, He Says, Believe That a Struggle Is Inevitable but Not for Conquest and Rule.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church delivered an address to his congregation yesterday morning which was remarkable for several things. He said that England is a vast camp; her people feeding every day on the possibility of war; Germany's attitude being the immediate cause of the nervous feeling of the Britons. Her schools are becoming more and more military schools and compulsory military service in the "tight little isle" is not a remote possibility.

There was a large congregation present to hear Dr. Nickerson and many complimentary things were said about the address. In fact there are those who think that the publication of "English Impressions" will entertain not only those personally acquainted with the pastor of All Souls, but will prove interesting reading to the country at large.

Dr. Nickerson's impressions of the political situation and the dreaded German invasion, will be found below. His impressions of rural England will appead in a separate article tomorrow.

"This is not the land of peace that it seems! Everywhere there is fear of armed conflict and nervous preparation for war! Behind the landscape which everywhere greets your senses with a sort of satisfying caress, is another atmosphere. England is a vast camp! Her people feed every day on the possibility of war. Even the youths in the schools are encouraged and urged to form themselves into companies called 'boy scouts.' Already there are two hundred thousand of them, and they are advised to familiarize themselves with army tictics. Compulsory service, like Germany's for every young man is more than hinted at, being strongly urged by English military leaders. I do not think that will come, however, as England becomes more democratic every day. But the colonies are called upon, almost feverishly to send liberal contingents of men to swell the ranks of the home army, while Dreadnaughts are being laid down as fast as Parliamentary appropriations or Colonial gifts will provide for them. And continuously, Germany sets a faster pace and builds a yet bigger ship. Every new material move across the North Sea sends shivers of apprehension down the British spine.

"As you talk with well informed and well placed people you find that they share the general dread of Germany. They will tell you that there is no doubt of Germany's intention ultimately to force a struggle for supremacy upon England. They tell you that England is mapped out on German plans; that every place of importance in England is already assigned to some man or men for study, observation and ultimate occupation. They do not think that Germany contemplates the conquest and ruling of England, or even any long holding of strategic positions there, but rather that Germany craves a victory that England may not cramp her in her plans for expansion. They speak of the great increase of population in Germany. Of her need for more land for her people, and of her resolute determination to take it where she wills. So viewed, England's resolve to protect herself from attack cannot for a moment be condemned. But what a pity it is that the strain and stress of life in England should be mostly martial, now in the 'piping' times of peace, when all over the world there is so pronounced an effort to give effect Christianity's primal teaching by the promotion of amity among all nations.

"If her situation is indeed perilous then England is indeed unfortunate, for never in any country has there been any greater need of conserving

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Commencing with last night, Rev. A. E. Shattuck, pastor of the Congregational church of Bound Brook, will conduct a series of lectures in his church on "Messages for Man from Events in Biblical History." His topic for last night was "The Price of Entrance Into a New Life."

Mrs. John Garretson, of East Millstone, is spending several days at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter S. Clark, in East Second street, Bound Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. James McNabb, of Lincoln, Neb., who spent several weeks with relatives in this place and vicinity, returned to their home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caul are entertaining A. A. Byrnes, of Dublin, Ireland, at their home, in West Franklin street, Bound Brook.

W. H. Murphy, of West High street, Bound Brook, is visiting at the home of his grandson, Harry H. Murphy, at Flushing, L. I.

Mrs. Robert Class and daughter, Miss Charlotte Class, and Miss Lizzie Hagerty, of Morristown, are visiting friends in Bound Brook.

The Misses Helen and Marion Manning, of Philadelphia, are spending a few days with friends in Bound Brook and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Foreman are entertaining Mrs. E. B. Wade, of Reading, Pa., at their home in New Bound Brook.

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Harney at their home, in Raritan avenue, New Bound Brook.

Hugh Garland, of Jersey City, is spending several days with friends in Bound Brook and vicinity.

Mrs. Hannah Suyday, of Flemington, is spending several days with friends in Bound Brook.

Mrs. Charles Smith is seriously ill at her home in East Union avenue, Bound Brook.

Miss Violet Durn, of Church street, Bound Brook, is visiting friends at Flanders.

WESTFIELD.

There is an enrollment of 1,174 in the Westfield schools, and all the children of school age are not yet registered. Present indications are that the enrollment this term will reach 1,500. Many of the classrooms are overcrowded at this time, and though a large new schoolhouse has just been completed, another will be necessary next year.

Large crowds continue to visit the property of the New York Suburban Land Company at Garwood-Westfield. Representatives of the company say that over $3,000,000 worth of lots have been sold. Especially attractive seems to be land along the Central Railroad.

Mrs. Dr. Sherman Cooper and Miss Anna Cooper moved to New York yesterday, where they will make their home in the future. They have been lifelong residents of the town.

The home of Dr. Appleton Morgan on Washington street is under quarantine on account of a case of scarlet fever.

Councilman Malsbury, whose term in the Council will expire this fall, refuses to be a candidate again.

RARITAN.

Petitions for nominations have been filed with Township Clerk Peter C. Van Nuys, of Somerville, for the following offices in Bridgewater Township: Freeholder, George V. Siebold (Dem.) H. D. Dilts, (Rep.); collector, W. H. H. Wyckoff (Rep.), assessor, John Slattery (Dem.), Q. D. Dalley (Rep.); clerk, William Vosseller (Rep.); committeeman, Charles F. Smith (Dem.).

Mrs. Frank Seaman and mother, Mrs. George Greenwood, of Newburg, N. Y., have been visiting Mrs. R. W. Hoagland at Frankfort.

Miss Anna Van Camp, of South Branch, has returned from a two weeks' stay at New Hope and Trenton.

Miss Lottie Lane, of Montague, is visiting Mrs. P. A. Vroom, of Stone street.

Mrs. E. G. Smith, of Grandview avenue, has returned from a visit at Phillipsburg.

Mrs. B. J. Beach, of Rockview avenue, who has been spending the summer at Framingham, Mass., has returned.

FALL OPENING

It were as futile to attempt to paint the lily or tint the azure sky as to endeavor to adequately describe here the glories of this our Fall Opening and Festival of Fashions. Suffice it to say you owe to yourself to come and see just what is to be worn this season and how well we have bought for you from the fashion centres of the world all that is modish and chic, and yet priced all so reasonably as to make the acquisition by you both pleasant and profitable. We urge you to be our guests.

A Festival of Fashions

The coming season will be noted for its great diversity of styles. Capes and wraps cut full have a wonderful run. The Fall demands will be for the two-piece tailored suit, though a great many dresses will be used of the fancy dressmaker variety and also a great number of tailor made dresses. The jersey dresses look good and the later models improved by the application of a trimming of moire braid or contrasting checks of plaids. The pleated skirt, that is the yoke top, will be good, though later the yoke will reach much lower, having a flounce as short as twelve inches. In the more dressy or higher class costumes will be seen the elaborate three-piece models or rather the dress with coat to match, some with round and others with slight train skirts; richly embroidered, in all cases hipless, semi-fitting. Dresses are with belt at waistline (no more Empire) or the Moyenage. Materials worsteds, broadcloths, serges, prunellas. Late models of capes such as "Hudson-Fulton," the "Claremont," the "Half-Moon," the "Grace La Rue" are the vogue. Dark and delicate colors are both selling. The staple two-piece or tailored suits are shown with the long coat, as long as fifty inches, lined to match.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Because of ill-health John T. Whitaker has resigned as keeper of the Cape May County Almshouse.

An application has been made to the Cape May County Court for a hotel license at Dennisville, which has done without a licensed place for twenty-four years.

Charged by George Code with brutally beating and then stabbing him because he followed them, Miss Stella Ottinger and Charles Munyon were arrested at Millville.

Elwood S. Adams, of Glassboro, has been appointed superintendent of the Odd Fellows' Home at Trenton, and his wife will be matron of the same institution. They will take charge today.

Leroy Mortimer, of 2962 Thompson street, Camden, employed as a leverman at the Pavonia tower of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was badly cut on the head while burning brush on the East Side Gun Club grounds. Mortimer threw a bottle of powder into the fire and an explosion followed.

Edward Bannon, arrested several times by Atlantic City police on charges of intoxication, surprised City Judge Keffer by thanking that official for a thirty-day sentence in the county jail. "I'm better off in jail than out, judge," declared Bannon, who insisted that he was happy while in prison and away from the temptation of liquor.

Camden city councilmen held a special session Friday night, and by a unanimous vote decided to reject all propositions from private sources for an increased water supply. The principal proposition was from the South Jersey Water Company. Council adopted a resolution that any improvement or increase in the water supply of the city would be brought about by the municipality and with its own capital.

One hundred and fifty children, boys and girls, after school hours, in Beverly, Thursday, chased Nina Metcalf, a colored girl, for six squares, crying "Lynch her!" threatening to do her bodily harm and throwing stones at her. Finally, in a fainting condition, she took refuge in the house of a colored family and the male occupants of the house had to forcibly eject the pursuers from the premises. At the noon hour the Metcalf girl struck a white girl on the nose, causing the blood to flow freely, and this nearly caused a genuine race riot.

Alimony of $4 a week and counsel fee of $15 has been allowed by Vice-Chancellor Leaming in Camden to Mrs. Wilbert S. Howey in her suit against her husband, the order to remain in force until Howey establishes a suitable home for his wife. Howey, who was charged with desertion, informed the vice-chancellor that he was ready to supply his wife with a home at once at Bridgeport, at which place he is station agent for the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad. Taking the stand as the last witness, Miss Clara Coombs denied allegations by Howey that she had influenced his wife to absent herself from home or that Mrs. Howey cared more for her society than for that of her husband. She stated that she never had had any differences with Howey, and that she did not know he was hostile toward her until after he and his wife parted.

RAILROAD PLANS TO EXTEND ITS TRACKS.

Officials of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Railroad and members of the Morristown Township Committee held a meeting in Speedwell avenue Saturday afternoon, and later went over the lake road on which the railroad company desires to extend its tracks. The company plans to change the grade of the road about six feet, and wants permission of the Township Committee.

With the line extended to Speedwell avenue, it will connect with the new trolley and be easy of access for Morristown people. Stages now run from the park to the railroad station, which is two miles from the centre of the town. It was declared by an official that in the event of the railroad getting a good entry into Morristown, the roadbed would be improved and the railroad would have direct connections to Philadelphia.

LODGE SURRENDERS CHARTER.

Mizpah Lodge of Odd Fellows, of Red Bank, one of the oldest orders of three linkers in this part of New Jersey, has surrendered its charter to the grand lodge and thus goes out of existence as a lodge.

Originally the order had its headquarters in Oceanport, where most of its members resided. Subsequently large accessions to membership from Eatontown and surrounding territory led to its removal to Eatontown, where it has met for several years past. During recent years the membership gradually declined and interest in the lodge waned generally. Some of the members joined the Odd Fellows in neighboring towns, and finally the officers found it difficult to keep the old lodge on its feet.

Rasmus P. Miller, of Oceanport, district deputy grand master and a member of Mizpah Lodge, was appealed to, and he advised the surrendering of its charter. Miller and other members of the lodge have joined Navesink Lodge, No. 39, of Red Bank.

Autumn Opening Exhibit

A Superb Style Show That Thousands Will Enjoy.

Opening Days

Tuesday, Sept. 21, Wednesday, Sept. 22, Thursday, Sept. 23.

THIS WEEK the store will throw off its holiday garb and put on its new Fall Dress, and thruout this great establishment Autumn tints will predominate. Newark has never seen, and will not see in any other store, an assemblage of beautiful coats and garments such as we will present beginning on Tuesday and continuing thruout the Fall season.

For three days we will make a Formal Opening Show of Millinery, Suits, Dresses, Waists and other Apparel for Women, Misses and Children, as well as of Men's and Boys' Clothing. At the same time we will make a colossal show of Dress Fabrics in Silk, Wool and Cotton, and the exquisite Garnitures and Laces that will go to beautify the Fall and Winter costumes.

The Millinery Show will, as usual, be an elaborate one, presenting an immense variety of hats, many of them direct Paris importations, many more copies of French and London creations, and still more the productions of our own workroom, of which we are just as proud as any hats we get from elsewhere.

The Costume Exhibit will this year be more pretentious than ever, and a surprisingly large variety of charming gowns for both street and evening wear will be shown. This display will be of peculiar interest, not only to those who expect to select their suits and dresses here, but to those contemplating making their own gowns, for the examples of tailoring and dressmaking we will display will convey every good Fall fashion that has the approval of the powers that be in fashion circles. Nowhere can ideas be so freely gleaned, for nowhere will there be such a variety of suits and dresses shown.

Suits and Dresses for Misses and Girls will be given greater display space than ever. An especial attraction will be many beautiful Party Dresses for big and little girls.

Charming Waists will be shown in such variety as to almost bewilder you. Few stores devote nearly so much space as we do to the show and sale of waists; therefore few stores can present so many styles to you for selection. Our stock embraces every fashionable feature; many of the waists are exclusive with us—can be seen nowhere else.

Coats will be seen in a tremendous variety of styles in this Autumn exhibit, many of the models being exclusive with us—copies of rare foreign models, modified to suit the American woman; and with the coats many charming capes will be seen.

Furs and Fur Garments never had a better representation than they will have in this opening, for we were never so well prepared far in advance of the season as we were this year, and the opening will mark the beginning of the time when this store, more than ever, will be the real headquarters for everything made of fur. All over the store there will be opening shows of decided interest and of educational value.

We Invite the People of New Jersey to Attend.

CADY MEANS TO WAGE BATTLE WITH MACHINE.

Since filing his petition for the Republican nomination for member of Assembly from Union county, Schuyler M. Cady, of Summit, has been busily engaged in seeking support of his candidacy. Although the Union county Republican machine has named Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth; Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, and Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield, as Assembly candidates, Mr. Cady believes he will be able to make the contest interesting for the machine candidates on the day of the primary.

The local Republican Club has indorsed Mr. Cady's candidacy, and, it is said, a number of the local Republican leaders are lending a helping hand in securing votes for him throughout the county.

Mr. Cady is the son of Freeholder John N. Cady and is but twenty-seven years of age, and is a member of a law firm, with offices in Newark and Summit. After graduating from the Summit Academy in 1888 he entered Princeton University, from which he graduated in 1902 with the degree of A. B. During the winters of 1903 and 1904 Mr. Cady taught in the Princeton High School, and in 1905 he obtained the degree of M. A. from Princeton University. Mr. Cady is a graduate of the New York Law School, from which he secured the degree of LL. D. He was admitted to the bar in this State in 1906 after having served a law clerkship in the office of Hood and Hood, in Newark.

Besides being a director of the Young Men's Christian Association of Summit, Mr. Cady is treasurer of the Highland Club, treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. Athletic Association and a member of the Chemical Engine Company. He was manager of the Y. M. C. A. baseball team in the season of 1908. Last winter Mr. Cady wrote a four-act comedy drama, entitled "Julius Caesar," which was presented by the members of the Young Men's Christian Association twice for the benefit of the association baseball team.

REHEARING DENIED TROLLEY CERTIORARI.

The application of William Abell for a rehearing of certiorari proceedings seeking to restrain the Morris County Traction Company from continuing its construction of the Morris Plains line, has been refused by the court. As a result the work of stringing the trolley wire from Five Corners to the Morris Plains Station will be pushed with all speed possible.

It is expected that the line from Morristown to Morris Plains Station will be in operation in about a week. The connection with the Dover and Lake Hopatcong section is expected to be completed before December.

In his original application for certiorari Mr. Abell maintained that the act under which the line was being built was unconstitutional. The court upheld the trolley company, and Abell's request for a rehearing was on the ground that he had discovered new evidence.

MRS. LUCY M. TITSWORTH DIES AT ALFRED, N. Y.

Mrs. Lucy Morgan Titsworth, widow of Abel F. Titsworth, died yesterday at Alfred, N. Y., where she was staying with her daughter, Mrs. Frank L. Green. Mrs. Morgan was 68 years old and had resided in New Market for many years. She was a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of New Market.

She leaves three children, Mrs. David L. Green, of Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. Frank L. Green, of Alfred, N. Y., and Charles M. Titsworth, of Plainfield.

Her death was the result of a long illness, the immediate cause being paralysis. Her body will be brought to Plainfield, where the funeral will be held from the residence of L. T. Titsworth, 452 West Fifth street, Tuesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Henry N. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of New Market. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

Charles K. Moore a Suicide.

Charles K. Moore, who committed suicide at his home, 307 Columbus avenue, New York, last week, by drinking a vial of cyanide of potassium, was a former resident of this city, and was prominent here in the construction of the local water supply system, being one of the engineers. He was a great-grandnephew of Robert Fulton, and following his death Coroner Acritelli made public a letter written by Mr. Moore on that subject. Mr. Moore's wife is an invalid living at Eagle Rock. He also leaves a son, James Moore. Mr. Moore had a host of friends here.

ST. GEORGE'S DEFEAT P. A. F. C. AGGREGATION

The plainfield Association Football club deefated the St. George's, of Elizabeth, on the Clinton avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon by the score of 2 to 1, in one of the best games ever witnessed here. There was a large crowd present to see the contest. The game started with the visitors rushing down field and making a try at the goal, but they failed and after a little play in centre field, Plainfield rushed the visitors' goal, and in a fine scrimmage, a goal was secured.

The visitors pressed hard, but the local team held them well in hand, until a scrimmage at Plainfield's goal resulted in a point for the visitors. The local boys at this time put considerable strength into their play and a nice cross shot was caught by Sutton and put right through. Half time was called with the home team up 2 to 1.

On resuming play, both teams got busy and some great play was witnessed. A little feeling crept into the game, and hampered the players some, as the best football could not be played with rough tactics in force. Later on the play steadied up a bit and both teams tried hard to secure a point. Time was called with the same score, Plainfield 2, St. George's 1.

The Plainfield team was congratulated on its victory and special mention cannot be made of any one member of the team, as each put up a fine game, which the visitors had been so determined to win. The line-up:

Plainfield—McNiece, F. Craig and Gould, Buckland, Henderson and J. Craig; Sutton and Dawson; Hosie, Brayben and Spalding.

St. George's—Welsh, Marsden and N. Reilly; B. Reilly, Moore and Fleming; Shelton and Bann; Pearson, Stead and Holden. Referee, J. Donaldson.

P. C. C. WOMEN IN CHAMPIONSHIP TOURNEY

The women's tennis tournament for the club championship was started at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday morning. The scores in the preliminary round were as follows: Miss E. Burke beat Mrs. C. B. Tyler, 6-4, 6-4; Miss Campbell beat Miss Ashwell, 6-2, 6-2; Miss Watson beat Mrs. Daniel Runkle, 6-4, 6-4; Miss Alice Titus beat Miss Cruikshank, 6-4, 8-6.

First round: Miss Wallbridge beat Miss Wharton, 6-4, 6-4; Miss B. Burke beat Miss Edna Wildey, by default; Miss Sarah Schuyler beat Miss Andrews, 6-3, 6-1; Miss Campbell beat Miss uBrke, 6-3, 6-4; Miss Watson beat Miss Alice Titus, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4; Miss Fleming beat Miss G. Burke, 6-2, 6-0; Miss E. Goddard beat Miss Kathryn Titus, 6-1, 7-5; Miss Timpson beat Miss McQuaid, 6-2, 6-1.

Second round: Miss B. Burke beat Miss Wallbridge, 4-6, 6-1, 11-9; Miss Schuyler beat Miss Campbell, 6-2, 6-4; Miss Goddard beat Miss Timpson, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3. This afternoon Miss Watson will play Miss Fleming and Miss Schuyler will meet Miss Burke.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL OPENS 425 CHILDREN REGISTERED.

The new Washington School opened today. The principal, Miss Margaret Humpston, was ready with her teachers to register the pupils and classify them as quickly as possible. They received 425 pupils today and a few more are expected tomorrow.

The opening was postponed until today because of the delay in getting the desks and finishing the rooms. The workmen are still busy, but Miss Humpston expects them to finish up in a few days.

B. C. Firstbrook Injures Knee.

Bertram C. Firstbrook is detained at his home on Liberty street, the result of an accident to his knee. He tripped over a wire on West Second street a day or two ago, fell on the knee and severely bruising it. It was first feared that the injury might result in water on the knee, but Dr. A. F. VanHorn, who is in attendance, does not anticipate any serious consequences.

Suffered Stroke in Theatre.

Mrs. Sarah Alpaugh, of 251 East Third street, suffered a slight appoplectic stroke while enjoying the show at Proctor's theatre Saturday night. She was carried to the women's retiring room of the theatre whence she was taken to her home in a carriage. Dr. Frank W. Cornwell attended Mrs. Alpaugh and said this morning that his patient was considerably improved.

Charles Sorkiage Injured.

Charles Sorkiage, aged 24 years, of New Market, employed as a laborer for the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company at Bound Brook, suffered a painful injury to his shoulder, Saturday afternoon, dislocating it. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where he is improving. He has no relatives in this country.

Miss Alvina Giberson, of Atlantic City, is visiting Mrs. C. E. Fincke, of South avenue.

REV. A. C. NICKERSON'S TALK

the national resources for the relief of the necessitous. And as keen anticipation of any event is generally conceded to be a psychological means of bringing the event to pass, the keyed up nervousness of the dominant classes is hardly like to lessen any friction that may chance between the British and their German cousins. To prepare for war is to court it; to view individual or nation suspiciously is to directly cultivate misunderstandings. Out of prejudices great crops of ill feeling grow!

"And the English people are also greatly stirred by social strife in their midst. To attend to it they would better heed the Kaiser's declaration this past summer, that the rivalry between the respective nations is wholly industrial, thus applying themselves to the activities wherein their supremacy is endangered if not already disputed. Indeed they might find a sedative for overtaxed nerves in a page of our recent history, wherein we refused to be driven into a clash with Japan by bullying newspapers and persons whose trade it is to thrive on international disasters."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Joseph M. Gaites will offer at the Plainfield theatre on Thursday the musical comedy success, "The Three Twins," which had a run of five months at the Herald Square Theatre, New York. "Three Twins" received the universal press endorsements on its opening in New York which stamps it as a high class attraction, and Mr. Ashton Stevens of the New York Journal said: "'Three Twins' is a credit to Broadway." There are more novelties in "Three Twins" than in all the other musical comedies combined. "The Dancing Yama Yama Chairs," the wonderful faceograph, and the gigantic electric aerial swing. Mr. Gaites has spared no expense in costuming this attraction and the gowns are said to be the handsomest in America. The music is the most fascinating ever written, and the musical numbers are elaborately staged. The "Cuddle up a Little Closer, Lovey Mine," showing the seven ages of cuddling is the most pathetic stage picture ever produced.

Mr. Daniel Ryan in L'Habitant, supported by an exceptional company is the announcement for the Plainfield theatre for Tuesday night. Mr. Ryan is well and favorably remembered here by many who saw him play some years ago. His work of late is placing him in the foremost rank of American actors. In "L'Habitant" it is said he has the vehicle of his career and the fact that the play deals with fascinating French-Canadian life makes the appeal all the stronger.

TRINITY SUNDAY SCHOOL HAS RECORD ATTENDANCE

The rally day exercises held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church, was notable for the fact that it marked the largest attendance in the history of the school, there being 475 members present. Superintendent F. E. Smith took occasion to compliment the school on the fine showing. The next highest attendance was 433 on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the school.

During the exercises, Rev. John Y. Broek, the pastor, made an excellent address full of interest to the school. There was special music, E. D. Young assisting Miss Lillian A. Force, pianist, with the cornet, and Miss Eliza Dufford singing a solo. A feature was the roll call by classes, the response showing the number enrolled and present. There were nine perfect classss.

Henry Seader, president of the Sunday-school Missionary Society, reminded the school of its missionary pledge in support of its own missionary, explaining how it could be met during the year.

Funeral of Albert E. Hall.

The funeral of Albert E. Hall was held from the late residence, 715 Plainfield avenue, yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which Mr. Hall was a memberfi officiating. The theme of his address was "Sleeping," and his words were impressive. The pallbearers were Theodore Mantz, Geo. Mantz, William F. Oliver, Milan and Howard Hall, sons of the departed, and John Courter. The burial was in the Methodist cemetery.

George Fetter Drowned.

George Fetter, aged 25 years, of Bound Brook, well-known as a Forester and member of the Bound Brook fire department, was drowned in the Raritan river Saturday afternoon. He was fishing with a companion, Fred Halhaus, neither of whom could swim. The latter was engaged in throwing the anchor out, when Fetter lost his balance, fell in the river and drowned. Marshal Gregory recovered the body an hour later and the corner gave a burial permit.

Patrick Traynor Breaks His Leg.

Patrick Traynor, aged 45 years, of Oxford place, employed in the city street department, in charge of City Engineer A. J. Gavett, met with an accident on Jackson avenue, in the Netherwood section, this morning, breaking his leg. He was engaged at work in a ditch, when a pile of dirt fell down, completely burying the lower part of the body. Fellow-workmen removed Traynor and he was taken to the hospital, where he will be detained for sometime.

Entertain Mr. and Mrs. David.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter David, of New York, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue, yesterday, and during the day enjoyed an automobile trip to Bernardsville, through Duke's place and the surrounding country. Mrs. David is well-known as a talented harpist, and her husband is also well-known as a humorist and monologuist, both having appeared here on several occasions at entertainments.

Fined $8 for Fighting.

A three cornered fight in which two Brittons, one colored and the other white, had its airing in the city court before City Judge William Runyon this morning with the result that Edward Britton, the white man, was fined eight dollars. Eugene Britton, colored, got a suspended sentence. James Babbitt, a special cop was a witness of the fray and told the court that the colored man was not to blame for the scrap.

Henry Bodenheimer in Court.

Henry Bodenheimer, 49 years old, a cement worker living at 251 Somerset street, was arrested last night by Marshal Weiss on the complaint of his wife. He was intoxicated and making a nuisance of himself around the house. He was arraigned in the borough police court before Recorder Dolliver, this morning, who suspended sentence on his promise not to repeat his performance.

Auto 'Buses Collide.

One of the auto 'buses of the Plainfield Auto 'Bus Company came into collision with another automobile 'bus at the corner of Park avenue and Front street yesterday. Fortunately for all concerned the two vehicles were moving slowly and no one was injured. Neither of the 'buses suffered any injury.

Reception for Miss Serrell.

Miss Minnie B. Serrell, of Union street, was tendered an informal reception on Friday afternoon by Mrs. T. A. Berckner, at her home in Riverdale on the Hudson. The illuminated and cut leather work and stencilled scarfs exhibited by Miss Serrell were greatly admired by those present.

The Home department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school will hold a cake sale Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in the lecture room of the church. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the sick and flower fund.

The South Plainfield A. C. defeated the married men by 9 to 0.

NEW BRUNSWICK EASY FOR PLAINFIELD GOLFERS

The chief event of interest at the Plainfield Country club, Saturday was a team match between the home club and the New Brunswick Golf club players. The Plainfield team won the game easily by a score of 23 to 2. Not once during the play was there any doubt as to the result. Stuart H. Patterson was the only Plainfielder to lose his match, his opponent, J. W. Letson finishing 2 up.

Morris J. Dumont had an easy time of it with his opponent, J. C. Meyer, being 10 up at the end of the match. Some of the matches were very close, J. Whitney Baker, A. L. Wills and G. E. Cathcart being all even. The summary:

Plainfield—J. Whitney Baker, 0; W. Lester Glenney, 2; C. B. Morgan, 4; A. L. Wills, 0; G. E. Cathcart, 0; HHenry D. Hibbard, 1; S. M. Patterson, 0; R. G. Morse, 6; Morris J. Dumont, 10; total, 23.

New Brunswick—T. L. Smith, 0; M. A. Wilson, 0; R. S. Smith, 0; A. Kirkpatrick, 0; C. A. McCormick, 0; C. T. Letson, 0; J. W. Letson, 2; E. Morris, 0; J. C. Meyer, 0; total, 2.

There was also the weekly competition for the Fall Handicap cups, Classes A and B. The best scores were as follows:

Class A—Morris J. Dumont, 85, 10-75; C. B. Morgan, 84, 8-76; E. P. Goodwin, 95, 14-81.

Class B—G. E. Cathcart, 89, 16-73; H. F. Fox, 99, 24-75; E. J. Patterson, 101, 25-76; Dr. F. E. DuBois, 104, 27-77; R. G. Morse, 90, 13-77; C. C. Burke, 97, 19-78; H. D. Hibbard, 91, 9-82.

KENWOOD CLUB SHOWED BIG YELLOW STREAK

The Crescent Oval hoodoo was working well again Saturday afternoon and made itself felt with a jolt in the first half of the sixth inning of the ball game between the Kenwoods of Newark, and the local Y. M. C. A. team. Dalton, the second batsmen up for Kenwood in that inning in attempting to bunt the ball on his second strike bent too far forward, the ball striking him in the abdomen. He at once made for the initial sack only to be called out by Umpire Payne. Thereat the whole thing was off so far as the Kenwood's manager was concerned. He would not listen to reason and refused to resume play when directed to do so by the umpire.

After giving the irate manager five minutes in which to put his team back on the field Mr. Payne called the game forfeited to the Y. M. C. A. by 9 to 0. The prevailing opinion was that Umpire Payne's decision was right and that the Kenwood's manager had shown a decidedly yellow streak. Kenwood was in the lead by 1 to 0 and they had everything to gain by continuing to play. Slocum, who pitched for the locals, was pitching a fine game when the break came, only two hits having been registered off his delivery in the five innings.

Beatty, the rival mound artist, had the local boys guessing with a spit ball that mowed them down in one, two, three order. However, the locals might have won in the end. Umpire Payne was congratulated on his fairness throughout the contest and it was too bad that the game could not have gone on to a conclusion.

Surprise for Mrs. Duderstadt.

Mrs. Hugo Duderstadt, of Mount Bethel, was surprised by a company of fifty of her friends Saturday night it being her fifty-fourth birthday. Friends were present from New York, Baltimore, Albany and other cities and a pleasant evening was spent by all. Mrs. Duderstadt was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts. A feature of the refreshment table was a huge cake containing fifty-four lighted candles. Music was furnished by Professor Whitman and Miss Angster.

William Buchanan Missing.

William Buchanan, aged seventy, of Roselle Park, has been reported missing by his family. When last seen Saturday morning Mr. Buchanan wore a pair of overalis and a soft felt hat. This is the only description of the man that has been given to the local police.

THE LOST COIN.
Missing or lost, last Sunday night,
A Waterloo coin, whereon was traced
The inscription "COURAGE" in letters bright,
Though a little by rust of years defaced.

Is begg'd to state all facts about it,
As the owner can't well face his foes,
Nor even his friends, just now, without it.

METEORIC CAREER OF GENERAL WOOD.

On the second day of June Major-General Leonard Wood became the ranking officer of the army of the United States. Eleven years ago he was a practising army surgeon, being then 38 years of age. No other army in the world, it has been said, ever made a doctor into the highest of its generals. General Wood is a record-breaker. Not only that, but his rapid rise stands for a new army policy—the policy of promoting by selection instead of promotion by routine. He believes in the new policy for others as well as for himself. Here is the way he has put the argument: "Take a class of 100 young men who are graduated in law or medicine. Ten of them, perhaps, will be extraordinarily successful, ten will make a great success, ten others will be fairly successful, and so on down the line until you come to the fellows who are just getting on. Why should young men in the army be different? Men are alike, and the young men in the army resemble the rest in their quality and the degrees of their attainments. Why should the best and most capable be held down to the level of those who just get on, who merely do enough to hold their commissions by a system of promotion by seniority? It robs the army of incentive. Competition spurs on men, in or out of the army." That argument has not convinced all the politicians in Washington nor all the generals over whose heads Leonard Wood has been jumped; but it seems to have convinced President McKinley and President Roosevelt and President Taft. In General Wood, therefore, behold not only a conquering hero but a conquering policy.—Current Literature.

HOW SOME ACTORS EXERCISE.

To his life out-of-doors, his care in "deep breathing," and his frequent fishing trips, the late Joseph Jefferson attributed his ability to keep pace with the strain that acting imposed upon him in his later years before the public, says Outing. One of his favorite remarks to his theatrical friends was: "If an actor wants to have his innings on the stage he must look out for his outings."

Almost all of the leading performers of today have schedules of daily outdoor exercise mapped out to which they adhere closely, even during the height of the winter theatrical season. William Gillette, to overcome his chronic nervousness, walks five miles every afternoon. On matinee days he indulges in his walk after a late breakfast. Miss Frances Starr and Miss Blanche Bates take daily horseback rides. John Drew plays "squash;" James K. Hackett, who possessed considerable lacrosse prowess while at college, pulls weights in a gymnasium; Robert Edeson, known in the profession as the "muscle mad" actor, drives an automobile at least twenty miles a day, and E. H. Sothern spends an hour with the foils.

Frank McIntyre spends an hour and a half daily in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium; H. B. Warner boxes at the New York Athletic Club and follows it up with a swim in the tank; Robert Mantell does "setting-up" exercises out of doors for half an hour, and William Faversham has recently forsaken his bicycle for driving.

Miss Maude Adams rides a horse to keep herself in physical trim. Mme. Alla Nazimova and Miss Julia Marlowe allow themselves two hours a day for play in the open air. Henry Miller personally looks after his farm, "Sky Meadows," near Stamford, Conn., when he commutes to the theatre four out of the six theatre days when he is playing in New York. While on the road he takes short jogs in the country. Miss Mabel Taliaferro, while playing in the East, spends much of her daytime on her husband's yacht, and Miss Gertrude Cohlan alternates between long motor rides and golfing.

George M. Cohan, it is interesting to note, has composed a number of his lyrics while taking automobile rides to Manhattan Beach. Miss Louise Gunning rides cross-country in New Rochelle. Miss Billie Burke spends every available minute in her touring automobile. Each one of the leading players, in fact, does something daily during the playing season to better his or her physical condition.

MILKING COWS BY MACHINERY.

It has been found that if Bossy is young and doesn't know any better she will submit very gracefully to being milked by machinery, but if she is an old-timer—well, the old-time method of extracting her milk is the safest and surest. Moreover, if there are two or three cows in a herd that have been milked by hand and all the rest are subjected to the machine, it isn't long until the manners of the entire outfit are upset and the average of the herd irretrievably lowered.

In 1908 an experiment with ten two-year-old heifers was begun which will extend over a number of years. These animals have never been milked by hand, so the performance will be entirely controlled by the milkers. So far two lactation records by heifers have been obtained by machine milking which compare favorably with other two-year-old records. These heifers seem to give down their milk quite freely and are less inclined to hold it up than are cows which have been accustomed to hand milking several years before machine milking is begun.—Van Norden Magazine.

A Wreath.

A flat wreath and bands of sequined net figure among the alternative decorations of a simple kind, suitable for taking away with the holiday luggage, and there are pretty conceits in velvet ornaments also. One of them is a triple fillet of inch-wide velvet ribbon, studded with constellations in flashing crystal tubes, destined to be worn, the first band just above the brow, the second over the crown of the head, and the third above the nape of the neck, as a support to the curls or chignon.

Can't Jump Out Now.

Yeast—Do you remember that nervous little dog of your neighbors?

Crimsonbeak—Yes, I used to think sometimes he'd jump out of his skin.

"And you don't think so now?"

"Oh, no. He's in sausages now."—Yonkers Statesman.

Successful Furnace Fires

PATENTED

makes tending the furnace easy, but best of all it makes a joyous fire. Round fire pots burn strongly through the center with a rim of half dead clinkers at the edge and when you shake the fire the middle drops out. You've noticed it. Fires built in BOYNTON Square Pots are all live coals. A shake down is an even shake. The whole fire settles. There is no waste. The fuel being equal, a square pot will develop almost twice the heat, or the same heat for about half. The square pot is our patent and can be had only in the BOYNTON furnaces. We have a dealer in your town. He will be glad to show you.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between George W. Marsh, complainant, and John K. Van Ness et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale at public vendue on

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the Sheriff's office, in the City of Elizabeth, New Jersey, all those tracts or parcels of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey:

First Tract—Beginning at a point in the middle of Front street, in the City of Plainfield, at the intersection of lands formerly owned by Samuel C. M. Allen, and corner of lands of Franklin Wiley; running south forty-four degrees and twenty-one minutes (44 degrees 21 minutes) east a distance of fourteen hundred and thirteen and eighty-seven hundredths (1413.87) feet to a point on the northwesterly side of Midway; thence south forty-six degrees and thirteen minutes (46 degrees 13 minutes) west a distance of seven hundred and ninety-six and five hundredths (796.05) feet to a point; thence north forty-four degrees and twenty-one minutes (44 degrees 21 minutes) west a distance of twelve hundred and ninety-five and fifty-eight hundredths (1295.58) feet to a point in the centre of Front street aforesaid; thence along the centre of said Front street north thirty-seven degrees and forty-five minutes (37 degrees 45 minutes) east a distance of eight hundred and three and ninety-eight hundredths (803.98) feet to the point of beginning. Containing, in all twenty-four and one-half (24½) acres, more or less.

Second Tract—Beginning at a stone in the middle of Front street and corner of lands belonging to Mulford Cole; thence (1) south along said Cole's land forty-six degrees east nineteen chains and thirty-eight links to a stone for a corner in the line of lands of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; thence (2) north forty degrees east five chains and fifteen links to a stone for a corner; thence (3) along the line of other lands of said Cole north forty-six degrees west nineteen chains and sixty-three links to a stone in the middle of the aforesaid Front street; thence (4) along the middle of said Front street south thirty-seven degrees west five chains and thirteen links to the place of beginning. Containing ten acres of land, more or less.

Said first tract was conveyed to said Van Ness by deed of Samuel C. M. Allen and wife, dated December 27, 1890, and recorded in book 225 of deeds for said county, on pages 344, etc. The second tract was conveyed to said Van Ness by deed of Robert L. Harrison, dated April 20, 1891, and not yet recorded.

Excepting, however, that portion thereof released by the said John R. Marsh by release dated June 23, 1889, and recorded in book 12 of releases of mortgages for Union county, on pages 86, etc., being a strip eighty (80) feet wide for the purpose of opening a public street and over which to operate a street railway; beginning at a point in the centre line of the proposed extension of East Second street in the land between the properties of John K. Van Ness and Elias Cole; thence running in a magnetic course of north forty-four degrees and two minutes east a distance of eleven hundred and thirty-two and eight-tenths (1132.8) feet to a stake in the line of property owned by Mary J. McCrea.

The foregoing tracts of land will be sold in lots or parcels in accordance with the order of said Court of Chancery.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Margaret L. Cadmus, complainant, and Sophie F. Bowe et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that certain tract or parcel of land situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, County of Union and State of New Jersey, and described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the middle of South avenue and corner of land now or late belonging to the Rev. Benjamin F. Cory; thence with that line southeasterly a distance of two hundred and sixty-three and three-tenths (263.3) feet, more or less, to property belonging to Edward Willis; thence with his line and parallel with South avenue northeasterly sixty-five (65) feet to property sold by said Edward Willis to Margaret K. Mann by deed recorded in book 167 of deeds for Union county, on pages 478, etc.; thence with that line northwesterly a distance of two hundred and sixty-three and three-tenths (263.3) feet to the centre of South avenue; thence along the centre of South avenue southwesterly sixty-five (65) feet to the beginning.

Being the same premises this day conveyed to the party of the first part by deed of Susan Du Bois Johnstone, and this mortgage is given to secure a part of the consideration money paid therefor, and is to be a first mortgage thereon.

to him the receipts he could conduct the tourists as often as he pleased.

They shared a flask of wine.

The porter's bell rang loudly.

"Tourists!" whispered O'Mally. He settled his cap on straight and went to the gates. A party of five Americans stood outside—two men, two women and a girl.

"This is the Villa Ariadne?" asked one of the women.

"It is," said O'Mally, touching his cap.

"He speaks English!" cried the woman, turning joyfully to the others. "We wish to see the villa and the park."

"The villa is now occupied, signora," replied O'Mally, "but you are permitted to see the park and gardens."

"How much?" asked one of the men.

"Cinquanty," said O'Mally, then correcting himself, "for each person."

"Ten cents? Two lire fifty? Why, this is downright extortion!" declared the woman.

O'Mally gave vent to a perfect Italian shrug and put a hand out suggestively toward the gates.

"Oh, come, dear," protested one of the men wearily, "you've dragged us up here from Fiesole, and I'm not going back without seeing what's to be seen!"

Solemnly Pietro watched them pass, wondering what the terms were. O'Mally led the party to the fountain.

"This," O'Mally began, with a careless wave of the hand, "is the famous fountain by Donatello. It was originally owned by Catherine d'Medissy. The Borgias stole it from her, and Italy and France nearly came to war over it."

"The Borgias?" doubtfully. "Were these two families contemporaneous?"

"They were," scornfully.

The quintet consulted their guidebooks, but before they had located the paragraph referring to this work O'Mally was cunningly leading them away. He passed on to the antique marbles, explaining how this one was Nero's, that one Caligula's, that one Tiberius'. He lied so gracefully that the tomb of Ananias must have rocked.

"Do you know," said the woman, who had not yet spoken, "you speak English with an accent I do not understand."

O'Mally shivered. Was she going to spring dago on him? "I am an Italian," he said solemnly. "I was born, however, in County Clare. My father and mother were immigrants to Ireland."

"Ma," whispered the girl, "ask him for one of those buttons."

The stage whisper was overheard by O'Mally. "These buttons," he explained, "cost a lira each, but if the signorina really wishes one"— And thus another lira swelled the profits of the day.

At the gates O'Mally received his pourboire (tip) of 20 centesimi and returned to Pietro.

"Quando!" he cried.

O'Mally handed him the exact amount, minus the lira for the button.

"Santa Maria! All thees? How? No more I take dem! You!"

O'Mally sat down on the bench and laughed. It was as good a part as he had ever had.

Early evening. La Signorina leaned over the terrace wall, her hand idly trailing over the soft cool roses. Stretched out on either hand, white and shadowy, lay the great road. She was dreaming. Presently upon the silence came the echo of galloping horses. Two horsemen came cantering toward the Villa Ariadne. She heard their voices.

"Jack, this has been the trip of my life. Verona, Padua, Bologna and now Florence! This is life. Nothing like it."

"It has been enjoyable, Dan. I only hope our luggage will be at the hotel."

La Signorina's hand closed convulsively over a rose and crushed it.

"A last canter to Fiesole!"

The two went clattering down the road.

La Signorina walked slowly back to the villa. It was fatality that this man should again cross her path.

CHAPTER XVI.

KITTY DROPS A BANDBOX.

"WHAT'S the matter, Jack? Whenever you smoke your cigar goes out. You read a newspaper by staring over the top of it. You leave your watch under the pillow and have to hike back for it. You are absent-minded. Now, what's the matter?"

Hillard sighed heavily.

"There you go again!" laughed Merrihew. "You tack that sigh to everything you say.

Hillard was human. He might be deeply in love, but this had not destroyed his healthy sense of humor, so he laughed at himself.

"It's a curious business—the dinner, the mask, the veil, the mystery," went on Merrihew. "I tell you frankly, Jack, something's wrong, and we shall both live to find it out."

"But what? Heaven on earth, what? Haven't I tried to figure it out till my brain aches? I haven't gone forward a single inch."

"What shall you do?"

"Nothing. When we have seen Florence we'll drop down to Perugia and Rome, then up to the Italian lakes, after that home, if you say."

Hillard looked at his watch.

"Only 9," he said. "Let's go over to Gambrinus' and hear the music."

The Hotel Italie was but a few blocks from the Piazza Vittorio Emanuele. They found the Halle crowded, noisy and interesting. From the Halle they went downstairs and through the billiard room. Under the arcade they found a small table. Presently two officers, one in the resplendent uniform of a colonel, went past. Hillard's pulse was tuned to a quicker stroke.

"I hope he doesn't see us," he said, tipping his panama over his eyes.

Merrihew scowled fiercely.

"So long as he doesn't observe us," said Hillard, "I have no interest in his affairs." Had he none? he wondered.

"He is coming this way again, Dan."

Hillard changed his mind. He pushed back his hat. If the man with the scar saw him and spoke he would reply. The colonel, glancing at the pair, halted. He turned and spoke to his brother officer. The man with the scar stepped over to the table and leaned with his hands upon it. There was a savage humor in his dark eyes.

"Did I not tell you that we should meet again?" he said to Hillard.

"Are you speaking to me?" asked Hillard. Every muscle in his body was alert and ready.

"Certainly I am speaking to you. This is the fellow," speaking to his companion, at the same time drawing off his gloves.

"I object to the word fellow," said Hillard. "Besides, I don't know you."

"Ah, discreet!" sneered the man with the scar.

"Colonel!" cried the subaltern as his senior smoothed the gloves and placed them carefully in his left hand.

"Oh, I am calm! But I have been dreaming of this moment. Now!" The colonel readdressed Hillard. "You meddled with an affair that night in which you had no concern."

"Are you quite sure?"

"Yes, I am sure. And yet as I think it over, as I recollect the woman," went on the colonel, with a smile which was evil and insinuating. "In Monte Carlo I was practically alone. Here it is Florence. Doubtless you will understand." He struck out with the gloves.

But they never touched Hillard's face. His hand caught the assailant's wrist and with a quick jerk brought him halfway across the table. The Italian cried faintly. Hillard spoke tensely:

"Listen carefully, signor. I understand perfectly, but I shall fight no duel. It is an obsolete fashion. A blackguard I know you to be. If you ever address me again I promise to give you a whipping which will have a lasting effect upon your future actions. If that will not serve I shall appeal to the police."

Through the crowd the ever present carabinieri shouldered their way. The colonel motioned them to stand back, which they did with a sign of respect. This sign gave Hillard some food for thought. His antagonist was evidently a personage of some importance.

Hillard laughed.

The scar was livid on the Italian's cheek. His companion laid a restraining hand on his arm. He nodded, and the two made off. Merrihew was for going back to the hotel. Hillard agreed.

Hillard spoke tensely.

"I wanted you to give him a good stiff punch," said Merrihew.

"We should have slept in the lockup overnight if I had. If our friend is left handed he'll be inconvenienced for a day or two. I put some force into that grip. You see, Dan, the Italian still fights his duels. It would have been a fine joke if I had been fool enough to accept his challenge. He would have put daylight through me at the first stroke."

"Did you notice how respectful the carabinieri were?"

"It set me thinking. Oh, I've a premonition that we haven't seen the last of this distinguished gentleman!"

After luncheon the next day they were entering the Via Tornabuoni when a young woman came out of a little millinery shop. Immediately Hillard stepped to one side of her and Merrihew to the other.

"You cannot run away this time, Kitty Killigrew!" cried Merrihew joyously.

* * * * * * * *

In the Villa Ariadne the wonderful fountain by Donatello was encircled by a deep basin in which many generations of goldfish swam about. Forming a kind of triangle about the basin were three ancient marble benches such as the amiable old Roman senators were wont to lounge upon during the heat of the afternoon. A maiden sat on one of these benches, her arms thrown out on either side of the crumbling back, her chin lowered and her eyes thoughtful.

Merrihew stole up from behind with all the care of a practiced hunter. Then he put his hands over her eyes. She struggled for a brief moment, then desisted.

"It is no puzzle at all," she declared. "I can smell horse, horse and again horse. Mr. Merrihew"—

"Yes. I should have fetched along a sachet powder. I remember but one thing, Kitty, and that's you." He sat down beside her. "There's no doubt that I reek of the animal. But the real question is, How much longer are you going to keep me dangling on the string? I've been coming up here for ten days now."

She had dressed expressly for this moment, but Merrihew was not going to be told so.

"But am I to be blamed if, after having refused twice to marry you, you still persist?" Kitty assumed a judicial air.

"But you haven't refused me this time."

"Because I wish to make it as easy as possible for you." Which of the two meanings she offered him was lost upon Merrihew.

"Come, let us be sensible for ten minutes."

Merrihew laid his watch on the bench beside him.

Kitty laughed rollickingly, for beneath her furbelows and ribbons and trinkets she was inordinately happy and light of heart. Her letter had come. She was only waiting for the day of sailing.

Merrihew reached out and caught her hand.

"Oh, I said let us be sensible for ten minutes!" she demurred.

"Kitty, will you marry me?"

"Could you take care of me?"

"I'll work."

"Oh, if you were only rich!"

"You don't mean that, Kitty."

"No," relenting, "I don't. But you bother me."

"All right. This will be the last time. Will you marry me? I will do all a man can to make you happy. I love you with all my heart. I know. You're afraid. You've an idea that I am fickle. But not this time, Kitty; not this time. Will you?"

Then without further hesitance, indifferent to the future or the past, conscious only of the vast happiness of the present, Kitty laid her hand in his. He would have drawn her into his arms had not they both seen O'Mally pushing through the box hedge, followed by some belated tourists. Merrihew swore softly, and Kitty laughed.

On the terrace the tea table dazzled the eye with its spotless linen, its blue canton and its bundle of pink roses. Hillard extended his cup for a second filling. La Signorina vaguely wondered where Kitty was. She needed Kitty at this moment.

How inexplicable were the currents and cross currents of life! She had met a thousand men handsomer, more brilliant. They had not awakened more than normal interest. And yet this man, quiet, humorous, ordinarily good looking, aroused in her heart discord and penetrated the barriers to the guarded sentiment. Why? Always this query.

She gathered up a handful of the roses and pressed them against her face, breathing deeply.

"If I were a poet, which I am not"—He paused irresolutely.

"You would extemporize on the beauty of the perspective," she supplemented. "How the"—

"I was thinking of your hair," he interrupted. "I have never seen anything quite like it."

She had recourse to the roses again.

"You have not told me the real reason why you sang under my window that night."

"Have I not? Well, then, there can be no harm in telling you that. I had just signed the contract to sing with the American Comic Opera company in Europe. I saw the world at my feet, for it would be false modesty to deny that I have a voice. More disillusions. The world is not at my feet," lightly.

"Will you answer a single question?"

"I can make no promise."

"Is there another man?"

Silence, which grew and lengthened.

"What do you mean?" she asked evenly.

"In Venice you told me that there was a barrier. I ask now if this barrier be a man."

"Yes."

A wrinkle of pain passed over his heart. "If you love him"—

SCOTCH PLAINS DEFEATS HUNTERDON'S CHAMPS

The Scotch Plains ball team had no trouble in defeating Flemington, the Hunterdon county champions, at Flemington, Saturday, the score being 8 to 3. Morganroth, who was in the box for the home team, was pounded for fourteen hits and the support back of him was anything but encouraging to a pitcher.

MONROE A.C. LOSES TO BOROUGH'S A.C.

The Monroe A. C. was defeated by the North Plainfield A. C. Saturday afternoon, on the former's grounds by a score of 11 to 7, in an interesting contest. The features of the contest were McClinton's fielding and batting and the hard hitting of Hallard and Trotter. Apgar's errors were costly to the Monroe A. C., as several runs were scored on fumbles.

MIXED DOUBLES AT P.G.C. PROVE EXCITING

The tennis tournament, mixed doubles, at the Park Golf club, Saturday, aroused considerable interest in the sport and the play was close and exciting throughout. The revival of interest in tennis at the club has resulted in increasing the membership to a large extent.

In the preliminary round, Saturday, Miss Hope Miller and Rev. George A. Warner defeated Miss Anna L. Runyon and Charles B. Morse, 6-2, 6-0; and Miss Louise Fuller and Starr Burdick defeated Walter C. McNaughton and Miss Florence Martin, 6-4, 7-5.

The result of the first round was as follows:

Miss Miller and Rev. G. A. Warner, defeated Miss Harriett Shreve and Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 6-0, 6-0; Miss Newman and Rev. C. L. Goodrich defeated Rev. L. R. Howard and Miss Grace TenEyck, 6-2, 6-3; Miss Fuller and Starr Burdick, defeated Miss Bessie TenEyck and R. B. Titsworth, 6-0, 6-4.

There is one more match in the preliminary round, when Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Vanderhoef will meet Miss May Shreve and Dr. H. K. Carroll, and the winners will play Miss Vogel and Samuel Townsend in the first round match, on Saturday.

Mrs. D. J. Randall, of Mercer avenue, is stopping at Pocono Inn, Pocono, Pa.

William H. Larabee, of Willow avenue, has returned from Bradley Beach, where he spent the summer.

PLAINFIELD DEFEATED ST. BENEDICTS', 4 TO 3

One of the best baseball games of the season was played at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, between the Plainfield Baseball club and the St. Benedict's of Newark. It required eleven innings to settle the contest and then Plainfield won by a score of 4 to 3. The visitors were rather scrappy throughout and were continually finding fault with Umpire Apgar's decisions. With the score a tie in the eleventh inning, the "Saints" became ruffled at the rulings of the arbitrator, and Kurfess, the shortstop, deliberately threw the ball out of the grounds, allowing the Plainfield team to score the winning run.

Brewer pitched a fine game for Plainfield, allowing but eight hits, and he received great support, while eleven hits were gathered off of the delivery of Hayes, the young phenomenal twirler of Newark. The visitors were 'padded" with several players from the Ironsides and came prepared to win evidently.

The stick work for Plainfield was done by Jack and Brit. Martin, Seery and Brewer. Schott gave the home team supporters a chill during a critical stage of the contest by dropping a fly ball, something unusual for him. The "Saints" scored two runs in the first inning and one in the ninth, while Plainfield scored in the second, fourth, seventh and eleventh. The game was witnessed by a big crowd of fans, a marjority being from Plainfield. The score:

BIG CROWD SEE RACES AT THE DRIVING PARK

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Driving club, a matinee race meet was held at the driving park on Saturday afternoon. The event was attended by a big crowd. Bion Girl, owned by John Lawless, won the first race in straight heats, while J. B. Osborn's Hartwood Belle took the second race, also in straight heats. The third race was won by William Campbell's Alaysia, finishing three and two and then taking the last two heats. Stonewall Jackson's Jakey Long won the next race, finishing second in the first heat and leading the field in the next two. B. Carpenter's Powder Boy took the special race in straight heats.

The judges and timers were Nate Robins, Michael Quinn and Dr. Butler and the starter was John Feely. The summaries:

PERTH AMBOY ONE, SCOTCH PLAINS SIX

The Scotch Plains team defeated Perth Amboy in the game played yesterday afternoon at the 'Plains by a score of 6 to 1. The contest was marked by fast outfield work on both sides. Some excitement was caused in the seventh inning by a gang of Plainfielders who refused to keep quiet, when ordered to do so by the officer on the grounds. The trouble was soon ended, however, as the ring leader was led off the grounds, and the game proceded.

Mac Laughlin and Miller did the box work for the 'Plains and both were in fire form, seven scatterips hits being secured by the visitors, their lone tally being scored in the sixth inning on a wild throw. The lineup and score by innings:

WARREN A.C. DEFEAT WASHINGTON FIELD CLUB

The Warren A. C. added another victory to its long string on Saturday by defeating the strong Washington Field Club, of Somerville, by the score of 6 to 3. Eddie Montross pitched for Warren A. C., and deserved a shutout. Mosher caught him in fine style.

Sauer's heavy hitting was again in evidence, getting two timely two-baggers. He has been hitting a .600 clip since last June. Next Saturday Warren A. C. goes to Raritan to play the Raritan Juniors, amateur champions of Somerset county. Warren's battery will be Ira Vail and E. Mosher. Saturday's score by innings:

SATURDAY'S SCORES AT PARK GOLF CLUB

There was an unusually large field out at the Park Golf club, Saturday, where the members enjoyed both golf and tennis. The course was crowded all day with players, the perfect weather being a strong attraction. Possibly the event of greatest interest was the first round play for the Fall cup, club championship. The result was as follows:

R. B. Titsworth beat J. H. Howell, by default; Charles B. Morse beat A. H. Vanderhoef, 7 up and 6 to play; W. R. Faber beat W. E. Lough, 2 up and 1 to play; W. V. Byard beat R. V. Carpenter, 2 up. The semi-finals will be played Saturday, when R. B. Titsworth will meet C. B. Morse and W. R. Faber will meet W. V. Byard. The winner of this tournament will play Dr. H. K. Carroll, who won the Spring cup, for the championship.

In addition to the championship competition there was also play for the President's, golf club and Oakmont cups. The leading scores follow:

Samuel Townsend, 98, 18-80; J. H. Howell, 103, 20-83; W. V. Byard, 98, 14-84; Charles B. Morse, 99, 12-87; Dr. H. Carroll, 98, 7-91.

THE ENGLAND OF TODAY

Rev. A. C. Nickerson Gives His Impressions of the Mother Country.

PEOPLE MOST DEMOCRATIC.

A Vivid Picture of the Beautiful Island is Drawn by All Souls' Pastor, Who Recently Visited It.

The views expressed in her sermon of Sunday morning by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church, which were printed yesterday were only a part of the great discourse which delighted his congregation. Below will be found his impressions of England as a community quite apart from the warlike tendencies quoted yesterday.

"The relation of Americans of English blood to the mother country is very much like that of a couple of young people, who, having left the old home and made a new home for themselves are glad they have left the and would not go back again, but who in any time of great trouble or disaster, threatening the old roof tree, would think first of 'the old folks at home,' and take their part as against the world besides.

"I think this becomes more and more so as we are jostled here by hordes of strangers of alien face and tongue. And in England we all feel very much at home, and going there in a friendly way, with an anticipation of congenial experiences you will find that they shall not fail you. Of no country can it more truly be said it is a pleasant land. It is green and fruitful. We talk at home of virgin soil, but in that old country, where you find so many traces of Roman occupation, where the land has been continuously tilled for many generations and centuries, the yield appears to far surpass that of our fields and gardens.

"The people there were unwilling to admit an unusually plentiful hay harvest, but two sojourners from this side agreed that if the hay had been brought in wagons and pitched into the fields they could hardly have been fuller. The same fact holds as to grain. Not far from the fine prosperous-looking, red tiled farm buildings the multitudinous sheaves of grain stood close together while strong Percheron horses drew the wains; and men, women and children with much enjoyment and cheer worked at the harvest home.

"In the gardens for either flower or vegetables, or both; the same fertility was in evidence. Not only were fruit bushes and vines larger and stronger than at home, but their yield was much greater and of a superior quality. They have no such variety as we have, but what they do have grows easily and abundantly with practically no additional enrichment of the soil. Floral cultivation is customary in all social conditions and where we have one blossom they have hundreds. We may have two dozen white carnations in bloom at once. There even the poor man's garden will have a border of them, rank with hundreds if simultaneously blooming flowers. These facts, with all thus implied make it a pleasant land.

"The nearness and accessibility of the country is another pleasing feature of life in England. For many generations Englishmen have seen to it that they and their children shall not be shut away from God's great out-of-doors. Innumerable are the exits from the town. Often they are in narrow and most unexpected places and all of them lead directly into green fields where the law prohibits closing the paths which cross them, or into lanes where the hedgerows are continuously sweet with the successive wild flowers, blossoming, and vocal even through June and July with the song of blackbird, thrush, robin and chaffinch; while from the hedges' ideal retreat even out of the hawthorne's pink and white blossoms and its protective spines, the little lark soars straight away into the blue and for full five minutes, sometimes literally, rains down upon you his liquid notes, the last so far aloft that the tiny bird is lost in the blue, though not for one instant has he intermitted his irrepressible song. You listen breathlessly an remember your Shakespeare, 'Hark, Hark the Lark.' Yes, is is a pleasant land.

"The little villages are mostly bowers of beauty, set amid such ancient elms, great oaks, copper beeches of enormous proportions and smaller trees of holly, laburnum and hawthorne as we rarely see. White ivy and laurel, escallonia and sometimes even fuschia hedges grow as easily and profusely wherever their owner require their shield and protection, as to seem almost exasperatingly perfect to the visitor who knows how slowly and precariously we rear such plants at home. And in the midst is the old stone, often pre-reformation, church, most sub-

FIRST VISIT IN 45 YEARS

Captain Buxton Returns to His Old Home After Amassing a Fortune.

A LIFE SPENT ON THE SEAS.

Visiting Relatives Here, He Expresses Great Surprise Over the Growth of Plainfield.

Captain Henry Buxton, of Singapore, uncle of Councilman Herbert Buxton, of West Front street, and brother of Miss M. Buxton, of West Sixth street, has returned to Plainfield for the first time in forty-five years. He arrived here last night and is dividing his time between visiting his sister and nephew and familiar scenes of nearly a half century ago.

Captain Buxton, who has been the master of many merchant marine vessels, having sailed around the world a great many times during the forty years that he followed the sea, is an interesting character and has a fund of knowledge with which to entertain his friends. He is medium height, and possesses a strong and determined will, yet tempered with a kindly nature that makes friends. Owing to his long life on the sea and various climates visited, Captain Buxton is as brown as a berry. He describes his perfect health to the fact that he has always been so regular in his habits.

The captain was born at Perth Amboy. For a time he lived in Washington Valley and later in Plainfield. Forty-five years ago he left this city and five years later decided to follow the sea. He has been in charge of the largest merchant marine vessels afloat, and he possesses a record of which he is proud, that is he never lost a dollar's worth of goods for the owner, always landing his vessel and cargo safe and sound. He has had many thrilling experiences, of the hair-raising variety, but his heart never failed him, and his success was always rewarded. Captain Buxton amassed a comfortable fortune during his life as a sailor and is now enjoying the fruits of his labor.

The captain left Singapore on July 10 on the Steamship Pathon, and was seventy days en route to New York. In speaking of the great achievements in ocean travelling and the famous greyhounds that now go from New York to London in less than five days, Captain Buxton says that the slow-going vessels are good enough for him and for that reason he planned to spend more than seventy days on the water. While here he will also visit Perth Amboy, the place of his birth, where he hopes to meet some of his old friends. Captain Buxton has a wife, three sons and three daughters and their home in Singapore is one of the show places of that seaport. He is sixty-nine years of age, but does not look a day over fifty. When seen today the captain expressed his great surprise over the wonderful growth of this city.

AMOS B. MUNDY TO BE BURIED THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

The funeral of Amos B. Mundy, who committed suicide at Beechwood Heights Sunday night, will be held from his home in Springdale on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock and another service will take place in the Springdale M. E. church an hour later.

Mr. Mundy was the sexton of the Springdale church and was a well known figure in the village. There is some mystery as to why Mundy killed himself, but it is believed that recent financial troubles had unhinged his mind. He leaves besides his wife two brothers and two sisters. The certificate of the examining physician says that Mundy had been dead only about ten hours when cut down.

Mrs. Titsworth's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Lucy Morgan Titsworth, who died on Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank L. Green, of Alfred, N. Y., was held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank L. Green, 452 West Fifth street. The Rev. Henry N. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market, conducted the funeral services. Interment was made in the Hillside cemetery.

Arrested for Drunkenness.

Mrs. Anna Dilts, of 238 Jackson avenue, arrested last night by Chief Kiely for being drunk on East Second street, was allowed to go on her promise to not repeat. City Judge William Runyon thought that the lesson taught the woman would be enough punishment.

—The new prospectus of the Young Men's Christian Association was issued today. It affords interesting reading, particularly for young men.

DEFER POLICE PENSIONS

Majority of Councilmen Consider it Unwise to Submit Proposition Just Now.

POLICEMEN'S BILL IS LOST.

By Vote of Six to Five City Fathers Decide to Take No Action at the Present Time.

By a vote of six to five, the Common Council in secret session last night, decided not to put it up to the people to decide at the November election whether or not they are in favor of granting pensions to the members of the police department, according to the State law of 1906.

Councilman Frank DeWitt Randolph, chairman of the police committee, brought the matter up at the regular September meeting, after a conference with other members of the committe and it was generally believed that favorable action would be taken.

It is understood that the six members who are opposed to submitting the question at this time, have been guided largely by the recent decided advance in the tax rate from $1.40 to $1.68, and do not believe that it would be wise to provide additional expense for taxpayers. Those who favor the proposition argued vigorously to secure their point but to no purpose. They said, let the people decide the question and thus relieve the Common Council of any further responsibility. But the opponents could not see it that way and declined to sanction the matter just now.

Those who voted against the proposition were Councilmen F. Holt, George S. Clay, Francis L. Montgomery, Charles C. Randolph, E. Mygatt and Duncan W. Taylor, and those in favor were Councilmen R. I. Tolles, Herbert Buxton, W. L. Gloak, W. W. Wilson and Frank DeWitt Randolph.

The law of 1906 provides that the city shall appropriate four per cent. of the police appropriation for the pension, while one per cent. of the policemen's salaries would be deducted for the same purpose. It further provides that certain moneys received from licenses shall go into this fund.

The local firemen have had a pension system for a long time. Those who favor granting the police pensions cite this as a good reason why the latter should be treated equally as well as the firemen.

INTERESTING MEETING AT RESCUE MISSION.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church; Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity church, and Howard T. Scheckler, superintendent of the Rescue Mission at Elizabeth, were the principal speakers at the Rescue Mission meeting in the Babcock building last night. The meeting was held to celebrate the first year of John Calvin Hall's connection with the mission.

The Rev. Mr. Broek spoke on the mercy shown toward fallen men and how the appearance of one in the front among his hearers had always spurred him on toward greater efforts and successes. Dr. Chambliss told the story of the prodigal son in realistic fashion, while Mr. Scheckler told of what is being done in Elizabeth and how the stories of the work being done here had been carried down there. The services were opened by the singing of a hymn by the entire congregation.

The meeting was under the direction of J. Lematty, superintendent of the mission. Miss Margaret Barnett was the violinist. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Return from Trip Abroad.

Mrs. E. Johnson and daughter, Miss Margaret Johnson, and Miss E. Westcott, of Grove street, have returned home after a two months' trip abroad. They crossed on the Cunard Liner Madretania in five days, and the trip was made without one disagreeable feature. After visiting relatives in Torquay, Devonshire, the party visited the principal cities in England, Scotland and France. They returned home on the White Star Liner Adriatic, the weather conditions being ideal. Not a single person was ill during the return journey.

"Snow Ball" a Champion.

Fred Moore's famous toy poodle, "Snowball," won further honors at the annual bench show of the Atlantic City Kennel club, Saturday, when two blues, a winners and a special prize was awarded to the Plainfield dog. This entitles it to a championship, having won nine blues, five winners and a special in all. Mr. Moore will probably enter his dog in the Madison Square Garden show later in the season.

HE FAILS TO APPEAR AS A GRAND JUROR

There was considerable of a stir at the opening of the Somerset County Court, this morning, when it became known that Elston M. French, of the borough, one of the grand jurors, had failed to put in an appearance. Judge C. W. Parker, who was on the bench, had his attention called to the fact, and a court order was issued at once directing an officer to apprehend Mr. French and see that he appear in court. No excuse for his absence was given at the opening of court when the names of the jurors were called.

Stewart A. Kenney, of Somerville, is foreman of the grand jury, and the other members are as follows: C. A. Heyler, Elias P. Hicks, G. M. Gerhart, Henry Sebring, Herbert VanCleef, A. S. Hegeman, David Mundy, Elston M. French, Dr. Justus H. Cooley, Jacob E. Reinman, E. R. Clark, Assemblyman W. W. Smalley, J. Newton Vanderbeek, John Purcell, Lewis A. Bellis, F. A. Ballentine, Elias W. Emmons, William B. Vanderbeek, P. E. Henry, W. R. Bromfield, G. VanDoren and John E. Dixon.

MARTINE PREACHES DYED IN WOOL FAITH

James E. Martine made an address at the meeting of the Sixth Ward Democratic Club in Elizabeth last night for which he was, as usual, vociferously cheered and loudly applauded. The meeting was an enthusiastic one from start to finish and when Mr. Martine arose to deliver the speech he had been invited to give the hall was filled with men anxious to listen and learn from the lips of the famous orator something about the present outlook for the great Democratic party.

Mr. Martine advised the club to stand together in what ever they undertake and pointed out to the members the wisdom of organization in order to get results. He urged them to support their Democratic nominees at the polls whoever they might be. "The primaries will settle the question of who is to represent you in the offices in the gift of the people," he said, "and it is your duty to support the men whom you nominate. Press on to the battle which confronts you, never swerving to the left or right, but forging always onward to the goal in a straight line. It is patent to me that the Republican party in this State is discontended and their discontent means your opportunity. You know what they have done to the whole American nation in their recent tinkering of the tariff! Everything, including the actual necessaries of life will cost you more than ever! O, yes, they are discontented and as I said, it is your opportunity."

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. LOUISE MILLIKEN

The funeral of Mrs. Louise Ward Milliken, who died at Lake Placid, N. Y., last Friday, took place yesterday from the residence of her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. W. DeGraff, 996 Central avenue. The services were held at 3 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church. Miss Grace Carroll sang with much feeling "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead Kindly Light." Miss Carroll was accompanied by Howard Case on the piano. A large number of friends and relatives were present and many accompanied the remains to their last resting place in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Milliken was born at Towanda, Pa., and when very young went with her parents to Syracuse, where she resided until two years after her marriage to Mr. Milliken. Mr. and Mrs. Milliken came to North Plainfield then and remained there for two years, afterwards moving to New York where they have resided ever since.

Had Mrs. Milliken not died she would have been able to have joined in celebrating the twenty-first anniversary of her wedding which took place on September 18, 1888. She died just one day before the anniversary. She was well known at Bar Harbor where she had a summer home and was a frequent visitor in Plainfield.

Besides her husband Mrs. Milliken is survived by two children, Foster, Jr., seventeen, and a daughter, Ruth, nearly fifteen years old.

CITY FATHERS DISPOSE OF ROUTINE BUSINESS

The adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, so far as actual business was concerned, was one of the most unimportant in several months. The meeting was called ostensibly for the purpose of taking action relative to allowing the people to vote on the police pension act, but after an hour's recess, the question was not brought up, in public session the majority deciding that it would not be wise.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, as foretold in The Daily Press, appointed three playground commissioners, H. W. Marshall for three years, Andrew J. Gavett for two years and George P. Mellick for one year. The appointments were confirmed.

E. Frank Vail, who owns the property at Jackson avenue and East Second street, complained about a double sewer assessment and the matter was referred. A. A. Brousse asked the council to provide sidewalks on Dixie lane so that the residents would be able to have mail delivered there. This was also referred.

Mrs. Clara A. Stelle, of Union street, in a communication said that she had received two assessments on property at 967 Union street and 202 Randolph road, which she claimed was a mistake. She requested that the assessments be corrected and the matter was referred to the proper committee.

Regarding the petition of William Palmer Smith for the improvement of Belvidere avenue, Mr. Gloak, chairman of the street and sewer committee, stated that the matter would be attended to. As to the request of residents of the West End for street improvements, Mr. Gloak said that it would be impossible to do anything this year. On his motion the request for a new fire hydrant in that section of the city, was referred to the fire committee.

In response to a request from Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, a resolution was offered by Mr. Montgomery and adopted, changing an electric light from Plainfield avenue, to a nearby point on Randolph road, so that both thoroughfares will get the benefit of the light.

Councilman Clay called the attention of the Council to complaints received regarding the unsafe condition of Thornton avenue, which is an unaccepted thoroughfare, and on his motion the matter was referred to the street and sewer committee for the purpose of investigation.

Dunellen Politics.

A change has been made in the Democratic petition of candidates at Dunellen. G. Y. Wilson has withdrawn from the field and Herbert Wyckoff has taken his place as a candidate for county committeeman. Charles E. Tinsman has become a candidate for Justice of the Peace and his petition has been filed.

FALL INTO EXCAVATION INJURES MARY KERWIN

Mary Kerwin, a domestic, in the employ of W. C. Duykinck, fell into an excavation last night on Johnson avenue while on her way home from a visit to friends on Jackson avenue. Miss Kerwin though severely hurt managed to get home and reported the occurrence to her employer who notified the police.

Patrolman Anderson, who was sent out to investigate, found that the hole in which the young woman had fallen was marked properly with a red lantern although she said that the hole into which she had fallen had no light. It was reported that Miss Kerwin had said that she had fallen into a hole in the sidewalk, but as there are no holes in the walk where she said she had been, it is concluded that she crossed the vacant lot at Jackson avenue and failing to notice the warning light fell into the excavation mentioned.

It was not possible to learn the extent of the young woman's injuries this morning, but it was said at Mr. Duyckinck's residence that Miss Kerwin had "hurt her back and limbs severely" and was confined to her bed.

"In Flower Land" at Hope Chapel.

Arrangements are being made for a spectacular and elocutionary entertainment to be given at Hope chapel on Friday and Saturday nights, October 15 and 16, by Miss Bertie K. Shipley, of New York, assisted by seventy-five Plainfield children. The entertainment is called "In Flower Land," and has been declared beautiful as presented in other places. Miss Shipley is a mountaineer, related to both Daniel Boone and Abraham Lincoln. She is a story teller and an orator by blood and by training and is popular. Her repertoire of original stories is large and she has received flattering endorsements.

Approaching Wedding.

Mrs. I. Renwick Glen, of West Sixth street, has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Lillian Torrey Glen, to George Herbert Gains, on Tuesday afternoon, October 4, at 3:30 o'clock, at Grace church, East Seventh and Sycamore streets. Miss Glen was formerly a teacher in the Irving school.

ALLEGE SHORTAGE OF A TRUSTED OFFICIAL

Judge Parker Instructs Somerset County Grand Jury to Investigate Warren Township Committee Finances.

The fall term of the Somerset County Courts opened this morning at Somerville, with Judge C. W. Parker on the bench. There was an unusually large attendance of people from all parts of the county, including a number from Warren township, it being understood that the matter of alleged irregularities in that district were to be presented to the grand jury. The legal profession was also well represented.

In his charge to the grand jury, Judge Parker took occasion to call the attention of the body to the report of Supreme Court Commissioner Hugh K. Gaston in the matter of investigating the financial affairs of Warren township. Judge Parker said that the report showed gross irregularities on the part of Joel Codington, treasurer of Warren township, that he is between $2,500 and $3,000 short in his accounts.

Judge Parker also called attention to the fact that Mr. Codington according to the report, had made a practice of loaning money to his friends without warrant; also to the clerk and counsel of the township, Horace Codington, which if substantiated would be an indictable offense. The Judge informed the grand jury that he would let that body have the report, but that it could not use any part of it as evidence. It would be within its power to call the same witnesses as those examined by Commissioner Gaston and conduct such investigation as it desires to arrive at a conclusion.

"There are some things in the report that your attention should be called to," said Judge Parker. "One is that Joel Codington, treasurer of Warren township, refused to go before Supreme Court Commissioner Hugh K. Gaston, and a special order of this court was necessary to compell him to do so.

"The presumption is that if Mr. Codington was guiltless he would have willingly appeared before the commissioner. If the charges against Mr. Codington are substantiated, he would be guilty of malfeasence in office."

In Judge Parker's reference to the action of an officer of the township, one counsel and clerk, who is said to have received loans unlawfully, the Judge remarked that if this was substantiated, he, too, could be indicted.

After the charge, the grand jury retired to consider at length the Warren township and other affairs brought to its attention.

It was about two months ago that an application was made by residents of Warren township for the appointment of a commissioner to investigate the financial affairs of that township. The alleged practices cover an extended period. Mr. Codington, in addition to being treasurer of Warren township, is also a member of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders and chairman of the finance committee of that body.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION ASKS FOR PROTECTION.

At the meeting of the Plainfield Merchants' Association, last night, attention was called to the common practice of boys in cutting awning ropes and drawing them up and letting them down, after business hours. The practice has become so frequent, the merchants say, that something must be done to stop it. A resolution was then adopted calling upon the city authorities for protection.

A satisfactory report was received from the committee on the auto 'bus line, and it was stated that arrangements are now being made to increase the service.

Peter V. Weaver a Candidate.

The name of Peter V. Weaver, Republican nominee for constable in the Fourth ward, was unintentionally omitted from the list of nominees published in The Daily Press of yesterday. Mr. Weaver's petition was filed according to law and expects to be elected.

HATS and APPAREL

The formal Fall Exhibit of Millinery, Evening Gowns, Street Suits, Dresses and Capes, Waists, Furs and other apparel began today, and it is a showing such as no Newark house has ever equaled and cannot equal, because no other house in Newark devotes so much space to the show and sale of apparel for women, children, men and boys.

A few years ago millinery was almost the whole feature of the opening displays, but with the increasing beauty and perfection of ready-to-wear suits and dresses, the other apparel departments vie with the millinery salon in presenting attractions that interest women. Yet hats have first call and create more enthusiasm than any other feature of these opening exhibitions.

The hat styles this season are wonderfully varied and most daring in conception.

Just because a Russian prima-ballerina wore a fur turban much like the Russian hussars wear, in an opera presented in Paris, the Parisians, always ready to seize an idea when it is flashed at them, instantly clamored for turban hats and so it was that the military hat of the Russians became the mode this season, and its influence became so apparent in the styles we are exhibiting in our opening.

Yet picture hats with their huge sweeping brims and immense flowing plumes and dashing quills, have not been displaced—not by any means—and they are as plentiful as ever. Some of the milliners in Paris are contending that the limit in the size of hats has not been reached, so Public Service may as well consider the necessity of enlarging trolley car doorways. Other milliners, however, assert that the hats will be somewhat smaller than in other seasons. Whatever the tendency, you may depend upon us to present fullest and surely most magnificent showing of hats of every style, from the very large ones (most striking, many of them) to the trimmed turbans, so jaunty and classy and dressy.

You may depend upon seeing here the broadest variety of styles that any store shows, for while we are sticklers for beauty, and style, and exclusiveness, we are great believers in variety, so that every possible taste may be satisfied. Smaller displays, made in other stores, will, perhaps, be worth seeing, if only for comparison. We'll not be jealous of your visits to other stores—we rather urge them—for we feel so confident of our millinery supremacy that we are sure a vast majority of the women in Newark will come here for their hats.

We describe in detail a few of the hats seen in our opening, and picture them that you may have some idea of what there is to see.

Some of the Hats

A most attractive yet easily worn hat is an immense picture hat of Boael Moire with three large, flowing plumes and sweeping aigrets caught with jet buckle in front. The price is $68

A stunning hat is a large one of Tan Felt, with facing of Black Beaver, trimmed with black ribbon fan and an immense twisted wing sweeping back from front centre over the left side, the wing in champagne color—a very showy hat, indeed, marked $25

Another Russian Turban, and a most effective one indeed, has a ground of black marabout with brim formed of gray satin, like the turret of a fortress—very military indeed; trimmed with quill and marabout, in white and gray, caught with metal cabochon. The price is only..... $15

A Turban of Reseda Green Felt with brim of fancy ribbon in delicate shades and rosette of pale green ribbon with fancy centre, trimmed with peasant feathers—a little different and very pretty—modest enough to suit quiet dressers, is priced at $20

A very pretty hat is one of Green Panne Velvet with high crown; piping of red; decked with whole coque bird, forming a huge plume of brilliant dark green hues with head in front. The price is $25

DRESSY COATS AND CAPES

Many charming imported models—dressy and beautiful; not so extreme as to be unwearable even by those of ordinary means; most attractive as show pieces, and they will be admired by all.

The materials most fashionable this season in coats and capes are broadcloth, double faced mixtures, zibeline, silk velour and silk plushes. The styles were never more dressy—many of the coats can be worn without dress.

A Broadcloth Cape in delicate rose will appeal to many. The collar and dolman sleeves are trimmed with garnitures of black and gold, and buttons of jet caught with jewels. It is in three-quarter length, lined with white messaline, and can be duplicated in any desired shade. The price is $39.50

A Cape of Champagne Broadcloth, trimmed with piping of light brown velvet, collar trimmed with velvet, silk braid and gold buttons, and great jeweled buttons at the throat, lined with olive messaline, is marked at only... $32.50

A Handsome Coat is this Princess Effect of Broadcloth in Delicate Pink. It is made full length with plaited skirt, and is trimmed with Persian and jeweled garnitures and large jeweled buttons; lined with white messaline. The price is $39.50

A Misses' Broadcloth Coat in Light Rose is a stunning garment; cut full length with sailor collar, trimmed with jet buttons on front and sleeves; set in plaits in skirt; lined with white Messaline; can be duplicated in any desired shade, for only $32.50

GOLF.

An innovation in golf about New York was a match for a purse subscribed by some of the members at the Wykagyl Country Club Sunday, between Alec Smith, the club's professional, and Gilbert Nichols, of the Wilmington, Del., Country Club. It was the outcome of the finish in the Metropolitan Golf Association open championship at Wykagyl last week, which Smith won with 306 and led Nichols, who gained the Philadelphia open three weeks ago, by two strokes.

The attendance at the thirty-six hole match included non-members of Wykagyl. Nichols was handicapped by being on a course that is a tricky one to a stranger, yet he played very pluckily in the face of some unlucky breaks. Smith won by 2 up and 1 to play, scoring 77—82—159 to Nichols' 80—83—163.

This will be another active golf week in the metropolitan district, as two tournaments are on the schedule for the last three days. One is the annual invitation tourney of the Morris County Golf Club, and the other is the Staten Island championship.

As a rule, the Morris County organization brings out a high class field, and the club invariably makes a special effort to secure attractive prizes. In fact, the array of cups offered last year was pronounced one of the finest ever seen at a golf tournament.

This will be the first important gathering at the Morris County since the course has been retrapped and bunkered, and for that reason good scores made this week will have to be considered as deserving of more credit than the old ones, as the course is considerably more difficult now.

The chief cup a year ago was won by Jerome D. Travers, who defeated Dudley H. Barrows, of Plainfield, in the final round. It is not known whether Travers will compete this year or not, as the former national champion has been in poor health for several months. Up to date some sixty odd entries have been received, and it is expected that the total will reach about seventy-five.

Tennis Championship at P. C. C.

The tennis tournament for the championship of the Plainfield Country club reached the final round on Saturday afternoon, but was not concluded because of darkness. Albert D. Beers, the former title holder, and Harry T. Eaton opposed each other, and the score in the fifth set was five all in the deciding game of the match when darkness stopped play. In the semi-finals played Saturday, Albert D. Beers defeated W. Lester Glenney, 6-1, 6-0, and Hart T. Eaton defeated Henry J. Cochran, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3. The play will be finished Saturday.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Three Twins" will come to the Plainfield theatre Thursday night. This is the best musical comedy that has been produced in years. It has a good plot and many novel features. The music is fascinating and two-thirds of the audience, on leaving the theatre are humming or whistling some of the numerous melodies which so greatly please them. "Three Twins" is called the "Ben Hur" of musical comedies, because it is the largest musical attraction in America. The amazon electric aerial swing is the largest scenic effect ever staged, with the exception of the Chariot Race in "Ben Hur." The faceograph is another one of the many electric effects that helps to make "Three Twins" the smartest of all musical attractions. The costumes are gorgeous and include eight of the handsomest Parisian Directoire gowns ever brought to America.

Street Oiling Not Responsible.

It has been reported that the raise in the taxes for the coming year is caused by the cost of oiling the streets. This report is emphatically denied by city officials as being without foundation, as the cost of this work was paid from the street appropriation which stands at the same figure this year as last. Furthermore, the expense of water sprinkling has been reduced nearly enough to cover the entire expense of the oiling. The cause of the raise has been attributed to State, county and local school expenses.

stantial and beautiful, and generally well preserved, challenging your attention from its environing church yard. Here 'the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep.' And as you, from over the seas, con the names cut in the stones, you are surprised to find that most of them are wholly familiar; for you have known people bearing such all your days. England is indeed our old home.

"The terrestrial outlook, especially if in the country (and England's best is always rural) breathes only peace. How many thousand sheep browse contentedly in green pastures and beside still waters! You think pityingly of 'sheep commons' at home. How full the land is of kine! With udders filled they early lie down to rest in such lushnoontide pastures; and early 'the lowing herd winds slowly homeward o'er the lea.' In similar grassy places the little black swine tumble about, chase each other and eat their fill, and ever as you question the farmer or ask a direction you uncover much genuine kindness and lovable human nature.

"The land is drenched in verdure and full of historic buildings and associations. It is a positive pleasure to go into the shops, so selfrespecting are the salespeople, so unfailing their politeness. Traveling is eased of its burdens by the prompt and willing service of railway porters, and while your traveling companion, if an English man or woman, will never address you first, if you will take the initiative you will find the cordial smile just beneath the surface and an even eager desire to aid you and make your journey pleasant. The magnificent cathedrals, the great galleries and museums, the ancient castles and the ruins of other castles are vastly instructive and entertaining while the scenery is so varied as to suggest sometimes Italy, sometimes Switzerland, sometimes such combinations of sea and mountains as one rarely sees anywhere. In fact one railway line advertises in colored posters their English scenery, putting some of the most celebrated views of other European countries side by side with those to be found close at hand, thus appealing simultaneously to economy and patriotism.

"The self respecting and self restraint of the people is so great however lowly their service, that an American is forced by contrast to regret the too common rudeness, incivility and petty arrogance to which we are too often witness at home. A traveller there this summer had a glad surprise in the discovery that Americans are by no means the greatest financial contributors to the public good. Almost daily the London papers in announcing the deaths of the past week published lists of public bequests, by the decedents, so that an habitual giving there by will to many good causes appeared to be a fact by him hitherto unrecognized. While we may have more large and conspicuous givers, bequeathing large sums to the public England seems to have more people of ordinary means who thus practically remember their needy and suffering fellowmen at the last.

"I should say that there is today in England a greatly increased sense of the solidarity of humanity, a lessened and constantly decreasing opinion of merely inherited rights and an almost flaming resolve to hold the nation down to practical social service. They seem to act out the Emersonian aphorism, 'All are needed by each one.' It means that dukes and dukeries are to be put to work.

"We have our problems and we rightly consider them great, but I think an observer in England must consider theirs yet more acute and pressing. And the amount and quality of ones resources greatly lessens apprehension. Here we have the advantage. Life in the United States is more cheerful and more comfortable than life in England. One cannot imagine born here voluntarily expatriating himself. We call England a pleasant land, but no dweller in Plainfield would call the typical English town pleasant. It is the land that is so. Bare, cold, narrow, uninteresting, unornamented by grass, tree or vine, are thousands of streets lined with brick houses of the common people. These houses are almost never detached residences. Even in small villages they are in blocks. Often we find houses with no window or door in the wall upon the street or road. Within the wall modern comforts are mostly lacking. It would seem almost incredibly hard to American women to do house work there, even in very handsomely built and decorated houses. The basement kitchen, the feather bed, the tallow candle have not gone out in England yet. Even the solitary grate relied on for warmth in winter even in the handsome homes is not yet superseded. And their cold is very damp and penetrating. Rheumatism is excessively common. There is great lack of amusements for young people and they walk the streets interminably. At resorts and spas there are entertainments but in other towns they are alarmingly lacking. The situation is the anthithesis of ours at home.

"And England is inert! It may have heard of 'hustle.' It never even dreamed of it for itself. Business rouses slowly in the morning. At 9 o'clock, not earlier, even in the small towns, the under clerks begin to take down the shutters. Nothing can be done expeditiously.

"The present government of England is unprecedentedly democratic. Those who are for it not only call it socialistic, as it is largely, but with Lord Roseberry revolutionary. While our people at home were getting more and more excited this season over the tariff, England grew equally warm, not to say hot, over the Budget. The government supporters saw everything rose-colored in the event of its passing the lords and commons. The opposition were bitter in their denunciation of its inconoclasm. The Budget proposes to put the financial burdens of the country upon the shoulders of those who are financially able to bear them. They think the Budget is, so far, a restatement of the eminently Christian doctrine, 'that they who are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak.' But all the great land owners resent the imposition of a higher tax upon their considerable estates, just exactly as our 'bloated bondholders' would resent any act of the public appropriating a proportionate share of their large incomes toward our national expenses. No nation is rightly taxed where the heaviest load is not put on the shoulders best able to bear it.

"The typical Englishman may still dearly love a lord (and I think the English people were never more proud of their sovereign) but the man on the street in England, the man who stands for the voters, is today done with the adoration of a mere title, if it be below the rank of the royal family; he is a democrat of the democrats in his thinking and voting; he subjects even the claims of the dukes, who are next to royalty, to the most rigid examinations, and more than once, in public conveyances this summer, men were heard telling their companions on what slight and musty merit certain ducal claims in England rest. One could see what short shrift would be given to lordly obstructors of the people's will could the commons have their way. The dukes own four million acres of land. The lords are in a strait 'twixt two.' If they throw out the Budget they are more likely to be thrown out themselves, 'bag and baggage.' If they do not throw it out they incur the enmity of their class and are curtail d of many of their superfluities. The lords have weakened their own cause much by the publication of incredibly inane threats that if the Budget is passed they will have to withdraw their usual Christmas charities from the poor or even do with fewer motor cars, or, most dire necessity of all, sell land and wich increased taxation will render it impossible to keep up!

"So the old England is full of unrest! It faces foes without and fears within! It seems to be brought to bar by its own people. The London papers are full of questionings as to what is the matter with England. They wonder why she has done nothing in aviation while the United States, France and Germany are doing so much! They are questioning their system of education. They all feel sure that much is wrong among them. To an outsider, staying for a while in the country places there appears to be a physical and mental deterioration of the people, noticeable among the small farmer class, in factory workers, in little children flocking out of the board schools. We see it too in the inability of the average provincial dwellers to welcome the introduction of improvements or even alleviations of their not infrequent discomforts of living. There seems to have been too much intermarrying in the numerous small villages with the usual regrettable results. These things it is painful for a visitor to see, especially so when you are charmed with the land and the country of the people.

Fancy going into a considerable shop to order a small article made and being met with the words: 'We have just received a mourning order, so we cannot do your work till next week.'

"The American feels himself restricted, hampered. He is not yet eighty and does not wish to move about as if he were. Wages are almost incredibly low. Fortunately most necessaries of life are cheaper than with us. Behind the high, ever present walls of houses and gardens and the stone house fronts is a hospitality, generous and sincere not to be surpassed anywhere. But for the public no open streets and lawns like ours, no unscreened porches or piazzas are to be seen. The outer English suggestion of a home is mediæval. It is a retreat, a defiance of enemies. Every man's home is still literally his castle. He does not wish you to look in and he never wishes to look out.

"In long cold winter evenings the contrast with out streets with windows everywhere alight, glimpses of happy gatherings within, occasionally the sound of cheerful music straying out to our common walk, faces at the pane anticipating some dear one's return, all this must seem very warming and pleasant to an English visitor here.

"And our general outlook upon life has also more horizon than theirs. Ours seems to be a larger hope for our country and ourselves. Not for a moment would I say that our lives are any stronger, sweeter, puerer than theirs or our manners so politely considerate as those of our kindred across the sea. There are no truer, kinder hearts than England calls her own the world over.

"And so if they in their restricted area, their limited opportunities, their much more sombre environment can yet yiled such admirable fruits of the spirit the implication of our enlarged chance here at home must be patent to the dullest of us. Let us reconsecrate ourselves to the truest highest patriotism, the freest most reverent religion and above all to that fraternal, forbearing and forgiving living day by day without which all the advantages of our advancing America will prove but our accusation.

Funeral of Miss F. R. Hill.

The funeral of Miss Florence Rosamond Hill, daughter of Mrs. Mary B. Hill, of Westervelt avenue, was held at her late home this morning at 10 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace P. E. church. The pall bearers were Arthur Caleen, Charles Reed, Howard Boss and Frank Pierson. Miss Hill died Saturday night after a brief illness. She was born in Elmira, N. Y., and had lived here about seventeen years. She was a communicant of Grace church and a member of the Sunday-school and had many friends. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

—Although the peach season is practically over, Neuman Brothers saw the opportunity to secure another shipment of fancy Jersey peaches for tomorrow, which together with fancy Bartlett pears, grapes, etc., they will offer at prices within everyone's reach.

THE LOST COIN.
Missing or lost, last Sunday night,
A Waterloo coin, whereon was traced
The inscription "COURAGE!" in letters bright,
Though a little by rust of years defaced.
Whoso'er of this lost treasure knows
Is begg'd to state all facts about it,
As the owner can't well face his foes,
Nor even his friends, just now, without it.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Boys' club of Hope chapel met last night to further plans for the winter season. Another meeting will be held Friday night.

Rally day exercises will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Sunday, under the auspices of the Sunday-school.

The Ways and Means committee of Hope chapel will meet at the home of the pastor, Rev. L. R. Howard, 446 West Fifth street, tonight.

Lena Becker will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at Hope chapel, tomorrow night. The subject will be "Vanity Fair," in the Pilgrim's Progress series.

Hope chapel will hold its Sunday-school rally on Sunday, October 3. This will be the eighth anniversary of Rev. L. H. Howard's pastorate, and the occasion will be made noteworthy.

Preparatory services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night and the regular communion service will be held Sunday morning, with reception of new members.

St. Ann's Guild, of St. Stephen's church, will hold its first fall meeting in the parish house of the church this afternoon to plan for the winter work. The other societies will meet next week.

The women's society of the Congregational church will hold its first fall meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the season's study will be taken up, "The Gospel in Latin Lands." The topic tomorrow will be "Italy," and will be presented by Mrs. John M. Whiton and other members.

Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, at the morning service, Sunday, baptized Robert Aiden, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cullianan, and Catherine Reed, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lindsey. Mr. Howard preached a strong sermon in the morning and in the evening his topic was "A Besetting to a Large Congregation."

THE TRUTH ABOUT COFFEE

No Economy in Using the Cheaper Grades.

The housewife who uses one of the cheaper grades of bulk coffee under the impression that it is just as good and more economical than the package coffee, is making a mistake.

The only way to determine the real cost of your coffee is to estimate the number of cups of the required strength you get out of a pound.

Make a test, for example, between the coffee you now use and Hotel Astor Coffee. You'll find it requires a smaller amount of Hotel Astor Coffee to secure the flavor and richness you desire than you are accustomed to use of the lower grade coffee.

If this is true (and you'll find that it really is) you will undoubtedly want to use Hotel Astor Coffee regularly hereafter. After you've made the test you will realize that no coffee you've ever used produces such a rich, smooth and delicious fragrance.

The coffee packed and sold under the label Hotel Astor Coffee is guaranteed to be the same in every respect as that served now and always at the Hotel Astor, New York, whose prominent guests have always been delighted with the delicious fragrance and delicate richness of the coffee served there. Nowhere else can it be secured or equaled.

Hotel Astor Coffee is always sold in one-pound and three-pound air-tight tins and reaches you as crisp and fragrant as when it leaves the roasters. The Hotel Astor recipe for making coffee is in every tin.

Sold by all the better grocers almost everywhere. But if your grocer does not keep it, write the importers, B. Fischer & Co., 190 Franklin street, New York City, giving your dealer's name and address, and they will tell you where you can get it.

"THE SHEPHERD KNOWETH HIS SHEEP."

A noted divine in Washington was constantly urging his flock to be more sociable and to give a hearty welcome to "the stranger within the gates," not forgetting to maintain a proper interest in the members of their own households. After one of his most effective sermons on his pet theme he went to the door as usual and began to shake hands industriously with the people passing out after the service.

He was much interested in a well-dressed and intelligent looking young girl, apparently a stranger, and greeted her heartily.

"I hope we may see you often here," he said. "We always have a warm welcome for new faces."

"Thank you, sir," she replied modestly.

"Do you live hereabout?" he went on.

The girl looked at him with a puzzled smile. "Yes, sir, I do."

"Will you kindly leave me your address, and my wife and I will call on you some evening?" he said.

"You would not have to go far to find me—I am your cook."—National Magazine.

IN BLACK AND WHITE.

Perhaps the most effective colors—if colors we may call them—for the small child are black and white. It is a nice relief when you have tired of the all-white proposition to get a shepherd's plaid coat to be worn with the sheer white frock and black shoes and stockings. The large panama hat in keeping with this effective outfit should be draped with a loosely tied scarf of black satin dotted with white spots an inch and a half in diameter.

Paris is recommending the scarf as a hat trimming, and it is sent over here in black, blue and scarlet, with white disks sprinkled over its satin surface.

The plan of providing two different trimmings for the same hat may be admirably accomplished by the use of two-colored scarfs, and they will be no stumbling block to the amateur, as the scarf means simply the tying of a bow.

Registry and Election Notice.

Charter, Municipal and General Election.

November 2, 1909

County of Union.

Pursuant to an act entitled "An Act to regulate Elections" (Revison of 1898), approved April 4th, 1898, with the amendments thereof, and other acts, concerning elections, and the constitutional provision concerning the right of suffrage," notice is hereby given that the District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will meet on the 4th Tuesday in September, 1909, (28th), at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the places in their respective Election Districts where the City Clerks shall designate, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

The District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will meet for purposes of registration at their respective places, on October 5th and 19th, 1909, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

And the Board of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in said County of Union, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will meet on Tuesday, August 31st, 1909, to elect one of its members as judge, who shall be chairman of said board, and another of its members as inspector. Also on Tuesday, September 7th, 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon in their respective Election Districts where the next election will be held shall proceed to ascertain and truly and accurately enter its canvassing books, to be provided for that purpose, the names and residences and street numbers, if any, of all legal voters within their respective election districts entitled to vote therein, by making actual inquiry at every dwelling house, etc., in the manner prescribed by law, and shall continue such enumeration until the same is completed; provided, that such enumeration shall terminate on or before the Friday next succeeding.

The District Boards of Registry and Election, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for the purpose of registration, at their respective places, on Tuesday, September 28th, 1909, and Tuesday, October 26th, 1909, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m. for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

Notice is further given that a Primary Election will be held on Tuesday, September 28th, 1909, between the hours of 1 o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m., at the various election districts, wards, boroughs and townships in the County of Union, for the election of delegates to conventions of political parties, or for making nominations or for both, as the case may be.

Ballots to be used at said Primary to be furnished to District Boards of Registry and Election by the different city, borough and township clerks in the County of Union.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"Love him! No, no! I had hoped you would not speak like this. I relied upon your honor."

"Is it dishonorable for me to love you?"

"No, but it is for me—to permit you to say so!"

He was pale, but not paler than she.

"I offer you nothing, Mr. Hillard, nothing—no promise, no hope, nothing. A few days longer and we shall separate finally."

Merrihew and Kitty came into view.

"It is all over," said Merrihew exultantly. "Kitty has promised to marry me as soon as we land in America."

La Signorina took hold of Kitty's hands.

"Is it true, Kitty?"

"Yes, ma'am," Kitty answered, with a stage courtesy. "I have promised to marry him, for there seemed no other way of getting rid of him."

This caused real laughter. La Signorina relighted the tea lamp, and presently they were all talking together.

They laughed quietly as they saw O'Mally gravely conducting his charge to the gates. He returned with Smith. Both were solemn visaged.

"Well, noble concierge?" inquired La Signorina. "Why, you look as if you were the bearer of ill tidings."

"I am," said O'Mally.

"What has happened?" asked Merrihew.

"Enough," said O'Mally laconically. He directed his next words to La Signorina. "You are sure of this friend of yours, the princess?"

"Is it dishonorable for me to love you?"

"Certainly," answered La Signorina, her astonishment increasing.

"She gave you the right authority?"

"Absolutely," more and more astonished.

"Well, before I swing the thunder let me tell you something," said O'Mally. "I was in Florence a few days ago. I made some inquiries. It was impertinent, I know. I interviewed four or five hotel concierges. Only one of them ever heard of the name. This concierge directed me to another, but as he spoke only Italian we could not make things fit. But when I mentioned the princess' name he laughed, as if something highly amusing had hit him. The main thing is this, your princess has played us all rather a shabby trick. In the letter you read to us in Venice she said that she had never visited this villa."

"Only in her youth," replied La Signorina, her brows drawing together in a frown. "To the point at once."

"It is simply this. Our little jig is up," responded O'Mally. "Read these and see for yourself." He gave to her a broad white envelope and a clipping from La Nazione of the day before.

She seized the clipping eagerly, but the eagerness died from her face quickly, leaving it pale and stony. The clipping fluttered to the ground. Her gaze passed from one face to another, a horror growing in her eyes. Slowly she picked up the envelope and drew out the card.

"Tell me, what is it?" cried Hillard, troubled.

In answer she gave him the card. He read it. It was rather a knock. Now, why should the Principessa di Monte Bianca take it into her head to give a ball in the Villa Ariadne Wednesday week when she had loaned the villa indefinitely to her friend La Signorina?

CHAPTER XVII.

MORE TANGLES.

HILLARD passed the card to Merrihew, who presented it to Kitty. Smith had already seen it. He waved it aside moodily. La Signorina's eyes roved as in an effort to find some way out.

"It's a pretty kettle of fish," said O'Mally, rather pleased secretly in having created so dramatic a moment. "There's nothing for us to do but to clear out, bag and baggage."

Then La Signorina rose to her feet. She took the card from Kitty's fingers, tore it into many pieces and flung them over the wall.

"We have been betrayed!" she cried, a storm in her eyes.

"Betrayed? In what manner?" asked Hillard.

"Her highness has had no hand in this. I know. Some one with malice has done this."

La Signorina, her arms folded, her lips compressed into a thin line of scarlet, the anger in her eyes unabated, began to walk back and forth.

O'Mally gripped Smith by the arm and pointed to the gates.

Two carabinieri and an inspector of seals, dusty, but stern of countenance, came up the path. The inspector came on. Without touching his cap—a bad sign—he laid upon the tea table a card and a newspaper, familiar now to them all.

"Signora," he said politely, but coldly, to the whilom prima donna, "will you do me the honor to explain this? We have some doubts as to the authority upon which this invitation was issued."

She spoke evenly, almost insolently. "The invitation is perfectly regular."

Everybody experienced a chill.

This time the inspector bowed. "Then her highness will occupy her villa?"

"She is already in possession. I am the Principessa di Monte Bianca," calmly.

Had an earthquake shattered the surrounding hills and gulfs opened at their feet it could not have spread terror more quickly among the transient guests at the Ville Ariadne than this declaration. They knew that she was not the princess, and here, calmly and negligently, she was jeoparding their liberty as well as her own. She was mad.

The keen eyed inspector took mental note of these variant expressions.

"Your highness," he said, his cap setting the dust on the stones flying, "a thousand pardons for this disagreeable intrusion. It was not officially known that your highness was here."

"It is nothing," replied the pseudo princess. "Only I desired to remain incognito for the present."

"And the seals?" purred the official.

"We shall go through that formality the morning after the ball. At present I do not wish to be disturbed with the turning of the villa upside down, as would be the case were the seals removed."

"That will require the permission of the crown, your highness."

"Then you will set about at once to secure this permission."

The air with which she delivered this command was noble enough for any one.

"You will telegraph to Cranford & Baring, in the Corso Umberto Primo, Rome. They will supply you with the necessary details and information."

The inspector spoke to the carabinieri, and the trio marched to the gates.

Loud were the exclamations of dismay from the unfortunate Americans, and only Hillard and Merrihew showed faith in La Signorina and her protestation that she would straighten out the tangle without any additional misfortune coming to her former associates in the opera troupe.

Kitty, O'Mally and Smith, however, were convinced that a dirty Italian prison would be their ultimate resting place.

"Suppose we go and break the news to Worth," remarked Smith.

O'Mally assented, stopping a moment in front of La Signorina.

"We have all been together for many weeks," he said. "Yet who you are none of us knows."

The shadow of a smile lay upon her lips and vanished. "My name is Sonia Hilda Grosvenor." And her voice was music.

"Tomorrow," said Merrihew, "I'm going to look up the jail and engage rooms ahead. It might be crowded."

Both he and Hillard rode back to their quarters for the night, but they found that sleep was practically out of the question.

The morning sun poured over the hills, throwing huge shadows in the gorge below. O'Mally sniffed. As the wind veered intermittently there came to him the perfume of the locust trees, now in full bloom. Pietro rocked, his legs crossed, his face blurred in the drifting tobacco smoke.

"No more tourists, Pietro?"

"No," Pietro sighed.

"Did you ever see La Signorina before? Do you know anything about her?"

"Never! No!" answered Pietro, with the perfect candor of an accomplished liar.

"Have you ever seen"—

"Zitto! She come!" Pietro got up with alacrity.

La Signorina was as daintily fresh in her pink frock as a spring tulip. Her eyes were shining, but her color was thin.

"I have been looking for you, Mr. O'Mally," she said. "I have just received a telegram from her highness."

O'Mally accepted the yellow sheet. "I can make out a word or two," he said. "It's in Italian."

"I forgot," apologetically.

Briefly, La Principessa di Monte Bianca gave Sonia Hilda Grosvenor full authority to act as her proxy in giving the ball. As for the invitation, she knew absolutely nothing about it.

This last statement rather staggered the erstwhile concierge. If the princess hadn't issued the invitation, who the deuce had?

The dreamy, pleasurable days at the Villa Ariadne were no more. The spirit of suspicion now stalked abroad. And there were a-coming and going of the many needed extra servants, a to and froing of extra gardeners and carpenters and the sound of many hammers. The ballroom and the dining room were opened and aired and the beautiful floors polished.

In Florence there was a deal of excitement over the coming affair, for the villa Ariadne had once been the scene of many a splendid entertainment. There had always been a mystery regarding the Principessa di Monte Bianca. Many doubted her actual existence. But the prince was known all over Europe as a handsome spendthrift. And the fact that at this precise moment he was quartered with the Eighth corps in Florence added largely to the zest of speculation.

As for Hillard, well indeed he understood now why Mrs. Sandford had warned him. He understood now what the great mistake was.

He was always at her heels now, but speaking no more of his love. She understood and was grateful. Once she plucked a young rose and gave it to him, and he was sure that her hand touched his with pity, though she would not meet his eyes.

At 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the day before the ball, now that the noise had subsided and the servants were in their quarters, La Signorina went into the gardens alone. An hour earlier she had seen Hillard mount and ride away, the last time but once. There seemed to bear down upon her that oppression which one experiences in a nightmare of being able to fly so high, to run madly and yet to move slowly, always pursued by terror. Even now there was a single avenue of escape, but she knew that she could not profit by it and leave these unfortunate derelicts to shift for themselves. Love! She laughed brokenly and struck her hands in suppressed fury. A fitting climax this! All the world was mad, and she was the maddest in it.

Some one was coming along the path. She wheeled impatiently. She wanted to be alone. And of all men Worth was not the one she cared to see. But the sight of his pale face and set jaws stayed her words. She waited restlessly.

"I have something to say to you," he said, "upon which your future welfare largely depends."

"I am listening." She showed surprise.

"There has been a tremendous wonder, as I understand, about this ball in regard to the strange manner in which the invitations were issued."

"Have you found out who did it?" she demanded.

"Yes." The light in his eyes was feverish.

"Who was it?" fiercely.

"I issued those invitations."

"You!" Her lips parted.

"Yes. I am the guilty man. The list was the main obstacle. I represented myself as secretary to her highness."

"And you have the effrontery to confess your crime to me!" her fury blazing forth.

"Call it what you please."

"What purpose had you in mind when you did this cowardly thing?"

"I had a definite purpose. An imposture like yours is a prison offense. You have seen that I love you, yet always ignore me. You must marry me."

"You are hiding a threat."

"I shall hide it no longer. Marry me or I shall disclose the imposture to the police."

"Oh!" Then she laughed the laughter of one in deadly anger. "Mr. Worth, do you suppose, even had I entertained some sentiment toward you, that it would survive a circumstance like this?"

"I am waiting for your answer. Yes or no?"

"No!"

"Take care!" He advanced.

"I am perfectly capable of taking care. And, Mr. Worth, you will leave this villa at once. And if you do not go quietly I shall order the servants to put you forth."

"You speak as though you were the princess," he snarled.

"Till Thursday morning I am!" La Signorina replied proudly.

A man who loses his last throw is generally desperate. He seized her roughly in his arms. She struck him across the eyes with full strength. He gasped and released her.

"If I were a man," she said quietly, but with lightning in her eyes, "you should die for that!" She left him.

Worth burst into tears. He went to his room, got together his things and drove secretly into Florence.

On the night of the ball there was a brilliant moon. Rosy Chinese lanterns stretched from tree to tree. The orchestra was playing Strauss, the dreamy waltzes from "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief." Bright uniforms and handsome gowns flashed by the opened windows.

Leaning against the door which gave entrance to the ballroom from the hall were two officers negligently interested in the moving picture.

"Shall we go?"

"No, no! The prince himself will be here at 11. He was, singularly enough, not invited, and, knowing the story as I do, I am curious to witness the scene."

Sale of Lands for Unpaid Taxes

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, will on Wednesday, September, 22, 1909,

at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the said Collector's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said city, expose for sale and sell the several tracts or parcels of land hereinafter specified, or any part or parts thereof severally sufficient for the purpose, on which taxes for the year nineteen hundred and eight remain in arrears, to such person or persons as will purchase the same for the shortest term and pay the tax lien thereon, including interest and costs of sale, or in fee where no one will bid for a shorter term.

This sale is made under the provisions of the act of the Legislature of this State, entitled: "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes," approved April 8, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the land to be sold, as shown on the City records, may be obtained at the office of the subscriber any week day prior to the day of sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following is a list of the several tracts and parcels of lands to be sold, which shows the names of the delinquents, the supposed owners thereof as the names of the delinquent owners appear on the books of the taxing district, together with a statement of the wards of the city wherein said lands are respectively situated, and the street in which each lot is situated, the block and lot number of each lot as they appear on the Official Assessment Maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, and the amount due from each of the said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot and parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the twentieth day of December, 1908, to the day of sale, and the fees provided by said act of the Legislature, viz.: for preparing and publishing notices of sale twenty-five cents for each parcel of land advertised; and for selling twenty-five cents for each parcel sold; and for each certificate of sale, fifty cents, besides necessary disbursements for printing, postage, affidavits and acknowledgements, which are hereby estimated at three dollars for each item of arrearage, and the City Clerk's fee for recording report, ten cents for each parcel of land sold, and all said fees and expenses shall form part of the tax lien and be paid by the purchaser at the tax sale.

Sale Number.	Supposed owner or person to whom assessed.	Ward.	Block No. City Assessment Maps.	Lot No. City Assessment Maps.	Street or Avenue.	Year.	Amount of Tax.	Date from which interest will be added at 10 per cent. per annum to date of sale.

Black Beeswax.

The black wax of Burma is made by a small wild bee of the genus melipona (M. laeviceps). This bee nests in hollow trees and forms a peculiar trumpet shaped entrance to its hive. It is very commonly found in the kanyin trees, in which large holes are made in tapping them for resin. The bees, says Nature, find these artificial hollows suitable for their nests. According to D. Hooper the wax is similar in composition to the resin of various trees, while that forming the vestibules of the hive is almost certainly the resin of the kanyin tree.

The old or frayed rag is a delusion, not a duster. Its particles of lint and ravelings will double the work.

THE BEST WAY TO SAVE.

No Way So Good As Investing in a Reliable Life Insurance Policy.

There is no way in which a man can save for his family's benefit better than through Life Insurance premiums. The company then saves them all in aggregate for him, invests this steadily growing fund of his to an advantage which he is rarely in a position to attain, and pays the originally agreed amount of policy when he dies or when he reaches a stipulated age.

Many meritorious methods of encouraging men to save have been evolved, but none possesses all the advantages of Life Insurance.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

VanArsdale's for Shoes.

Every man knows that it isn't what you pay but what you get that tells the story; we have shoes at practically every price for each member of your family; we don't pretend that our 2.00 Shoes are so long wearing and will be as satisfactory as our own or anybody else's 3.00. They are not, BUT at 2.00 we give you the best value obtainable and as the price goes up so goes the quality and dependability. From our big stock we can fit the foot and pocketbook of every wearer of shoes and we do it economically and well. Hundreds of our acquaintances and scores of your friends trade here and we would like and appreciate your trade; won't you favor us with it the next time you have shoes to buy.

2.00, 2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00, 5.00

Y.M.C.A. STAR COURSE SEASON BEGINS OCT. 3

The Young Men's Christian Association's star course season opens on Sunday, October 3, with a lecture by Dr. Lyman Beecher Speer, of Oberlin, Ohio, the well known lecturer on personal and social problems. His subject will be "Male and Female or the Significance of Sex." On Thursday, October 7, Dr. Lyman Sperry, on "Human Conditions and Possibilities;" Thursday, November 25, Miss Lillian Lamson, "The Lion and the Mouse," by Charles Klein; Thursday, December 16, Lotus Glee Club and Mrs. Winnie Marshall Smith; Saturday, January 1, Haley and Bond, musical comedians and Hendrickson, magician; Tuesday, January 25, Illustrated lecture on Panama by Charles L. Lewis.

As usual the association's religious work will be carried on zealously. A club will be formed to meet on Sunday afternoons to discuss Speer's "Principles of Jesus." A six-day gospel campaign will be held during the week Nov. 14 to 20. Rev. Bradfort Williams the noted evangelist has been secured to conduct this week of prayer.

HERE AND THERE.

"The Sub-Getter," described by the editor as "published spasmodically, at least one spasm each month, when we feel like it," has made its appearance here. It is published by the editor of Good Housekeeping, at Springfield, Mass. James E. Church, of this city, is the New Jersey agent. The following editorial note in "The Sub-Getter," is of interest here:

"Mr. Church has been in charge of Good Housekeeping Magazine subscription work in the State of New Jersey for several years, and his ability can be judged from the fact that in New Jersey the magazine has a larger percentage of circulation per capita than in any other State in the Union."

DISSATISFIED WITH SUPPER STEALS RAZOR AND MONEY.

Charles Techurz, a Pole, is being held at police headquarters on complaint of John Winklehoff, of Piscataway Township, on the charge of theft. Techurz and another Pole were engaged to do farm work by Mr. Winklehoff, who engaged both men at an employment agency in New York yesterday.

Charles complained that the supper he was given last night was not what he was accustomed to so in retaliation he got up in the middle of the night and took a razor and some money belonging to his fellow-countryman and stole away with it. Mr. Winklehoff saw Techurz on Park avenue about 8 o'clock this morning and grabbing him, held on until Patrolman Vanderweg came along and relieved him of his prisoner. He will be taken back to face the music in Piscataway.

Later Mr. Winklehoff asked that Techurz be allowed to go as his companion with an unpronounceable name did not care to prosecute the alleged thief.

BOWLING.

Smarting under the defeats handed them last week, the Armrights have arranged another match with the Raritan team to be rolled on Thursday night, at Campbell's alleys.

Teams representing the Pond Tool Works, of this city, and Levering and Garrigues will engage in a match series on Friday night.

With nine competitors on the list, entries for the individual tourney closed last night and the opening games will be rolled on next Tuesday night.

The entries are Kiely, Nash, Laing, Blatz, Skelly, Matthews, Schaub, Stout and Campbell.

Mrs. L. B. Bullock has sold her handsome residential property on Kensington avenue to New York parties.

Mrs. William S. Nelson, of Watchung avenue, who was taken to the hospital for an operation, was reported today as being in about the same condition as when received. She is not considered critical.

C. E. CONVENTION PLANS

Delegates to Be Welcomed by Local Divines at Opening Session.

THURSDAY NIGHT, OCTOBER 7.

Notable Speakers for Three Days' Session—Entertainment Committee Busy.

The annual State Christian Endeavor convention, to be held here on October 7, 8 and 9, will be formally opened Thursday night, October 7, in the First Presbyterian church, with addresses of welcome by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, on behalf of the convention church; Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, as president of the Plainfield Ministers' Association and Clarence B. LaRue on behalf of the local Endeavor Union.

State President J. T. Sproull will respond on behalf of the State Union. All meetings will be open to the public and all who attend will receive a cordial welcome. Ushers will be in attendance at all sessions.

Among the notable convention speakers will be Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, the founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, and Carl Lehmen, the field secretary for Colorado and New Mexico. Dr. Clark will deliver two addresses on Friday night, because of the large number of delegates who will come by special trains and trolley cars from Essex, Hudson, Union and Somerset counties to hear him. For this reason the First Presbyterian and First Baptist churches will be used for meetings to be addressed by Dr. Clark.

Mrs. Francis E. Clark, who is an expert on Junior work, will speak to the Juniors on Friday afternoon. The Junior exercises will be in charge of Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry and they will be a big feature of the convention. A parade in which 500 children will participate will precede the exercises in the church.

A meeting of the convention committee will be held tomorrow night in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. The committee has matters of detail well in hand and the indications are that this convention will be one of the most successful in the history of the State Union. Information in regard to the convention can be obtained from the secretary, Charles F. Windham, of 57 Fairview avenue.

An important feature of the preparation is the work of the entertainment committee, which is now busy securing homes for the delegates who expect to remain here all three days. Friends of the Endeavorers who are willing to entertain delegates for either one, two or three days, providing lodging and breakfast only, the noon and evening meals being provided otherwise by the committee, are earnestly requested to give their names to members of the committee as soon as possible.

The entertainment committee comprises representatives from the various churches in the city and borough. In signifying your desire to entertain delegates it is requested that you state how many delegates can be entertained and the number of days. This information can be sent to Alexander D. Galloway, chairman of the convention entertainment committee, 249 Netherwood avenue, this city.

The details for the convention are rapidly being completed and the indications are that it will be one of the largest and most successful gatherings held in recent years, owing to the fact that Plainfield is so easy of access to all parts of the State.

Athletic Associations Elect.

The girls' athletic association of the Plainfield High School, met this morning and elected these officers for the ensuing year: President, Miss Dorothy Merrill; vice-president, Miss E. Bird; secretary and treasurer, Miss L. Bird. The boys' athletic association elected the following as the board of directors: Harry VanZandt, James Maujer, Fred Loizeaux, K. Phillips, Howard Runyon. Harry VanZandt was elected president.

Auction Sale Tomorrow.

P. H. Latourette, auctioneer, will conduct an auction sale of household furniture tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at 826 Second place, near Crescent avennue. The goods to be sold are all in first-class condition and comprise a large assortment of desirable furniture. The terms will be cash. D. E. Gavin will be the clerk.

Women's Auxiliary to Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Friday morning, at 10:30 o'clock.

NO RELIGIOUS MEETINGS

Board of Education Declines to Permit School Bldgs. to Be Used for That Purpose.

BIDS FOR THE NEW SCHOOL.

Finance Committee Is Authorized to Borrow $15,000—The Custodian's Report.

The Board of Education at its monthly meeting at the Plainfield High School, last night, refused the application of the Christian Science church, of this city, for the use of the school auditorium for a lecture on Christian Science. The board expressed the opinion that it would be unwise to allow the use of the auditorium for any purpose that might raise religious questions or disputes.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield asked for the use of the auditorium on October 25, for a lecture to be given by Prof. Charles Zeublen on the subject of "Representative Government vs. Democracy," and the request was granted.

The building committee was authorized to advertise for bids for the new school building to be erected on Dunellen avenue. The architects will have the plans and specifications ready for distribution in about ten days. The plans call for an eight-room building to be constructed of brick and stone, with the unusual modern equipment. The school will be intended to provide accommodations for children living in the extreme West End of the city and other sections of the Fourth ward.

Principal Lindsey Best was appointed a member of the teachers' examination committee, in place of Ira W. Travell, resigned, and Drs. T. H. Tomlinson and A. F. VanHorn were re-appointed medical inspectors in the schools for another year. The finance committee was authorized to borrow $15,500 to meet current bills and September balances.

During the evening bills amounting to $4,500 were ordered paid. The report of the collector for July showed receipts of $393.22 and for August, $489.29 as school monies. The custodian's report for August showed a balance August 31, 1909, to the credit of the board, of $29,702.58. These reports were received and ordered filed. The other business was cheifly routine. All the members were present.

NEEDLESS WASTE BY SPECIAL ELECTION

Former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, made a stirring address before "Our Men's Association" at Binz's Hotel, Warrenville, last night, in which he took Governor J. Franklin Fort to task for advocating the special election at this time, necessitating needless waste of $75,000 of the people's money. Mr. Smalley also advocated assessors' maps for every township in the county, as being the only solution to a very difficult problem in levying an equitable assessment.

The earnest, straightforward remarks by Mr. Smalley were heartily endorsed by William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights. The meeting was largely attended by men from all parts of Warren township. W. H. Rogers presided at the meeting as president of the association.

RIVAL EXPRESSMEN HAVE BURIED HATCHET.

A truce has been patched up between James Gray and Walter Thompson, local expressmen, and perhaps there will be no further occasion to resort to the kindly offices of City Judge Runyon to do the patching.

Gray and Thompson have been at loggerheads for a few weeks owing no doubht to the competition in business. Charges and countercharges of threats of carving each other have been passed and Gray believed the matter should be threshed out in court so that a complete understanding might be reached.

Judge Runyon listened to both sides of the controversy this morning and advised the two expressmen to keep away from each other for the future and the trouble between them would die a natural death.

Will Wed October 12.

Miss Lilian Torrey Glen, daughter of Mrs. I. Renwick Glen, of West Sixth street, and George Herbert Gains, will be married at Grace church Tuesday afternoon, October 12, at 3:30 o'clock.

—It is Joseph W. Gavett who was appointed a playground commissioner, and not Andrew J. Gavett, as stated in yesterday's issue of The Daily Press.

UNION W.C.T.U. PROGRAM

Twenty-Fifth Annual Convention of County Organization Here Tomorrow.

PLAN FOR THREE SESSIONS.

Social—Social Meetings and Red Letter Days, Mrs. M. Mosher, Westfield; Flower Mission, Miss M. L. Underhill, Rahway.

Legal—Legislation and Petition, County President Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson; Christian Citizenship and Franchise, Mrs. P. H. Bennett, Plainfield; song, "White Ribbon Rally Song." Address, "The Nation's Front Door," Mrs. Mary B. Wilson, National Superintendent of Work Among Foreign Speaking People, Philadelphia; report of resolution committee, miscellaneous business and adjournment for supper.

The evening session will begin at 8 o'clock, with devotions in charge of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the church. The address will be delivered by Rev. Dr. C. L. Mead on "An Inspiring Vision," to be followed by offering, hymn and benediction.

Giddy Giddis.

Garfield Giddis, 30 years old, who lives in Warrensville, was arrested last night charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct on Somerset street. Several young girls had complained that he had chased them. He was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver in the borough police court this morning, and was fined $3.

Teachers' Fund Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the members of the Teachers' Retirement Fund of Union county at the Morrell street school, Elizabeth, on tomorrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock for the purpose of electing three delegates to the annual State convention.

Semmer Out on Bail.

Nathal Semmer, who was taken to Elizabeth Saturday, to be held in jail to await the action of the grand jury, was released yesterday, bail having been secured through his brother, of Perth Amboy. Semmer is accused of arson.

SEEK DRAKE'S MILLIONS

Local Claimants to Wealth of English Navigator to Make Fight for it.

MEMBERSHIP FEE IS $5.00.

One of the Countless Estates Tied Up in Chancery Sought by Local Descendants.

That the Drake heirs intend to make a concerted effort to recover some of the wealth supposed to be lying in the coffers of the great English Court of Chancery is evident by the call for a meeting which is to be held next Monday afternoon in the W. C. T. U. room in the Babcock building.

The Drakes and others formed an association some weeks ago which they named "Association of the Descendents of Sir Francis Drake." A meeting was held with Mrs. Eleanor Dunn on August 26, and at that time some thirty descendants of Sir Francis came together and talked over the matter of making an effort to get some of the supposed fortune that awaits the claimants in this country.

The meeting of Monday is to still further discuss the matter and strengthen the forces of the association by the addition of new members. The association intends to send a representative to England for the purpose of making a search of the records and a contribution of $5 will be asked from each member to defray the expenses of the trip and the research among the musty records of the Court of Chancery.

Since the last meeting Mrs. Dunn, the president of the association, has received communications from many new heirs in the West and South and she would like very much to hear from those who believe that they are descended from the famous navigator. Mrs. Dunn lives at 52 Norwood avenue. Among the families connected with the movement through direct relationship or marriage are the Dunns, Martins, Stelles, Mannings, Dunhams, Runyons, Hulls, Pyatts and FitzRandolps.

BERKELEY HEIGHTS BUNGALOW LIBRARY

Berkeley Heights is to have a public library. Lucky Berkeley. William Jeffery, the public spirited citizen who bought the model bungalow which won first prize for floats in the Charter Day parade, and who intended to give the little house to his daughter for a play house has decided to fit it up as a library and donate it to the people of his town. He already has a sufficient number of volumes to make a good start, and further donations of books are expected to fill up the shelves in short order.

It is Mr. Jeffery's purpose to place the management of the new library in the hands of the public school children and the system to be followed will be that in vogue in the Plainfield library where honor counts a whole lot in the success of the undertaking. The three schools in Berkeley Heights are interested in the new library and have pledged their support in every way. The children are enthusiastic over the prospect of having a store of books upon which to draw for their entertainment and study.

By Monday of next week the new library will be in full swing and its official title will be "Berkeley Public Library." Support for the new institution is expected from everyone interested in Berkeley Heights and donations of books will be thankfully received. Mr. Jeffery says that he will send his automobile for any books that people wish to donate if they will only notify him of the fact that they wish to contribute volumes. The library is designed to furnish reading matter for adults as well as children, so books of all kinds will be acceptable. The library will be located at the corner of Putnam and Plainfield avenues, Berkeley Heights.

"Bob" Alberts Will Be Here.

"Bob" Alberts, known as the "Pommery Sec" of Grand Secretaries, will visit Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. In the announcement of his intended visit, Frederick J. Pope, the secretary, has the following to say: "If you know 'Bob' you will not miss this opportunity to see and hear him, should you be so unfortunate as not to know him do not fail to be on hand. Among the Arcanum 'Stars' he is known as the 'Halley Comet.' He is a genial, whole-souled—well, he comes from Hoboken, you can imagine the rest.'

In the galaxy of noted men, who give old Union fame,
There is one who's frank by nature, and is also Frank by name.
In his politics and dealings he is ever on the square;
He's the one and only Register that doesn't give hot air.

GOVERNOR GLEN NOT TO BE HEARD HERE

Owing to a breakdown from overwork, ex-Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, will probably have to cancel his engagement to speak in this city on the subject of local option. The ex-Governor has been continually at it for the past months talking in all the large, and many of the smaller cities, of this State and it is due to this persistent effort that his health has failed him.

The great speaker's breakdown was rumored yesterday and confirmation was sought from Samuel S. Swackhamer this morning, who is a personal friend of the ex-Governor, but Mr. Swackhamer was unable to more than say that he had heard the same thing and doubted that the meeting planned for this city could be held.

Mr. Swackhamer, who is an ardent worker in the cause of local option, spoke at Milford last night in behalf of the movement and in support of Senator William C. Gebhardt, who is making an active canvass through Hunterdon county previous to the coming primaries. Senator Gebhardt wants to succeed himself in order to secure a hearing of the voice of the people in the matter of the liquor traffic and its control.

CITY SELLS PROPERTY FOR UNPAID TAXES

The sale of land for 1908 unpaid taxes is being held at the office of Tax Collector William R. Townsend this afternoon. A number of delinquent taxpayers called at the office during the morning and settled their accounts, leaving about sixty properties to be sold this afternpon.

In a majority of cases the amount in taxes charged against the properties was small, a few aggregating a little over $100. There was the usual gathering of bargain hunters in real estate, persons looking for desirable properties for little money. Besides paying the amount of the tax, the purchaser also is obliged to pay the office fees to cover the expense of certificates, advertising, etc., amounting to about $3 and also interest at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum.

FUNDS ARE NEEDED NOW FOR WHITE PLAGUE WORK.

The finance committee from the Plainfield Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, met in the parish house of Grace church, last night, when there was a discussion regarding methods to be used in raising funds to pay the balance for the construction of the tuberculosis pavilion as well as for the maintenance. The building will be ready for occupancy early in October.

After the discussion an adjournment was taken to Monday night, at the same place at 8 o'clock, when detailed plans will be approved. Miss Leahy will be the nurse in charge at the pavilion.

THIS YOUTH JUST CAN'T HELP STEALING MONEY

Henry Donnelly, the fifteen-year-old son of Patrick Donnelly, of 317 Stebbins place, was charged with stealing $20.60 from Mary Flatley twice yesterday and this morning was paroled to appear with his father in the city court, before Judge William Runyon, on Saturday morning.

Young Donnelly first stole the money early in the morning, but the loss was discovered quickly by Miss Flatley and the money recovered. At 11 o'clock the money had again disappeared, so had Henry. The simultaneous disappearance of boy and money prompted the boy's father to notify the police and last night the boy was picked up on the street and taken to police headquarters. The money, still intact, was found in his pocket.

Judge Runyon questioned the youthful relinquent as to his motives for taking the money. The boy said he had no plans, he just simply took it because it was money. Judge Runyon did not believe that the boy was altogether bad and allowed him to go on his promise to behave and present himself Saturday morning with his father for a further consideration of the case. Donnelly said his mother is sick in bed and that, perhaps, accounted for his unkempt appearance. He promised to be good.

OVER 3,000 PUPILS IN LOCAL PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield schools, at the September meeting of the Board of Education, last night reported that the new Washington school was opened Monday, with over 400 pupils, every class room, but one, in the building being occupied.

It was also reported by Dr. Maxson that the total attendance of children in all the schools of the city is 3,059, which is 195 more than the attendance of last year. This increase is largely in the Stillman school and in the Washington and Irving districts. The increase, if all in one building, would require the addition of five classes and explains the ever increasing need for additional accommodations which the city is feeling from year to year.

Senior Class Elects Officers.

The senior class of the Plainfield High School met yesterday afternoon and elected these officers for the year: President, Fred Loizeaux; vice-president, Miss Margaret Leggett; secretary, Howard Runyon; treasurer, Russell Miller.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

While Alone Preparing Evening Meal, Mrs. John Green Loses Her Life.

ENVELOPED IN THE FLAMES.

It's the Old Story of the Oil Stove—Victim Dies on Way to the Hospital.

Mrs. John Green, a tenant in the Kreyling building, Main street, Bound Brook, was burned to death last night while alone and in the act of preparing the evening meal. Her husband found her dead body after a search among his neighbors who were loath to tell the man what had happened.

From what can be gleaned from the other tenants in the house Mrs. Green had applied a match to the wick of an oil stove on which she was preparing supper. The oil in the stove had become exhausted and in refilling the stove the oil became ignited and an explosion followed. Mrs. Green's clothing caught fire and in a moment she was a mass of flames.

Her screams attracted the attention of the other tenants who rushed the rescue of the burning woman. In the meantime the fire had spread to the furniture in the room and the fire department was summoned. Mrs. Green was carried to the lawn in front of the house and with the aid of blankets the fire in her burning clothes was extinguished, but not before she was fatally burned. She died on the way to the Somerset hospital in the ambulance. Mrs. Green left no children.

HUDSON-FULTON STAMP SALE BEGINS SATURDAY

Postmaster E. H. Bird, who has placed his order for the new Hudson-Fulton two-cent stamps, expects to receive the same so that they can be put on sale Saturday, the first day allowed by the government officials. Mr. Bird has ordered over 100,000 stamps of this issue. This morning a Plainfielder sought earnestly to secure fifty stamps of the new issue from Mr. Bird, offering to pay $1.25 for the same. Mr. Bird was compelled to decline the offer.

Experts claim that the new issue is one of the finest from an artistic point of view yet issued by Uncle Sam. The stamp shows the Palisades, near New York, a canoe with Indians and both the Half Moon of old Hendrik Hudson and the Clermont of Robert Fulton. The detail is executed so well that by using a glass names of the pennants flying from two vessels can be decipered.

There are only 50,000,000 of these stamps issued, and the department has received many requests from postmasters from all parts of the country, so that the whole supply is likely to be gobbled up shortly. The first block was sent out from Washington last Monday. This block will go to more distant points. The first sales of the Hudson-Fulton stamps will be on the 25th.

A SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN FOR MISS DORA WILSON.

Miss Dora Wilson, of East Fourth street, was given a surprise party at her home last night by a number of friends. The evening was pleasantly spent with vocal and instrumental music, playing games and at a late hour refreshments were served. The affair was arranged by the Misses Cecilia Brennan and Amelia Carbone.

Among those present were the Misses Blanche Mercier, Florence Long, Amelia Carbone, Cecilia, Mamie, Helen and Winnie Brennan, Sarah Head, Evelyn Porter, Anna Wuergler, Katherine Miller, Katherine McDonough, Margaret Harris, Dora, Florence and Anette Wilson and Lester Marsh, Eugene Groves, Frank and Charles Ferraro, Will Skinner, Paul Richter, Benjamin Coon, Will Conway, Leonard Bennett, Nelson Leonard, Harold Gloak, S. Montross, George Hook, Hiram Hunt, Ray Van Nest, James Caufield, Jack Caufield, Walter Wilson, Geo. Miller, Charles Bolmer, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and others.

—Clifford Smith, formerly of this city, has resigned his position as a conductor on the main line trolley.

—The accommodations at Muhlenberg Hospital are now about taxed to the limit, there being thirty-five patients there under treatment.

—Neuman Bros. are making a specialty of all kinds of fruit and the opportunity should not be lost by housewives. The assortment includes everything that one could possibly wish for and the prices are right.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Because he had suffered the loss of at least $50 during the past three weeks by thieves, who had over-run his melon patch, Charles McDermott, of New Market, caused the arrest of Joseph Penrose and William Schoerer, young men of that place, Monday. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Clark Rogers and were fined $24.95. The local authorities learned the names of others who have been making night raids on McDermott's melons, and more arrests will follow.

Mrs. Harry Gaggers, of Dunellen, who went to visit friends in Brooklyn on Friday, was taken seriously ill in that city Saturday night, and is said to be in a critical condition. Her husband was summoned to Brooklyn Sunday night.

Dr. Thomas Platt, of Dunellen, has purchased six building lots on Madison avenue and will commence the erection of five houses at once.

Henry Schneidler, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has taken possession of the house he recently bought on Washington avenue, Dunellen.

Mitchell Gilroy, of Sandusky, O., spent yesterday calling on old friends in Dunellen and New Market, where he formerly lived.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bond, of Pleasantville, spent Sunday with Rev. and Mrs. George Gardner, of New Market.

D. C. Fulton and family, of New Market, spent Sunday and Monday with friends at Huntington, Long Island.

Miss Mabel Smalley, of Brooklyn, is spending this week with her uncle, William Jenner, of New Market.

Miss Celia Crawford, of Dunellen, went to Atlantic City yesterday for a three weeks' stay.

SOMERVILLE.

L. G. Ayres, leader of the Plainfield group of Epworth League chapters, which includes those of Westfield, Plainfield, Dunellen, Mt. Horeb, Bound Brook, Raritan and this place, is arranging for a lecture to be given in the Methodist church here Thursday evening, September 30, by Professor Isaac T. Headland, who has but recently returned from China. The lecture will be upon scenes and life in the Flowery Kingdom and will be illustrated.

The district Boards of Registry and Election of the borough have posted notices for the primary election to be held next Tuesday from 1 to 9 p. m. The number of voters registered in the three districts are as follows: First 488, Second 433, Third 496.

The friends of Game Warden Geo. H. Miller are much concerned over his condition. He was taken to Somerset Hospital last week to undergo an operation, but his condition was found to be such that an operation would be of no avail. He is afflicted with cancer.

Henry Haberle has been elected captain of the Somerville Athletic Association's football team. Practise will start shortly. This team will try to sustain its reputation on the gridiron.

Yesterday there was an attempt by the police to make a raid in the "lottery field," but the colored population saw them first and "beat it" across the fields and through Peter's Brook.

Somerset Council, Knights of Columbus, is arranging to hold a dance in Germania Hall Monday evening, October 11, the eve of Columbus Day.

Leonard B. Tunison has the contract for removing the trees made necessary by the widening of Grove street.

The Wilson Military Academy opened today with an enrollment of about sixty students.

The Methodist church will have its annual roll call on Thursday evening.

WESTFIELD.

Joseph Clark, aged seventy-seven years, who has been a resident of Westfield all his life, died Monday at his home on Central avenue. He had been in several lines of business in the town, but retired from active work about fifteen years ago. He is survived by a widow, one son and a daughter.

The installation of Rev. S. L. Loomas, pastor of Westfield Congregational church, that was announced to take place on September 28, has been postponed. The date will be announced later.

Several houses are being built on what was formerly the Lewis Theis farm near Willow Grove, by a New York company.

Several sidewalk ordinances were passed on final reading at the meeting of Westfield Council Monday night.

Henry B. Joseph, of the First National Bank, has returned from his annual vacation.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, is in Europe on an extended business trip. He will be away several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brower and Miss Henrietta Baker, of Patchogue, L. I., are visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Heaton, of 828 West Sixth street.

GOLF.

Well known local professionals are interested in the golf tournament that will be held at San Francisco the week of October 17. It is coincident with the Portola celebration, for which Californians are making extensive preparations. So far as the golf is concerned, eighteen prizes have been arranged for, with first money to the amount of $850, while second prize will be $500. Alec Smith, of Wykagyl, the Metropolitan open champion; H. H. Barker, of Garden City, and probably Gilbert Nichols, of Wilmington, will make the trip, while from the Middle West Tom Vardon and Will Anderson have been booked. It is understood that the expenses of the visiting professionals will be paid by those handling the tournament.

The week of October 10 will also be a gala occasion at the Country Club of Brookline, where the rearranged course will be formally opened. On the first day there will be thirty-six holes of medal play, with two special $25 prizes—one for the best eighteen-hole score in the morning and the other for the best afternoon card. On the second day the first four will fight it out at match play. There will be $150 for the winner, $100 for the runner-up and $50 each for the two other principals in the semi-final round. The second four will also compete, the winner to receive $60, the runner-up $40 and the other two $20 each.

The activity at the Park Golf Club this season is unprecedented. Fifty new members have been elected and every week the course and tennis courts are crowded with players, while a great many find enjoyment in the social features at the clubhouse. The popularity of the organization is constantly growing.

The members of the Plainfield Country Club are now in the full swing of an active fall season. In addition to the numerous events on the course the tennis courts, the social features are greatly enjoyed. The weekly dinner dances have proved a happy diversion and the capacity of the clubhouse is always tested.

There is a revival of interest in golf at the Westfield Golf Club, an attractive fall schedu'e having been arranged by the golf committee.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold rally day exercises Sunday noon.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday morning will be for the Deacon's Fund.

The societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church have resumed fall activities and a busy season is planned by the members.

"Giving to the Lord," will be the subject of the prayer meeting at Hope chapel, tomorrow night. Rev. L. R. Howard will be in charge.

St. Ann's Guild of St. Stephen's church met yesterday in the parish house and planned for the winter's work. The program will comprise several social functions.

The Women's Society of the Congregational church met yesterday and considered the topic, "Italy," as presented by Mrs. J. M. Whiton and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., held a regular conclave Monday night.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE POLE.

The first chapters of Dr. Frederick A. Cook's own story of his discovery of the North Pole, copyrighted by and now appearing in the New York Herald, will appear in this paper within a few days, exclusive publication rights for this territory having been obtained by The Daily Press. From the viewpoint of science human interest and intense realism this is the greatest narrative in a hundred years.

Following the publication of the discoverer's story, Commander Robert E. Peary's fascinating story of his finding of the North Pole, copyrighted and first presented by the New York Times, will be published in The Daily Press, which has obtained the exclusive rights in this territory.

These stories of history-making, the heroes in each of which is an American, are equally interesting and instructive. They will appear in no other paper in this section and therefore if you are not a regular subscriber do not neglect to order the paper from your newsdealer or from this office.

SLINEY ARRESTS GALLAGHER; DUNELLEN SCRAP STILL ON.

Another chapter was added to the war now being waged between Marshal William Sliney and Michael A. Gallagher, of Dunellen, through the arrest of Gallagher by Sliney at the Central Railroad station on a charge of soliciting fares for his hack this morning at 10 o'clock. Gallagher was taken before Borough Recorder David Campbell who released Gallagher when he showed conclusively that he was there by the request of a party from New York city, who had engaged him by telegraph to take them out into the country.

Gallagher has been prohibited from soliciting business at the station, the contract having been given to Samuel Osborn, but he claimed this morning that he was not soliciting, but was there by the request of two men from New York. He exhibited the telegram in evidence to prove his assertion and was discharged by Recorder Campbell. Sliney will face Gallagher at a special meeting of the Borough Council Friday night.

Funeral Services of Gustave Thomas.

DOLLAR DINNER TO BE A GREAT AFFAIR

All plans have been perfected for the big Republican dinner to be held tonight at Turn Hall, in Elizabeth. All the big men of the party, not only in Union county, but throughout the State, will be on hand, and there will be eloquence and viands in profusion, with a review of State politics by Governor John Franklin Fort, who has wired the committee that he will be present. United States Senator John Kean will be toastmaster. The other speakers will be:

Vivian M. Lewis, State commissioner of banking and insurance; Senators Frelinghuysen and Ackerman, Judge William N. Runyon, Mayor Victor Mravlag, C. F. Hetrick, Sheriff of Monmouth county; Asa Bird Francis, chairman of the Monmouth county Republican committee; Assemblymen Pierce, Schwartz and Thompson, County Chairman Frank H. Smith and County Clerk James C. Calvert.

Seven hundred stalwarts will occupy seats at the affair.

The reception committee is composed of James White, chairman; Edward Bauer, secretary; Robert J. Kirkland, treasurer; Sidney Williams, Henry Krouse, Amos Andrews, Henry Fromm, John W. Clift, Neil McLeod, Jr., Fred C. Decker, John R. Moxon, H. H. Williams, William H. Hall, William H. Randolph, William Pender and Henry P. Schmidt.

INHUMAN AUTOISTS FLEE AFTER KILLING A BOY

Henry Louis Doremus, the ten-year-old son of Henry Doremus, a prosperous farmer of Fairfield, near Montclair, was run down and instantly killed by a big touring automobile containing three men last night, after which the occupants of the car brought the body of the little boy to the home of Henry Bush and placed it on the porch. After telling some members of the Bush family to get a doctor, they jumped back into their machine and disappeared in the darkness without leaving their names or destination.

The car that ran down the boy was very speedy, and was apparently headed for Morristown via the Passaic road, along which the boy was walking when killed. Dr. E. E. Peck, of Caldwell, who was called to the Bush home, after the body had been left there, said after examining the body that death had been instantaneous. In the surprise that followed the bringing of the boy's body to Mr. Bush's home, none of those who were present at the time thought to try and get the names of the men in the machine. The trio stopped only long enough to leave the body and then drove away at a great speed. One of the farmers that saw the machine said afterward that it displayed a New Jersey license, and he is certain that he has the number. He would not divulge the number last night, but said he had telephoned it to the Sheriff of Passaic county in the hope that an arrest might follow.

The news of the killing of the Doremus boy spread rapidly, and soon a great crowd of farmers had gathered at the Bush home. Indignation was expressed on every hand, and the raising of a reward was started immediately. The county officers and the officials of all the towns in Passaic and adjoining counties were notified by telephone.

ELIZABETH EXCISE LAW TO BE TESTED.

It was learned last night that private individuals deeply interested in excise matters have engaged a prominent Newark lawyer to test the constitutionality of the act providing for an election of a new excise commission in Elizabeth this fall. The Democrats, it is understood, have taken no steps in this direction, nor do they intend to, although rumors to this effect have been in circulation for some time.

While there have been reports that City Clerk John Kenah would be barred by mandamus proceedings from having the names on the petitions printed on the ballots for election, with a view of tying up the matter for one year, this step has not been taken. This action would bring the matter to the Supreme Court.

It is the opinion of lawyers here that the law is providing for the Excise Commission vote would bear testing in several of its parts. The chief opposition against it is that if passed it means an additional expenditure of money for salaries.

Powerful interests in Elizabeth and in Newark are said to be behind the movement to test the law. Those interests are eager to have the old board hold over, and are loath to witness the election of a new body, which may possibly change conditions so that the interests referred to would be materially injured. This being the case, a stubborn fight will undoubtedly ensue, and the five of the twenty-six candidates who may possibly be elected may never serve.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Emmons, of Prospect place, have returned from a sojourn at Belmar.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A big crowd is expected to attend the trial of Marshal Sliney on Friday at the borough hall. New testimony is expected to be produced by both sides.

Miss Ethel Garretson leaves tomorrow for Brooklyn, where she will spend a week's vacation with friends.

Mr. Cornelius Huff left last night for Brooklyn. He will be back to the borough in a few days.

Isaac Stites and Henry L. Garretson were visited yesterday by friends from Cranbury.

HERE AND THERE.

"Poor Bob's Almanak," (nearly illustrated) showing which way the wind is blowing in Brooklyn, is the title of an attractive little book just published by R. F. R. Huntsman, of this city, who is manager of advertising for the Brooklyn Standard Union, and is also the New York representative of The Daily Press.

The book is filled with timely suggestions relative to the great advantage of advertising. Some trite sayings in the book are: "Published as inspiration directs." "Back numbers of the Almanak cannot be obtained anywhere. We'll try to have no back numbers."

"No opera ticket, rat poison, trips to Chinatown or other coupon inducements." "If you say it's 'Bob's Poor Almanak' we'll not dispute you." "It cost more to sit in an orchestra chair than in the gallery." "We don't sell preferred positions at run of paper price." "Better come in before you are crowded out. Soon it will be a case of 'standing room only.'" "Step over our 'welcome' mat now."

William Rehman, who lives near Warrenville, has a remarkable hen, the age of which he knows to be sixteen years. She is as spry as the youngest of them and when she is among the large number of hens owned by Mr. Rehman you cannot tell her from one that is a year old. A remarkable part about the hen is that she lays an occasional egg and her days of usefulness, it appears, will continue for sometime.

Some huge ears of corn have made their appearance in this city lately, but it is believed that the largest specimens ever exhibited were brought in this morning by Walter Clark from his farm on the Rahway road. In the office of the Kensington Hotel Proprietor Burns is exhibiting one ear of the grain which measures sixteen inches long and is fourteen inches in circumference. However, even this ear is not the largest pulled from the giant stalks on Mr. Clark's farm. He had two other ears which he will send to Washington, D. C., each of which measured eighteen inches long with a corresponding increase in circumference.

At Proctor's.

The vaudeville will be entirely changed at Proctor's theatre, tomorrow, the acts including Marvelous Egg Family, comedy acrobats; Hanson & Bonet, in a comedy sketch; "Much Fuss About Nothing;" Matty Lockett, something original in character change work and Bassalari, the grotesque comedian. Today's bill is a fine one and has been enjoyed by capacity audiences this week. The films d'art still continue to entertain patrons of the house.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The "Three Twins," which comes to the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night with the full prestige of a Metropolitan success behind it, having run five months in Chicago at the Whitney Opera House and 10 months in New York at the Herald Square Theatre, where is received the unanimous praise of the entire New York press as being one of the smartest musical plays produced in years. Jos. M. Gaites has spared no expense in the mounting of this attraction, costuming is gorgeous, scenery magnificent, and the electrical effects bewildering, and the finale of the first act is said to be one of the most elaborate pieces of mechanism that has ever been placed on the stage, it shows an aerial circular swing with six beautiful show girls in baskets and while revolving the swing is illuminated with 2,000 incandescent lights, making a gorgeous spectacle.

The only opportunity Plainfielders will have to see William Collier in his latest farce, "The Patriot," written by himself and J. Hartley Manners, will be at the Plainfield Theatre on Tuesday night, September 28. "The Patroit" is a sheer farce, as emphatically as Mr. Collier is a never failing, unctuous, resourceful farce actor with a peculiar style of his own. Mr. Collier has already acted "The Patroit" over 200 times at the Garrick Theatre, New York city. It has been staged, largely written, and as largely acted by William Collier, and it allows him ample scope for the widest possible play of that eccentric style of comedy that has gained him his following.

Miss Florence Windham, of Fairview avenue, has returned home from her vacation spent visiting Mr. and Mrs. Meyers, of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Willard H. Cook, of Prescott place, is recovering from an attack of nervous prostration. She is under the care of Dr. Norman H. Probasco.

THE LOST COIN.

Missing or lost, last Sunday night,
A Waterloo coin, whereon was trac'd
Th' inscription "COURAGE!" in letters bright,
Though a little by rust of years defaced.

Whosoe'er of this lost treasure knows
Is begg'd to state all facts about it,
As the owner can't well face his foes,
Nor even his friends, just now, without it.

MISSING MAN MAY LOSE A BIG LEGACY

If Charles A. Zabriskie, who is charged in divorce proceedings brought recently by George E. Earl with having eloped over two years ago with Mrs. Earl, does not return to Boonton within the next four years he will be out of pocket just $25,000, his share of the estate of his father, J. D. Zabriskie, who recently died. The elder Zabriskie makes provision in his will that if his son is still absent on the twenty-fifth birthday of his youngest child, he shall forfeit the right to the sum named.

The youngest Zabriskie is now 21 years old. The money is to go to him in the event of his brother's non-appearance to claim it.

A hearing in the Earl case was recently had, but Special Master King has withheld his decision. Earl says that he and Mrs. Earl were married on Oct. 6, 1893, but that Mrs. Earl deserted him on Christmas Day of that year. Later they were reconciled, but now he says that his wife and Zabriskie disappeared on June 13, 1907.

COLUMBUS DAY NOT HOLIDAY AFTER ALL

Vice-Chancellor Garrison, sitting in Jersey City Monday, held that the Columbus Day holiday act is defective. Columbus Day is on October 12. The Legislature made it a legal holiday.

During the course of an argument in chancery chamber Monday morning it was discovered that the case of Beck vs. Beck had been set down for October 12. The lawyers called the attention of the court to the fact and the law books were sought. It appeared that the holiday act of 1876 had been repealed in deference to several subsequent acts that establish legal holidays, but the act of 1909, establishing Columbus Day as a legal holiday was put on the books as a supplement to the act of 1876.

"We have here, then," said the court, "a supplement to an act that does not exist. I think this court will sit as usual on October 12. I give notice, however, that this court will not sit on Christmas Day, the first of January or the Fourth of July."

NEW YORK'S HUDSON-FULTON PROGRAM.

Celebration continues from Sept. 25 to Oct. 9.

Monday, Oct. 4, to Saturday, Oct. 9—Celebration by towns along the Hudson; borough celebrations here.

Saturday, Oct. 9—Evening, lighting of beacon fire from Staten Island to the head of navigation.

Note—Route of all land parades in Manhattan will be from 110th street down Central Park West to Fifty-ninth street, east to Fifth avenue, and thence to Washington square.

Find Man Hanging to Tree.

While hunting for chestnuts in the Woodridge woods near Passaic Monday, Victor Marini found a man suspended on a rope from a large oak. He hurried to town and notified the police. The man's features were indistinguishable, and the condition of the body made immediate burial necessary. The authorities have come to the conclusion that the man committed suicide. The body was that of a man about thirty-eight years old, of medium build. Nothing to lead to his identity was found.

At Proctor's.

The new show at Proctor's theatre presented Monday for the first, as a good one. Sincay's trained dogs and cats do marvelous things: Cohen & King, in a comedy sketch, "The Desert of Sahara," are clever, while Ralph Whitehead, monologuist, and character change artist is capital in his latest songs. Willie and Josie Barrows, dancing artists, always please.

Close at 6 P. M. Friday. Open Saturday Evening

Don't Be A Furnace Slave

The BOYNTON Square Fire-Pot

PATENTED

reverses the usual order of furnace facts. It requires the least amount of fuel and the least amount of care. In return it gives the biggest, hottest fire you ever knew; a clean, clinkerless fire. It burns all the coal and when you shake it all the dust goes up the chimney. BOYNTON furnaces are clean. They give the maximum of heat for a minimum of expense. We will gladly give you the name of the nearest BOYNTON dealer, so that you may investigate.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

THIS MAN WANTS TO KNOW HIS OWN NAME

The following letter was received Monday by City Clerk T. Simpson Standeven, of Paterson, and turned over to Register of Vital Statistics Charles S. Gall:

"Dear Sir—I am seeking information concerning myself as to what my name is. I know my age, and, I think, my name, which is William Delaney, born in your city, aged 25 years, born April 9, 1863. Knowing that you have the records, I would be under obligation to you if you would search them for me, as I am married and have two children. I was born, as I believe, at 140 Bank street, and was christened by Father McNulty in the Catholic church. If you cannot find Delaney, would you be so kind as to try to find the name of Kent of the same address, as it means much to me. Respectfully yours."

Register of Vital Statistics Gall will communicate with Dean McNulty in an endeavor to gain the desired information from the records at St. John's Roman Catholic church.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

It is now announced that the new $80,000 public school building in Woodbury will be ready for occupancy on the first Monday in November.

Officials of the Camden Home for Friendless Children pronounce as an imposter a man who is soliciting subscriptions for a proposed outing for the inmates of the institution.

The greatest celebration ever witnessed in Clayton was held Saturday afternoon, when the new $40,000 High School was dedicated and thrown open for the inspection of the public.

The Mercer County authorities have been compelled to take drastic measures to put a stop to the practise of small boys climbing about on the face of the courthouse building, in South Broad street, Trenton.

Hannah L. Rambo, seventy-six years old, wife of Tabor Rambo, a farmer of Thorofare, was found dead in bed by her husband early Sunday morning, and Coroner Hunter gave a certificate of death from heart disease.

The contest between two brothers for membership in the Gloucester County Republican executive committee at Westville is growing interesting. It will be a fight to the finish. Dr. James E. Hunter, the Avis candidate, and Hugh Hunter, the Loudenslager candidate, are the brothers.

The time for filing nomination petitions expiring Saturday night, it is shown that Mayor George Hampton, of Bridgeton, will be renominated by the Democrats and will be opposed by Roscoe C. Ward, the present county solicitor, all the other Republican candidates for the nomination having withdrawn.

A scandalous story led to a stabbing affair Sunday that may result fatally. Joseph Sofield, sixty-four years old, of Camden, used a penknife to cut William Hann, thirty-four years old, of Kaighn avenue. Hann had demanded of him an explanation for the alleged circulation of the story objected to. Sofield says he used the knife in self-defense.

William Estgen, of 104 Humboldt street, Trenton, has finished a remarkable three years of accidents by burning both hands in a bucket of pitch. He plunged his hands in the bucket Saturday to stop a fall from a three-story building. During the past three years he has broken each leg, one at a time, and torn off an ear. He is in a hospital in a bad way.

From unknown causes Mrs. Edward Phiper, twenty-seven years old, of 128 Woodlynne avenue, Woodlynne, was taken to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, Sunday, a victim of lockjaw. Late last night the woman died. While Mrs. Phiper received no wounds of any description within weeks she was stricken with all the symptoms that presage an attack of the disease.

Coroner Hunter, of Gloucester County, has become suspicious that a "baby farm" is in operation somewhere in the vicinity of Red Bank, for within a month the corpses of four little innocents have been found in that locality. The fourth was found on the wharf on the river front yesterday, and the coroner had it removed to the morgue in Woodbury. The body bore evidence of strangulation, the doctor said, and he has started an investigation. There was nothing whatever about any of the bodies to aid in tracing the supposed slayers.

John Dotson, the colored man accused of the larceny of some rings, and who slashed Mrs. Mamie Smith three times across the face in a Sixteenth avenue house in Paterson last week, was arrested in the "Tin Box" on Goodwin street, that city, on Saturday evening by Detectives Lord and Elvin. Dotson says he did not steal the rings—he simply took them for safe keeping. He had nothing to say concerning the use of the razor on Mrs. Smith's face. Dotson was held in heavy bail on Reserve Officer Cook's charge of atrocious assault with intent to kill, and on Mrs. Sisco's charge of larceny.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Hillard, peering gloomily over their shoulders, overheard. The prince! Oh, this must not be! There could be only one prince in a matter of this kind. He pushed by the Italians without apology for his rudeness, edged around the ballroom till he reached La Signorina's side. He must save her at all hazards.

She struck him across the eyes.

"The prince himself will be here at 11," he whispered.

"What prince?"

"Di Monte Bianca. Come; there is no time to lose. I have been holding my carriage ready."

"Thank you, but it is too late." She smiled, but it was a tired and lonely little smile. She had long since armed her nerves against this moment.

He stepped back, discouraged. He would wait, and woe to any who touched her!

At precisely 11 the music ceased for intermission. There was a lull. Two carabinieri pushed their way into the ballroom. Tableau!

"Which among you is called the Principessa di Monte Bianca?" was asked authoritatively.

"I am she," said La Signorina, stepping forth. "What do you wish?"

"You are under arrest for imposture. You are not the Principessa di Monte Bianca."

Hillard, wild with despair, started to intervene.

As the carabinieri were about to lay hands upon La Signorina a loud voice from the hall stopped them.

"One moment!" An officer in riding breeches and dusty boots entered and approached the dramatic group. Hillard and Merrihew recognized him instantly. It was the man with the scar.

"This woman," explained one of the carabinieri, saluting respectfully, "is posing as your wife, highness. We are here to arrest her."

"Do not touch her!" said the prince. "She is the Principessa di Monte Bianca, my wife!"

CHAPTER XVIII.

MEASURE FOR MEASURE.

SILENCE invested the Villa Ariadne, yet a warm and mellow light illumined many a window or marked short pathways on the blackness of the lawn. A solitary saddle horse rattled his bit, pawed restively and tossed his head worriedly from side to side, as if prescience had touched him with foretelling.

On the other side of the wall, lurking in the dark niches, was a tall, lean, gray haired old man, who watched and listened and waited. He was watching and listening and waiting for the horse. Seven years! It was a long time. He had not hunted for this man. He was breaking no promise. Their paths had recrossed. It was destiny.

The leaving of the guests had been hurried and noisy. In truth, it resembled a disorderly retreat more than anything else. The denouement was evidently sufficient. They had no desire to witness the anticlimax, however interesting and instructive it might be. His highness the Principi di Monte Bianca, Enrico by name, strode up and down the floor, his spurs tinkling and his saber rattling harshly. Occasionally he glanced at the group on the opposite side of the room. He laughed silently. Oh, he would enjoy himself tonight. He would extract every drop of pleasure from this unexpected moment. Had she been mad, he wondered, to give him this longed for opportunity? A month longer and this scene would have been impossible. At last he came to a stand in front of La Signorina, who was white and weary.

"So," he said, "after five years I find you, my beautiful wife! What a devil of a time you have given me—across oceans and continents! A hundred times I have passed you without knowing it till too late. And here, at the very moment when I believed it was all over, you fling yourself into the loving arms of your adoring husband! I do not understand."

"Be brief," she replied, the chill of snows in her voice. Her hate for this man had no empty corners. "Say what you will and be gone."

"I shall telegraph the attorneys in Rome to partition the estates, my heart!" he mocked her. "The king will not add to his private purse the riches of Colonel Grosvenor and the Principi di Monte Bianca, your father and mine—old fools! To tell the truth, I am badly in need of money, and, head of Bacchus, your appearance here is life to me, my dear Sonia. Life! I am a rich man. But," with a sudden scowl, "what position in my household does this gentleman occupy?" indicating Hillard and smiling evilly.

"So it is all true, then?" Hillard exclaimed. "You are his wife!"

"Well?" cried the prince impatiently. "I inquire again, what position does he hold?"

"This villa is mine," she answered, her tone giving hint to the volcano burning in her heart. "However the estates may be partitioned, this will be mine. I command you to leave it at once. I loathe you."

The prince laughed. She was simply a sack of gold. But this was his hour of triumph, and he proposed to make the most of it.

"I could have let the carabinieri take you to prison," he said urbanely. "A night in a damp cell would have chastened your spirit."

"Is it possible?" returned Hillard. "Your highness has but to say the word and I will undertake the pleasure of relieving you of this man's presence."

"Be still," she said. "Will you go?" to the prince.

"Presently. First I wish to add that your dear friend is both thick skulled and cowardly. I offered to slap his face a few nights ago, but he discreetly declined."

"I am calm," replied Hillard, gently releasing his arm from her grasp. He approached the prince, smiling, but there were murder and despair in his heart. "Had I known you that night one of us would not be here now."

"It is not too late," suggested the prince. "Come, are you in love with my wife?"

"Yes."

The bluntness of this assertion rather staggered the prince. "You admit it, then?" his throat swelling with rage.

"There is no reason to deny it."

"She is your"—

But the word died with a cough. Hillard, a wild joy in his heart, caught the prince by the throat and jammed him back against the rose satin panel. Hillard seized his sword arm and pinned it to the panel above his head. Again and again the prince made desperate attempts to free himself. He was soon falling in a bad way. He gasped, his lips grew blue and the whites of his eyes bloodshot. This man was killing him! And so he was, for Hillard, realizing that he had lost everything in the world worth living for, was mad for killing.

La Signorina was first to recover. She sprang toward the combatants and grasped Hillard's hand, the one buried in the prince's throat, and pulled. She was not strong enough.

"Merrihew! O'Mally! Quick! He is killing him!" she cried wildly.

The two finally succeeded in separating the men, and none too soon. A moment more and the prince had been a dead man.

La Signorina turned upon Hillard. "And you would have done this thing before my very eyes!"

HOME NEWS.

Of Interest to Everyone in Plainfield.

In every newspaper in the country you will read statements made by people living in out-of-the-way places, who are supposed to have been cured or derived great benefit from some wonderful remedy or "cure-all." But here in Plainfield we only publish statements made by Plainfield people—the testimony of your friends, neighbors and fellow-townsmen.

Mrs. C. Rosseter, 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I had severe backaches and occasional attacks of rheumatism. Being told that Doan's Kidney Pills were very effective in cases of this nature and believing that my trouble arose from disordered kidneys, I procured a box of this remedy from Randolph's Pharmacy. I soon found relief and since that time I have always kept Doan's Kidney Pills in the house. Whenever I feel out of sorts, I take a few doses of this preparation and I am soon feeling good. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

EIGHTY-SEVEN MINISTERS AT PRESBYTERY MEETING.

The stated meeting of the Presbytery of New Brunswick was held in the First Presbyterian church, New Brunswick, yesterday with eighty-seven ministers and elders present. Rev. Dr. W. W. Knox, of New Brunswick, presided as moderator.

Among the important business of the day was the request of Rev. Dr. W. S. Voorhees, pastor of the Milford and Holland church, to dissolve his pastoral relations with those churches to accept a call from the Thompsonville Presbyterian church, Thompsonville, Conn. This was granted and Dr. Voorhees will leave for his new home October 1.

Miss Avis Aldrich, of Sherman avenue, senior at Vassar College, has returned to the institution for the coming year, after spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Huntington, of this city.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Windham, Jr., of Brooklyn, are visiting relatives in the borough.

Miss Lillian Smith, of Brooklyn, has returned home from a visit with friends here.

Mrs. William Brown, of Trenton, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Mrs. H. C. Smith, of Madison avenue, who has been seriously ill, is much improved.

Miss Etta Jones, of Jersey City, who has been visiting friends here, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Abbott, of West Seventh street, are spending sometime in upper New York State.

Dr. O. R. King, of Putnam avenue, has returned home after spending his vacation at Thousand Islands, N. Y.

Mrs. William Lewis, of Newark, is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Tamison, of Grove street.

Miss Josephine Hughes, superintendent of Muhlenberg Hospital, will return this week from a month's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver B. Hall, of Evergreen avenue, have returned from their vacation spent in the mountains.

W. J. Poulson, formerly proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, but now of Red Bank, has been visiting friends here.

Alfred W. Dunavan, of L. W. Randolph's pharmacy, will enjoy his two weeks' vacation attending the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

Mrs. James McLean, of Netherwood avenue, is recovering from a severe attack of the grip. She has been ill about three weeks.

Mrs. Nellie Baldwin, of Spooner avenue, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Molly Mowrey, of Ozone Park, L. I. She will be away two weeks.

Miss Cornelia Lounsbury, of Plainfield avenue, a sophomore at Swarthmore College, has returned to resume her studies for the fall and winter.

Miss Rose Splaine, of Newburyport, Mass., was received at Muhlenberg Hospital, today, as a pupil nurse, making four probationers in all accepted this year.

ORDAIN AND INSTALL REV. HAROLD E. GREEN.

Rev. Harold E. Green, of Brooklyn, who was graduated from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, last June, was ordained and installed as pastor of the Reformed church of South Bound Brook, last night. There was a large attendance of members and friends of the church.

The exercises were in charge of Rev. Dr. Stout, former pastor, who is president of the Classis. Rev. J. A. Thompson, of Middlebush, read the Scripture lesson; Rev. Floris Ferweda, of Millstone, offered prayer and the sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. J. Preston Searles, dean of the New Brunswick Seminary. His text was "A Bond Servant of Jesus Christ," Romans 1:1.

The prayer of ordination was delivered by Rev. Dr. Pockman, of the First Reformed church, New Brunswick, during which all the ministers present participated in the impressive ceremony of laying on of hands. During the evening there was special music by the choir. This is one of the historic Reformed churches of the State. It was here that Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage was pastor during the early part of his life.

Disturbance in Borough.

Harry Galler and a youth named McGrath had a mix-up in a Somerset street saloon in North Plainfield early this morning and it is alleged that one of the young men was shot in the heel while he was running away from Marshal Culver who was called to quell the boisterous and disorderly men. The damage to the saloon property, amounting to fifty cents was settled. It is said that one of the youths was shot but no confirmation can be had.

Arrested on Suspicion.

William Terrell, a young colored man, was taken into custody by Detective-Sergeant Flynn this morning on suspicion that he was implicated in a stabbing affray in New York city recently. He is being held while his record is being looked up by the New York police. He was taken from a Watchung avenue pool room.

STATE ISSUES 3,000 LICENSES TO GUNNERS

Although the gunning season in New Jersey has not fairly opened yet, the State has thus far issued over 3,000 licenses to gunners in all parts of the State, and it is expected that when thes eason is on in full swing the most roseate expectations of those who framed the law, which went into effect July 4, will be fulfilled.

Under the law, which is in effect this year for the first time, residents of the State are not permitted to take or shoot game until they have first obtained a license from the county clerk in the county in which they reside.

A person is permitted to go gunning on his own property, but when he goes into other territory he must have his permit. This is done that there may be less indiscriminate slaughter of game, and that the use of guns may be prohibited those who are not competent to handle them.

The shores of South Jersey is the section from which the greatest number of applicants have come, and the people there who have contributed their dollar for the privilege represent the best people in that section. During the last month nearly $800 was received by the State Treasurer from Atlantic county alone, and other sections of the State where there is good gunning are showing up in a similar manner.

One of the purposes of the law was to prevent people who have slight disregard or knowledge of the game laws of New Jersey from killing off birds or game that are protected by the State. Unnaturalized foreign-born people were those whom the framers of the law feared most in that respect. An examination of the records shows that but thirty-five licenses have been requested by such people, and with such a small proportion it is argued that there will be little danger of indiscriminate slaughter.

It is the general opinion that this year there will be an abundance of sport for those who wish to try their luck at shooting a deer without going out of the confines of their own State. This year the law will be off each of the four Wednesdays in November for the first time in many years. And it is believed from the many reports which have been received from all parts of the State that there will be many opportunities to bring down a buck or a doe. In some sections of the State the farmers report that they see deer daily, and in some sections the brutes are called an unitigated nuisance because of the damage they do to the crops.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rally day exercises will be held at Bethel chapel Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The school will be addressed by Emerson E. Parvin.

A special meeting of the Ladi s' Aid Society of the Temple Baptist church will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Bible class room of the church.

A peach dumpling sociable will be held at the home of Mrs. Anne Robinson, 524 East Third street, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Circle of Earnest Workers of Bethel chapel.

The first rehearsal for the spectacular entertainment, "In Flower Land," to be held at Hope chapel, October 15 and 16, was held last night at the chapel. Fifty-three persons were present and signified their intention of taking part. The entertainment is to be given under the direction of Miss Bertie K. Shipley, of New York city, who has become famous in a repertoire of original stories.

Miss Shipley is related to both Daniel Boone and Abraham Lincoln through her father, the late Dr. E. S. Shipley, of Tennessee. Her great-grandfather was a co-worker with Patrick Henry, of Vidginia, and her grandfather was an orator in the cause of Henry Clay, of Kentucky. Miss Shipley is a story-teller and an orator, the traditions of America's old orators being handed down through her people. Her presentation in costume is considered the most refined and artistic representation of American history.

DIED TRYING TO SAVE DOG.

Sherman Killed in Struggling to Pull Hound from Third Rail.

In a vain effort to save the life of his hunting dog, which had come in contact with the third rail of the "Fast Line" electric branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on the Atlantic City Meadows, a man believed to be I. W. Sherman, of Atlantic City, lost his life yesterday.

Sherman had been hunting and was on his way to Atlantic City after having been searching for mud hens on the Meadows. The dog, wet from swimming after the game, ran beside his master and came in contact with the rail. The man tried to help his dog and seized him by the leg to pull him away from the rail. The wet fur of the animal made a perfect contact and Sherman received the full force of the current. He fell with one leg on the rail and was in that position when discovered by the crew of a train running in here from Camden. The man and dog were both dead when found.

FARMER HELD IN CONTEMPT.

Drove Hogs to a Creek on His Own Land in Defiance of Injunction.

The spectacle of a man being sent to jail for contempt for refusing to obey a court order to keep his hogs out of a stream which flowed through his own lands was presented in the Chancery Court at Trenton yesterday when Vice Chancellor Walker sent William B. Sarson, a farmer living on the line of the Buckhorn Creek, to jail for ten days.

The court had granted an injunction against Sarson continuing to send his hogs to the creek because the Bucks Spring Water Company had complained to the court that the water was used for bottling purposes etc. The farmer drove his hogs there despite the court's prohibition, saying he intended doing as he pleased on his own lands.

The Vice Chancellor said Sarson had defied the court, and sent him to do penance in jail.

RINGING SPEECHES AT G.O.P. DOLLAR DINNER APPLAUDED BY 600 REPRESENTATIVE DINERS

Governor Fort, Congressman Fowler, Judge Runyon, Banking Commissioner Lewis and Senators Frelinghuysen and Ackerman Speak—U. S. Senator Kean Toastmaster.

Surpassing in every way anything of the kind ever attempted before by the Republicans in Union county, the Dollar Dinner at Turn hall, Elizabeth, last night was a big success. Nearly 600 diners listened to the ringing speeches of party leaders including Governor Fort, Congressman Fowler, Judge Runyon, Senators Frelinghuysen and Ackerman and Banking Commissioner Lewis. United States Senator John Kean was the toastmaster.

Those at the speakers' table were Governor J. Franklin Fort, Senator John Kean, Senator J. S. Frelinghuysen, Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Vivian M. Lewis, William N. Runyon, Dr. Victor Mravlag, C. E. F. Hetrick, Asa Francis, Assemblymen Carlton B. Pierce and Augustus W. Schwartz, Lloyd Thompson, Charles B. Loomis, Frank H. Smith, James C. Calvert, Rev. William T. Stuchell, James White, Hamilton F. Kean, Charles Joel Fisk, Colonel Colgate, Charles B. Holmes, Peter Tillman, Sidney Williams, John R. Moxon, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, Victor Mravlag, and Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson.

Owing to the lateness of the hour at which the Newark meeting broke up the Governor did not arrive until the dinner was practically over. Lewis, with a hot primary campaign of his own on his hands in Passaic county, was also late. Mayor Fisk and Congressman Fowler came in together, and the latter was enthusiastically cheered.

The Governor followed Senator Frelinghuysen, after being gracefully introduced by Senator Kean, and his speech made some of the old-time Republican leaders present gasp. He spoke with great earnestness, and his remarks were frequently interrupted by applause. Among other things, Governor Fort said:

"Senator Frelinghuysen has talked along the lines I wanted to follow. I don't know just what he said, but whatever he said, I know he was not afraid to say it.

"If the Republican party in the State wishes to keep its hold on the State, it must fulfill its pledges to the letter. If some one should take the bosses of the Republican party by the throat and choke them out of existence he would be doing the right thing.

"The time has gone by when we should hedge. The Republican party in New Jersey is a boss-ridden party, and we must get rid of bosses.

"Senator Frelinghuysen in the Legislature stood for good laws which were never passed; they were killed in the lower House. The party must keep its promises or go out of existence.

"I have been a Republican almost ever since I could speak. I made fifteen speeches for Grant in 1872 in his Presidential campaign before I was of age. There is only one year left for me in office, and I want the State to send back to the lower House men who will stand by the Governor—if you wish to put it that way—or by the party, and give us the laws the party promised it would give the people.

"You cannot deceive people nowadays. There are too many schools and colleges and the people are too well educated. You must keep your promises. Be guarded in your promises, but when you do make them, keep them. The man who does not keep them must get out of the party.

"I am going to ask the people not to send back to the Legislature the men who did not keep their pledges. I am a Republican—a Regular Republican—bone and sinew, but I will not support a breach of faith with the people of the State of New Jersey."

Some of the prominent men of Union presented were:

George T. Parrot, Surrogate; Prosecutor C. Addison Swift, George Swift, Judge Edward S. Atwater, former Mayor Samuel Berry, of Elizabeth; James C. Calvert, County Clerk; Judge C. McK. Whittemore, Colonel Robert L. Patterson, former Sheriff Glasby, Councilman Frederick J. Richers, C. Symmes Kiggins, Councilman Albert Kent, Register Frank H. Smith, Charles Batteil Loomis, Augustus S. Crane, William F. Groves, Councilman Edward Frost, Charles S. Hiller, Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland, Postmaster Palmer H. Charlock, Edward Bauer, James White, Walter B. Timms, William Newcorn, Hamilton F. Kean, Andrew McCardell and Clarence Williams.

Mr. White, chairman of the arrangement committee, introduced Senator Kean, whose proposal of a toast to President Taft was drunk standing. Congressman Fowler received a second ovation when called upon, but he asked to be excused for the time, so his place was taken by Mayor Mravlag. The latter congratulated the county on the number of distinguished men who had consented to be present. He urged that all Elizabeth voters present do all in their power to have the city go Republican this year. He confined himself almost exclusively in his brief remarks to the local affairs of the party.

Introducing Senator Frelinghuysen, Senator Kean took occasion to praise him for his work in the Legislature. "These round-ups around the festive board, where men are gathered together, afford an opportunity for closer relationship, which brings about better political conditions. It is always an honor to be present at a dinner presided over by the gentleman at the head of the table tonight, who has recently returned from his labors in Washington.

"You have been termed the machine. I believe in machinery and machinery of the truest steel. There has been harsh criticism of the machine during the last few years. Some of it was honest, but some was inspired by bitterness."

The speaker went on to draw a comparison between the opposition developed by the introduction of machinery into the industrial world, and that which had become apparent in politics. He said that every machine must have a man behind it, drawing a distinction between a "leader" and a "boss."

"There is one essential to a good leader," he said. "He must be a man greater than all others, whose word is as good as his bond. Political promises should be made carefully, and when made should be kept to the letter.

"After thirteen years of Republican administration we are face to face with new conditions. The men at the head must be men of high mind and broad views. It is necessary in a party that the party word be kept. Platform promises are not written to be idly disregarded. The greatest minds in the country are brought to write these platforms."

"These men," the Senator said, "sometimes saw fit to postpone some of these pledges.

"The people do not wish to be troubled with the legislative questions. They leave that to the men they elect, and if they are not equal to the burden the voters soon find it out.

"This is the time when the party must take its bearings. You are the regular organization of your county Let us work for the party of Lincoln Garfield, Roosevelt and Taft. Let us work for the good of the party that has had such a glorious part in the history of the country."

Senator Frelinghuysen was followed by Mr. Loomis, who humorously told of the trip to Washington for the inauguration of President Taft.

After the great applause that greeted Judge William N. Runyon, upon his introduction by Senator Kean, had subsided, the popular Plainfielder held the close attention of the large assemblage by his earnest words. He spoke of the necessity of taking great care in the formation of political platforms, not to promise anything that was impossible of fulfillment. Once the platform is launched it is the duty of the party to see that its promises are kept.

"If each member as a whole," continued Judge Runyon, "should recognize the responsibility resting on him and be true to the principles of his organization, the Republican party would occupy the position it should. Office-holders should not look on their positions as opportunities for personal glory or self-agrandizement, but as opportunities to serve their fellows. The motto of the Republican party should be 'Keep faith with the people!'"

In conclusion, Judge Runyon portrayed the laudable career of the late Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, whose death is now mourned by the country at large. He was

UNION COUNTY W.C.T.U.

Convention in First M. E. Church—Nearby Towns Represented.

HAS A MEMBERSHIP OF 526.

Mrs. Mary Davis Tomlinson Re-elected President, Other Officers Same as Last Year—Meeting Tonight.

There were fifty-eight delegates assembled this morning at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Union County Women's Christian Temperance Union in Vincent chapel of the First Methodist church when Mrs. Mary Davis Tomlinson called the convention to order. Delegates representing Elizabeth, Cranford, Garwood, Dunellen, Rahway, Westfield and Plainfield were present.

The convention was opened by the reading of the crusade psalm followed by the crusade hymn. After a prayer offered by Miss S. J. Keron, of Elizabeth, and a greeting by Mrs. T. C. Bodine, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson of the First M. E. church, and Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church also greeted the convention.

The address of the president was perhaps the most interesting event preceding the election of officers for the ensuing year. She said that newspapers all over Europe were doing their utmost to kill the liquor traffic and there are 1,200 newspapers agitating the work in France, Italy, Germany and England and the work is progressing in a way to encourage the Christian workers in this country.

In England, Germany and Wales instruction is being given in the schools regarding the evil effects of alcohol from a physical standpoint, which instruction will have the effect of making men and women true to the principles of the total abstainers. Many of the fraternal organizations are refusing the applications of men who are known to use liquor.

The Treasurer's report showed that $290.89 had been received during the year, and that an expenditure of $274.15 left a balance in the county treasury of $16.74.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected toward the end of the morning session and resulted in the naming and electing of all those who have served during the past year: President, Mrs. Mary Davis Tomlinson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. L. Rarick, of Dunellen; recording secretary, Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of Plainfield; treasurer, Mrs. Mary T. Cox, of Cranford. This afternoon the convention will devote to the hearing of reports of the various superintendents and the other departments of the work. Tonight at 8 o'clock a devotional meeting will be held at which Rev. Dr. Anderson will preside. An address will be given by Rev. Dr. Chas. L. Mead, of Hoboken, the subject being an "An Inspiring Vision."

According to reports read this morning there are 526 members enrolled in Union county. Mrs. T. C. Bodine was elected a delegate to the National convention which will be held in Omaha and Miss Emily Coy was named as alternate. Mrs. Tomlinson, responding to the Chautauqua salute upon her re-election, said: "I love you and I love my work. I believe the Union county W. C. T. U. is composed of the best women in the State. They have shown ability, love, sympathy and helpfulness in the work. I thank you for your confidence."

Short speeches were made by each of the other re-elected officers and after the memorial service a recess was taken for luncheon.

Death of Mrs. Olaf Saugstad.

News has been received in this city of the death at Falls Church, Va., of Mrs. Elizabeth Browne Saugstad, wife of Olaf Saugstad, of 815 Carleton avenue. Mrs. Saugstad went to Falls Church in search of health a little while ago, but failed to improve. She had been ill for some time. She was a daughter of Dr. Niel F. and Harriet A. Graham, and granddaughter of the late Right Rev. Horatio Southgate, D. D.

THEIR RECTOR RESIGNS

Heavenly Rest Church Flock Loses the Rev. Charles Townsend.

DECIDE ON A SUCCESSOR.

Departing Priest Will Rejoin the Society of St. John the Evangelist.

Rev. Charles Townsend, who has been rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest during the past year, will leave here on October 1, to return to his former work in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Boston, which is a work among the poor of that city which is carried on by the Society of St. John the Evangelist, an organization of mission priests.

Mr. Townsend was engaged in that work up to last October, when he accepted the call to the Church of the Heavenly Rest for one year to inaugurate the work as an independent parish. During his stay here he has been successful. As the West End has developed rapidly the communicants and offerings have materially increased during the year. The second year as an independent parish opens up with much promise.

At a meeting of the trustees Tuesday night, the name of a rector to succeed Mr. Townsend was presented by the Bishop and a call was extended. Owing to the fact that the acceptance has not yet been received, the name of the clergyman is withheld until that time. Mr. Townsend will celebrate the Holy Eucharist at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning. This will be his last service.

AUTO 'BUS FIGURES IN ANOTHER COLLISION

To avoid a collision with a Plainfield auto-bus, Carl Loberg, chauffeur for Mr. Wright, of Metuchen, drove his machine over the curb, breaking one of the front wheels and throwing himself to the ground, at 8:30 o'clock this morning. He was uninjured. Both cars were going east on Somerset street, the touring car driven by Loberg, running along behind the auto bus.

At Craig place the auto-bus turned in to the left. Loberg had intended to turn in there, too, and seeing what he considered room enough on the inside of the road he turned in until he was almost up to the bus. The driver of the bus not knowing of the following machine turned in to the curb as soon as it rounded the corner. This left no room for Loberg, so he threw on the brakes, but they failed to work. He then turned his car to the curb. The force which the wheels struck the curb broke one of the front ones, the sudden shock throwing Loberg to the ground. Luckily he was uninjured. There were no passengers in the auto-bus at the time.

Y.W.C.A. GYMNASIUM CLASSES BEGIN OCT. 18

With a new gymnasium in which to work, the Young Women's Christian Association is looking forward to a great season for its physical culture classes. The classes will be started on October 18 and the physical director, Miss Margaret Mosher, is anxious to have as many as possible registered on the first day so that there will be few late comers to delay the work of the others. The "gym" will be opened on October 11, for the physical examination of the "athletes." Dr. Clara D. Krans, will examine the young women and will prescribe the work which she thinks will benefit them most.

Among the attractive features of the gymnasium work are fencing, basketball, gymnastic dances and bar bells. The classes which start now, will give an exhibition in the Young Men's Christian Association's hall in the first part of January with dumb bells and other exercises, fencing, a basketball game and possibly a track meet on a small scale will be shown for the delight of their family and friends.

The walking club will take a ten mile walk to a glen near Scotch Plains on Saturday. This will be the longest walk the club has taken as yet. It will be so arranged that those who wish can take a trolley car, but so far all have announced their intention of walking the entire distance. These walks are getting more popular each week. The girls take their lunch with them and cook it over an open fire.

Edgar F. Waldron, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with his aunt, Mrs. S. W. Milligan, of Orchard place.

MISS HENRIETTA WEISS EDMUND TEXIER'S BRIDE

Miss Henrietta Weiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Weiss, was married at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Edmund A. Texier, of Watchung. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Bowers, of Springdale, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Kate Leland, on Somerset street. Miss May Weiss, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and James A. Ross, of Richmond Hill, L. I., was best man.

The bride wore an empire gown of white peau de cygne over white taffeta and trimmed with Brussel's lace. The bridesmaid wore a white lingerie empire gown trimmed with lace. The house was decorated with autumn leaves and smilax, the ceremony being performed with the bride and groom standing under a bower of the leaves. Many members of both families were present among the 100 guests. The festivities were prolonged until nearly midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Texier, left immediately after the wedding for the South on their honeymoon. They will return to New York where they will reside, in about ten days.

Mr. Texier is the business manager in New York for a large glove concern, in which his father is interested. For the past three years he has been living in Watchung.

HIGH WATER MARK IN SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

The enrollment of pupils in the Plainfield public schools is now complete, the total number enrolled in the eight schools being 3,059, as stated in The Daily Press of yesterday. The increase at the Washington and Irving schools cannot be shown separately because on opening the new Washington school, many pupils were transferred to relieve the Irving school.

There is now a class of over forty pupils now meeting in the McVey building on West Front street, and that will go into the new building on Dunellen avenuenext fall, provided the present plans are carried out.

At the Bryant school, two classes are on half-time, owing to crowded conditions. In the grammar grades 6, 7 and 8, there are about one hundred more pupils than last year, showing the increased efficiency with which pupils are being promoted. There are now 199 pupils in the grade preparing for the High School next fall.

The official enrollment, showing increase this year, is as follows:

High School, 347; increase 8. Stillman, 380; increase, 54. Whittier, 244; increase, 4. Franklin, 426; increase, 48. Washington, 415. Irving, 529; increase, 48. Bryant, 415; increase, 23. Lincoln, 303; increase, 10. Total enrollment, 3,059; increase, 195.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark, of East Sixth street, have removed to 110 West Sixth street.

FORT'S FIERCE ATTACK

Governor Makes Sensational Arraingment of G. O. P. Organization.

STATE POLITICAL CONDITIONS

He Praises New Idea Reformers and Denounces Regulars Methods in New Jersey.

Gov. John Franklin Fort of New Jersey, addressed a meeting in the New Auditorium in Newark last night on "Political Conditions in New Jersey." The Governor made a sensational attack on the regular organization of his own party as boss-ridden and supinely subservient to corrupt influences, definitely read himself out of the Republican State organization, placing himself on an independent basis in New Jersey political affairs.

Charging various leaders with responsiblity for the defeat of important reform measures, the Governor announced himself as in sympathy with the course the Colby New Idea members of the Legislature had taken and expressed his sympathy with and admiration for the methods of Gov. Hughes of New York. The audience received the Governor's radical declarations with wild demonstrations of applause.

One surprise in his speech was his declaration in favor of the Colby Assembly candidates in Essex County, it being urged upon his hearers that they give these candidates every support possible at the approaching primaries.

The Governor, discussing the election on the Constitutional Amendments, said the majority of 2,500 given in Hudson for the amendment for Assembly salary increases was the result of "Bob Davis' orders" and the 1,500 majority in Atlantic was due to "Boss Kuehnle's orders." The first is a Democrat, the second a Republican. With one accord, the Governor declared, the boss system was, on the other hand, against judiciary reform amendents. The Democratic bosses were equally as bad as the Republican, he said, and worse if anything.

Touching on direct primaries, the Governor aligned himself squarely with Governor Hughes on the subject. He quotes Governor Hughes' advocacy of direct primaries as follows:

"A few make a business of political activity, run things. That is not American. The way to get a representative Legislature is to make the nominations come directly from party voters. Political leaders should stand before the people resting upon the suffrages of the people."

Gov. Fort's comment was as follows:

"With this declaration of Gov. Hughes I agree. It has the right ring. Every legislator must be free to exercise his own judgment. He must be his own man and owe no allegiance to any other master than the people. The way to secure that is by the direct primary. We can only get that in New Jersey by overthrowing present lobby conditions at the State House. I love the party of Abraham Lincoln and want to stay in it, but I do not want to see it boss ridden and unresponsive to the popular will. That every boss is against the direct primary is plenary evidence that it is right.

Bossism is the serious political problem of our time. If these men would only boss once in a while in favor of legislation for people it would help some, but they seldom do.

On the question of the use of money in politics the Governor says:

"Money! Money! Oh, the curse of it in politics. It is the mainstay of the political boss. It is absolutely unnecessary, in my opinion, to spend money as is done. The corruption of the ballot for political purposes must be curtailed to some way. How is a serious problem. A public utilities bill, reasonable and fair, would go a long way toward it because the corporations would feel they were safe from attack under it. And they would be in a large measure."

The Governor praised the New Idea reformers, and named them all as worthy of support. He concluded as follows:

"For this speech I realize that all the dogs of war of the bosses and platform breakers will be let loose upon me. But I rather enjoy that. When you are right it does not trouble you what people say. Governor Hughes, who is making a splendid fight in New York, said at Watertown last Friday:

"It is in this spirit that I have made this speech, and if in the making I can awaken the people of New Jersey to the true conditions of defiance of the party by the political bosses, and can prevail upon them to defeat the nomination of men who last winter were false to the party

RARITAN.

On Monday night the Board of Commissioners organized with these officers: Thomas Brown, president, and Frank Gallagher, secretary and treasurer. The following standing committees were appointed: Hall, A. G. Chamberlain, George V. Liebold, Charles F. Smith; Streets, Smith, William H. H. Wyckoff; Auditing, Wyckoff, Chamberlain, Smith; Trolley, John Cagnasolo, Smith, Chamberlain; Lights, Liebold, Cagnasolo, Chamberlain; Sewer, Gallagher, Liebold, Wyckoff. John F. Reger was unanimously re-elected as counsel, and Daniel Reynolds as assistant secretary.

The Raritan bowling team will go to Plainfield tonight, where they will roll against the Armrights of that city. The match will take place on John Campbell's alleys, the same drives on which the home boys took the Plainfielders' scalps just a week ago. The probable line-up will be: J. Schaub, Ryan, Vliet, Mathews and W. Schaub. W. Schaub and Mathews have entered the individual tournament on Campbell's alleys.

Miss Ruth Elliot, one of the teachers in the public school, has been removed to the Somerset Hospital, suffering from an abscess. An operation was performed by Dr. Edward Ill, of Newark, assisted by a local physician. Her condition, while somewhat improved, is still critical. Her place in the public school is being filled temporarily by Mrs. H. L. Davis, of Somerville.

He will remove from this place to Pen Argyl, Pa., his former home, and embark in the coal business. While living here Mr. and Mrs. Whitney have been earnest workers in the Methodist church.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new rectory of the Episcopal church on High street at the head of Doughty avenue. This white stone structure is being erected by Superintendent Smith, of the Raritan Woolen Mills, as a memorial to his late son, Harry Smith.

The Has-Beens, a ball team composed of the older men of the Second Reformed church, including Mayor C. C. Kenyon, the pastor, Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl, and other former ball players, will line up against the Bon-Ami club next Saturday afternoon.

A special session of the Classis of Raritan was held in the chapel of the First Reformed church Tuesday, at which the pastoral relations between Rev. Oscar M. Voorhees and the Reformed church at High Bridge were dissolved.

The Somerset County Bar Association held its annual dinner at the Ten Eyck House, here Tuesday. Judge Charles W. Parker, of the Supreme Court, was the guest of honor.

Percy Snyder has bought the former Klotz property at Doughty avenue and High street and will occupy it after alterations have been made.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, former pastor of the Second Reformed church, was in town yesterday.

Claremont Masker has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rinehart, at North Branch.

IMPORTERS NEWARK'S STORE BEAUTIFUL BROAD, NEW AND HALSEY STREETS RETAILERS

Women's and Misses' Tailored Broadcloth Suits for $15.75

There is nothing so popular as broadcloth this season—nothing that has a more positive stamp of fashion upon it, and the broadcloth entering into these suits is of a very good sort indeed, a quality that is good looking, good to the touch, and may be had in many of the very best of this season's shades. The coats are extra long, in semi-fitted effects, handsomely trimmed with silk braid and buttons, lined with a good quality of satin; the skirts are in the fashionable panel-plaited effect, braid trimmed. The makers thought they should sell at about $29. We price them as a special feature of this opening week at 15.75

Enameled Bed and Outfit at a Saving of $9

It's a great convenience to many to be able to buy a bed, mattress, spring and pillows, all rightly matched, in a single purchase, and so we make up these combination outfits, and in this case will make a 2-day price, Friday and Saturday, that will save every buyer exactly $9—surely a great consideration to folks inclined to be the least bit economical.

Enamel Bedstead, corner upright posts are 1 5-16 inch; the filling rods are half-inch and the top rod is of brass 1¼ inch; has brass flat vases on the head and foot; tea ball castings; made in all sizes. It is enameled white, nice and smooth and a first-class article, in fact the best bed on our entire floor for the money.

Mattress, made of good grade cotton felt, carded in layers, 45 lbs. in weight, 4 feet 6 inches in size, one part; covered in plain blue and white stripe ticking, or several patterns of fancy stripe. All the edges are felled and nicely tufted, made up as good as possibly could be, new and fresh every day.

Spring, has framework of iron tubing with patent corner malleable castings. All parts are neatly bronzed, has a woven wire fabric top, with steel wires running along sides and additional coils of heavy fabric running through body of spring; ends are attached with spiral coil springs; the ends of the wire fabric are closed so that vermin cannot get in, and there are no ragged ends to tear the bedding. It is constructed with a reinforced trussed end bar which gives strength and resiliency. A sanitary spring.

1 Pair of Pillows, filled with feathers, 3½ lbs. weight each and size 22x28. The ticking is of the best quality A, C. A. blue and white stripe.

	Regular Price.	Sale Price.
Bed	$9.00	$5.75
Mattress	$8.00	$4.75
Spring	$4.25	$3.25

BROADCLOTHS
THE FABRIC OF ARISTOCRATS

Parts of outfit may be bought separately at prices quoted. Beds and Bedding sold on the Club Plan.

Broadcloth, if not always on the crest of the wave of popularity, is never out of fashion—never wholly shelved that other weaves may be favored; and broalcloths, this season, are at the fore-front of the fashionables—proudly, aristocratically predominating the world of dress.

Nowhere in this fair State are broadcloths seen in such regal splendor as here. Nowhere is the variety of colors so seemingly endless. Nowhere are such good values given.

We are very certain we are selling better grades of broadcloth at each of the prices quoted than are obtainable elsewhere—and they are all wool, 50 inches or more in width.

A bewildering range of the newest shades and rich tints are shown in this wonderful stock, including—

Poussier, Burgundy Yvette, Green Peacock, Circassian Shrimp, Carob, Ashes of Roses, Artichoke, Raisin, Wild Rose, Moss Green.

Of course, all the grays, greens, browns, blues and blacks are represented, and these are all of the spot-proof kind of cloths, thoroughly sponged and shrunk, ready for the needle.

The New York Americans, in charge of Hal. Chase, will appear at New Brunswick, Sunday, and oppose Dave Driscoll's strong aggregation. "Willie" Keeler and Elberfield will be in the lineup.

Jack Martin is again playing short for the New Brunswick team and is putting up a fast game.

The Newark Eastern League Club team may play at New Brunswick on Saturday, October 9, and the contest will probably be arranged.

The local season is about over. There are a few remaining games to be played, but another week or so will wind up the season.

St. Mary's team will cross bats with the Monroe A. C. on the latter's grounds Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Both teams will present their strongest lineups.

Slocum, who worked in the pitcher's box for the Y. M. C. A. Saturday, is one of the most promising of the local pitchers. He appears to have everything in the curve line with an abundance of speed.

GOLF.

The Plainfield Country Club is constantly striving to make its course and clubhouse as attractive as ever. Certain improvements are now being planned to lengthen the course. This will be done next season.

The Plainfield Country Club is just now the scene of many social functions. Scarcely a day goes by but that a tea, a dinner or lunch is not given by the different members, all made possible by the new addition and complete equipment of the clubhouse.

Fifty new members have joined the Park Golf Club this season, bringing the total up to a point far in excess of anything in the history of the organization. Social functions are now a feature at the clubhouse.

Rev. George A. Warner is among the latest to become interested in golf and tennis, being a frequent visitor to the Park Golf Club. The other divines who have been interested in the sports for sometime include Dr. H. K. Carroll, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. L. R. Howard and Rev. J O McKelvey All play at the Park Golf Club

There will be special golf and tennis events at both the Plainfield Country Club and Park Golf Club on Election Day.

CHAUFFEUR LOCKED UP FOR KILLING A BOY

James Hannon, a chauffeur, was arrested at Morristown last night, and when arraigned before Police Justice Howard said he was the driver of the automobile that ran over and killed Louis Doremus, ten years old, at Fairfield Tuesday afternoon. He was committed to jail without bail, charged with violating the provision of the automobile law regarding "joy rides."

Hannon was in the employ of George P. Schmidt, a New York broker, who has a home in Morristown. Schmidt is now in California, and before going he discharged the chauffeur and sent the car to a garage for repairs. Hannon went to the garage Tuesday and took the car without the knowledge of the manager. Hannon told the justice he wanted "just one more ride" before the automobile was taken apart. He said that two boys were wrestling together in the road. Going but eight miles an hour, he said, he turned his machine toward the opposite side. As he did so the boys broke apart and one ran directly in front of the machine.

PATROLMEN DECIDE TO ACT IN PENSION MATTER.

At the meeting of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association yesterday afternoon it was decided to have an election by the people of this city on the question of pensions through the medium of a petition which will be circulated in a house to house canvass. This will be done regardless of the recent action of the council-manic committee.

It has been found upon examination of the city tax books that one cent per tax payer per year will cover the expense to the taxpayers while each patrolman will contribute ten dollars toward the fund. This latter amount being made up from deductions made on each month's salary of the men.

G. O. P. DOLLAR DINNER

pictured as a man who had "kept faith with the people," and whose many accomplishments will live long after the man is forgotten.

Governor Fort arrived at 10:30 o'clock. He spoke along the same lines he followed in his Newark speech until he came to the part quoted above which made a decided sensation. Other speakers were Mr. Lewis and Judge Runyon. The dinner was conceded to be the most important political gathering Union county has known for many years.

The reception commitee was composed of James White, chairman; Edward Bauer, secretary; Robert J. Kirkland, treasurer; Sidney Williams, Henry Krouse, Amos Andrews, Henry Fromm, John W. Clift, Neil McLeod, Jr., Fred C. Decker, John R. Moxon, H. H. Williams, William H. Hall, William H. Randolph, William Pender and Henry P. Schmidt.

Senator Ackerman had words of praise for Governor Fort in his speech. He also paid a glowing tribute to the work of Senator Frelinghuysen as the Republican leader of the last Senate, referring to his unanimous election as president of the upper House in the closing days of the last session, both Democrats and Republicans voting for him. The Union county Senator continued:

"As we all know, New Jersey, because of its wisdom and conservatism, is a great State for the incorporation of capital. Sanity and not unreasoning antipathy must be exercised when considering placing any of them under additional restrictions. Companies capitalized at $8,000,000,000 have organized under the laws of our State. But in a larger sense every one of us is a stockholder, an equal owner in part of this commonwealth. We are about to meet and select directors for the coming season, who are to attend to our affairs at the State capital and elsewhere. While there are nearly half a million stockholders in the State of New Jersey, every one of you has just as much interest in the stockholdings of this State as the most wealthy financier and a voice equally potent."

"I wish to express my approval of the energy, capacity, ability and faithfulness to the people of the Hon. Frank H. Smith and the Hon. James C. Calvert. They deserve your support in the coming election.

"We are also pleased to have with us on this occasion the Senior United States Senator from the State of New Jersey, who by his constant attention to the duties of the office is endearing himself to a larger number of his constituents than ever before.

"As a closing word, I wish to impress upon you the importance of coming out to the primaries next Tuesday and working night and day for those who are then nominated by the Republican party, until the polls close on election day.

"Let us remember,

"Grit makes the man
The want of it the chump
The men who win,
Lay hold, hang on and hump."

From Plainfield and North Plainfield these were present:

Frank H. Smith, Ernest R. Ackerman, William N. Runyon, Andrew McCardell, Charles J. Fisk, Amos Andrews, George J. Tobin, Armstrong Mulford, Alexander D. Ayers, Daniel W. Littell, Joseph Noonan, Charles H. Dunham, William L. Gloak, Joseph Harrigan, William Mosher, Thaddeus C. Smith, John Bowman, Rev. T. Moore-Smith, John Rose, Patrick S. Kiely, James Stewart, Charles W. Runyon, B. Frank Coriell, Charles Hamilton Frost, Millard Fillmore Elderton, Charles H. Hand, William R. Causebrook, William R. Codington, Winfield S. Angleman, Hyman Adelberg, James F. Buckle, John Traynor, James T. MacMurray, William Mazzocco, Roger F. Murray, James Pope, Francis J. Blatz, Andrew Jennings, Newton B. Smalley, Howard Woolston, Julius Stahl, Charles P. Sebring, Morris C. VanArsdale, "Chief" MacDuff, Harry C. Runyon, William Newcorn, Vincent W. Nash, Jr., and E. H. Bird.

At Proctor's.

The new show at Proctor's theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday is a good one. "Bassalari" does a novel act, using automatins, and with his great singing voice, startles his audience when it is discovered they are only figures. The Marvelous Egg family of acrobats, with the one-legged tumbler is a clever act, and Hansen & Bonet in a sketch, "The Actress and a Dutch Boy," is a scream. Mattie Lockett, in imitations, is a clever little woman and makes up a good bill. The pictures are exceptionally good. Proctor & Sanderson are constantly being congratulated upon the great variety of their entertainment at such low prices in their immaculate and well-ordered theatre.

Local Picture is Great.

The life motion picture, "The Unspoken Goodbye," which was made at Smalley Brothers' stone quarry in the mountains several months ago, by the American Vitagraph Company, was shown yesterday at Proctor's Fifth avenue theatre, New York, for the first time. There were several Plainfielders in the audience and all agreed that it was one of the best pictures yet seen. The Plainfielders who appear in the picture can easily be recognized. The film will soon be presented at Proctor's theatre, this city.

"Selfishness is the curse of our politics. If you expect a great future for the State you must give your support to the men who are fighting those who would make your State politically a personal possession. The battle is hard, but right will triumph in the end. If we all do our duty the final victory is sure."

NEW YORK PRISONER IS FINED $1 FOR DISPLAYING A GOVERNOR FORT BADGE

New York, Sept. 23.—A man who gave the name of Steve Suey, and who wore a huge badge bearing a picture of Governor Fort, was arrested while in an intoxicated condition on Fifth street Tuesday. He appeared to have the impression that the New Jersey Executive was running for Mayor of New York, for he persisted in shouting "Hooray for Fort" during his trip to the police station. The policeman that picked up the ebullient prisoner said the latter, besides being drunk, had been annoying other pedestrians.

Mr. Suey, who admitted that he hailed from New Jersey, was later arraigned in the Essex Market Court and fined $1 by Magistrate Herrman. The magistrate remarked, in remanding Suey, who didn't happen to have the price:

"Any intoxicated man, wearing a Governor Fort badge, deserves to be fined."

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The chestnut crop in Gloucester county is the poorest in years, the dry weather having blighted the nuts.

Mrs. Martha Pruden, of North Millville, may lose her foot from blood poisoning, following the removal of a corn with a razor.

Members and guests of Lieutenant Vicars Post No. 18, American Veterans of Foreign Service, to the number of seventy-five, gathered at Helvetia hall, Paterson, Tuesday evening and enjoyed a smoker tendered by the entertainment committee, consisting of Comrades Schaeffer, Englishman and Westerhoff. Large delegations were present from Lee Post of Jersey City and Cushing Post of Newark.

Six-year-old Patrick Doyle, of 187 Mill street, Paterson, while playing with several companions near the rear of Public School No. 3, on Marshall street Tuesday evening, ran directly into the path of a horse and light delivery wagon. Young Doyle was knocked down and the wheels passed over him, breaking the bone of the upper part of his right arm. The driver stopped and assisted the lad to the sidewalk. He was then taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Amazing the court by declaring that he had stolen upward of 100 bicycles, and that he had sold many of them to the defendant, Frank Grayson, colored, under arrest in Camden awaiting extradition to Philadelphia, was the principal witness yesterday for the State in the trial of Frederick Stuart, also colored, charged with receiving stolen goods. Stuart declared that most of the wheels found at his place had been bought by his wife during his absence, and that he did not know they had been stolen. He was convicted and will be sentenced Friday.

FORGER KILLED SELF IN CENTRAL TERMINAL

After a thorough examination of all the papers and effects found on the baggage of the man who killed himself in the Central Railroad station at Jersey City Tuesday night after he had been placed under arrest for alleged forgery in Richmond, Va., the police are convinced that his name was James Stickney, and that his home was in Chicago. Four bogus bank books were found among the man's possessions. There were also any number of blank checks on banks in the South and West.

It developed yesterday that Stickney just before his departure from Richmond Tuesday had a check for $375 cashed at the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond. This check proved worthless. A Jersey City lawyer, representing the hotel proprietor, attached today the $300 in cash that was found on Stickney's person.

The woman, Louise Elmer, who claims she accompanied Stickney from Memphis, Tenn., on the promise that he would marry her when they reached New York, will be released today. It is not believed she knew anything of Stickney's criminal record.

WESTERNERS INSPECT JERSEY'S GOOD ROADS

Representatives of farmers' organizations in Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma were yesterday the guests of Colonel Frederick Gilkyson, State road commissioner, when a tour of New Jersey highways was made in order that the people of those States might learn what good roads mean to the farmers through furnishing better transportation facilities.

The start was made yesterday morning from the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, and tour will be made by means of automobiles in order that the guests may learn from close observation just the condition of the roads of New Jersey and other northern States. The visitors are the guests of B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island-Frisco lines. The itinerary of the day included the crossing of New Jersey from Camden to Tuckerton and then straight up the coast to Seabright. Governor Fort met the party at Lakewood, where luncheon was served at the Barclett Inn.

The Jerseymen in the party were Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, State Road Supervisor Robert A. Meeker, of this city, Assistant Road Supervisor Edward E. Reed, State Road Commissioner Gilkyson and Francis B. Lee, of Trenton. The day's trip ended at New Brunswick, where the party took dinner last night.

Today the party will continue their inspection and will travel over 114 miles of the improved highways. For the most part, the itinerary will take them into North Jersey. From New Brunswick they will go to Princeton, along Carnegie lake, into Sussex county, then through towns in that section, finally going to Passaic, Bergen and Hudson counties, reaching Jersey City late at night.

After a short stay in New York, the Western people will go to the New England States, where they will take in the roads of Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

The trip of the Western people is the result of an address Mr. Yoakum delivered before the Farmers' Union, when he argued that good roads would do much to upbuild that section of the country.

Regan Leaves the Hospital.

Patrick Regan, who was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday night, suffering from three fractured ribs and was very badly bruised, left the hospital this morning. He insisted on going home, although the doctors thought that he had better wait a few days. He was injured in a fight with Peter Wilson on Greenbrook road. Wilson is now out on bail but will probably be given a hearing tomorrow.

Board of Examiners to Meet.

County Superintendent of Schools J. J. Savitz announces that there will be a meeting of the County Board of Examiners of Union county, at the Court House, Elizabeth, Friday and Saturday, October 1 and 2.

CONDUCTOR HELD UP

Masked Man, with Revolver, Boards Car and Gets $14.

A crosstown trolley car of the Orange Valley line was held up by a masked robber, armed with a pistol, shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning, in the town of Bloomfield. There was only one passenger in the car, and when he saw the robber he jumped out of the car and disappeared.

The robber, upon boarding the car, walked back to the rear platform, and, pointing the revolver at the conductor, Eugene Kirkuss, demanded that he turn all the money in his possession over to him. Kirkuss went down into his pockets and handed over to the robber $14, all the money he had. After the burglar had placed the money in his pocket he jumped from the car, and was last seen by the conductor running up Bayonne avenue.

According to Kirkuss, the robber was about thirty years old, five feet seven inches tall and well built. He was dressed in a black suit and wore a slouch hat.

NEW JERSEY'S PART IN BIG CELEBRATION

Orders have been issued for the participation of the Fourth regiment of the New Jersey National Guard, of Jersey City, in the land parade which is to be held in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York on Thursday of next week. The official orders were transmitted today from the State military headquarters in Trenton to Colonel Brinkerhoff, commandant of the Fourth regiment. The cost to the State of having even that much representation in the big parade will be about $600. The money therefore will have to come from the emergency fund of Governor Fort. The latter and other State officials were anxious to send also the First regiment of Newark and the Essex Troop, but it was found to be impossible to arrange to pay the expense in view of the fact that the emergency fund had already been drawn upon for $1,500 for the use of the First battalion of Naval Reserves, and there are other emergencies which Governor Fort will have to care for from his fund during the next six months.

Owing to the provisions of the law under which the recent special election on constitutional amendments was held last week in New Jersey, Governor Fort will be unable to either participate in or witness the military parade in New York. He will be obliged to be in the State House in Trenton on that day. Next Saturday, however, he will go on board the ship Portsmouth, manned by the First Battalion Naval Reserves, and will play an important part in the entire water celebration. Quarters for the Governors of New York and New Jersey and their official parties have been provided in the Astor House by the New York committee in charge of the celebration, and Governor Fort will go there on Friday night.

On Saturday morning Commander Peters will turn over to the Governor for that day, and as his official headquarters during the whole celebration, the ship Portsmouth, and the chief executive of the State will have as members of his party on that day, or so many of them as accept the invitation, all the members of the New Jersey State Senate and their wives; the Speaker of the House of Assembly, Dr. John Dvnely Prince, and Mrs. Prince; Adjutant General Sadler, Quartermaster General Murray, Inspector General Bryant and other members of the general staff of the State military establishment; Major General P. Farmer Wanser, Brigadier Generals Dennis F. Collins and Henry W. Freeman, Colonels Hine, Brinkerhoff Mather, Dungan and Lieutenant Colonel Fraser, of the five infantry regiments of the State; Colonel Austen Colgate, personal military aide to the Governor; Leslie R. Fort, private secretary to the Governor; Mrs. Fort and Mrs. Leslie Fort and Miss Fort, and a few personal friends of the Governor, besides State Treasurer Daniel Voorhees and State Comptroller Henry West.

On the following Saturday, October 1, Governor Fort will again be on board the Portsmouth. He expects to have with him on that occasion as his personal guest of the State of New Jersey, Governor Hughes, of New York. After reviewing the procession of boats from their peculiarly advantageous position, on account of the placing of the Portsmouth at the turning point as a stake boat off Newburg, Governors Hughes and Fort will proceed to Newburg as the guests of that city, and each will make an address there during the ceremonies, which will conclude the naval celebration.

WOMEN DIDN'T TAKE "DARE."

Went Up Tall Chimney in Basket Unafraid.

Passaic, Sept. 23.—"Dared" by men who had completed the erection of the 210-foot chimney of the Standard Bleachery, Carlton Hill to go to the top in the iron bucket used to hoist up bricklayers and material running on the inside of the stack, Mrs. Charles Thompson, wife of the chief of the East Rutherford Fire Department; Mrs. George Abhau and Mrs. Charles Barker, of Carlton Hill, boarded the elevator, each with an American flag, and ascended.

They reached the top without the slightest mishap, fastened the flags around the lightning rod, made a quick descent, and expressed themselves as well pleased with their flight.

The chimney is the second highest in the State, Clark's, in Newark, being the highest.

Dr. Savage Quits the Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. Minot Judson Savage, who is well-known here and who has preached at the Unitarian church, has retired from the pulpit and from public life for good and all. As the head of the Unitarian church of the Messiah, New York, for almost ten years up to 1904, he had the reputation of being one of the best preachers in the city. Dr. Savage returned home from England on Sunday immediately left for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will live in the future. He will devote his time to writing.

Registry and Election Notice.

Charter, Municipal and General Election.

November 2, 1909

County of Union.

Pursuant to an act entitled "An Act to regulate Elections" (Revson of 1898), approved April 4th, 1898, with the amendments thereof, and other acts, concerning elections, and the constitutional provision concerning the right of suffrage," notice is hereby given that the District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will meet on the 4th Tuesday in September, 1909, (28th), at one o'clock in the afternoon, at the places in their respective Election Districts where the City Clerks shall designate, and continue in session until nine o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

The District Boards of Registry and Election in and for the City of Elizabeth, will meet for purposes of registration at their respective places, on October 5th and 19th, 1909, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m.

And the Board of Registry and Election in and for each and every Election District in said County of Union, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will meet on Tuesday, August 31st, 1909, to elect one of its members as judge, who shall be chairman of said board, and another of its members as inspector. Also on Tuesday, September 7th, 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon in their respective Election Districts where the next election will be held shall proceed to ascertain and truly and accurately enter in canvassing books, to be provided for that purpose, the names and residences and street numbers, if any, of all legal voters within their respective election districts entitled to vote therein, by making actual inquiry at every dwelling house, etc., in the manner prescribed by law, and shall continue such enumeration until the same is completed; provided, that such enumeration shall terminate on or before the Friday next succeeding.

The District Boards of Registry and Election, outside of the City of Elizabeth, will also meet for the purpose of registration, at their respective places, on Tuesday, September 14th, 1909, and Tuesday, October 26th, 1909, between the hours of 1 and 9 p. m. for the purpose of registering the names of all legal voters in the manner prescribed by law, and who are entitled to the right of suffrage at the next election.

Notice is further given that a Primary Election will be held on Tuesday, September 28th, 1909, between the hours of 1 o'clock and 9 o'clock p. m., in the various election districts, wards, boroughs and townships in the County of Union, for the election of delegates to conventions of political parties, or for making nominations or for both, as the case may be.

Ballots, to be used at said Primary to be furnished to District Boards of Registry and Election by the different city, borough and township clerks in the County of Union.

PANIC ARISES IN HOBOKEN THEATRE.

A panic that nearly resulted in fatalities took place Tuesday night in the Lyric theatre, Hoboken. A number of women fainted and many others barely escaped being trampled underfoot while the terrified audience fought to get to the exits.

William Harper, 15 years old, of 759 Bloomfield street, had a balcony ticket. He saw a vacant seat and made an attempt to get to it. His progress was stopped by an elderly man and an altercation took place, during which Harper struck the man. The old man fought back and a woman screamed.

A boy in the gallery shouted "Fire!" and in an instant the crowded theatre was a scene of the widest confusion. Everyone fought to get to the exits. Strong men pushed women aside. Several women, one quite elderly, swooned and barely escaped serious injuries from trampling. For two or three minutes the people acted like wild beasts.

After many in the audience had reached the street two policemen and the theatre attaches succeeded in subduing the excitement by shouting that there was no fire and asking all to resume their seats. As soon as the people heard these reassuring cries they became calmer, and finally, after four or five seconds, some seated themselves and others followed the example.

Young Harper was arrested and charged with assault and battery.

PIONEER RAHWEGIAN DEAD.

William H. Hughes Was Civil War Veteran and Hero.

William H. Hughes, a life-long resident of Rahway, died Tuesday at his home, 16 Lewis street, aged seventy years. The deceased was a veteran of the Civil War, serving in the Sixth New York Independent Battery, of which Captain Joseph W. Martin, late superintendent of the New Jersey Reformatory, was in command.

Hughes had an exceptionally fine war record. In the heat of one of the battles he was in command of a gun.

The deceased was unmarried. He leaves two brothers, Street Commissioner Benjamin W. Hughes and Hugh Hughes, and one sister, Mrs. Augustus B. Crane.

FEDERAL INQUEST SWORN IN.

Former Senator E. C. Hutchinson, of Trenton, Foreman.

Trenton, Sept. 23.—The United States Grand Jury for the September term was sworn in here Tuesday by United States Circuit Court Judge Joseph Cross as follows:

Former State Senator E. C. Hutchinson, of Trenton, foreman; Captain John F. Lovett, of Trenton, sergeant-at-arms; Samuel E. Perry, of Atlantic City, clerk; Senator Johnson Cornish, of Washington; E. W. Schoenberger, of Madison; John A. Holcomb, of Ringoes; William R. Wilson, of Elizabeth; William E. Nash, of New Egypt; William C. HORSES KILLED IN WRECK.

Five Dead After Train Hits Box Car.

Freight engine No. 371 on the Central Railroad, in charge of Engineer Simons, crashed into a box car on an eastbound siding near Cranford Junction Tuesday, demolishing the car and killing five of the nine horses in it.

Charles Schenck, of Belle Meade, to whom the horses were consigned in Jersey City, accompanied them, and escaped being killed by climbing out of the roof of the car when the crash came. He was cut about the head and face, and after being cared for by Dr. C. W. MacConnell, was sent to his home.

The horses were being shipped by W. E. Hendrickson from his stockyards in Belle Meade. They were valued at $200 apiece. The four which escaped being killed were removed to the Cranford Golf Stables. The accident was due to the fact that Engineer Simons mistook a signal.

JUSTICE BLIND TO SUFFERING.

Even the Imminence of a Birth in an Auto Couldn't Open Its Eyes.

A child was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. Spalding of Philadelphia early yesterday morning, after a wild dash to Langhorne, Penn., where the party had been held up the night before in a speed trap. Mr. Spalding fretted and fumed while the Justice was being hauled out of bed, for there was imperative reason for going on. The Justice calmly said $12.50 for not having a Pennsylvania license tag on the machine, and the party hurried away. The child was born a few minutes after the auto reached the Trenton House at Trenton. The child died two hours afterward.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"I was mad," he panted, shamed. "I love you better than anything else in God's world, and this man means that I shall lose you."

The prince lurched toward Hillard, but fortunately Merrihew heard the slithering sound of the saber as it left its scabbard. Merrihew with a desperate lunge stopped the blow. He flung the saber at O'Mally's feet.

"You speak English," said Merrihew in an ugly temper. "You may send your orderly to the Hotel Italie tomorrow morning, and your saber will be given to him. We can get along without you nicely."

The prince tore at his mustaches. Meddlers! To return to Florence without his saber was dishonor. He cursed them all roundly and turned to La Signorina.

"I am in the way here," he cried. "But listen. You shall remain my wife so long as both of us live. I had intended arranging your freedom once the estate and moneys were divided, but not now. You shall read my wife till the end of the book, for unless I meet you halfway the marriage contract cannot be broken. In the old days it was your conscience. The still small voice seems no longer to trouble you," turning suggestively to Hillard. "You are stopping at the Hotel Italie?"

"I am. You will find me there," returned Hillard, with good understanding.

"Good! Your highness, tomorrow night I shall have the extreme pleasure of running your lover through the throat." He picked up his cap and took his princely presence out of their immediate vicinity.

"It will do my soul good to stand before that scoundrel," said Hillard, stretching out his hands and closing them with crushing force.

La Signorina laid a protesting hand on his arm.

"I love you," he murmured as he bent to kiss her hand. "And it is not dishonorable for you to hear me say so."

"I forbid you to say that!" But the longing of the world was in her eyes as she looked down at his head.

"This is what comes of American girls marrying these blamed foreigners," growled the tender hearted O'Mally. "Why did you do it?"

"I am almost Italian, Mr. O'Mally. I had no choice in the matter. The affair was prearranged by our parents, after the continental fashion."

When Hillard and La Signorina were at length alone he asked, "When shall I see you again?"

"Who knows? Some day, perhaps, when time has softened the sharp edges of this moment. Tomorrow I shall write, or very soon."

"You will send for me?" with eagerness and hope.

"Why not? There is nothing wrong in our friendship, and I prize it. Promise."

"I promise. Goodby! For a little while I have lived in paradise. Wherever I may be, at the world's end, you have but to call me. In a month, in a year, a decade, I shall come. Goodby!" Without looking at her again he rushed away.

She remained standing there as motionless as a statue. He had not asked her if she loved him, and that was well. But there was not at that moment in all the length and breadth of Italy a lonelier woman than her highness the Principessa di Monte Bianca.

Meanwhile the prince, raging, mounted his horse. Eh, well! This time tomorrow night the American should pay dearly for it all.

And the woman—he could never understand her. But for her fool's conscience he would not have been riding the beggar's horse today. She was now too self reliant, too intelligent. She was her father over again, soldier and diplomat.

He was riding past the confines of the villa when a man darted out suddenly from the shadows and seized the bridle.

"At last, my prince!"

"Giovanni?"

Instinctively the prince reached for his saber, knowing that he had need of it, but the scabbard was empty. He cursed the folly which had made him lose it. Oddly enough, his thought ran swiftly back to the little casa in the Sabine hills. Bah! Full of courage, knowing that one or the other would not leave this spot alive, he struck his horse, with purpose this time, to run his man down. But Giovanni did not lose his hold. Hate and the nearness of revenge made him strong.

"No, no!" he laughed. "She is dead, my prince. And I—I was not going to seek you. I was going to let hell claim you in its own time. But you rode by me tonight. This is the end."

The prince unhooked his scabbard and swung it aloft. But Giovanni was fully prepared. He released the bridle, his arm went back, and his knife spun through the air. Yet in that instant in which Giovanni's arm was poised for the cast the prince lifted his horse on its haunches. The knife gashed the animal deeply in the neck. Still on its haunches, it backed, wild with the unaccustomed pain. The lip of the road, at this spot rotten and unprotected, gave way. The prince tried to urge the horse forward. The hind quarters sank, and the prince tried in vain to slip from the saddle.

There came a crash, a cry, and horse and rider went pounding down the gorge.

Giovanni trembled, and the sweat on his body grew cold. For several minutes he waited, dreading, but there was no further sound. He searched mechanically for his knife, recovered it and then crept down the abrupt side of the gorge till he found them. They were both dead.

"Holy Father, thou hast waited seven years too long!" Giovanni crossed himself.

He gazed up at the ledge where the tragedy had begun. The cloud passed and revealed the shining muskets of two carabinieri, doubtless attracted by the untoward sounds. Giovanni stole over the stream and disappeared into the blackness beyond.

This man was killing him!

It was Merrihew who woke the sleeping cabby, pushed Hillard into a seat and gave the final orders which were to take them out of the Villa Ariadne forever. He was genuinely moved over the visible misery of his friend. When they arrived at the white hotel in the Borgognissanti Merrihew was glad.

At 9 in the morning Hillard heard a fist banging on the panels of the door.

"Open, Jack! Hurry!" cried Merrihew outside.

Hillard opened the door. "What's the trouble, Dan?" he asked.

Merrihew whispered, "Dead!"

"Who?" Hillard's heart contracted.

"The prince. They found him and his horse at the bottom of the gorge. The concierge says that there has been foul play—tracks in the dust, a strange cut in the neck of the horse and a scabbard minus its saber. Now, what the devil shall I do with the blamed sword?"

Dead! Hillard sat down on the edge of the bed. Dead! Then she was free, free!

"What shall I do with the sword?" demanded Merrihew a second time.

"Put it in the bottom of the trunk and leave it there till you land in New York. But the prince dead? You are sure?"

"Florence rings with the story."

And then Merrihew noticed. Hillard still wore his evening clothes and the bed was untouched.

BERGEN TALK SCHEDULES.

Elizabeth Councilmen Hear P. S. R. Counsel.

The committee on railroads and street railways of the Elizabeth City Council gave a hearing Tuesday to Frank Bergen, chief counsel for the Public Service Railway Company, on the corporation's objections to the publication of the revised schedule for trolley traffic as arranged by the City Council. The committee is not as yet prepared to announce what decision was reached.

In discussing the local trolley situation after the meeting Mr. Bergen expressed the hope that the municipality and the Public Service Railway would come to a better understanding from now on, and that trolley extensions hereabouts, which are much needed, would be built.

French Must Finish Job.

Walter M. French, who is building the new north main trunk sewer, in Westfield, is anxious to sublet his contract, and requested the Town Council Monday night for permission. French's bondsmen were willing to allow it, but the Council intends that Mr. French shall go ahead and complete the job, and refused to grant the request. The Council ordered Collector Clark to pay the county road bonds falling due October 1. Westfield's share amounts to $4,617.08.

There have been so many complaints received of children being on the streets of Gloucester after hours at night that City Council will be asked to pass a curfew ordinance whereby the children between the ages of five and twelve years will be kept off the streets after 9 p. m., unless accompanied by their parents.

Harry Murphy, driver of Friendship Fire Company, of Woodbury, was found unconscious under the feet of one of his horses in the stable Tuesday night. All his teeth were knocked out, his face cut from mouth to ear, and his skull injured. Murphy has not been able to give a clear statement as to how he was knocked down, but thinks that while he was feeding the horses he was kicked.

"LOU." WILTSE TIRES OF BIG LEAGUE WORK

"Lou" Wiltse, the well known baseball twirler, who has been pitching for the Syracuse club, of the New York State League, this season, returned to Plainfield, yesterday, and will remain here for the present. Wiltse has had a successful season, in fact he has never pitched better ball. It was unfortunate that the team was not as strong during the early part of the year as the latter part, or it would have finished nearer the top. However, the stockholders are not discouraged and believe that next year the results will be different.

Wiltse has not definitely decided upon his plans for next season, but there is some doubt whether he will return to league baseball. Judging from his expressed opinions he seems to have tired of it and it would not be surprising if he launched forth another year as manager and pitcher for an independent ball team, possibly in Plainfield. He is impressed with the advantages of such a move and believes that with such a team as he can get together the fans would support him. He would bring only first-class clubs to this city and would plan to put up the best article of baseball.

The fact that he would pitch himself, would go a long ways toward attracting the people, for there is no doubt but that "Lou" is popular with the fans. He would get a first-class catcher and fill all other positions with players of recognized ability. At present the plans are not in any definite shape, in fact, Wiltse could not carry them out until he secured his release from the Syracuse club. This, however, he does not believe would be a difficult proposition if explained to the club in the right way.

Wiltse has had a successful baseball career, although his experience with the National Baseball Commission following his departure from the Baltimore Eastern League club was anything but pleasant. That the Baltimore club had treated him unjustly was shown later when the final decision of the commission was rendered placing him in good standing again so far as organized baseball was concerned and leaving him free to sign with any club.

He pitched winning ball for Baltimore, and many people believe that he is strong enough for major league company, in fact, there are experts who claim that he would do fully as well as his brother, George Wiltse, who is one of the mainstays on the pitching staff of the Giants.

Since returning home, Wiltse has organized a team to represent Somerville in a four game series with Bound Brook, the first of which will be played Saturday at Bound Brook. "Lou" will pitch for his team and Jack Torpey will catch.

BASEBALL.

A most successful season has just closed for the Berkeley Heights A. C. team. The team was composed of fast players, who were well drilled in team work, and they had opposing players guessing most of the time. Seventeen games were played, ten won and seven lost, giving a percentage of .588. Manager Burgmiller is to be congratulated for the fast article of ball presented by his team this year. Teams played and the score of games, are given below:

May 29, Sylvan, of Summit, 9; B. H. A. C., 8; May 31, a. m., St. Mary's of Berkeley Heights, 12; B. H. A. C., 7; May 31, p. m., New Providence F. C., 8; B. H. A. BOWLING.

The Armrights will endeavor to get back at the Raritan bowlers tonight at Campbell's alleys.

The opening series in the individual tourney will be rolled next Tuesday night. Competitors are requested to meet at the alleys tonight to prepare the prize list and draw up a schedule.

Considerable interest is being displayed among the employes of Levering and Garrigues Steel Works and the Pond Tool Works, in the match series to be rolled between two five-man teams, representing these concerns, tomorrow night at Campbell's alleys.

—Mr. and Mrs. Amos Gray and family will remove from West Front street to East Second street, near Berckman, October 1.

—Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Snyder, of West Third street, have leased the residence at 12 West End avenue, and will remove there October 1.

EVILS OF IMMIGRATION

Practises of Ocean Steamship Companies Denounced by W.C.T.U. Speaker.

NOT "LAND OF LIBERTY."

"Statute of Liberty a Meaningless Piece of Sculpture" Says Mrs. M. B. Wilson.

At the afternoon session of the Union County W. C. T. U. in Vincent chapel yesterday, the principal address was made by Mrs. Mary B. Wilson, National Superintendent of Work Among Foreign Speaking People. Mrs. Wilson's home is in Philadelphia, and she is familiar with the work to which she has devoted her life, not alone through conditions in her home city, but all over the country. She has made a special study of the immigrant and in her address yesterday gave a vivid picture of the need of Christian temperance effort among the aliens who reach our shores in such vast numbers.

In beginning her speech Mrs. Wilson drew the attention of her audience to a map which showed the countries from which the largest portion of the Slavic race emigrate and said that too many people confuse the Slav with other nationalities. They are made up largely of Poles, Scandinavians and Hungarians who with proper instruction in our methods make the most desirable citizens of all those that come to this country.

She described in minute detail the brazen efforts of the steamship companies to outdo each other in the number of immigrants they could bring over the ocean, without regard as to what becomes of them after they get here. Competition is keen among the transport lines and it is the money that there is in the business which prompts them to disregard the most primitive sanitary regulations in their vessels. A description of conditions in the seerage of some of the big liners followed.

Mrs. Wilson said that New York is the front door of the nation and there are several back doors. Among the latter she mentioned Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston and others. These, she said ought to be watched with an ever increasing care in order to prevent the landing of undesirable people. There are back doors, too, along our western borders, which are even more to be dreaded than the side doors. The white slave traffic was referred to as one of the evils resulting from carelessness at these portals.

Among other things, Mrs. Wilson said: "This is not the land of liberty any more. The statute at the entrance to the city of New York is a meaningless piece of sculpture.

"Some of the incoming horde throw away the clothing they have worn during the voyage and array themselves in the best they possess believing that they can get all they need when they land without the formality of paying for it—because they have misconstrued the meaning of the word liberty. They expect to become into full citizens three minutes after landing, because they have believed the tales of the steamship companies' agents.

"Of course great precaution must necessarily be taken to keep out those afflicted with disease, but the shipping agents care nothing for this phase of the question—what they want is the money for the passages of the more unfortunate—those who are deported being in the great minority costs but little in comparison with the income from those who come and stay. We do want all the desirable immigrants we can get.

"The State of New Jersey absorbs a greater number of these people than most of you have any idea of. In 1906 you took in 15,415; in 1907 70,765 more; then in 1908 in spite of adverse conditions 34,180 more were added to your population in this way. What have you done for these men and these women? What have you done toward getting the children into the Loyal Temperance Legion? These are thought I wish to leave with you. It is the opportunity for missionary work which you should not neglect.

"Don't forget or neglect the foreign people. There is no need to send or go aborad to do missionary work. It is right here for you to do. Let us hold to our faith and save the country."

During the afternoon it was announced that twenty new members had been added to the roll in Plainfield during the past year and the grand total of membership in the county increased to 534. All the reports from the different branches of the work were read and approved and a general feeling of optimism is felt for the coming year's work.

OPEN FIRE HOUSE NOV. 1

Two Men to Have Charge of New Apparatus at East End House.

HOSE AND CHEMICAL WAGON.

"Billy" and "Andy" to Draw Combination Apparatus—Capt. Townley in Charge.

The Councilmanic fire and building committee, at a meeting last night, decided to open the new East End fire-house, to be known as Engine House No. 4, on November 1, at which time everything will be in readiness to go in commission. With the opening of the new house, there will be required two men there and th committee has decided to place Captain William Townley, at No. 3 house, and William Jaeger, a former member of the department, there.

Captain Townley's place at No. 3 house will be taken by Captain Geo. Mehl, who is now at headquarters, and the plan is to put William Addis, who is now acting captain of the hook and ladder company, in Captain Mehl's place at headquarters. The new combination hose and chemical, now being built for the new house, will require a team, and the committee has decided to use Chief Doane's "Billy" and "Andy," the latter now on furlough at the city poor farm. "Andy" has been suffering from nervous prostration, but is believed to have recovered sufficiently to re-enter the service. Chief Doane will use "Teddy" for his fire gig. The new fire apparatus for the house, now building in Philadelphia, will be completed soon.

The committee last night granted a permit to George H. Frost for the new building to be erected on Park avenue, opposite North avenue, and provision for that form of construction will be made in the new building ordinance now being drafted.

ANOTHER BIG BUILDING FOR PARK AVENUE

The new building to be erected on Park avenue between the Stirling building and that of Boice, Runyon & Co., by George H. Frost is to be a new departure in structures in this city. It will be built of re-enforced concrete and will be three stories high, and in outward appearance will conform in beauty to the other structures mentioned.

The building will be known as the Frost Building, that being the name of the owner and proprietor of the Courier-News, which will occupy part of the structure. Plain plaster columns if Indiana limestone will ornament the first story of the front and the two upper stories, pressed brick. The second floor will be devoted to offices and the top floor left for fraternity purposes. The structure will be fire-proof throughout and conform to the new Plainfield building code in every particular.

Its construction will be similar to that of the buildings which successfully withstood the shocks of earthquake at San Francisco. The architect, Frederick A. Waldron, designed and supervised the building of the National Cash Register works at Dayton, Ohio, and the big additions to the Yale Locks Works at Stamford, Conn. The general contractor, Frank Galbraith, is one of the foremost contractors of this part of the country and has many large buildings of re-enforced concrete to his credit. Mr. Frost stated this morning that local labor and material will be used in building the structure. Thomas McGann has the contract for excavating the cellar. The building will be ready for occupancy by January 1, 1910.

THE WEATHER.

Partly cloudy with showers this afternoon and probably near the coast tonight; cooler tonight; Saturday fair.

Democrats Growing Active.

The Plainfield Democratic club held a large and enthusiastic meeting Wednesday night, when twenty-new members were enrolled and a special committee was appointed to send invitations to the clergy, physicians and trade unions to attend the meeting at the Plainfield theatre, October 29, when Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, will be the principal speaker.

MISS ANNA TRIMMER WEDS IN NEW YORK

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Anna Trimmer, daughter of George Trimmer, formerly of Dunellen, and William Lynch, of New York, which took place at the rectory of St. Michaels' Catholic church in New York, on Wednesday, September 15. A brother of the groom performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends.

The bride formerly resided here with her aunt, Mrs. Warren Brown, and she has many friends in this city. She was graduated as a trained nurse from Flower Hospital, New York city, last year, and since that time has been following her profession in New York city. The groom is not known in this city. The couple will reside in New York.

DAY OF ATONEMENT WILL BEGIN AT 5:30

Tonight at 5:30 begins the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, in the Hebrew calendar. Prayer and fasting for a period of twenty-six hours marking the devotions of the orthodox Jews. In the local synagogue the services will be in charge of Rabbi Rottman and Rev. David Davidson, of this city, assisted by Cantor Sokolskye, of New York, who will direct a large choir.

During this fast all enmities must be patched up and harmony established between those who have had differences so that in event of death, after the synagogue services are over the soul of the departed may be translated to heaven. At this time memorial candles are burned for those who have been heads of families. These candles burn for twenty-four hours. Next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the feast of Tabernacles will be celebrated. This period is given over to feasting and enjoyment.

SHANNON TO MANAGE A THEATRE IN IRELAND.

Michael Louis Shannon, who was associated with William J. Counihan, in the management of the Majestic theatre, at Perth Amboy, and who is now traveling abroad with the latter, has written to a Plainfield friend that he will probably remain in Ireland until next spring. He has received a flattering offer to manage a theatre for a friend whom he met in Ireland, and has practically decided to remain there.

Mr. Shannon's friend owns a theatre and skating rink, and is anxious to have the former take the management of the theatre for the coming season. Mr. Counihan expects to return home next month.

Surprised Paul Richter.

A surprise party was given last night in honor of Paul Richter, of Somerset street. The affair was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mallinson, of Dupont street. The evening was spent playing games and enjoying an informal program of vocal ad instrumental music, after which refreshments were served. Among those present were Paul Richter, William Richter, William Conway, Margaret Conway, Elizabeth Conway, Frieda Richter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Walter Thomas, the Misses Burken, Leonard Bennett, Benjamin Coon, Miss Favor, Ernest Mallinson, Margaret Mallinson and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mallinson.

Funeral of Augustus Thomas.

The funeral service of Augustus Thomas, who died in Muhlenberg Hospital with typhoid fever, was held from the late home on Sponer avenue, at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, officiated, and several hymns were sung by a friend of the family. The pall-bearers were George Muir, John Gidney, Edward Matell, John Hess, Nicholas Heirigel and Theodore Zeller. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Fred Stahkey.

Fred Stahkey, aged 45 years, at one time employed as a shoe salesman for the Waldorf Shoe Store and Morris C. VanArsdale, died at his home in New York on Wednesday, following a long illness. The death of two children with diphtheria and the subsequent death of his wife preyed on his mind and is believed to be largely responsible for his death. He had many friends in this city.

Land Sale Netted $1,100.

The sale of lands for 1908 unpaid taxes in the office of Collector W. R. Townsend, Wednesday afternoon, netted about $1,100 and there was no adjournment, all properties being disposed.

PLAN WEEK OF PRAYER

Special Services in Many Local Edifices Prior to State C. E. Convention.

ARRANGE JUNIORS' EXERCISES.

Choir of Fifty Voices to Be Feature—Under the Direction of Charles L. Lewis.

In connection with the arrangements for the coming State Christian Endeavor convention to be held here October 6, 7 and 8, that a week of prayer for the convention be held by all young people's societies in Plainfield and vicinity, beginning Sunday, September 27 and ending October 3. Union prayer meetings, to which all are cordially invited, will be held in the Rescue Mission rooms during the coming week. Dates and leaders will be announced later.

Frank Stewart, the chairman of the music committee, is arranging for a rehearsal of a choir of fifty voices some time next week. Each young people's society in Plainfield will be asked to contribute its quota of singers. Charles L. Lewis will be the musical director.

Mrs. Charles F. Dayton has arranged the following program for the Junior exercises: Juniors marching in; song, "Onward Christian Soldiers;" prayer, State President J. T. Sproull; address of welcome by Junior, Miss Elsie Dayton; response, Mrs. L. I. Dukes; flag drill by Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church; song, America; chalk talk, Rev. Dr. R. S. V. Pierce, of New York city.

"THE THREE TWINS" DREW BIG CROWD

A capacity audience witnessed a capital performance of "The Three Twins' at The Plainfield theatre, last night. The company was a particularly good one, and the principals were exceptionally clever. The play is filled with catchy musical numbers and the audience thoroughly appreciated the good singing, as was shown by the hearty applause. The repartee was also of the sort that kept the audience in roars of laughter.

It was undoubtedly a record-breaking attendance at the Plainfield theatre, exceeding that when "The Gay Hussars" appeared here. At 8 o'clock last night every seat in the house was sold and the "S. R. O." sign was displayed. That Plainfield theatregoers appreciate good plays was clearly evidenced last night.

Party for Mrs. H. Nelson.

In honor of the anniversary of her birthday, a party was given to Mrs. H. Nelson at her home on Carman avenue, last night. The affair was a successful one and the interesting feature was that Mrs. Nelson, for whom the party was given, got the baby in the birthday cake. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Schmeyers, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Christianson, Miss H. Tufveson, Miss M. Zwahlen, Miss L. Christianson, Miss J. Hermanson, Miss A. Monson, Miss A. Nelson, Miss H. Custafson, Miss E. Anderson, A. Talmgrein, J. Coldbeck, A. Leonardson, V. Nelson, P. Hanson and H. Christianson.

Camp Badgley Will Not Parade.

Camp Badgley, Spanish-American War Veterans, of this city, received an invitation to participate in the naval land parade to be held in connection with the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York, but owing to the fact that the members are not yet uniformed, they were obliged to decline. The camp is planning for an entertainment to be held on Thursday night, October 14. The program will be announced later.

Grand Lodge Officers Visit Here.

Robert H. Alberts, grand secretary of the Royal Arcanum for New Jersey, and staff, paid an annual visit to Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, last night. There was a large attendance of members and all thoroughly enjoyed the interesting remarks of Secretary Alberts and his staff. Afterward the members and their guests adjourned to the banquet room, where W. W. Warnock provided refreshments.

Judge Runyon in Middlesex.

Judge Isaac P. Runyon, of the District Court, Somerville, is now sitting every Thursday in the District court, New Brunswick, for Judge E. S. Hicks, who is the Republican candidate for State Senator against George Silzer, the Democratic nominee.

The musical program for the morning will include, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," Gilchrist; "Fear Not, O Israel," Spicher; "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," Peon. The selections for the evening will be "Abide With Me," Churchill; "Calm as the Night," Goetze, contralto and tenor solos; "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," Gounod, tenor solo by request. The topic for the morning sermon by Dr. Herring will be "The Great Discovery," and in the evening, "Jacob's Well at Sydrar."

Injured Riding on a Coal Train.

While stealing a ride on a coal train at Dunellen, yesterday, a young man, who refused to give his name, fell off, striking his head on some sharp stones. Another lad, a companion, who was on the same train, jumped off and assisted the injured boy to a place of safety. A little later the two left Dunellen on a trolley going toward Plainfield. Neither one of the boys would give names or place of residence.

SHE THOUGHT HUBBY HAD A "SOUL MATE"

What may prove an effective obstacle to further trouble between Mrs. Beckstein, of 230 West Second street, and the family of Jacob Bulk, of 327 Park avenue, was the message sent to Mrs. Beckstein by City Judge Runyon this morning. A policeman was despatched to Mrs. Beckstein's home informing her that unless she ceases to molest the members of the Bulk family she will meet with the displeasure of the court and find herself serving a jail sentence of forty days.

Mrs. Beckstein believes, and has harbored the belief for about two years, that her husband has a soul mate in the person of Mr. Bulk's daughter, Sophie, to which she (Mrs. Beckstein) has made strenuous objection. However, the whole Bulk family deny that there is any truth in the suspicions of Mrs. Beckstein and strongly resent the aspersions cast upon the pretty young woman.

In a clash between the two families about a week ago Mrs. Beckstein had her left optic damaged, but it has been an impossibility to learn who decorated the eye. Sambo Bulk says that Mrs. Beckstein inflicted the injury upon herself while in the act of throwing a cobblestone at him during a little fracas last Thursday. The Bulk family was represented in the city court this morning by V. W. Nash, Jr.

"The Village Parson," Tomorrow.

"The Village Parson," a pastoral drama, that never fails to please and amuse theatre-goers, will be presented at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night by a company of exceptional merit. The play is a strong one, with a good wholesome plot, and just the kind that appeals to a majority of people. There is an abundance of comedy, as well as pathos, and the play is sure to be witnessed by a large audience at both the matinee and evening performances.

Dr. Moldenke Met Dr. Cook.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, who happened to be in Copenhagen when Dr. Cook reached there, was one of the first to greet the returning explorer and had the honor of being photographed with Dr. Cook at the steamship landing. Dr. Moldenke is one of the government experts on metals and the manufacture of steel and iron, and is now abroad on a mission for this government.

An Appeal for Books.

Now that the Berkeley Heights public library has been instituted, I would respectfully appeal to the public in general to donate books. I will be only too glad to call for any books you may care to give. William Jeffery, 'phone 898-M-4, Plainfield. ***

PRESS SUBSIDIZED BY LIQUOR TRUST

Prominent Methodist Minister Makes Astounding Accusation at W. C. T. U. Convention.

GIGANTIC CORRUPTION FUND.

Rev. Dr. Mead Also Alleges that "The Courts Are With the Liquor Men."

With a stinging arraignment of the newspapers, petty courts, politicians, legislators, brewers and saloon keepers, Rev. Charles L. Mead, of Hoboken, held the attention of the largest audience ever gatnered in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church spellbound last night. The hot shot from his batteries of facts relating to the liquor traffic astounded the audience and they listened in breathless amazement to the accusations hurled at the controllers of the "traffic of the devil."

No one who is in any way connected, directly or otherwise with the making or selling of liquor or beer escaped the attentions of the speaker, who has taken so decided a stand for local option and prohibition. Perhaps his bitterest denunciation was against the newspapers, which Mr. Mead claims are under the control of the liquor interests.

In his preliminary remarks he said that God was the only one who had no history. Man has. History becomes the record of changed events in human life, and this life has become a conflict, a war waged on both sides for and against evil. "God started man off all right," he said, "and gave him a garden with everything needful in it, but man chose to do otherwise than God intended him to do and ever since man has had to battle for the maintenance of his moral life. In order to relieve man of the depression which accompanies his life today he must have a vision of the future in order to obtain hope.

"We are engaged in a bitter conflict and we look with fear upon our adversaries when we compare them with the forces arrayed on our side. Every war this country has had since the Revolutionary war has been fraught with terrors from the liquor habit. These wars were all for freedom from something and now we are engaged in a war for freedom from the liquor demon and we pray for the freedom of our sons and daughters from the liquor trust. I believe the mothers of our land should have the right to say what shall be done with their children's morals.

"The saloon does not stand for the higher physical development of our sons. A boozer is of no use on a baseball team, according to one of the most prominent managers in the National League. The soldier in our army cannot need liquor since the army canteen has been abolished. 1100 years before Christ a Chinese emperor issued an edict against the practice of drinking liquor. And yet we say the Chinese are backward. Liquor controls politics. It knows no law. It respects no innocent childhood nor does it revere motherhood. How can the Christian in the city live side by side with the liquor traffic and be in peace? Christ never compromised with sin. The church must be utterly opposed to the traffic or stand a traitor to the church's Founder.

"No matter whether it is a small or a large saloon it has nothing in it worthy of commendation." Mr. Mead then gave some interesting facts relating to the forces which are arrayed on the side of the liquor traffic. Referring to the coming primary elections in Hoboken, he said that "five excise commissioners are to be elected this year and for these positions thirty-two saloon keepers are candidates. And the press is with them or are tacitly silent. The editors are afraid the advertising would fall off and the subscription lists diminish if they were to do as their consciences impelled them. The liquor trust is spending millions to the secular newspapers in order to control the editorial chairs and desks. Over $5,000,000 has been put into the hands of these papers to make people believe that prohibition does not prohibit.

"The courts are with the liquor men. I do not mean that the judges are not impartial. It took only the votes of three men in Metuchen to

Mrs. Martha Pruden, of North Millville, may lose her foot from blood poisoning following the removal of a corn with a razor. The member is swollen to immense proportions.

Deciding against a carnival on the lines of the successful affair of last year the Business Improvement Association of Camden has voted to hold an industrial exhibition in the stores of the members.

James Boyd, a teamster, of 280 Marshall street, Paterson, is nursing a fracture of the ninth rib on his left side. The bone was put in place Wednesday by the doctors at St. Joseph's Hospital. Last Friday a mule kicked Boyd.

The Imperial Road Company has commenced suit against the Gloucester County Board of Freeholders to recover on the contract of $9,000 for the construction of a mile of roadway on the Crown Point road, which the board condemned.

The Cumberland County Board of Freeholders awarded the contract Wednesday for repairing the Mauricetown drawbridge, which was seriously damaged by a barge a few days ago, to the Owego Bridge Company, of Philadelphia, for $9,590.

A careful investigation is being made by the Gloucester City authorities of the big fire at the Pine Grove Hotel, as this was the third mysterious fire in that city within three weeks. The authorities are inclined to think that the work is being done by a firebug.

The prosecutor of Cape May County has received word from Horace M. Cake that he is ill at his home in Washington, D. C. Cake was recently indicted on charges of illegally selling liquor at the Normandi Hotel in Ocean City and the case was to have been heard at the term of court now in session.

Judge Barry in the Ocean County Court yesterday appointed former Assemblyman Adolph Ernest as probation officer, the first in that county. Mr. Ernst is a veteran of the Civil War, about seventy years old, and for years was deputy internal revenue collector in Monmouth and Ocean counties.

It was announced Wednesday that Rev. Dr. Charles Martin Niles, who served several months as rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of the Savior, West Philadelphia, and, who, while stationed there, married Miss Mamie Doyle, of 4323 Sansom street, his second wife, had accepted a call to the Church of the Ascension of Atlantic City.

Decked out in holiday attire, with all the stores in the central portion of the city and many of the private residences literally smothered with bunting and flags, Salem Wednesday afternoon began a series of what will be known as "Carnival Days" under the auspices of the Business Men's Association. The affair will continue until October 5.

There was commotion in the vicinity of the Camden City Hall Wednesday, when Mrs. James Foster, who was being taken to the insane asylum at Blackwood, escaped from the ambulance. The latter had not proceeded a block before the woman broke away from the officer in charge of her, leaped to the street and began running at the top of her speed. Mrs. Foster was recaptured and taken to the institution without further incident.

Whirled in belting at the Farr & Bailey oilcloth manufactory, Seventh street and Kaighn avenue, Camden, William Butler, eighteen years old, of 1175 Sycamore street, and Joseph Butch, sixteen years old, of 1057 Haddon avenue, were badly hurt Wednesday. Besides suffering compound fractures of the right arm in two places, Butler's limb was so badly torn and mangled that amputation at the shoulder may be necessary. Butch, too, sustained a compound fracture of the right arm. Both are in Cooper Hospital.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold rally exercises at the church Sunday noon at 12 o'clock.

Report says that "Christy" Mathewson will quit baseball at the end of the present season. Little too early to talk about next season's plans. Would rather hear that Elberfield or some player of equal consequence, was going to quit, so that the New York sporting writers would not have to make excuse for past performances.

Tenney is another man reported to have quit the game. According to those same writers, there is no one to take his place and play the initial sack as he does. There will be hundreds of better first basemen developed long after Tenney has passed away.

Jack Martin will finish the season with the New Brunswick team, "Dave" Driscoll having several games scheduled during the coming month.

According to a story from St. Louis the fans of that city are sore on Roger Bresnahan as manager and and it would not be surprising if a change was made when his contract expires. St. Louis expected Roger would develop a world-beater the first year.

The Y. M. C. A. ball team has about closed its season, which has been marked by success. Manager Listman has endeavored to give the supporters of the team the best ball possible.

When the Y. M. C. A. gets possession of its new field, with all its advantages, it will have a plant to be proud of and there should be rapid progress in athletics.

Jimmy McAleer, of the St. Louis Browns, will manage the Washingtons next year, the deal having been closed. McAleer will get a block of stock in the club in addition to a salary.

There is a deal on whereby Billy Murray is to be deposed as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals. Just who will succeed him seems to be a problem. The directors are not satisfied with the present arrangement and believe that they should get better results for the money expended.

GOLF.

Among the more active women in golf at the Plainfield Country Club are Mrs. Arthur Wellington Opp, Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, Miss Maud VanBoskerck, Miss Martha Robert and the Misses Goddard. They maintain their interest in the game and are frequently seen on the course playing. Before the season closes there will be two or three tournaments for the women.

Although "Marty" O'Loughlin has not taken part in any of the big tournaments this season, he still keeps at the top of his game and several times during the summer he has made the eighteen holes in 69 and 70.

The active season at the Plainfield Country Club will be concluded with the cross country golf tournament on Thanksgiving Day. This is an annual fixture and always brings out a large field of players.

C. B. Morgan, who has been playing the game all summer, is just now at the top of his game and is in good condition to contest for country club honors.

PERSONAL.

Miss Luder, of Millstone, who has been visiting relatives here, has returned home.

Miss Estelle Brown, of Jersey City, who has been visiting friends here, has returned home.

Mayor and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk expect to return to their West Seventh street home about October 1.

Charles Gerhart, formerly of this city, but now of Jersey City, has been visiting friends here for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Staats, of Brooklyn, who have been spending a couple of weeks with friends here, have returned home.

Mrs. J. Walker, of Kilmarnock, Scotland, and Miss Morison, of Edinburgh, have been visiting Mrs. S. Mantz, at Watchung.

Miss Kate Huntington, of Sherman avenue, a student at Vassar College, has resumed her studies after spending the summer at home.

—Lewis E. Waring, of this city, will be one of the judges at the annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association in Madison Square Garden.

Plainfield, N. J., September 24, 1909.

AN ACCUSER'S DUTY.

Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead, one of the most distinguished divines of Methodism in New Jersey, in the course of his remarks before the Union County W. C. T. U. convention here last night made serious charges against the courts and the public press. He told his audience that a corruption fund of $5,000,000 is being distributed among the newspapers to control their editorial policy. He also charged that "the courts are with the liquor men."

We can hardly conceive of any thinking man who would give credance to such assertions in the absence of proof and for the sake of his own reputation as well as for the good name of the Church it is clearly the duty of the minister to produce his evidence.

A DESERVED TRIBUTE.

In his rather sensational speech at Newark Wednesday night arraigning Republican leaders, Governor Fort paid a tribute to the services of such men as Ernest R. Ackerman and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen for their work in the Senate. Speaking of Union county's representative, he said: "I believe that no better man than Ernest R. Ackerman ever sat in the Senate chamber." In the past Union has been represented in that capacity by many illustrious men, to say nothing of the equally great and able men from the other twenty-one counties. Hence, the Governor's tribute is one that Mr. Ackerman should be proud of especially as he is deserving of it.

Councilman Woolston Nearing Home

Borough Councilman L. B. Woolston and Mrs. Woolston, who have been enjoying a six weeks' tour of Europe, will return to Plainfield by next Tuesday afternoon. They left England last Friday and are due to arrive in Montreal, Canada, tomorrow. After taking a look around the Canadian city they will go to Boston for a few days and finish their trip Tuesday as indicated above.

WILLIAM COLLIER IN "THE PATRIOT"

An event of unsual interest will be the appearance of William Collier, foremost among the comedians of the day, at the Plainfield theatre Tuesday night in "The Patriot," the three act farce, written by Mr. Collier and J. Hartley Manners, in which the comedian apepared all last season at the Garrick theatre, New York city. There is no funnier man on the stage today than William Collier and his fun is of the sort that appeals especially to American theatre-goers. His appearance in a new play is a matter of much more than ordinary interest.

William Collier in "The Patriot," at Plainfield Theatre next Tuesday.

Mr. Collier's notable success in "Caught in the Rain," "The Dictator," "On the Quiet" and his earlier plays including "The Man from Mexico" and "Mr. Smooth" is a matter of record. In his new comedy, "The Patriot," he has the most pronounced hit of his career. He is not alone seen to better advantage than in his previous successes, but has a play, rich in comedy and apealing in heart interest, that is a distinct addition to stage literature and he creates a character that will not be soon forgotten.

PRESS SUBSIDIZED

secure a license for a saloon keeper when all the rest of the residents had protested against it. This looks as thought the judge in this case was greater than the people."

Many other illustrations of the influences controlled by the liquor men were given and on the other side, or the forces arrayed against the traffic were shown 6,000,000 Methodists; 1,771,000 Presbyterians; 5,000,000 Baptists and countless other members of other denominations, and if these would all move up on the firing line the depressed vision would vanish and Hope would spring up within the hearts of those who are in the midst of the conflict. Statistics relating to the increase of prohibition, particularly in the southern and western States, were given and a list of eminent men including President Taft, Dr. Elliott, of Harvard, and others, who advise against the use of liquor were quoted.

Rev. Mr. Mead was interrupted several times during his address by applause, especially when reference to the abolishment of the army canteen was mentioned.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Mary D. Tomlinson, president of the Union County W. C. T. U., who introduced the speaker. Rev. C. M. Anderson read the scripture and offered prayer. During the taking of the offering Mrs. Manley and her son Raymond sang a duet which was appreciated and applauded. The National convention will be held at Omaha, Neb., October 22 to 27 next.

PLUCKEMIN RESIDENTS HOLD A DUTCH FAIR

The Hudson-Dutch fair, for which so much preparation has been made, was successfully launched yesterday at Pluckemin. The approach of the Hudson carnival in New York has added to the interest taken in the village fete, for this place, standing on the Watchung range of mountains, is in the centre of a community whose inhabitants are of Dutch descent.

A general atmosphere of old Dutch days has been imparted to this fair. One of the notable features is a Dutch bazaar, where are displayed a collection of rare Dutch relics, on view in booths presided over by maidens costumed as their youthful ancestors were in other days.

To appease the appetites of patrons an old Dutch luncheon was served today, and there was a fine exhibition of Dutch pictures. The Far Hills band supplied music yesterday.

The parade, which marked the opening of the fair, was one of the most novel displays of its kind ever held in this vicinity. Constable James Wood was grand marshal, the Far Hills band playing inspiring airs and the oldest Dutch descendants in quaint costumes of the past, with Rev. Thomas D. Wesley, pastor of the local church, as the leader of the Sunday school children, carrying flags and flowers, a general line of marchers bringing up the rear.

The parade was over a route passing the old Washington House, then on to the old Eoff tavern, the Boylan farm and circling back to the village.

There were plenty of catch-penny devices to lure coin from the pockets of the unwary, and for the older folk a good program of speechmaking has been provided.

From the proceeds of the fete the cemeteries of this place will be cared for and historic graves hunted up and put in good condition.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Stout have removed from Harris Lane to the New Madison, this city, for the winter.

NEW BOWLING CLUB ORGANIZED TO ELECT OFFICERS OCT. 4.

A new club to be known as the Monday Night Bowling club, has been formed and is composed of fifteen married couples of this city. The personnel of the club is to be kept a secret for the present but it is said to be the resumption of a club which was disbanded rather suddenly last winter because of the objectionable publicity given the women members of the club.

It is expected to hold the first regular meeting of the club the first Monday in October when officers will be elected. At the end of each month trophies will be awarded to rollers of the highest scores, one each for men and women. The games will be rolled at Campbells' alleys.

Girls Plan a Walk.

The Young Women's Christian Association will conduct a ten mile walk to the glen behind Scotch Plains tomorrow afternoon. The start will be made at 3:00 o'clock from the association house.

Guests at Cook Dinner.

PERSONAL.

Miss Marion Major, of Jackson avenue, the borough, has returned from Newark, where she spent a week with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Davis, of Lakewood, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue.

A. G. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, was one of the delegates of the American Kennel Club that met this week at the headquarters, No. 1 Liberty street, New York, to revise the new code of rules formulated by the rules committee.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church has resumed its regular meetings for the winter and are planning several social events.

The tournament for the individual bowling championship of the city will begin next Tuesday night at Campbell's alleys when Schaub, Campbell and Nash line for the first game.

HUDSON-FULTON FETE INTERESTS NEW JERSEY

Although New Jersey as a State will not take a prominent part in the Hudson-Fulton celebration, beginning Saturday and continuing until October 9, owing to the failure of the Legislature to make an appropriation, the people of the State will flock by thousands to the coming observance of the discovery of the Hudson river and the successful trip of the first steamboat in this country.

Many of the events on the Hudson's shores during the Revolutionary War were enacted on New Jersey soil. One of the most celebrated of these was in Jersey City. In August, 1779, a handful of patriots, under Major Harry Lee, captured the forts at Paulus Hook from the British. In the incidents connected with Fulton's introduction of steam navigation, New Jersey has played an important part. One of Fulton's most formidable rivals for the honor of introducing steam power for vessels was Colonel John Stevens, of Hoboken. It was Colonel Stevens who built the first steamboat which was used on the Hoboken ferry for a short time. The first permanent steam ferry ever operated was the Jersey City ferry, for which Robert designed and built the boats. Fulton had his workshops in Jersey City, and there much of the machinery used in his first boats was made. According to some of the best authorities, the Clermont was fitted out and completed at these shops. Many of the boat's early trips were made from Jersey City.

In January, 1609, Henry Hudson was commissioned by the Dutch East India Company to find a "passage" to China. On April 4 of the same year he sailed from Amsterdam in the Half Moon, and on September 2 the Half Moon, anchored off the Highlands of Navesink. The first reference to the land of New Jersey is recorded by the mate, Robert Juet. "This is a good land and pleasant to see," he wrote in his log. Several days were spent in exploring the lower bay. Then they sailed through the Narrows and anchored off the Bayonne shore at the mouth of the Kill vonKull. A few days later they reached a point off Communipaw. By short stages the Half Moon reached a point off Albany.

Two hundreds years later another boat made a voyage up the Hudson river which in the importance and far reaching effects of the trip equaled that of the great voyage of Henry Hudson. As the Half Moon had aroused the terror and amazement of the natives, so the Clermont, as it moved up the river in August, 1807, belching forth clouds of smoke and flames, excited the wonder and surprise of the crowds along the shore, who little thought that "Fulton's Folly" would prove to be the greatest invention of the century.

In 1787 John Stevens become interested in the subject of steam navigation. Stevens in 1798 petitioned the New York Legislature for the exclusive privilege of using steam for navigation in the waters of New York. The petition was not granted. A few years later the New York Legislature offered the exclusive privilege to anyone who would build a steamboat with a speed of three miles an hour.

In May, 1804, Stevens built a steamboat which navigated the Hudson propelled by twin screws. The engine of this boat was carefully preserved in the Stevens Institute of Technology. Forty years later, in 1844, it was placed in a new vessel modeled on the plan of the first one and, without having the slightest alteration, was worked successfully, the boat attaining a speed of eight miles an hour.

In 1807 Colonel Stevens in conjunction with his son Robert L. Stevens built a paddle wheel steamboat which he named the Phoenix. This was placed on the Hudson and successfully operated only a few days later than Fulton's voyage of the Clermont. Owing to the monopoly of steam navigation in the waters of New York, which Fulton and Livingston had obtained, Stevens was prevented from using this boat on the Hudson River. In 1809 he conceived the idea of taking the boat under steam around Cape May to the Delaware River and thence to Philadelphia. The vessel was manned by a small crew under the command of Robert L. Stevens. They were caught in a severe storm, but succeeded in making a harbor at Barnegat, where they remained until the storm was over, when the continued their voyage, arriving safely at Philadelphia. This was the first ocean voyage ever made by a steam vessel. The boat made regular trips between Trenton and Philadelphia for many years.

In the meantime Elisha Boudinot, General Cummings and a number of other Newark men subscribed $50,000 to start a steam ferry between Jersey City and New York and Fulton was asked to build boats suitable for the purpose. In March, 1811, they obtained a lease of Jersey City ferry and the privilege of landing on the New York side. Fulton ordered two boats to be built by Charles Brown, the builder of the "Clermont," and on July 2, 1812, one of them, which was christened the "Jersey," was completed and put in operation.

About 1870 the Central Railroad of New Jersey began making improvements at Communipaw by filling in and extending the land toward the channel of the Hudson. Under the treaty of 1834, New York claimed jurisdiction over the land and improvements, and the matter was taken to the New York Court of Appeals. After a careful review of the questions involved, they rendered a decision that the agreement of 1834 fixed the boundary line at the middle of the channel of the river and bay, and that the jurisdiction given to New York was only for police and sanitary purposes.

TALK OF CASE AS AN ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

Elizabeth, Sept. 24.—Found by his wife in a semi-unconscious condition Tuesday night, bleeding profusely from three cuts in his forearm, Herman Fuslein was removed from his home, 835 East Jersey street, to the Elizabeth General Hospital, where it was said yesterday he would recover. The police are inclined to the belief that it was a case of attempted suicide, though the knife with which the cutting was done could not be found.

Fuslein, who is a real estate and insurance agent of this city, is also an agent for a couple of steamship lines. When found he was very weak from loss of blood, and had it not been for the timely discovery of his condition, it is believed he would have bled to death. His wife had been out shopping, and left him alone in the house. On her return two hours later she found him lying on the floor.

Dr. Victor Mravlag was summoned and ordered the man's removal to hospital.

Fuslein was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1847, and had lived in Elizabeth nearly fifteen years. He is a member of Herman Lodge of Freemasions, the Mutual Savings Fund Harmonia, a building and loan association and also belonged to several German societies. He has three sons, who are living in the West.

RARE JERSEY RECORDS DISCOVERED IN CANADA.

Trenton, Sept. 24.—Valuable documents were unearthed by Dr. Carlos E. Godfrey, of Adjutant-General Sadler's office, during his vacation spent in Canada this summer. Dr. Godfrey has just returned from his trip.

The first find of the doctor was a number of rolls which Governor Hughes will ask the State education department of New York to send back from the Albany State library to the State Capitol of New Jersey. The rolls contain the names of 1,005 officers and men of 1704, also twenty-four commissions for New Jersey militia officers issued in 1673.

From Essex County the rolls are those of Captains John Parker, Samuel Leonard, John Moore, Thomas Wetherill, George R. Carrick, Peter Demont and John Harrison. From Cumberland county the rolls are those of Lieutenant Thomas Maskell and Captain Joseph Seeley, and the Salem County rolls of Captains Daniel Rumsey, John Lloyd and Joseph Enloye. All of these rolls are in good condition.

At Ottawa, Canada, Dr. Godfrey found some fugitive loyalists' rolls, and succeeded in getting Colonel William Wood, of Quebec, commandant of the Fifth Canadian Rifles, interested in discovering the whereabouts of the rolls of New Jersey regiments captured in the French and Indian wars. Frequently whole regiments were captured and these rolls are lost to the department.

At St. Johns, New Brunswick, the doctor got trace of the rolls of the Third Battalian of New Jersey loyalists, Colonel Isaac Allen's company, the colonel being from Trenton, and it is likely that these rolls will get to the State Capitol.

ELECTION OF SECRETARY DEADLOCKS FIRE BOARD.

Elizabeth, Sept. 24.—Thirty-two ballots failed Tuesday night to break the deadlock in the Board of Fire Commissioners over the election of a secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the sudden death of George J. S. Murphy. The board was in session until midnight.

The field has narrowed down to three candidates, William T. Cox, Jr., son of Captain Cox, who is one of the commissioners; Neil McLeod, Jr., and George McGee, who is a son-in-law of Fire Commissioner Frederick J. Kurtz.

Kurtz voted on every ballot for his son-in-law, Captain Cox stuck to his son and had the backing of President John J. Collins, of the board, while Republican Commissioners John P. Weber and Charles S. Chandler stood by the Republican aspirant, McLeod. Thus the outcome of every ballot was: Cox, 2; McLeod, 2; McGee, 1.

The position is practically a life job. Secretary Murphy had $1,500 a year. The Fire Board, however, has decided that his successor will be paid $1,200 the first year, $1,300 the second, $1,400 the third and $1,500 the fourth year.

CLAIMS SPOUSE WAS SHIPPED TO JERUSALEM.

Paterson, Sept. 24.—Accusing an entire family of alienating the affections of her husband, Mrs. Hannah Marcus filed papers Tuesday in a suit to recover $25,000 damages. The husband, Mrs. Marcus claims, is at present living in Jerusalem, where he was shipped after being abducted by relatives. The defendants named are the husband's father and mother, Jacob and Hannah Marcus; Mrs. Anna Lewis, his sister, and her husband, Joseph Lewis.

Trial of a suit brought by Mrs. Marcus against Mrs. Rebecca Marcus, to recover a pair of diamond earrings alleged to have been loaned the latter, took place in the District Court yesterday, but was not concluded. As the defendants started to leave the courtroom they were served with the papers in the alienation suit. Mrs. Marcus declares her husband was a commission erchant, and his family being displeased with his marriage, kidnapped him and sent him by ship to Jerusalem, claiming he was in ill health. She is a daughter of former rabbi Isadore Friedman, and avers that she is compelled to support herself and child.

MAYOR ASKS RAHWAY'S AID.

For Collections on Saturday for Elizabeth Hospitals.

Mayor Charles B. Holmes, of Rahway, Wednesday issued the following proclamation to the citizens of Rahway:

"Knowing full well the charitable disposition of our citizens, I wish to remind them that Half-Pay Hospital Day occurs on Saturday, September 25. I would ask the citizens of Rahway to respond as liberally as possible to this good cause, as the directors and captains call upon them for contributions.

"Having no hospital in the city of Rahway, we often have occasion to send patients to the hospitals of Elizabeth, and the action taken at this time will grant to our citizens the privilege of access to these noble and beneficent institutions."

The Boys' club of Hope chapel will hold a meeting at the chapel, tonight, to plan for the winter season.

The regular communion service with reception of members, will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Sunday morning.

LOW TIDE.

A wide, moist stretch of umber-colored sand,
A slim legged bird's reflection where the sea
Has slid back slowly, leaving on the strand
A strip of mirror gleaming silvery.
Dank, scattered kelp, loose sea grass green and long,
The shell-rough space where lads a-clamming go,
A thin, smooth line of wavelets, soft of song—
All these betoken that the tide is low.
Far down the beach my gaze goes wandering,
Untired beneath the cool sky fleeced with gray,
To where a slender ship, gull-light of wing,
Rounds the pale headland, dips, and flits away.
Beyond that headland shadowy with mist
My swift, sweet thoughts on wing a-homing go
In strong, true flight, to keep a happy tryst
With hearts that love, when the tide is low.

ITALY NOW IN LINE FOR FOREST CONSERVATION.

A consular report just issued by the National Department of Commerce and Labor, calls attention to the first national forest congress of Italy at Bologna under the patronage of the King. It was recalled at the congress that the Venetian republic was the first in the world to establish a school of "sylvan culture." The position was taken that an education process and program are of prime importance in the work of forest preservation.

The last official bulletin shows that in 1908 there were of forest area in Italy, under the direction of the Ministry of Agriculture at Rome, 7,356,493 acres of wooded foresis, 1,083,039 acres in "bush" forests, 1,893,072 acres bare of trees. This embraces one-seventh of the kingdom's area, which is 70,000,000 acres. The government forestry service is in charge of 2,364 foresters, at an annual expense of $397,078, of which $237,013 is paid by the communes, $148,099 by the provinces and $11,966 by the State.

To place Italy on the footing of other States as to forests, there ought to be added 8,650,000 acres, and it is estimated that 2,500,000 acres would be needed by the State as forest domain. A complete plan for restoring the forests is now ready for scrutiny; by it the State should recover several hundred thousand acres of forests on the immense expanse of Italian mountains, partly belonging to the State, partly to the communes, and a quantity to benevolent institutions. The delegate from the Secretary of Public Works stated that all possible steps are being taken toward the scientific and hydraulic development and management of forest regions, through the co-operation of corps of engineers.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENTS OF A BLIND NEGRO FARMER.

Jacob Spain, a negro farmer of Greene county, Texas, who died a few days ago, was a blind man, whose record of achievement is probably without parallel.

For seventy years, says an exchange, he eked out a bare living by performing such limited tasks as his physical infirmity would permit. But ten years ago he got hold of a little piece of hill land and began to treat the soil "according to books." He had heard a great deal about scientific farming, and so through his wife he posted himself as best he could, and put into practise what he learned.

In ten years' time he made the red hills run riot with prosperity. He produced the finest crops in Greene county, and his stock and cattle are the envy of all his neighbors.

His landed interests increased from a one-horse farm to hundreds of acres. He had money loaned out all over the county, and was rated as one of the most substantial men in the State. He attributed his marvelous success to the fact that he studied the soil, put intelligence behind his efforts and diversified his crops.

YOUNG MEN ARE LAZY.

The young man has had his day so long in the United States that it is of passing interest to find that a majority of the clerks in the Department of Labor who are to go out as a result of Secretary Nagel's housecleaning are the younger members of the staff. Some of the old men have lost their usefulness through superannuation, but the boys show the greater amount of laziness and general shiftlessness. The theory that a man of 50 and more is out of the race when once he loses his job is not borne out by this experience in Washington. The young chap is more valuable than the old one if he can show an equal amount of fidelity, steadiness and unformity of output, but the distractions of life are more likely to cause his mind to wander and to make him an unreliable cog in the industrial machinery. For this reason there is still room, even in America, for the steady old hand who makes up for his lack of celerity with other qualities that are just as valuable to his employer.—Nebraska State Journal.

They are cut full and show the unusual care and skill that is exercised in the making of M. & B. Suits for Boys. With every suit goes an extra pair of Bloomer Trousers. Sizes 7 to 16 years.

Wise parents will come in early before the choicest patterns are picked over.

Men's Fall Suits at $15
Unusual in Fabric and Finish

We have never had such a brisk demand for Suits at $15 as has been made upon us this season. The prime reason is because the suits we are offering this Fall at $15 are unusually attractive.

The fabrics, patterns, finish and smart appearance all come in for their share of high approval from men who have been accustomed to paying $20 in other stores for suits not a bit better and, in many instances, less attractive in style and finish.

Men's Fall Overcoats $12 to $30

There is a chill in the air these evenings which suggests the need of a Fall Overcoat. There is no good reason why any man should forego the comfort of a smart lightweight coat when there are so many styles here from which to choose and such a wide range of prices.

Both conservative and radical models in fancy patterns. Also oxfords and black.

Men's $3.50 Nassau Shoes

Our $3.50 Nassau Shoes for Fall are ready, in all the good leathers and in styles to please most any fancy. They're the best $3.50 shoe made and in style and finish are superior to most $5.00 shoes.

Plainfield in .... The Olden Days.

Re-printed from The Weekly Constitutionalist

February 23, 1871.

M. E. Church—The pastor will by request repeat on next Sunday evening his sermon preached more than a year since on "Saintly Relations," or the present relations of the sainted dead to friends on earth.

Postponement—The Concert by the members of the colored Mission School under the direction of Prof. Meigs, announced to come off this Thursday evening, has been postponed to Tuesday evening next at same hour and place, on account of the lecture of the Y. M. C. A. by Rev. J. H. Vincent, D. D., occurring on the same evening.

Attention is directed to the new advertisement of J. E. Parsons & Co., which will be found in another column. They have a most desirable assortment of goods on hand, which they are selling low. They have just added a complete stock of picture frames, and intend giving personal attention to the wants of the people in that line.

Get your jewelry repaired and polished at Collier's, the only place on Front street.

Dr. Jewett, the able writer, will deliver a free Temperance Lecture in the Second Baptist Church of this city this (Wednesday) evening, commencing at 7½ o'clock. The "Doctor" is described as an able lecturer, particularly on the subject of temperance. All are cordially invited to attend.

Today (Wednesday) is the One Hundred and thirty-ninth anniversary of George Washington. Business in the larger cities is generally suspended, while in our own city, a liberal display of bunting is noticeable on various engine houses, City Hotel, private residences, &c. This evening occurs the Grand Twelfth Annual Supper of "Gazette Engine Co. No. 1," at Laing's Hall. The boys have decorated the hall in a manner never before eclipsed in Plainfield and all anticipate a "good time." It is worth the price of the ticket to view the scene.

WIDOWED MOTHERS.

Pitiful Conditions Existing in Crowded Districts.

Here is a real story of a widowed mother of New York's tenements told by Belle Lindner Israels, in the September Survey. Try to picture yourself in such a condition. It may prove a cure of complaint:

"You live in three rooms in Essex street." It being summer, you spent the night on the fire escape, but not to avoid the heat. There is a boarder who helps out with the rent. You only have one bed. The boarder must have it. The three older children slept on a mattress on the floor after you brought them in from the street at 11 o'clock. The baby, who is only eight months old, slept with you on the fire-escape, and you stayed half awake all night for fear you might lose your hold on him and he might fall. Widowhood is a matter of some months with you and you lie awake early in the mornings endeavoring to solve the problems of shelter, food and clothing on uncertain earnings of $4 a week. You are only 36 years old, but you look 49, and you feel so tired and your arm hurts so where the dispensary doctor said it was rheumatism and you are never without that dull ache in your head. Working all day at the hardest kind of a job—taking your place in the machinery of your employer's economy, has its compensations when the home-coming means the greeting of a sympathetic husband. But you come home only to the emptiness of missing him—he is dead. Perhaps it is worse yet, and he has simply left you to do for yourself and the children because he has found someone younger and less worn in the struggle with life and the little ones. Your prospect is a restless night in the floor or the fire-escape, with the children tumbling about and a boarder in make life more miserable, more crowded, more unhappy. What is the end? What sort of children will the little ones be without their mother's care, however unwise or untaught?"

Animals Poor Sailors.

The polar bear is the only wild animal that likes a trip on the water, according to a French scientist who has studied its behavior at sea. He is quite jolly when aboard ship, but all other animals violently resent such a voyage and vociferously give vent to their feelings until seasickness brings silence.

The tiger, says Fur News, suffers most of all. He whines pitifully, his eyes water continually and he rubs his stomach with his terrible paws. Horses are bad sailors and often die on a sea voyage.

Oxen are heroic in their attempts not to give way to seasickness. Elephants do not like the sea, but they are amenable to medical treatment. A good remedy is a bucketful of hot water containing three and one-half pints of whiskey and seven ounces of quinine.

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1908, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"That's very foolish."

"Why, I couldn't have closed my eyes," replied Hillard.

"But won't she need you up there?" Merrihew was obviously troubled.

"If she needs me she'll send for me. I shall remain here and wait. She is free. Thank God!"

"Didn't Giovanni tell us that he had friends in Fiesole, near Florence, and that he was going to visit them?" asked Merrihew.

"Giovanni! I had forgotten. But what had my old valet against the prince?"

"Giovanni had a daughter," said Merrihew. "His knife left a scar on the man. The prince carried a long scar on his cheek."

Hillard began dressing in his day clothes, stopping at times and frowning at the walls.

At night the last of the American Comic Opera company straggled into the hotel. O'Mally, verbose as ever, did all the talking.

"You wouldn't know her," he said, referring to La Signorina, for they would always call her that. "When she heard of that duffer's death I swear that she believed you had a hand in it. But when she heard that the accident had occurred before you left the villa she just collapsed. The police were hunting for the missing saber. Of course we knew nothing about it," with a wink at Merrihew.

When the others were gone Hillard asked Kitty if she had any news.

"She said that she would write you and for you to remain here till you received the letter."

"Was that all?"

"Yes. Have you seen anything of that wretched man Worth, who is the cause of all this trouble?"

"No, nor do I care to."

Kitty and Merrihew went out together.

* * * * * * * *

They were gone to America, and Hillard was alone. He missed them all sorely—Merrihew with his cheery laugh, Kitty with her bright eyes and O'Mally with his harmless drolleries. And no letter!

Daily he searched the newspapers for news of Giovanni. But to all appearances Giovanni had vanished, as indeed he had, forever out of Hillard's sight and knowledge.

The letter came one week after the departure of his friends. It was postmarked Venice. And the riddle was solved.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE LETTER.

MY father was Colonel Grosvenor of the Confederate army during the civil war. On General Lee's staff was an Italian named the Principi di Monte Bianca. Rich, titled, a real noble, he was at heart an adventurer, a word greatly abused these inglorious days. My father was cut from the same pattern, a wild and reckless spirit in those crowded times. The two became friends such as you and Mr. Merrihew are. Their exploits became famous. My father was also rich and a man of foresight. His real wealth was in foreign securities, mines, oils, steel, steamships. When the war terminated the prince prevailed upon my father to return with him to Italy. Italy itself was in turmoil. Il Re Galantuomo, that Piedmontese hunter, Vittorio Emanuele, wished to liberate Venice from the grasp of Austria, to wrest temporal power from the Vatican and to send the French troops back to France. Well, he accomplished all these things, and both my father and the prince were with him up to the time he entered the Quirinal. After victory, peace. My father invested in villas and palaces and settled down to end his days in the Venetian palace on the Grand canal.

Then my father, still young, remember, fell in love with the daughter of a Venetian noble. It was a happy union. Shortly after the prince also married. He was, with the exception of my father, the most lovable man I ever knew—brave, kindly, impetuous, honorable, witty and wise. It does not seem possible that such a father should have such a son.

There came a great day. A young prince was born, and the rough king stood as his godfather. Later I added my feeble protest, at the cost of my mother's life. As I grew up I became my father's constant companion. We were always out of doors. By and by he sent me to America to school. I returned from America to enter a convent out of Rome and later went to Milan and studied music.

One fatal day the old prince and my father put their heads together and determined that this great friendship of theirs should be perpetuated. The young prince should marry the young signorina. They drew up the strangest of wills. Both men were in full control of their properties. There was no entailed estate such as one finds in England. They could do as they pleased. And this was before Italy had passed the law requiring that no art treasures should be sold or transported. Fortunately for me, my mother's property was considerable.

The impossible clauses in the joint will read that if we two young people declined the bargain the bulk of the estates should revert to the crown. Again, if we married and separated and were not reunited inside of five years the fortunes should become the crown's. If, having separated from my husband, either for just or unjust reasons, I should secretly or publicly occupy any villa or palace mentioned in the will it would be a tacit admission that I accepted my husband. Was there ever such an insane tangle kindly meant? We must marry; we must be happy. That our minds and hearts were totally different did not matter at all.

Time went on. The old prince died suddenly; his wife followed. And then my kind and loving father went the way. I was taken under the wing of a duchessa who was popular at court. At this period the young prince was one of the handsomest men in Europe. He was brave, clever and engaging.

On completing my education I decided to live in Rome. The old duchessa mothered the rich American girl gladly, for, though I was half Italian, they always considered me as the child of my father. I was presented at court. I was asked to dinners and receptions and balls. I was quite the rage because the dowager queen gave me singular attention.

The prince by this time seemed changed in some way. But I was blindly young. Often I noticed the long scar on his cheek. He had received it, he said, in some cavalry exercise.

Now, there was another clause in this will. It was the one thing which made the present life tolerable and possible to me. We were to be married without pomp, quietly, first at the magistrate's and then at the church. At last the day came.

"Because I love you!"

We passed through the streets to the magistrate's. I did not know then that I was not in love, that I was only young and curious. I threw roses to any who asked. The prince sat beside me in full dress uniform, looking very handsome and distinguished. The prince smiled, but he was nervous and not at ease. I thought nothing of this at the time. I believed his nervousness a part of my own.

The magistrate performed his part. Legally we were man and wife. We were leaving for the church when at the very doorway a handsome woman, sad eyed, weary, shabbily dressed, touched me on the arm.

"A rose, signora!"

I gave it to her, smiling pityingly.

"God pray," she said, "that this man will make you happier than he made me!"

"Let us be on!" said the prince eagerly.

"Wait!" I turned to the woman. "Signora, what do you mean by those words?"

"His highness knows." She pointed to the prince, whose face I now saw, strangely enough, for the first time. It was black with rage and ugliness.

"What has he been to you?" I demanded.

She answered. I understood. In that moment I became a woman without illusions. Without looking at the prince I entered the carriage and closed the door in his face. He stormed; he lied. I was of stone. He turned upon the poor woman and struck her in the face. Even had I loved him that would have been the end of the romance. I drove home. There would be no wedding at the church that day. There was a great scandal. Every one took up the prince's cause, with the exception of the king.

The prince was almost bankrupt. He had squandered his all. He had sold to usurers half of the fortune he expected to get after marrying me. He had not the slightest affection for me. He was desperate and wanted the money. How old and wise I became during that ride home from the magistrate's! I vowed he should never have a penny. It should all go to the crown.

When at length he found that I was really serious he became base in his tactics. He was the one who was wronged. He gave life to such rumors among those I knew that soon I found doors closed to me which had always been open. No Italian woman could see the matter from my point of view. I was an American for all that my mother was a Venetian, therefore I was wrong.

There! That is all. There is no more mystery concerning Sonia Hilda Grosvenor.

And so the letter ended. There was not a word regarding any future meeting. There was nothing to read between the lines. A great loneliness surged over Hillard. Was this, then, really the end? No! He would wait here in Florence till the day of doom. He would waste no time in seeking her, for he knew that if he sought he would not find.

Day after day dragged through the hours, and Florence grew thinned and torrid. Sometimes he rode past the Villa Ariadne, but he never stopped.

It was in the middle of June that one afternoon the concierge handed him a telegram. It contained but three words:

"Villa Serbelloni, Bellaggio."

The Villa Serbelloni, now a hotel, stands on a wooded promontory among the Alps and between the lakes, at Bellaggio, and all day long the warm sunshine floods its walls and terraces and glances from the polished leaves of the tropical plants.

The 6 o'clock boat from Como puffed up noisily and smokily to the quay, churning her side paddles. Hillard stepped ashore impatiently. What a long day it had been! How white the Villa Serbelloni seemed up there on the little hilltop. He gave his luggage to the porter from the Grand and followed him on foot to the hotel. He dressed quickly, and in less than an hour he stepped forth from the gardens and took the path up to the villa.

Afar he saw a table spread under the great oak. A woman sat by it. It was still daylight, and he would have known that head of hair among the ten thousand houris of heaven. She did not rise, but she extended her hand, a grave inquiry in her slumbrous eyes. With equal gravity he clasped the hand, but held back the impulse to kiss it. He sat down opposite her and, smiling, whimsically inquired:

"Now, where did we leave off?"

At first she did not understand.

He enlightened her. "I refer to that Arabian Nights entertainment in New York. Where did we leave off that interesting discussion?"

She smiled brightly. "We shall take up the thread of that discourse with the coffee."

"Why not countermand the order for dinner? I am not hungry."

"But I am," she replied. She was wholly herself now. The tact with which he began his address disembarrassed her. For two days since she dispatched the telegram she had lived in a kind of ecstatic terror. She had even regretted the message once it was beyond recall. "I am human enough to be hungry sometimes." She summoned the waiter.

The dinner was excellent, but Hillard scarcely knew what this or that plate was. And when the waiter brought the coffee and lingered for further orders it was Hillard who dismissed him rather curtly.

He said musingly: "We had agreed that it would be best never to meet again, that to keep the memory of that night fresh in our minds, a souvenir for old age, it were wisest to part then. Well, we can keep the memory of it for our old age. It will be a little secret between us, and we shall talk it over on just such nights as this."

He reached for her hand, which lay upon the cover, but without apparent notice of his movement she drew it back. A flash of pain crossed Hillard's face.

"I have waited patiently for weeks."

She faced him with an enigmatical smile, lighted a match, blew it out and drew a line across the center of the table.

He laughed. "What! Again?"

"Observe."

As a rejoinder he smoothed out the telegram she had sent to him. "Why did you send this to me?"

Her lips had no answer ready.

"There can be but one reason," he pursued.

"Friendship."

The beginning of the night was cool, but the fire of the world's desire burned in her cheeks, and she was afraid. She stepped to the railing, faced the purpling mountains and sang "Die Zauberflote." Hillard dared not touch her till the last note was gone.

"I did not come here because of friendship," he said. "Only one thing brought me—love and the hope of love."

She stared at him, her hand at her throat.

Then he took her in his arms suddenly, hungrily, even roughly. "You are mine, mine, and nothing in the world shall take you from my arms again, Sonia."

She pressed her palms against him and stood away. She looked bravely into his eyes now.

"I sent the message because I wanted you, because I am tired of lying to my heart, because I have a right to be happy, because—because I love you! Take me and, oh, be good and kind to me, for I have been very lonely and unhappy. Kiss me!" with a touch of the old imperiousness.

She clasped him fondly to herself.

"See Naples and die," she whispered, "but the spirit will come to Bellaggio."

THE END.

Smallest House in Paris.

The smallest house in Paris is said to be situated in the curious Rue de la Bucherie, which formerly was devoted to the sale of firewood and wooden buoys. The house in question is No. 37. Crushed under a high roof, this little place is only one-story and contains two small windows. It dates from the end of the sixteenth century, and makes a singular contrast with the high building which surround it. One of these was for a long time the studio of the celebrated painter. Gustave Courbet, and there he is supposed to have painted some of his principal works. —London Globe.

URGES HIGHER TAX ON JERSEY AUTOMOBILES

Increased taxation on automobiles was advocated by Gov. Fort Wednesday at Lakewood, when he spoke before the party of distinguished Western men, who are inspecting New Jersey roads through arrangements made by B. F. Yoakum, of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company.

During the speech he made at the luncheon, he said the problem that confronts this State today is not the construction of new roads, but the repairs to those already in existence. The necessity for these repairs, the Governor said, is brought about by automobiles, through the damage they do.

While it may cost a quarter of a million, he held, for the construction of new roads, the expense of maintaining those already in use is over a million dollars. This is through the wear and tear caused by automobile traffic. The present tax on automobiles, he went on to say, is insufficient to meet the expense their use causes. Therefore, he urged, the amount required from auto owners should be increased.

SECURES OPTION ON VALUABLE TIMBER LAND.

Summit, Sept. 24.—The trip of George V. Muchmore to the Alaska-Yukon Exposition as one of the New Jersey commissioners is likely to prove one of the most remunerative he has yet taken. Before his return, Mr. Muchmore, who is a wealthy retired coal and lumber merchant, secured an option on a forest of old growth timber on Vancouver's Island and in Washington State, and he has nearly concluded the deal involving the outright purchase of the trees.

There are estimated to be over 80,000,000 feet of lumber in the tract, and a syndicate, with Mr. Muchmore at the head, has been formed to develop it. The best of the timber will be shipped to the East, but the coarser growths will be sold in the markets of the West. The forests are accessible by either water or rail, and preparations are being made to have erected there a thoroughly equipped sawmill.

RUTGERS COLLEGE OPENS WITH LARGEST CLASS.

New Brunswick, Sept. 24.—Rutgers College opened Wednesday morning with a freshman class of 142 the college now having the largest number of students in its history. Dr. Demarest, the president, welcomed the students, and spoke of improvements made during the vacation season, and of the new instructors added to the faculty.

Erik Schjoth Palmer has been made professor of mathematics and graphics, and William Bertram Twiss of English. The professor of philosophy, to succeed Dr. Chamberlain, has not yet been selected. Professor E. B. Davis has returned from a year's absence in Europe. A new dormitory has been erected to provide for the increased attendance. The annual flag rush was won yesterday morning by the freshmen, 10 to 6.

"BILL" MACABEE, AT 106, CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—William Macabee, the only surviving member of the crew of the old frigate Constitution, Wednesday celebrated his 106 birthday in the naval home in this city. "Bill," as everybody calls him, like the famous Bill Bowline, "lies here a sheer hulk, but the darling of his crew," for the old sailor will spend the remainder of his life in a rolling chair. "Bill's leg was broken last month, but he retains a remarkable control over his faculties.

Many presents have been forwarded to the naval home for the old sailed from persons in all parts of the country. Half a dozen pipes are included, but "Bill" declines to part with the inch-an-a-half clay "hod" with the wire-wrapped stem.

WOODBRIDGE MAN A HERO.

Michael J. Conlon, Boatswain's Mate, Saved Seaman's Life.

The Navy Department at Washington has transmited to the Treasury Department the papers in the case of Michael J. Conlon, of Woodbridge, a boatswain's mate, first class, on board the United States steamship Kansas, who on August 13 last, while the Kansas was on the Southern drill grounds, off Hampton Roads, jumped overboard during the night to rescue J. R. Nagel, an ordinary seaman, who had fallen overboard.

Conlon has been in the navy about eleven years, and is a native of Woodbridge. The Navy Department has recommended that a life-saving medal be awarded to Conlon and has forwarded the record of the case to the Secretary of Treasury for examination to determine whether or not he is entitled to it.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 26, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—How missionaries win souls for Jesus Christ.—I Cor. ix, 9-23.

The methods of winning souls for Christ are practically the same the world over. The sinner must be led to see his sinfulness, and in Christ the power to save him, and to accept Christ as his atoning Saviour. But when it comes to the methods of bringing about these results in the minds and hearts of men, the work of the missionary is vastly different from that of those who labor among people to whom the gospel has been known from childhood. Missionaries to foreign fields especially must work along different lines. They are dealing with a strange people. To these people Christ and his teachings are unknown. Their faith has been placed in other religions. Their methods of thinking and of living are vastly different, as well as their daily habits and customs. The effort to save men under these circumstances must necessarily be different from those used at home.

Paul, the greatest of all missionaries, realized the problem and solved it. The ways suggested in this passage to the Corinthians, properly understood, cover the entire ground. Indeed one sentence does it—"all things to all men, that I might by all means save some." Involved in the principle here set forth are suggested the requirements of missionaries for saving souls for Christ.

1. Missionaries need intelligence to win souls for Christ. Paul was a man of marked intellectual ability and finely educated. He had the finest scholastic training that the Jews could give. He was familiar with Greek philosophy and poetry, of Rome and Roman customs, he also had considerable knowledge. He therefore could meet with success the philosophy of Greece, the paganism of Rome and the unbelief of his fellow countrymen, the Jews. The people of other nations are not lacking in mental capacity. The religious leaders are shrewd in argumentation. Many of them are keen sophists and cannot be successfully reached with Christianity unless the missionaries be unusually equipped mentally as well as spiritually for their work. The church today as never before is sending its brightest and best educated men and women as missionaries, which is the proper thing to do.

2. Missionaries need adaptation to win souls for Christ. Paul possessed this power. To the Jew he became as a Jew, to the Greeks as a Greek, etc. Missionaries as far as possible should adapt themselves to the people among whom they labor. Be as much like them and live as much like them as can be done. The missionary among the miners, who dressed as they did and went down into the mines as they did, had no difficulty in winning them for Christ. Had he remained above ground, clothed himself in clerical garb and erected a regular church building he would have had but few to hear his message. But becoming one of them that he might save some they were glad to hear and to accept his message.

Unique Place of Christian Endeavor.

That the Christian Endeavor society has a unique place in the life of the modern church is proved by the history of nearly twenty-eight years and by the fact that when one society for local causes has failed to fill its niche a score have sprung up to take its place. This shows the enduring and self propagating life that there is in the Endeavor idea.

The Christian Endeavor cause was one of the inevitable things in church life. It was bound to come. The need was there. The place was vacant. Its need was felt by ten thousand pastors and church workers. It had only to be suggested to be adopted.

Never did I feel the truth of this more than today, when in foreign countries among people who speak many different languages I find societies of Christian Endeavor springing up everywhere, simply because they are needed and because they supply a long felt want in the church life that no other organization has filled.

First, then, their unique place is a distinctly religious place It may seem strange to speak of this as a unique place in the church life. Can there be anything in the church life that is not distinctly religious? There certainly can be and are such organizations whose aim is distinctly social or merely moral. I am not in any way disparaging them. It is well for people to get acquainted with one another, and to this end it is well to have a society, if it is needed, to promote acquaintance. It is well to teach young people manliness and womanliness, temperance and purity. In a sense all these things are religious, but they need a spiritual basis to make them enduring and efficient.

The Christian Endeavor society finds this basis in the weekly prayer meeting and the monthly consecration meeting and in the pledge which keeps them vital and vigorous and which provides also for personal prayer and Bible reading. In this respect, so far as I know, this society and those modeled after it are unique among the organizations of the church for young people. There are none others founded on prayer and the prayer meeting and so closely welded to it.—Francis E. Clark, D.D., LL.D.

DINNER OF DUTCH ARMS

Trinity Reformed Church Men's Association Holds Banquet.

ADDRESSED BY DOMINIES.

Robert Clark, Jr., the Toastmaster at First Annual Dinner Attended by Fifty-six Members.

Fifty-six members and guests of the Dutch Arms, the men's club of Trinity Reformed church sat down to a sumptuous repast last night at 7:30 and when the concluding prayer was offered the clock said it was 10:45 and each intervening minute was full of enjoyment. Speeches were made by Rev. William P. Bruce, pastor of the Reformed church, of Yonkers, Rev. Dr. Isaac W. Cowen, pastor of the Reformed church at Weehawken, Rev. Dr. Edward G. Read, of this city, and Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

Fred S. Cutter, president of the club was master of ceremonies and Robert Clark, Jr., toastmaster. The banquet was served by Mrs. Johnson, stewardess of the Park Golf club, and a corps of very efficient waitresses, so that the feast left nothing to be desired. A short prayer by Rev. Mr. Broek preceeded the dinner which all enjoyed to the utmost.

Mr. Cutter introduced the toastmaster, Mr. Clark, telling the first funny story of the evening in an effort to hide his blushes, but the laughter which followed the story showed that bashfulness was at a discount in this gathering. Mr. Clark said that he had qualified as a Dutchman and his stories of the old traditions of the Dutch people were amusing and laugh provoking.

Rev. Mr. Bruce was the first speaker and responded to the toast "The Basis of Fellowship." Before getting down to his subject Mr. Bruce told how he had just escaped becoming a member of the Ananias club, by not joining the story tellers. Nevertheless his anecdotes were away above par and made the audience roar with laughter. Mr. Bruce said that the young man's career in college, business, political and religious life will be determined by his first associations. He is a good man who does others good. "You and I," he said, "desire to associate with people who excite our admiration and positive respect, so we love the higher gifts and attributes which minister to our intellectual entities. This is the feeling which creates fellowship of the right kind and brings out from us that other self which is the self we know when reading a book we forget the author and fix our minds on the creature of his imagination. There must be in the author that other self which makes that creation possible.

"Thomas A. Edison has a picture in his studio showing a flash of lightning and which is labeled, 'The Autograph of the Eternal,' but I tell you that the autograph of the Eternal is to be found in the smiling face of the child, in the opening flower in the song of the bird. Your society is arousing the generous feeling of fellowship which was the predominant feeling of Christ, the Man of love and in Him we find friendship carried to its highest power."

Dr. Bruce concluded with a little poem illustrative of the beauties of the divine fellowship.

Dr. Gowen was then introduced and got everybody to laughing by telling of his trip across the river and observing that the statute of Liberty was illuminated for the first time since Dewey returned from Manila. He responded to "Our Men and the Church" and said that the church is made too dark. It is made so dark that the church does not attract men as it ought. There ought to be always a feast of fellowship in the church which would attract—not repel. Things should be put before men that they want and the church in order to get a hearing from men must give them what they crave.

MARSHAL SLINEY SKIPS

Deposits Badge, Keys and Revolver at Borough Hall and Vanishes.

WENT TO "CONSULT LAWYER."

Michael Gallagher's Witnesses Prove Charges and Sliney is Dismissed—Blaine Temporary Successor.

Depositing his badge, keys and revolver on the borough hall desk, ex-Marshal William Sliney left Dunellen at about 6:30 last evening to have a "consultation with his lawyer, F. J. Blatz," and has not been seen since. He was to have been triad on a charge of drunkenness at 8 o'clock, but as at nine he had failed to appear the trial proceeded without him before Mayor Harry J. Swackhamer.

Michael Gallagher, who preferred the charges against Sliney, was on hand early with about forty witnesses. S. S. Swackhamer was Gallagher's counsel and examined the witnesses. John Kean, Michael Grimes, Henry Stevens and Miss Clara Hawes all testified as to Sliney's condition on the afternoon of June 1, although they would not swear that Sliney was drunk. They said, however, that they had seen the Marshal in a helpless condition, but could not state the cause of it. They also saw him loaded upon a truck and carried away.

The testimony of these witnesses although given reluctantly, together with Sliney's absence, convinced Mayor Swackhamer that Sliney was guilty and forthwith discharged him.

The Mayor immediately appointed C. W. Blaine to act as Marshal until the next regular meeting when a man to fill Sliney's place will be named. James Benson was appointed and sworn in as a special marshal for duty at a circus which is in the borough today.

FREEHOLDER, INJURED, SEEKING FOR REDRESS

Freeholder Henry Krouse, of Roselle, has instituted proceedings against the Mack Brothers' Motor Vehicle Company, of Allentown, Pa., for damages and also taken steps to have the manufacturers' license revoked and that of the driver of a sight-seeing machine with which he was in collision last Sunday at German Valley.

Mr. Krouse, accompanied by his wife and daughters, Clara and Edna, were in their touring car en route from Buffalo at their home at Roselle, when they met a sight-seeing car at German Valley. It was filled with a dozen men, en route from New York to the Allentown Fair, and Mr. Krouse asserts that the men were in a questionable condition, and that the driver was not fit to operate the car. He further asserts that the sight-seeing car ran into his machine, damaging it, and throwing himself and family out.

Mr. Krouse suffered a fracture of several ribs and has been detained at home ever since. His wife and daughters were severely shaken up although not seriously injured. It was with difficulty that they reached home. Mr. Krouse has taken the matter up with J. B. R. Smith, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, and feels sure that when he learns the true facts he will revoke the driver's license.

Will Hold a "Stag" Affair.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, Independent Order Foresters, received one application and initiated two candidates at its meeting last night. The social committee reported that it had made arrangements to hold a "stag" affair on October 29. A vaudeville program will be presented and a collation served. The committee in charge comprises John R. Cline, Edward J. McCue and Fred Breem.

"What We Owe the Dutch."

Rev. C. L. Goodrich at the Congregational church, tomorrow morning will preach on the topic, "Henry Hudson and What We Owe the Dutch," and at the close of the service, the Sunday-school will hold rally day exercises, including special music and an address. The evening service will be resumed a week from tomorrow, when the pastor will begin a series of talks on "Sundays in England."

Freeholders Inspect Roads.

Members of the road committee of the Union county Board of Freeholders made an inspection of county roads yesterday. Henry Krouse is chairman of this committee.

TO ORDAIN MR. FOUNTAIN

Ceremony to Take Place at the First Baptist Church Tomorrow.

ACCEPTS N. Y. STATE CALL.

Five Ministers to Take Parts in Ceremony—Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss in Charge.

Charles Hillman Fountain, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fountain, of West Seventh street, will be ordained to the ministry of the Gospel at the First Baptist church, tomorrow night. The pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, will be in charge of the service and present the candidate.

The ordination sermon will be preached by the Rev. George Douglas, of Flushing, L. I. The charge will be given by the Rev. Dr. M. H. Pogson, of New York, and the presentation of the Bible by the Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains. The ordination prayer will be offered by Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church. The service will be of peculiar interest, as it has been many years since one of the kind occurred in this church. All seats will be free.

Mr. Fountain was graduated from McMaster University at Toronto, Canada, and from Crozer Theological Seminary, Philadelphia. Since he left the seminary he has been preaching as a supply at various churches, and occasionally has been heard at the First Baptist and Temple Baptist churches. He has received and accepted a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church at Unionville, N. Y., and will enter up his work at once.

MISS WILLIAMS' FRIENDS CELEBRATE HER BIRTHDAY

Miss Hazel Williams, of 137 Crescent avenue, was eighteen years old, yesterday, and the event was appropriately marked by an enjoyable birthday party, which was attended by a large number of friends, last night. An advertising guessing game occupied the early part of the evening, honors in which were awarded to the Misses Marjorie Hart and Mary Radford and Edward Kneustler and Russon Garner.

Later in the evening dancing was enjoyed, music for which was furnished by a pianola. Supper was served at 11 o'clock, one of the pleasing features being the cutting of an enormous birthday cake. The color scheme in the decorations was pink and green. Those present included:

The Misses Gertrude Schmidt, Mary adRford, Marjorie Brown, Margaret VanDeventer, Marjorie Hart, Hattie Nischwitz, Edith Bentley, Bessie Wyckoff, Gertrude Townley, Ivy Cherry, Edna Hyatt, Ella Garrett, Hazel Williams and Russon Garner, Raymond Garner, George Bentley, Harry Nash, Bertram Leggett, G. Newell Kirkner, Treadwell Stauson, Edward Kneustler, William Woodruff, Arthur Woodruff, Ernest VanZandt, Howard Roberts and Edwin Williams.

PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND D. A. R. SOCIAL SESSION.

Camp Middlebrook, Daughters of the American Revolution, was entertained at the home of Mrs. E. I. Cregar, of Church street, High Bridge, this week. Miss Anna Todd, of Dunellen, who is the secretary, invited the entire membership to be present at the wedding of one of the Daughters, Miss Lillian Torrey Glen, and George Herbert Gains, who are to be married on Tuesday afternoon, October 12, at 3:30 o'clock at Grace church.

After the business meeting there was a delightful program of vocal and instrumental music. Those present from Plainfield were Miss Katherine Glen, Miss Lillian Torrey Glen, Mrs. Charles H. Dunham, Mrs. Chas. E. Westervelt, Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Mrs. W. E. MacClymont and Miss Katherine MacClymont.

Boroughites at Allentown Fair.

Henry Nischwitz, Frank Rickert, George Giddis, Albert Smalley, Clarke Mundy, Peter Bowers and several others from North Plainfield took in the Allentown Fair Thursday and witnessed the world beating performance of Muda Guy, a three year old mare, which trotted a mile in 2:12¼ on the half mile track.

K. of P. District Meeting.

A district meeting of the Knights of Pythias will be held in the rooms of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., Friday night, October 1, when a large delegation of knights from all parts of the district will be here and take part in important business. A banquet will be served after the meeting.

DORTHY IN TOILS AGAIN

Former Plainfielder This Time Arrested for Larceny of $900.

TOOK THE WIDOW'S MONEY?

Lawyer Incarcerated at Police Headquarters in New York Has a Record.

John F. Dorthy, formerly of Sandford avenue, and at one time a successful lawyer of Rochester, N. Y., who became involved in shady real estate transactions resulting in four convictions and a three years' term in Auburn prison, was arrested late yesterday afternoon at 120 Liberty street, New York, charged with the larceny of $900 from a woman who had befriended him.

During his residence here, Mr. Dorthy was involved in several questionable business transactions, but always managed to escape the consequences. He has not resided here in several months.

Detectives McConville and Nelson locked Dorthy up at police headquarters, New York, on the complaint of Mrs. Louis Andrea, a widow of 652 Forty-ninth street, Brooklyn, who said that she had intrusted him to sell a piece of property for her.

He sold the property for $900, Mrs. Andrea charges, and kept the money, and according to the police, he admitted last night he appropriated it to his own use, but claimed that the woman owed him that amount. Although he was disbarred following his first conviction in Rochester, Dorothy told Mrs. Andrea, according to the police, that he was a lawyer in good standing. Four years ago he was arrested in New York for practising without a license in New York city.

USE BEER BOTTLES FOR THEIR KETCHUP

At this season of the year many housewives are busy putting up ketchup, chili sauce and other like relishes, for the winter, and it has been found that beer and mineral bottles have been used for that purpose. In consequence the local beer and mineral water bottlers have been suffering a great loss of bottles. These bottlers believe that if the housewives are acquainted with the facts they will lend their aid to stop the practice.

The bottles cost the bottlers about two cents apiece and for a lonf time they have suffered greatly from the loss of them, especially at this time of the year, when the women-folk find them a very convenient thing to use. Among those who have suffered such losses is Frank Linke, of West Front street, who offers $5 reward for any information concerning householders using his bottles.

OBSERVING YOM KIPPUR; JEWISH SYNAGOGUE FILLED

The hundreds of Jews in this city are today celebrating the fast of Yom Kippur, or the Atonement. The ceremonies began last evening at 5:30 in the local synagogue and for three hours the entire congregation, of which K. Rothberg is president, remained in prayer. A choir from New York under the direction of M. Solensky contributed the music, which is of an ancient and solemn character. Two Rabbis were in charge of the service, Rabbi Rottman and Rev. Davidson, of this city. The synagogue was crowded from the beginning.

In the synagogues where the old rules and customs of the ancient faith are observed the scrolls of the law will be carried among the congregation so that men and women may kiss the sacred scrolls.

The special atonement service consists of acknowledgement of man's sinfulness, prayer to God for pardon in expression of love and reverence and love for God, reliance on His mercy and confession of the weakness of human nature in temptations. Sermons were preached in all the synagogues today in which these sentiments prdominated.

Under the auspices of the Earnest Workers' Society of Bethel chapel, a peach dumpling festival was held last night at the home of Mrs. J. B. Roberson, of East Third street, for the benefit of the chapel.

Because he failed to get a license for his dog, Henry S. Forrester, of Duer street, arraigned before Recorder Dolliver in the borough court, last night, was fined $2.

Come, hurry folks, a hymn to Herr, to him a rousing hymn;
If you've a boy and girl, see Herr; send him and her to him.
For Herr will teach both her and him, and he and she and Herr
Will bless the day they met Herr Herr, and Herr met him and her.

"ALL ABOARD FOR N. Y.!"

All Trains Packed by Plainfielders Going to See the Hudson-Fulton Fete.

ARE HANDLING CROWDS WELL.

Wife of Jersey Central's Vice President Compelled to Ride on a Rear Platform.

Plainfield is contributing its full share of representatives at the first day's celebration of the Hudson-Fulton fete in New York, for between 1,200 and 1,500 residents of this city, exclusive of commuters, left here before noon to join in the big event. From early sunrise until 12 o'clock every eastbound train was loaded to its capacity with passengers.

Perhaps, the most exciting incidents occurred upon the arrival of the 9:59 train. There were fully five hundred people at the North avenue station and everyone wanted to get aboard, a seeming impossibility. The conductor did all in his power to persuade the people to wait until the arrival of the 10:09, when there would be an abundance of room, but he met with little success.

People filled each coach to suffocation and then hung onto the platforms and rails. Among those who were forced to stand on the rear platform of this train were Mrs. W. G. Besler and Miss Helen Besler, wife and daughter of the vice-president and general manager of the New Jersey Central. There was not a ghost of a chance of their getting into the coach.

When the 10:09 train came along a little later there was a string of empty coaches, which partially filled up here. Every local train picked up passengers bound for the celebration.

The company has issued orders to every passenger train crew running as far west as Flemington, to return to Jersey City tonight after it has completed its run, for the purpose of conveying Jersey people to their homes. It is the plan of the company to operate hundreds of specials late tonight on almost a trolley schedule and in this way hope to handle the many thousands of people who have gone to New York during the day from along the line of the New Jersey Central.

An official of the company in speaking of the heavy traffic, said today that there was nothing to equal since nine years ago, when the Columbus celebration was held in New York. Reports show that all of the suburban lines were kept just as busy today as the New Jersey Central.

TEACHERS' FUND GROWS

Encouraging Reports Heard at Retirement Fund Convention.

UNION COUNTY STATISTICS.

Reports from Union, Somerset and Middlesex Counties Are Particularly Interesting.

Many interesting facts were presented by Miss Elizabeth A. Allen, secretary, at the annual convention of the Teachers' Retirement Fund Association, held at the State House, Trenton, today, showing the marked progress of the movement during the past year.

Miss Allen's report shows that a year ago the paying membership was 2,819; today it is above 7,000. Income in 1907-08 was $56,000 and is now running at the rate of $125,000. Dividends in the shape af annuities, were $56,000 in 1907-08; $64,000 in 1908-09; and will run from $85,000 to $90,000 this year. The surplus was $95,000 on July 1, 1908, and $128,000 July 1, 1909.

The fund was started in 1896 without a cent and great opposition, but the fund to July 1, 1909, had raised upwards of $400,000; had paid benefits amounting to $260,000; had contributed $1,600 to administrative expenses, and had accumulated a cash and invested surplus in excess of $128,000. The first benefits were paid in 1898, just eleven years ago, and totaled $873.01; last year benefits paid amounted to $64,668.17.

The report further shows the benefits paid by counties to July 1, 1909, and the figures for Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties are as follows:

Union—Annuities granted, 10; benefits paid, $11,392.27; annuities living and payable for 1909-10, 8, $3,037.50. Somerset — Annuities granted, 3; benefits paid, $2,045.08; annuities living and payable for 1909-10, 3, $767. Middlesex—Annuities granted, 8; benefits paid, $7,709.17; annuities living and payable for 1909-10, 3, $855.

To July 1, 1909, 236 teachers, representing every county, had been granted annuities and had received benefits amounting to $268,640.80. Fifty-four annuitants had died, leaving in force 182 annuities, value $69,131.65; average, $379.84, equivalent to $9,496 invested at 4 per cent. It is evident that the annuities paid this year will reach $85,000 or more.

There are two applications for annuity in Somerset county, pending September 25, the amount being $670. The number of applications in the State on the above date were twenty-four, and the total amount, $11,189.72.

The membership in Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties on May 31, 1909, was as follows: Union,

GOVERNOR'S "O. K." FOR FRANK H. SMITH

"Progressive, Loyal Republican—One of Those Who Stands by the Party Pledges," Writes State's Chief Executive to The Daily Press.

(Seal of New Jersey)
State of New Jersey,
Executive Department,
Sept. 24, 1909.

City Editor, The Daily Press,
Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dear Sir:—

Mr. Frank H. Smith, chairman of your county committee, as far as I know, has never at any time taken any part against any of the bills providing for the keeping of the party pledges, and has uniformly, when talking with me, insisted that the party obligations should be kept.

I have a very high personal regard for Mr. Smith and believe him to be a progressive, loyal Republican—one of those who stands by the party pledges.

Yours very truly,
JOHN FRANKLIN FORT.

To a query from The Daily Press, whether Frank H. Smith, of Union county was by inference to be included when he scored the Republican party's county chairmen in his speech at Newark on Wednesday night, Governor John Franklin Fort has made the foreging reply. During the course of his vigorous speech against bossism, which aroused the interest of every voter in New Jersey, irrespective of party affiliations, the Governor said:

"Some of the main objectionable as bosses in our State are chairmen of the local county committees. It seems strange that as soon as a man gets to be chairman of a county committee he seems to think that he must be responsible for everything political. It is a wrong conception of a county committee chairmanship.

"Neither the county committee

nor its chairman should have any part in selecting nominees for office, except to issue the call for that purpose. The committee must conduct the campaign for the election, and its chairman should be left in a position, where, whomever is nominated, his impartiality will not be questioned. His chief function should be to secure party harmony, not party strife."

Inasmuch as Union county's chairman is a candidate in the Third ward for renomination at the primaries next Tuesday for the county committee, the Governor's denunciation of the political trangressions of county chairmen caused much comment here. Particularly was this the case because there had been no opposition to Mr. Smith's renomination from any quarter. He has told his friends time and again that although the county committee's constitution provides than one other than a member of that body may be elected chairman, under no circumstances would he accept such an honor unless first selected by his own ward as a member.

In order to supply the information requested in several communications to this paper, following the delivery of the Newark speech, The Daily Press communicated directly with the Governor. He was told that chairman Smith is now a candidate again for county committee and that the "new idea" or "progressive" Republicans had 'as individuals' decided not ot oppose him. The Governor has made a prompt reply, which is clear and convincing.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

In one day's gunning Charles Banks and Forest Snyder, of Westville, bagged forty dozen reed birds, for which they received $1 per dozen.

On the ground that he had never before been convicted of crime, Frederick Stewart, a Camden bicycle dealer found guilty of buying stolen wheels, was let off with the costs yesterday by Judge Joline, in Camden.

Stricken with a hemorrhage while seated in a rocking chair at her home, 1116 Kaighn avenue, Camden, Thursday night, Elizabeth Laird, a consumptive, twenty-four years old, died before medical aid could be summoned.

Motormen of the Public Service Railway Company have been accorded the privilege of sitting while running outside the congested portions of Camden and through the suburban districts. They must provide their own stools.

Showing that he had only acted the part of a peacemaker in a fight between Mrs. Lizzie Wood and his wife, James Cosgrove was yesterday acquitted in the Camden Criminal Court of a charge of assault and battery on Mrs. Wood.

Reports from the hospital at Mt. Holly are slightly in favor of the recovery of Alfred Beswick and his wife, who were frightfully burned at their boathouse at Beverly Tuesday evening. Citizens are getting up a purse for the unfortunate couple.

Federal authorities have been called upon by Atlantic City postal chiefs to investigate the mysterious attempt to burn letters by dropping lighted cigarettes in a mailbox at Rhode Island and Arctic avenues. Timely discovery of the smoking box by a woman who was passing and the aid she secured from a nearby drug store probably prevented every piece of mail matter it contained from being consumed.

Miss Annie Carty Petty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Petty, and Rev. Giovanni Artuor Scarinci, pastor of the Italian Presbyterian church, Westminster avenue and Simpson street, Philadelphia, were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, in Florence, by Rev. William P. Fulton, of Philadelphia, stated clerk of the Philadelphia Presbytery. Rev. Scarinci came to this country from Rome to take up the ministry, and graduated from Princton Theological Seminary.

SIR ROBERT BALL NOW SHOWS FAITH IN COOK.

London, Sept. 25.—Sir Robert Ball, professor of astronomy and geometry in Cambridge and one of the leading scientists of England, has at last become convinced that Dr. Frederick A. Cook discovered the North Pole. For several weeks Sir Robert was in doubt, but today he declared that he did not believe Dr. Cook would have the temerity to make a discovery claim had he not actually reached the Pole.

"Faked observations could not stand a scientific investigation," declared Sir Robert today. "If I could see the doctor's instruments and his records it would not take long to decide beyond all question of doubt whether he reached the Pole.

"The certainty of exposure in the event that he is in error would, I think, deter any man from making false claims."

Sir Robert and Lieutenant Shackleton are now the only two scientists of reputation in England who have come out in favor of Cook. The English prejudice arises from the fact that the doctor's discovery was a shock to English explorers, who counted on being the first to find the Pole.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

At Louisville—Louisville, 4; Kansas City, 1.

At Columbus—Columbus, 4; Milwaukee, 2.

At Indianapolis—St. Paul, 4; Indianapolis, 0.

The chief game of interest here today will be at Crescent Oval, between the Plainfield Baseball Club and McNulty Bros.' team, of New York city.

Clifford Randolph and John Brewer will divide the twirling honors for the Plainfield Baseball Club at Crescent Oval, this afternoon, in the game with McNulty Bros.' team.

The Y. M. C. A. team has no game scheduled for today and its supporters will witness the contest at Crescent Oval.

The American League race is growing very warm. There are many local fans who would like to see the Athletics win, instead of Detroit. The Pittsburg team is practically assured of the National League pennant.

Somerville, with "Lou" Wiltse in the box, will play at Bound Brook this afternoon the first of a series of four games. George Wiltse will probably pitch one of the games, which will make it doubly interesting.

The plan of "Lou" Wiltse to give Plainfield a first-class independent ball team next season has been received with great favor by the fans. They say that such a scheme would be a success from the start, especially with Wiltse as the pitcher.

It is reported that "Dave" Driscoll has made a nice bunch of money for the New Brunswick club this season, and if this is true there is no reason why Plainfield should not do equally as well, provided the club is properly managed.

Wiltse has had sufficient experience to be able to secure the right kind of players and opposing teams and there is no doubt but that he would furnish the best of sport.

GOLF.

The events at the Plainfield Country club today include the weekly competition for the Fall Handicap cups, Classes A and B, which is nearing to a close. The competition is keen and now that all of the members have returned from their vacation it is quite likely to be more so. Tonight there will be the weekly dinner dance, which is proving so popular.

At the Park Golf club, this afternoon there will be the weekly play for the President's, golf club and Oakmont cups, and in addition there will be a continuation of play for the club championship. The winner of today's match will play Dr. H. K. Carroll, the winner of the Spring handicap competition, for the championship.

Provided the weather is favorable there will be the final play in the tennis tournament, which was started last week.

The Plainfield Country club golf course has been in unusually good condition this season, making low scores possible. The Green committee has devoted a great deal of time to this work and it is appreciated by the members.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Clark have returned to their home at Moorestown, after a visit to Mr. Clark's sister, Mrs. John Swan, of Watchung avenue. They made the trip in an outo car.

$10,000 FUND TO OPPOSE REFORM

Atlantic City, Sept. 25.—Plans for fighting ministerial reformers when the October grand jury convenes ten days hence to take up Sunday selling charges against over 200 licenseholders, the majority of whom are under $5,000 bail, will be mapped out at a secret session of the Royal Arch League, composed of saloonkeepers.

The plans are said to involve the raising of a fund of $10,000, to be placed at the disposal of the defense committee of the league, to be used in part for the employment of counsel if the grand jury should find indictments.

Nearly all of the large hotel men on the beach front are members of the organization, and their influence is believed to have been the means of keeping County Prosecutor Goldenberg and his band of thirty State detectives from joining the ministerial crusaders in the war upon the saloons.

Two hundred members of the Young Men's Republican League last night swore allegiance to Commodore Louis Kuehnle in his struggle to retin control of the Republican forces of the city in the face of the fight being waged by hotel men and their anti-machine allies. Kuehnle was told the organized forces would stand by him.

Constables armed with warrants charging sales of liquor last Sunday rounded up fifty saloon-keepers yesterday, and Magistrate John W. Hughes enforced bonds of $1,000 each for appearance before the grand jury. Backers of saloon men, who believed that the Sunday closing war had been allowed to languish in the height of the political row, were put on the jump to secure bail, and several of the accused were forced to wait hours to secure the added bail.

So far the records for heavy bail is held by S. Ojserkis, lessee of the Kuehnle Hotel, who has been forced to post $13,000 for repeated arrests. Others have reached close to $10,000 and the reformers promise to run the bail totals up to a half million dollars before the meeting of the grand jury if the liquor dealers persist in Sunday selling.

Reformers are happy over their belief that cutting off of campaign contributions by closing negro gambling places may leave the machine short of funds on election day.

TOUR IS COMPLETED OF NEW JERSEY ROADS.

Tired, delighted, but filled with the knowledge of what good roads will do in developing farm properties and increasing land values, the group of western men who have been touring New Jersey under the tutelage of State Road Commissioner Clikyson, of Trenton, and State Road Supervisor Robert A. Meeker, of this city, finished their inspection Thursday night when they arrived at Jersey City, after having spent the second day of their trip in the northern counties of the State.

They are not through with their tour of inspection, for they will now go to the New England States, where they will learn what the development of roads has meant to that section.

The tour is being made under the direction of B. F. Yoakum, a magnate of western railroads, who wishes the people in that section of the country through which his roads runs, to develop their highways, that they may be able to move their crops without congesting the railroads.

That the western people are not so very far removed from New Jersey was shown by an incident of the trip which has been made in automobiles. One member of the party had made himself known while he was passing through one of the southern counties. Just at that moment they happened to be passing by a farm house. It was developed that his great grandparents had been born in that house and the rescendants had moved west and there grown up with the country.

If the statements of men made on teh trip is any criterion, New Jersey methods will be used in the development of roads in Arkansas, Oklahoma and nearby commonwealths.

CHILD DROWNED IN BARREL OF WATER.

While trying to recover a toy hammer which had fallen into a rain barrel in the yard in the rear of his home on Court street, Elizabeth, Thursday afternoon, Hyman Gleeman, aged three years, lost his balance, fell into the barrel and was drowned.

Life was extinct before the child was missed by his mother. A physician was summoned and he pronounced the baby dead. Later Coroner Adolph Degenring granted a burial permit.

When Hyman's mother missed him she searched eagerly about the house and then went into the yard. Failing to see or hear him she peered into the barrel and was shocked to see the little fellow's body immersed in several feet of water. She cried aloud, and neighbors tried to console her, but she would not be comforted.

Mrs. William Nelson, of Watchung avenue, who is at the hospital under treatment, remains in about the same condition.

Plainfield, N. J., September 25, 1909.

Not only those who lived in New York years ago, but everyone, just at this time when the Hudson and Fulton fete is being held, will be interested in William R. Cock's "Recollections of Old New York Steamboats," published on page seven of this issue.

Commander Robert E. Peary's own story of his north polar expedition and discovery of the North Pole, originally appearing in and copyrighted by the New York Times, begins in this issue. Having obtained exclusive rights of publication, The Daily Press is the only newspaper in this yicinity authorized to publish this fascinating and instructive narrative, the first chapter of which will be found on page seven. Peary's story will be followed by that of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the first man to reach the North Pole.

GASOLENE TANK EXPLODED; CHAUFFEUR BADLY BURNED.

Charles E. Crew, colored, a chauffeur in the employ of Daniel S. Alpaugh, of 135 East Sixth street, was severely burned by flames from a gasolene tank which exploded while Chew was cleaning the machine yesterday afternoon. He had cleaned one side of the machine and supposing that the magneto had been grounded cranked the machine to clean the other side. The magneto was not properly grounded and the explosion followed.

Surrounded by flames and with his clothing afire Crew jumped through a window of the garage into an asparagus bed where he extinguished the fire in his clothing by rolling on the ground. His hands and knees were burned severely before the fire was entirely put out. The automobile was wrecked and the walls of the garage extended by the force of the explosion. The damage was about $500.

RESCUE MISSION PLANS FOR UNION MEETINGS.

Arrangements have been completed by the Christian Endeavorers with Superintendent John LeMatty, of the Rescue Mission, for a series of union meetings of prayer for the State convention, to be held here, October 6, 7 and 8. The first meeting will be held at the mission Monday night, at 8 o'clock, and will be led by Clarence B. LaRue. Walter I. Firstbrook will be in charge Tuesday night at the same hour.

There will also be meetings on Thursday and Saturday nights. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested in the success of the convention and in the furtherance of young people's work in Plainfield.

MRS. COOK WANTS TO GET HER FARM BACK.

James Trimmer, of Scotch Plains, who purchased on the installment plan from Mrs. Caroline Cook a farm and buildings in that village in April of last year, has been served with notice of suit and ejectment because of default in the last payment of $1,000. The suit includes $5,000 for damages to property and $2,000 for loss of rent.

Trimmer contracted to buy the land for $4,200 and entered into immediate possession. The last payment was due in April of this year but Trimmer defaulted. Since then Trimmer has refused to vacate the premises or pay the balance.

Announcement of Marriage.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Ethel M. Boice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Boice, of East Second street, and Leslie H. Backer, of Sandford avenue. The couple were married on Saturday, September 18, at the Memorial Presbyterian church, Dover, Morris county, and they are now living in New York.

ACCUSED TREASURER'S CASE CAUSES COMMENT

The Somerset Grand Jury, which has already been in session an unusual length of time, has not yet completed its labors and there is much speculation at Somerville over the fate of Joel Codington, the accussed treasurer of Warren Township, who was reported by Hugh K. Gaston, a Supreme Court commissioner, to be more than $2,500 short in his accounts.

An unusual proceeding in the Somerset court yesterday, which is considered as having an important bearing on the case, was the appearance of Assemblyman William W. Smalley, J. Newton Van Derbeek, president of the First National Bank of Somerville, and Parmenas C. Henry before Judge Lewis H. Schenck as a committee of the grand jury to ask for instructions as to the right of that body to exclude the clerk of the grand jury from the room during the balloting. Assistant Prosecutor Edward P. Johnson is the clerk of the grand jury, and the object of that body in having him excluded from the room during the voting was not made known to the court. The request for instructions on this point was so unusual that the court could find no precedent for its guidance.

After much deliberation Judge Schenck decided that as the clerk was obliged to take the same oath of secrecy as each member of the grand jury, and was assigned to the special records of the grand inquest, he could not be excluded from the jury-room. After receiving this information the committee retired, but its unusual action occasioned much comment in court circles.

A large number of citizens of Warren Township have already been summoned before the grand jury. One of the first witnesses known to have been summoned was Hugh K. Gaston, the Supreme Court commissioner who handed up the report to Justice Charles W. Parker at the opening of the September term of court on Tuesday, charging Treasurer Codington with irregularities.

Create in them the fellowship for men the world over and they will find the fellowship of the brotherhood of God.

Dr. Reed and Rev. Mr. Broek were the last to speak and their remarks were brief and bore on the same subject and made an appeal to the men to stand by the church. Mr. Broek said that the men could make of the church what they would and hoped they would encourage other men to come into the church and become brothers in fellowship with Christ, and give them the sociability and fellowship which they do not now possess.

Mr. Clark had the last word and endorsed what the other speakers had said that a great deal of responsibility has devolved upon the young men of the church and this responsibility should not be shirked. The banquet came to an end when prayer was offered by Dr. Gowen. The evening was voted one of the most pleasant in the history of the club.

The Sunday school room, where the banquet was held, was beautifully decorated, American flags being used in profusion all over the room and intertwined in the chandeliers. The tables, too, showed taste in their arrangements with strings of flowers and lighted candelabras.

Those present were: Rev. William P. Bruce, Rev. Dr. Isaac W. Gowen, Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, Rev. John Y. Broek, Fred S. Cutter, Robert Clark, Jr., J. Angerbauer, J. Bennett, E. O. Clark, Chauncey F. Miss Allen also states that the members have long cherished the hope that some day the scope of the fund may be broadened in the direction of granting pre central benefit on incapacity on less than twenty years' service in New Jersey; granting annuities on a time service or age limit, without incapacity, etc. The hope is still cherished that it will be realized in time.

FORMER JUDGE ACCUSES "BOSS" THEODORE STRONG.

Asserting that Theodore Strong, Republican boss in Middlesex, had frequently endeavored to make the courts of that county subservient to the political machine, Prosecutor Theodore B. Booraem provided the sensation of the evening Thursday night at a Republican meeting in the Auditorium at Perth Amboy.

Mr. Booraem was appointed prosecutor this spring, succeeding George Berdine, whom Strong favored and for whose reappointment he made strenuous, but futile, efforts. When appointed prosecutor Mr. Booraem was common pleas judge of the county. He had been appointed to the judgeship in 1906, succeeding Woodbridge Strong, father of Theodore Strong. Woodbridge Strong was judge from 1896 to 1906. At the time of Booraem's appointment to the judgeship he had the backing of the Strong machine.

His accusation of Strong was made in the course of a plea for votes for the anti-Strong ticket at the primaries next Tuesday. William H. C. Jackson who, as Senator and adherent of Strong in 1906 championed Mr. Booraem's appointment as judge, is now Strong's candidate for the county clerkship nomination in opposition to John H. Conger, who has been the Republican candidate since 1889, and has held the office since 1894. He now desires a renomination and he and Strong have declared war.

In his speech Prosecutor Booraem asserted that in several instances Strong, assuming that to be the prerogative of boss-ship, had demanded that the action of the courts be so shaped that punishment or reward be dealt out as he directed to those opposed to or in favor with the machine as the case happened to be.

Mr. Conger told his hearers that he was promised freedom from opposition if John Hanson, of Perth Amboy, a candidate for the Legislature, would withdraw.

Other speakers were H. Raymond Groves, Dr. Frank Crowther and John V. P. Wikoff. Mr. Hanson presided.

When asked yesterday concerning his speech at Perth Amboy Thursday night, Prosecutor Booraem said he would not specify any cases in connection with his charge as to Theodore Strong and the administration of the county courts.

He declared he would stand by what he said. When questioned as to what cases were referred to, Mr. Booraem replied: "He knows." "he" meaning Strong.

Theodore Strong refused to make any statement concerning Booream's charges.

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY.

New Brunswick, Sept. 25.—The defense opened Thursday in the trial of Mrs. Annie Roome, who, it is charged, has two husbands, Edward H. Roome, of New York, and John Reilley, of this city. It is alleged that the courtship, which ended in the second marriage, started with a flirtation in a Coney Island saloon, and that the first marriage was the result of a courtship in a New York saloon, where Roome first met the woman soon after his return from the Spanish War.

Roome testified Thursday to marrying the woman in New York on January 1, 1901, but he could not tell her maiden name. She told him it was Cook, he said, yet she called herself Kilborune and Noble, and he married her under the name of Mrs. Anna Shergraft. He is a janitor in New York.

Rev. John A. Dewald, of New Brunswick, swore to marrying the defendant to John Reilly. Reilly Thursday afternoon said he met her at Shay's Pavilion, in Coney Island. He brought her to this city and married her. She then gave the name of Mrs. Anna Shergraft. This was her third marriage. The certificates of the two marriages were produced in court. Roome learned of the second marriage through a newspaper article.

HELD UP, BEATEN, ROBBED.

Summit, Sept. 25.—The scalp wound and two stab wounds in the left arm from which Charles Halloway is suffering at Overlook Hospital, is laid by him to an encounter with highwaymen who, he says, held him up and robbed him of $15 in Park avenue, near the East Summit schoolhouse, at 10 o'clock Thursday night. Three men arrested on suspicion by Thomas Hurley, of Millburn, about midnight were interviewed by Chief of Police Brown and Policeman Michael Sullivan, of this place. The prisoners, who said they were on their way to Pennsylvania, satisfied the police that they were not involved in Halloway's hold-up.

Halloway, who is fifty years old, and a laborer, employed by William N. Coler, of Summit avenue, here, was on his way to catch the 10:15 o'clock trolley car from East Summit to Newark, when molested. Two pocketbooks, each containing $2, and a gold watch were in Halloway's possession, but were not taken by the footpads.

MORE JERSEYMEN GET SERVICE BADGES

Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr., yesterday, by authority of the Governor, issued several orders. One of them designates Quartermaster Sergeant William T. Thorp, of the Third Infantry, Camden, and First Lieutenant George W. Coyne, of the corps of engineers, as the recipients of certain campaign badges given to enlisted men by the war department in recognition of services in the Spanish-American war.

A second order compels departmental officers of the national guard to report the operations of their departments for the preceding year. This has not been done in the past and has resulted in some confusion when the adjutant general has made up his annual report.

The last order publishes the opinion of Assistant Attorney General Gaskill on the matter of clothing for the officers of the national guard under the act of May 16, 1908, under which $20 was allowed annually. The question raised was whether this applied to departmental officers as well as line officers and the assistant attorney general replies in the negative. And the assistant attorney general decided that the department officers do not come under this act, they must continue to buy their own uniforms.

Mr. Gaskill's opinion follows:

"Brigadier General R. Heber Brientnall, the Adjutant General of New Jersey:

"Dear Sir—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of April 13, calling my attention to section 127 of the act concerning the militia of the State, approved May 16, 1906, with reference to section 25 of the supplemental bill passed by the Legislature of 1908, making an allowance 'for officers of regiments, troops, batteries, signal corps and the naval reserve,' as provided in the section of the militia act referred to. By reference to this act it apepars that 'every commissioned officer of regiments, troops, batteries, companies, signal corps and the naval reserve * * * shall be allowed annually for such uniforms and equipment a sum not exceeding $20, etc.' I also note the same appropriation in the regular appropriations bill for the year 1908-9, and a copy of general orders No. 12 of 1907, reorganizing the national guard in conformation with the requirements of the war department. By reference to this order it appears that there are certain commissioned officers attached to the departments of the militia, as distinguished from the officers commissioned in regiments, troops, batteries and signal corps, and I understand your question to be, whether the officers commissioned in the departments referred to are included within the appropriations bills in accordance with section 127 of the militia act.

"In reply my opinion is, that the departmental officers are not included within section 127, and, therefore, have no share of interest in the appropriation included in the supplemental bill or in the annual bill. The line of division between staff or departmental officers and those commissioned in the various organizations, is so clear that, without the special knowledge which I have concerning the purpose of those who drew the act in question, I should unhesitatingly say that departmental officers were not included. As a matter of fact, when the act was drawn, and when the appropriations were asked for there was no intention upon the part of those who had the matter in charge, so far as I know, to include the then 'staff' officers, which was the reason for the rather peculiar reading of the section, and in asking for the appropriation this year, the estimates and arguments presented to the appropriations committee did not deal with the so-called departmental officers. Very truly yours,

"NELSON B. GASKILL,
"Assistant Attorney General.
"By order of the Governor.
"WILBUR F. SADLER, JR.,
"The Adjutant General."

ESSEX AUTHORITIES TO CONSIDER HANNON CASE.

Morristown, Sept. 25.—Word has been received here from the Essex County authorities that a conference was held in Newark yesterday afternoon between Prosecutor Mott and the grand jury to consider the case of Louis Doremus, who was killed by an automobile at Fairfield late Tuesday afternoon. James Hannon, who was running the car which killed the boy, is still locked up here pending action by the Essex authorities. The man is being held on a technical charge of taking out a car without permission.

Prosecutor Rathbun said last night that he did not know what course he would pursue until he heard further from Prosecutor Mott. He added that if the Essex authorities did not want Hannon that he (Rathbun) would prosecute the chauffeur under the provisions of the automobile law.

E. Frank Boutillier, an inspector of motor vehicles, visited the scene of the accident yesterday and talked with those who said they had witnessed the mishap. According to Mr. Boutillier, he learned that the machine was running slow at the time of the accident, and that the boy ran in front of the car.

LICENSE HOLDERS TO STAND BY KUEHNLE.

Atlantic City, Sept. 25.—One hundred and fifty license-holders declared their allegiance to the Kuehnle organization Thursday, and raised a fund of about $3,000 to fight the charges brought against them for Sunday selling. The meeting, first called to take a non-partisan view of the situation, developed into a political session. While no formal vote was taken the sentiment was that the fight against Sunday closing should be fought to the limit.

Councilman William Riddle made an attack on the beach front hotel men, declaring that they should not be permitted to become prominent in political affairs. William Wasman, Commodore Louis Kuehnle and more than a score of others spoke on the necessity of stopping the excessive bail demanded and how to combine for protection against the Sunday closing movement.

Very few of the beach front hotel men were asked to the meeting.

THE LOST COIN.

Missing or lost, last Sunday night,
A Waterloo coin, whereon was trac'd
Th' inscription "COURAGE!" in letters bright,
Though a little by rust of years defaced.

Whoso'er of this lost treasure knows
Is beg'd to state all facts about it,
As the owner can't well face his foes,
Nor even his friends, just now, without it.

Paula Marr as Viola in "The Patriot" and as herself at Plainfield Theatre Tuesday night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

It is not often that a young woman who is gifted with beauty as well as talent is called upon to make the sacrifice that Miss Paula Marr has to make in order to achieve success in the role of Viola in William Collier's farce, "The Patriot," which comes to the Plainfield theatre Tuesday night.

Miss Marr is compelled to cover her wealth of wavy brown tresses under a wig of black kinky hair, to conceal her clean coplexion under a coating of burnt cork, to hide a perfect form under a dawdy calico dress—in fact, to turn a charming, beautiful girl into a comedy negress.

As Viola, Miss Marr has made one of the distinct hits of the production, which ran so successfully for more than six months at the Garrick theatre, Manhattan, and of all the clever company no one has had to make a greater personal sacrifice in order to accomplish the artistic end.

Does Miss Marr care? Not a bit. It is not so long since this young woman dazzled audiences by her personal charm in light opera productions—and indeed, all the art of the costumer cannot hide her grace or spoil her voice as she fills the eccentric role in "The Patriot."

"I do not look upon this as a sacrifice at all," said Miss Marr. "On the contrary, I get a lot of fun out of my present position. When I made by first appearance in 'The Patriot' out in the middle west, one of the critics devoted several lines to describing how much atmosphere I contributed to the role. I had received some praise in other roles before, but I considered this the finest tribute ever paid to me as an artist for it showed that what I had accomplished was the result of art, and not of any personal appearance for which I would have no right to claim any credit. Viola may be called an unimportant role in the production of 'The Patriot.' I consider no role unimportant and I think that the highest achievement that an actor or actress may aspire to is that of sinking personality in the successful interpretation of an eccentric part."

"A play to suit all tastes." This is what is confidently claimed for "The Village Parson," a refined comedy drama which will te presented at the Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. Combined with a heart story of strong human interest and ingenious plot and numerous scenes in which the comedy element has full swing, is what makes the play unusually attractive to theatregoers who have become tired of clap-trap melodrama. The most elaborate stage setting has been provided by Manager W. E Nankeville for "The Village Parson," which is presented by a large and carefully selected cast of metropolitan players. In fact every excessory of this latest of the season's successes is not only first class but artitic in every detail.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Charles Frohman has arranged with Winchell Smith for a new comedy founded on the novel, "Love Among the Lions," for early production.

Charles Frohman has signed a contract of indefinite length with Robert Lorraine, the English actor. Mr. Lorraine will make his first appearance at The Comedy Theatre, London, playing the chief part in the new W. Somerset Maugham comedy "Smith."

Charles Frohman will make three new productions during the week of October 11 at The Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Henri Bernstein's new play, "Israel;" Thursday, Francis Wilson in "The Bachelor's Baby," and Friday and aSturday Augustus Thomas' new play, "The Harvest Moon."

Harrison Grey Fiske is scoring a distinctive triumph in presenting Guy Bates Post in a new four-act play of American life, by Rupert Hughes, entitled "The Bridge." The occasion of the first performance on September 4 at the Majestic theatre, was in every respect a notable one. The numerous first night audience took unbounded delight in the play, which proved one of the most effective compounds of action, romance and love seen on Broadway in a number of years. The debut of Mr. Post as a star was greeted on every hand with a lavish enthusiasm that amounted almost to a personal ovation, while the scenic novelties provided by Mr. Fiske were more than usually startling in their effectiveness.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Plainfield Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.

Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault.

Backache is really kidney ache;

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Plainfield women know this.

Read what one has to say about it:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, 732 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For a long time I was troubled by a weak and lame back and I was unable to find anything that would give me relief. My back pained me so badly that I could hardly stoop and when I caught cold or over exerted myself, my suffering was doubled. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Randolph's Pharmacy, helped me at once and I continued taking them until I was cured. I have had no need of a kidney remedy in the past two years, but value Doan's Kidney Pills today as highly as ever."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WORK BEGINS AT PRINCETON UNIVERSITY

Princeton, Sept. 25.—After a lapse of nearly three months, during which time the town's business was virtually at a standstill, Princeton University opened for its 163d year Thursday, with the usual bustle of student activity. Students have been crowding stub train for the last few days which puffs back and forth every now and then between Princeton Junction and Princeton, and almost everybody, particularly the members of the freshman class, has arrived.

The sophomores have been watching the arrival of the freshmen with a good deal of interest, and yesterday afternoon, when the formal opening exercises are over, they'll begin to impress upon the freshmen the importance of their coming—a process for which the upper classmen allot the first two weeks of the year. Then the sophomores avail themselves of every minute of that period, however, because of the new regulation which prohibits any further "horsing" during the remainder of the year.

When the university is in full swing, two new buildings will have been occupied for the first time. They are Campbell Hall, a dormitory which was presented by the class of 1877, and Guyot Hall, the natural science laboratory. The former is at the northwestern corner of the campus, and just adjacent to it the first story of the Sage Dormitory is building at present. The natural science laboratory is just adjacent to the recently completed Palmer Physical Laboratory on Washington road. Both laboratories cost over $1,000,000, and have been pronounced by men of science who have visited them as two of the finest of their kind in the world. The dedication exercises of either building have not yet been held—the event being postponed until late this fall.

Besides the changes in the appearance of the campus, there have been many new arrivals in the faculty of the university. The preceptorial system here permits of more laxity in changing instructors and, as a result the Jersey college is constantly appointing new men. Princeton instructors, too, who have been a part of the preceptorial system for three or four years, are frequently called by other universities. There happened to be more vacancies to fill in the university faculty this year than in any in the last five years.

The usual academic procession, led by President Woodrow Wilson, from University Library to Marquand Chapel Thursday afternoon signalized the beginning of the college year. No estimate of the size of the freshman class could be obtained yesterday, the figures being withheld till today.

FALL FASHIONS FOR OCTOBER IN NORTH AMERICAN.

The North American announces that its Fall Fashion number will be issued on Monday, October 4, in conjunction with the regular news edition for that day.

In the esteem of The North American, fashions are legitimate news, and therefore the latest word about fashions is quite as worthy of circulation as the reports of the latest experts of aviation.

The paper maintains a large special staff in Paris, and from these experts comes a striking array of photographs and drawings of the very latest creations of the foremost dictators of Parisian styles. They are put out first in America through The North American, and will be seen in its Fall Fashion number weeks in advance of their appearance in other publications in this country.

BORE SCARS OF SHACKLES.

The Rev. Herman Philpot, a missionary of the English church, is dead at his home at Roselle Park. He was 74 years of age.

Mr. Philpot bore the scars of shackles he wore while a prisoner with a number of other missionaries in Abyssinia. He was confined there for six years, and for four years he was in chains in a dungeon. He was rescued in 1868 by an expedition sent out by the English government under Lord Napier.

Mr. Philpot's death was sudden, he having been in Newark yesterday, where he translated a letter from Spain for a business house there. He was a linguist of note. He was born in England.

Although he lived in this country a number of years Mr. Philpot did not become an American citizen. His widow, one daughter and two sons survive him.

Wyckoff—Webb.

In the Methodist church at Somerville Thursday Miss Rachel Webb and Russell M. Wyckoff were married by the Rev. S. D. Harris, pastor of the church, in the presence of a large number of invited guests. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Lillian F. Mundy, of Somerville. John R. Dunn, of Green Knoll, was best man. A reception was tendered to the couple after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Webb, on Somerset street, Raritan, and Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff left soon afterward for a bridal tour through the South. On their return they will reside at Raritan.

PEARY'S CONQUEST OF THE NORTH POLE

Copyright, 1909, by the New York Times Company.

BATTLE HARBOR, Labrador (via Marconi wireless, Cape Ray, N. F.), Sept. 9.—The steamer Roosevelt, bearing the north polar expedition of the Peary Arctic club, parted company with the Erik and steamed out of Etah Ford late in the afternoon of Aug. 18, 1908, setting the usual course for Cape Sabine. We had on board 22 Eskimo men, 17 women and 10 children, 226 dogs and some forty odd walrus.

We encountered the ice a short distance from the mouth of the harbor, but it was not closely packed and was negotiated by the Roosevelt without serious difficulty. As we neared Cape Sabine the weather cleared somewhat, and we passed close by Three Voort island and Cape Sabine, easily making out with the naked eye the house at Hayes Harbor occupied by me in the winter of 1901-2.

From Cape Sabine north there was so much water that we thought of setting the lug sail before the southerly wind, but a little later appearance of ice to the northward stopped this. There was clean open water to Cape Albert and from there scattered ice to a point about abreast of Victoria head, thick weather and dense ice bringing us some ten or fifteen miles away.

From here we drifted south somewhat and then got a slant to the northward out of the current. We worked a little farther north and stopped again for some hours. Then we again worked westward and northward till we reached a series of lakes, coming to a stop a few miles south of the Windward's winter quarters at Cape Durville. From here, after some delay, we slowly worked a way northeastward through fog and broken ice of medium thickness through one night and the forenoon of the next day, only emerging into open water and clear weather off Cape Fraser. From this point we had a clear run through the middle of Robeson channel to Lady Franklin Bay. Here we encountered both ice and fog and were forced across to the Greenland coast at Thank God Harbor.

The fog lifted there and enabled us to make out our whereabouts, and we steamed north through a series of leads past Cape Lupton and thence southward toward Cape Union. A few miles off that cape we were stopped by impracticable ice, and we drifted back south to Cape Union, where we stopped again.

Twice Forced Aground.

We lay for some time in a lake of water and then to prevent being drifted south again took refuge under the north shore of Lincoln Bay.

Twice we were forced aground by the heavy ice. We had our port quarter rail broken and a hole stove in the bulwarks, and twice we pushed out in an attempt to get north, but we were forced back each time to our precarious shelter.

Finally on Sept. 2 we squeezed around Cape Union and made fast in a shallow niche in the ice, but after some hours we made another short run to Black Cape and hung on to a grounded bit of ice. At last, a little after midnight of Sept. 5, we passed through extremely heavy, running ice into a stream of open water, rounded Cape Rawson and passed Cape Sheridan.

Within a quarter of an hour of the same time we arrived three years before—7 a. m., Sept. 5—we reached the open water extending beyond Cape Sheridan.

We steamed up to the end of it, and it appeared practicable at first to reach Porter Bay, near Cape Joseph Henley, which I had for my winter quarters. But, the outlook being unsatisfactory, I went back and put the Roosevelt into the only opening in the floe, being barred close to the mouth of the Sheridan river, a little north of our position three years prior.

The season was further advanced than in 1905. There was more snow on the ground, and the new ice inside the floe bergs was much thicker. The work of discharging the ship was commenced at once and rushed to completion. The supplies and equipment we sledged across ice and sea and deposited on shore. A house and workshop were built of boards, covered with sails and fitted with stoves, and the ship was snug for the winter in shoal water, where she touched bottom at low tide. This settlement on the stormy shores of the Arctic ocean was christened Hubbardville.

Moving the Supplies.

On Sept. 15 the full work of transporting supplies to Cape Columbia was inaugurated. Marvin, with Dr. Goodsell and Borup and the Eskimos, took sixteen sledge loads of supplies to Cape Belknap, and on the 27th the same party started with loads to Porter Bay. The work of hunting and transporting supplies was prosecuted continuously by the members of the party and the Eskimos until Nov. 5.

On Oct. 1 I went on a hunt with two Eskimos across the field and Parr Bay and the peninsula, made the circuit of Clemants Markham inlet and returned to the ship in seven days with fifteen musk oxen, a bear and a deer.

Professor McMillan went to Columbia in November and obtained a month of tidal observations, returning in December. In the December moon Borup moved the Hecla depot to Cape Colan. In the February moon Bartlett went to Cape Hecla, Goodsell moved some more supplies from Hecla to Cape Colon, and Borup went to Markham inlet on a hunting trip. On Feb. 15 Bartlett left the Roosevelt with his division for Cape Columbia and Parr Bay. Goodsell, Borup, McMillan and Hansen followed on successive days with their provisions. Marvin returned from Bryants on Feb. 17 and left for Cape Columbia Feb. 21. I brought up the rear Feb. 22.

The total of all divisions leaving the Roosevelt was 7 members of the party, 59 Eskimos, 140 dogs and 23 sledges. By Feb. 27 such of the Cape Colan depot as was needed had been brought up to Cape Columbia, the dogs were rested and double rationed and harnessed and the sledges and other gear overhauled.

Hewing Through Ice.

Four months of northerly winds during the fall and winter instead of southerly ones, as during the previous season, led me to expect less open water than before, and I was prepared to hew a road through the jagged ice for the first hundred miles or so and then cross the big lead.

On the last day of February Bartlett, with his pioneer division, accomplished this, and his division got away due north over the ice on March 1. The remainder of the party got away on Bartlett's trail, and I followed an hour later.

The party now comprised 7 members of the expedition, 17 Eskimos, 133 dogs and 19 sledges. One Eskimo and seven dogs had gone to pieces.

A strong easterly wind, drifting snow and temperature in the minus marked our departure from the camp at Cape Columbia, which I had christened Crane City. Rough ice in the first march damaged several sledges and smashed two beyond repair, the teams going back to Columbia for other sledges in reserve there.

We camped ten miles from Crane City. The easterly wind and low temperature continued. In the second march we passed the British record made by Markham in May, 1876—82.20—and were stopped by open water, which had been formed by the wind after Bartlett passed. In this march we negotiated the lead and reached Bartlett's third camp. Borup had gone back from here, but missed his way, owing to the faulting of the trail by the movement of the ice.

Marvin came back also for more fuel and alcohol. The wind continued forming open water all about us. At the end of the fourth march we came upon Bartlett, who had been stopped by a wide lake of open water. We remained here from March 4 to March 11. At noon of March 5 the sun, red and shaped like a football by excess of reflection, just raised itself above the horizon for a few minutes and then disappeared again. It was the first time I had seen it since Oct. 1.

I now began to feel a good deal of anxiety because there were no signs of Marvin and Borup, who should have been there for two days. Besides, they had the alcohol and oil, which were indispensable for us. We concluded that they had either lost the trail or were imprisoned on an island by open water, probably the latter.

Across Eighty-fourth Parallel.

Fortunately, on March 11 the lead was practicable, and, leaving a note for Marvin and Borup to push on after us by forced marches, we proceeded northward. During this march we crossed the eighty-fourth parallel and traversed a succession of just-frozen leads from a few hundred yards to a mile in width.

On the 14th we got free of the leads and came on decent going. While we were making camp a courier from Marvin came and informed me he was on the march in the rear. The temperature was 50 below.

The following morning, March 14, I sent Hansen with his division north to pioneer a trail for five marches, and Dr. Goodsell, according to the program, started back to Cape Columbia. At night Marvin and Borup came spinning in with their men and dogs steaming in the bitter air like a squadron of battleships. Their arrival relieved me of all anxiety as to our oil supply.

In the morning I discovered that McMillan's foot was badly frostbitten. The mishap had occurred two or three days before, but McMillan had said nothing about it in the hope that it would come out all right. A glance at the injury showed me that the only thing was to send him back to Cape Columbia at once. The arrival of Marvin and Borup enabled me to spare sufficient men and dogs to go back with him.

This early loss of McMillan was seriously disappointing to me. He had a sledge all the way from Cape Columbia, and with his enthusiasm and the powers and physique of the trained athlete I had confidence in him for at least the eighty-sixth parallel, but there was no alternative.

The best sledges and dogs were selected and the sledge loads brought up to the standard. The sounding gave a depth of 325 fathoms. We were over the continental shelf, and, as I had surmised, the successive leads crossed in the fifth and sixth marches composed the big lead and marked the continental shelf.

RECOLLECTIONS OF OLD NEW YORK STEAMBOATS

By WILLIAM R. COCK
(In the Nautical Review.)

When I was a small boy, say, in the forties, and early fifties, I had a "hobby" as most boys have, and that was steamboats, and I believe at the time mentioned, I knew the name of every steamboat in the port of New York, and could tell the name of a boat when she came in sight, long before her name could be read.

It is a pleasure for me to recall the names of some of the old boats, and perhaps it may interest some of your readers if I mention them now.

I am not using published statistics to refresh my memory, but give the names of the boats and events connected with them, from my memory, alone.

I was born in the Third ward, of New York, 1841, and for the first years of my life, spent many a happy hour on the Battery, with occasional trips to Hoboken and Staten Island, the great pleasure resorts of those days.

In my youthful mind, I imagined that all boats that went up the East river, went to Boston, and those up the North river, went to Albany, or Troy, so when I speak of the Boston boats and the Albany or Troy boats, I do it with the idea of making a distinction now, as I did then, without pretending to be accurate.

Of the Boston boats, I recall the Massachusetts, a boat of large size, for those times, with two walking beam engines, the action of which, at all times, puzzled my youthful brain, for they did not always work together,—the fact of the boat having two shafts, or one for each wheel, being beyond my comprehension.

The next boat I remember, was the Rhode Island, a boat with a cross head engine and two smoke pipes. This boat was lost at sea, in an attempt to reach California, by the way of Cape Horn, probably during the Gold Excitement, in '49 or '50. The Rhode Island sailed for California and never was heard from.

Then came the Atlantic, that had a short career, foundered in a gale off Watch Hill, with large loss of life. I remember distinctly the narrative of the loss of this boat, and how the bell tolled the death knell, as she rolled in the trough of the sea, before she went down. This boat had her name painted on her wheel houses, in script, an innovation from the usual custom.

These boats were succeeded by the Bay State, Empire State and the State of Maine, and later on by the Metropolis.

The steamboats Connecticut and C. Vanderbilt were crack boats on the Sound, and ultimately went to the North river, as passenger boats, and of late years rescended to the towing business, as many others before, and since have done.

The floating palaces of my early days were the Knickerbocker, Hendrick Hudson, Isaac Newton and the Oregon. The Isaac Newton continued in service for many years, but finally was burned on a trip to Albany.

Of the day boats, I recall the Alida, New World (with her 50 ft. wheels), the Francis Skiddy (with her four smoke stacks), the Highlander, the Armenia and the Henry Clay.

The Henry Clay was burned off Yonkers in the early fifties with an appalling loss of life.

The Troy boats were the Empire, Empire of Troy, and the Rip Van Winkle, all of which were run with engines of the inclined type.

One of the great Albany boats was the Reindeer, which had a short career. She made great speed, and I believe her time has never been beaten. She ran for a year or two, but met the fate of so many—being destroyed by fire, I think, up the river.

Two boats I remember, as very fine in appearance, that ran on the Hudson, are the Hero and Cataline, both of which were alike in appearance,—having two smoke pipes abaft the wheels and cross head engines.

The Thomas Powell was a boat of wonderful speed. She ran on the Hudson for a number of years, and also on the Delaware, between Philadelphia and Cape May.

The Mary Powell of the present day, was built to beat the Thomas Powell's time, but I believe, never succeeded, at least not as she was originally built.

The boats I patronized were the Washington Irving, commanded by Capt. Peck, who afterwards commanded the Island City, which plied between New York and Flushing, Long Island.

The Croton, which, like the Washington Irving, had a cross head engine, ran between New York and Glen Cove, and probably for her size, carried more passengers than any boat going out of New York.

My other boat was the Utica, that ran to Keyport, New Jersey, stopping at Seguine's Point, in Princess Bay. I recall that she once lost one of her paddle wheels and ran with one only for several days.

A notable place of summer resort, was Quarantine Landing, now St. George, and the boats of early days were the Sylph, the Huguenot, S. T. and the Hunchback, better known as the H. B. The latter was quite modern, being a double ender—an innovation for long trips, such as the Staten Island ferry was in those days.

My Hoboken outings were from Barclay street ferry, and were specially enjoyed. We could see the time of day on the City Hall clock from the river, as we passed up,—a thing impossible at the present day.

There were two boats on the Barclay street ferry, John Fitch and the James Rumsey. The latter boat was lengthened in late years, but formerly was the same size in every respect as the Fitch.

The boats on the Christopher street ferry were the Passaic and the Fairy Queen.

In the fifties, when I spent my summers at what is now known as Port Reading, I traveled on a famous boat, called the Thomas Hunt, now known as the Valley Girl.

From our house, we could see every day the boats of the Camden and Amboy Railroad—the John Potter and the Transport.

The John Potter was driven by what was known as a steeple engine, built by Hogg and Delamater, of New York, who built a similar engine for the John Stevens, that ran between Tacony and Philadelphia, carrying passengers from New York to Philadelphia; in those days, it being impossible to enter the latter city by rail. The John Stevens is now a cattle boat, running in New York harbor.

The other boats running on Staten Island Sound were the John Neilson, Red Jacket and the Joseph Belknap.

Some of the tow boats towing coal from the Delaware and Raritan canal were in their day famous. Among them I remember the Princeton, with her fifty foot wheels, the Levithan, the splendid, and the New Philadelphia.

The tow boats doing outside work were the Achilles, Titan, Goliath, and in later years, the Yankee and the William H. Webb. The Yankee was employed to transport troops to the relief of Fort Sumter, at the opening of the Civil War, and the Webb was captured by the rebels and turned into a gunboat.

Among the towing boats, I recall the Oswego, Norwich, Cayuga and North and South America,—doing such work on the North river.

Of the harbor towing boats, I can only recall the names of the Screamer, Only Son, Storm, Tempest and the President, the latter was the first propeller used for towing, and was so successful that another boat of the same style soon followed, viz: the Blanche Page.

The boats I have named, among those that ran on the Hudson and Long Island Sound, were great in their day, and some of them, so far as speed is concerned, were equal to modern craft.

Their importance as means of travel can be best understood when we contemplate the fact that steamboats, such as they were, ran before the Hudson River Railroad, or the New Haven Road, were built. My first trip on the Hudson was made before such a thing as a railroad to Albany was even thought of.

The steamboats of New York were famous all over the world, and it was our great delight to take our out-of-town friends to see these floating palaces, as they were called.

New York city, in those days, was the centre for the building of engines for the river boats, much of such work finding its way to the Great Lakes and elsewhere.

Among the great builders of engines of early times that I can remember, were the Morgan Iron Works, Novelty Iron Works (Stillman, Allen & Co.), Allaire Iron Works, Pease & Murphy (Neptune Iron Works), Hogg & Delamater, and later on, Fletcher, Harrison & Co. (North River Iron Works).

Although the great boats of my young days have disappeared from the traveling world, still some of them are doing humble work in the towing business, and when I see them thus employed, I am forcibly reminded of the quotation from Hamlet, "To what base uses we may come, Horatio."

FRESHET RECALLED.

Twenty-seventh Anniversary of Great Flood Was Yesterday.

Thursday was the twenty-seventh anniversary of the great freshet in Rahway, which occurred September 27, 1882, and was the ost disastrous in the history of that city.

The Monroe street bridge, a fine five-arch stone span, was washed away, and John Wilson, one of Rahway's prominent citizens, was caught in the iron railing and went down with the bridge, his body not being recovered until the following day, whe nhis feet were found pinned fast in the wreckage.

The Milton avenue drawbridge was turned over and wrecked, and thousands of dollars' damage done to property. Those who lived near the river were taken in boats from the second story windows of their homes.

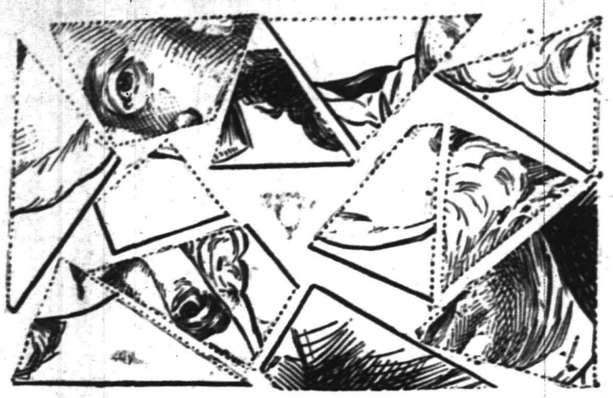
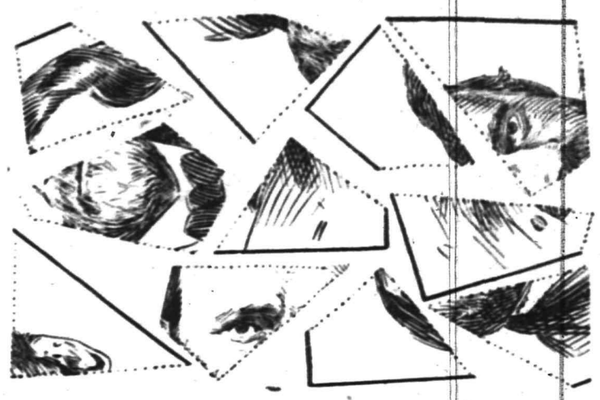
HISTORICAL PUZZLE CONTEST

Can You Put the Two Great American Generals Together?





$300 PIANO ABSOLUTELY FREE

FIRST PRIZE

OVER $8,000 WORTH OF ADDITIONAL PRIZES

☞ NO CHARGE OF ANY KIND TO ENTER. YOU HAVE THE SAME OPPORTUNITY AS ANYONE ELSE TO WIN. ☜

Puzzle pictures for "grown-ups" as well as children are a source of great pleasure, and nearly everywhere you will find someone at this fascinating pastime in their spare moments. But now we have a puzzle picture contest with more than the mere fun of putting it together, a grand free distribution of over $8,300 worth of prizes, all absolutely free.

Cut out the little pieces and paste them together and you will have two of America's greatest generals. The neatest correct answer will be given the $300 piano absolutely free. The next neatest will be given prize certificates as stated below.

There is no catch. Everyone has an equal opportunity. We are making this extraordinary offer direct to piano buyers instead of spending the $8,300 in magazine advertising, as by this method we will introduce our pianos and fair prices to a great many possible buyers.

We want everyone interested in pianos to enter, as we want the piano and prize certificates to go where they will be appreciated. Be sure and enter. There is no excuse for your not striving for one of these prizes. Send your answer in early.

THE PRIZES—First prize—A fine new piano valued at $300. Second prize—A certificate of credit for $125. The next six best answers will be given a credit certificate for $90. Following these in groups of six or more, each contestant sending in the next best answer will be given a credit certificate for $1 less than those previous—that is, six at $89, next six at $88, etc.—until the amount has been awarded.

Special Advertising appropriation. In addition to the above prizes the Company will voluntarily issue to each of the remaining contestants a special certificate of credit, of not less than $25, as an award for their effort in this contest.

These certificates are good on the purchase of any New Hallet & Davis, Conway or Kimball piano or player piano in our warerooms at regular retail price. Time of certificate is limited. Certificates cannot be applied on any purchase made previous to Oct. 7, 1909. Only one certificate may be applied on the purchase of one piano.

THE JUDGING—Disinterested judges will be chosen who will select the winner, and the decision of the judges will be final. All prize winners will be notified. Judges' names will be announced.

SIMPLE DIRECTIONS—Cut out the pieces and paste together, thus making the two well known American generals. Write the names of the general under each picture. Free to anyone except employes of the Company. Only one answer allowed from one family. Send in coupon or exact written copy with your answer, as no answer will be accepted unless this is done. The neatest correct answer will be awarded first prize, others in accordance to their worth.

In case the judges find two or more answers of equal merit, duplicates of the prize offered will be given to each. All answers must be in before 12 P. M., Oct. 7, 1909. Copies of this advertisement will be furnished free on application at this office.

COUNTY BRANCH OF RETIREMENT FUND

About thirty public school teachers of the county convened in School No. 2 in Elizabeth on Thursday and permanently organized the Union county branch of the Teachers' Retirement Fund. The organization will have a membership of about 300 and its purpose is to bring about concerted action on matters of interest to teachers of Union county, as well as those throughout the State.

The temporary officers elected were: President, E. S. Richards; secretary, Miss L. E. Braun; treasurer, Miss F. T. Mackey.

These officers will manage the society's affairs until permanent organization can be accomplished.

The State Teachers' Retirement Fund is an organization with which about all the public school teachers are affiliated. Upon the retirement of teachers after long service the organization pays them a liberal pension. The members are assessed a small fee, fixed according to length of service and the amount of salary paid in their positions. Some of the county branches have been organized heretofore, but the Union County members have only had informal meeting with no permanent organization.

Miss Sophia M. Braun was elected a delegate Thursday, with power to select two more delegates to accompany her to the State convention of the fund organization in the New Jersey State Capitol in Trenton today. The State Association will fill any vacancies in the board of trustees and transact other business The report of the past year will be delivered.

MR. FOUNTAIN ORDAINED

At Impressive Service Yesterday, He Became a Baptist Minister.

LARGE CONGREGATION PRESENT

Rev. Charles Hillman Fountain, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fountain, of West Seventh stret, was ordained to the ministry of the Gospel at the First Baptist church, last night, in the presence of a large congregation. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the church, presided and presented the candidate, Rev. George Douglas, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Flushing, L. I., and a former fellow-student of Mr. Fountain, preached the ordination sermon.

The charge to the candidate was delivered by Rev. Dr. M. H. Pogson, of New York, while Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains, presented the Bible to the candidate and Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, offered the prayer of ordination. The program was interspersed with special music and at the close Mr. Fountain pronounced the benediction. He leaves at once to become pastor of the Baptist church at Unionville, N. Y.

Dr. Chambliss in presenting the candidate for ordination, explained that the East New Jersey Baptist Association has a permanent council, which examines all candidates in its jurisdiction for the Baptist ministry, with a view to ascertaining the candidate's ideas on theology, knowledge of the Scripture and his general fitness. He further explained that Mr. Fountain was a graduate of McMaster University, Toronto, Can., and Crozer Theological Seminary at Chester, Pa., and that he had received and accepted a call to the Baptist church at Unionville, N. Y.

A letter was then read from the permanent council, stating that Mr. Fountain had been thoroughly examined and that it was satisfied as to his qualifications for the ministry and directed the church to proceed with the ordination.

Rev. Mr. Douglas delivered the ordination sermon, taking his text from the Gospel of John 1, 4:5. He referred to the recent discovery of the North Pole by Cook and Peary, and the joy of Columbus in discovering America after a long voyage, but in his opinion that the greatest discoery of all time was that of Jesus Christ, by whom all things are made. He spoke of the faithfulness with which the disciples followed Christ, and how he was proclaimed King of the Jews, Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews, and then asked, is He the King of your heart.

The speaker said that Christ would rule the world and that he shall save people from their sins. He considered the best news that He came to seek and save the lost, and impressed upon all the importance of the fact that Christ died for all, that he bore the sins of the world in His crucifixion on the cross. These facts were all brought home to the candidate with special significance.

In charging the candidate, Dr. Pogson referred to his long acquaintance with the former's family, of the long and honorable career and Christian service of his ancestors in the Baptist church.

"I charge you," continued Dr. Pogson, "to be a man. What the church needs today is men. You must be in constant communion with God. Cultivate a spirit of communion moment by moment. The most enobling of all employment is to walk with God. I charge you to preach the Word, and make it the counsel and guide of your life. Preach it in the concrete and not the abstract and let the people see that you have been with Jesus Christ. Be an optimist, never a pessimist. Put your faith in God and make Him the companion of your life. I now extend you the hand of fellowship and urge you to follow the advice given."

The service was concluded with the presentation of the Bible to the candidate by Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, who gave the former some excellent advice. He said that to him there must be no second book to the Bible. He urged him to be a teacher and expounder of the Word and to be always faithful in its teachings and then he would be known and read of all men.

With the candidate kneeling and the officiating ministers about him, Rev. A. E. Finn offered the ordination prayer. After the singing of the Doxology, Mr. Hillman pronounced the benediction.

Skull Fractured in New York.

A telephone message was received by Chief of Police Kiely at 8:50 o'clock yesterday morning from the New York police stating that Antonio Petrillo, of 202 West Fourth street, had met with an accident which fractured his skull, and that the injured man had been removed to the Hudson street hospital. His family here was notified. The message did not state how the accident occurred nor where.

THEATRE MANAGER DIES

Harry Calvert Egerton Succumbed Suddenly to Nervous Breakdown.

HE RECENTLY REMOVED HERE.

Harry Calvert Egerton, aged fifty-two years, resident manager of The Plainfield theatre under the management of Proctor & Sanderson, and one of the best known men in the theatrical profession, died in his apartments at the Hotel Iroquois last night of neurasthenia, with which he had been afflicted for a long time.

Mr. Egerton came to this city about two months ago to become manager of the Plainfield theatre, when Proctor & Sanderson acquired that property in a deal with William J. Counihan. At that time he was ill, but he believed that the change would be beneficial and for a time did seem to improve. Everything possible in the way of medical skill was done for Mr. Egerton, but without avail. Yesterday afternoon he visited his physician, Dr. A. H. Dundon, returning to the hotel early in the evening. He died about 8 o'clock.

Mr. Egerton was born in Baltimore, and was a direct descendant of Cecil Calvert, Lord Baltimore, for whom he was named. He began his business career as treasurer for James C. Duff at the Manhattan theatre, New York. For several years he was associated with the late Agustin Daly at Daly's theatre in the same capacity, and left there to go with H. R. Jacobs, who was then manager of the Academy of Music, in Chicago. It was at that time that William J. Counihan secured his first position with Mr. Egerton, and that friendship always continued and was renewed two months ago in this city.

Mr. Egerton was also identified with Gus. Hill's attractions. More recently he was associated with Sparrow & Edwards in the management of the Theatre Royal in Montreal and the New Princess theatre, also in Montreal. He came from the latter theatre to this city. He leaves a wife, and his body is now at the undertaking parlors of A. M. Runyon & Son, awaiting her arrival from Montreal.

During his short residence in this city, Mr. Egerton made many friends, although he suffered greatly at times from physical disabilities. He was thoroughly acquainted with every phase of the theatrical business and his acquaintance among managers and others engaged in theatrical affairs was very extensive. Since coming here he met a number of his old-time friends, and was delighted to renew acquaintanceship.

RALLY SERVICES AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

A Sunday-school rally service of unusual interest was held yesterday at 12 o'clock in the Congregational church. The exercises were in charge of the superintendent, John M. Whiton. A new feature was a roll call of classes by the superintendent, each class arising and responding by telling the number of pupils on the class roll, and the number present.

The classes of Miss Estelle Winckler, Miss Margaret Weseman, Miss Alice Morgan and Clarence B. La Rue were perfect in attendance. Miss Winckler's class was the recipient of an American flag, which the superintendent presents each quarter to the class having the best attendance average for that quarter. Harry Gee, the associate superintendent of the First M. E. church school, delivered an address upon "Monuments," which was a service of inspiration to the entire school.

In commenting upon it Superintendent Whiton stated that the aim of the Congregational Sunday-school for the coming year should be "Every member present every Sunday with one more." The secretary reported an attendance of 166 with all officers present.

PRIZES CANINES.

Plainfield Dogs Get Ribbons at Whippany.

Plainfield dogs were again prominent in the prize awards at the annual bench show of the Whippany Kennel Club, Saturday. W. DeLa R. Anderson, owner of Boreas Kennels, made a clean sweep with his Russian wolfhounds, in which his entries defeated Champion Laskey, which won over the Boreas Kennel entries at the Plainfield show. Edmund L. MacKenzie, Midlothian Kennels, also made a clean sweep with his entries. A. G. Hooley's entries from Meadowview Kennels, were not quite up to former standards, but captured several important awards.

THE GREAT DISCOVERY

It is Man's Finding of the Redeemer, Says Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring.

THE CELEBRATION ETERNAL.

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, delivered an interesting sermon yesterday morning, appropos to the Hudson-Fulton celebration now being held in New York. The discourse was heard by a large congregation. Dr. Herring spoke in part as follows:

"'Discovery' is the word that seems to dominate the mental atmosphere of the land today. Hudson discovered the river that bears his name. Fulton discovered how to apply steam to navigation. Both Dr. Cook and Commander Peary claim to have discovered the Pole.

"We are celebrating discoveries today. Probably, six weeks from now we shall have forgotten all about them.

"Let me tell you about a discovery which an obscure man made some two thousand years ago, and which we never desire to forget. Andrew came to Peter, his brother, with the startling news, 'We have found the Messiah,'—and then Peter found Him as the Redeemer and Master of his life. Think about that little body of men with the smell of fish about their clothes, and what that discovery has meant to the world ever since.

"Professor Lindsay says, 'It is to Christianity that Europe owes public opinion and representative government.'

"When Sir James Simpson, the discoverer of chloroform, was asked what his greatest discovery was, he answered, 'The discovery that Jesus Christ is my Saviour and Master.' The world will become happier and better as it is controlled by the teaching and spirit of Jesus Christ."

In closing his address on "The Religion of the Future," Dr. Herring said:

"Dr. Charles Eliot says that the twentieth century religion will be an essential agreement with the personal teachings of Jesus, as they are reported in the Gospels. The revelation He gave to mankind thus becomes more wonderful than ever.' I cannot find myself agreeing with all that Dr. Eliot's prophecy about the twentieth century religion, but I am impressed with the fact that we cannot get away from the need we have for the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Think of this discovery. It is not the gospel of Plato, but of Jesus Christ. I note that the men whom we are honoring today as discoverers did not casually light upon their discoveries, but put themselves in the way of finding them. If we have not yet discovered Jesus Christ as our Redeemer and Master, have we honestly put aside our inherited prejudices, and put ourselves in the way of seeing Jesus Christ at His true value? Finding Jesus Christ will be the greatest discovery any man can ever make.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLIES IN CITY AND BOROUGH

Sunday-school rallies were held in many of the city churches yesterday. At the Grace M. E. church over 300 pupils attended. Addresses were made by the Rev. Charles S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, and by Rev. Ora J. Shoop, their pastor. Miss Geswein sang several solos and the choir gave a special selection.

The Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school opened the coming season well, over 350 pupils being on hand to start their studies. Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie addressed the school. At Warren chapel Herbert Parker, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., addressed the Sunday-school with an instructive and interesting talk on the work of the Sundayschools. Rev. Joseph A. McKelvey outlined the work to be done by the upper classes during the fall and made all at home by his friendly and hearty address, while J. W. Gavett, superintendent of the Sunday-school, gave the younger pupils a talk on their work. Lewis Chandler entertained the members of the school with a recitation, Charles Lewis sang a solo, and Miss Henrietta Wynn and Miss Nora Schenck played a duet. About 300 pupils attended.

Sunday-school Rally Day was held yesterday at Bethel chapel. About 150 pupils attended the opening of the school. Rev. Frederick D. Tydon, the pastor, made an address.

NOMINATIONS TOMORROW

City and County Candidates to Be Selected by the Political Parties.

POLLS OPEN FROM ONE TO NINE.

The primaries throughout Union county are likely to be attended with little excitement, for beyond the Republican assembly ticket there is no contest so far as the county is concerned. Efforts are being made by the Republican leaders, however, to poll as big a vote as possible in the interest of the primary election law. Explaining this today, State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman said that he feared that unless general interest is taken in the primaries, an attempt will be made in the Legislature at the forthcoming session to have the new law repealed.

The county candidates for nomination at the Republican primaries are Frank H. Smith, of this city, for county register; James C. Calvert, of Elizabeth, for county clerk, and Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford; Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth; Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield; Harold Depew, of Linden, and Schuyler M. Cady, of Summit, for the Assembly. Pierce, Schwartz and Thompson will likely be named, as they have the support of the regular organization. Dr. Charles B. Holmes, of Rahway, is the only candidate for coroner.

There will be no contest at the Democratic primaries, the minority party having agreed on their nominations:

For Assembly, Joseph T. Hague, of Elizabeth; Franklin H. Halliday, Abram P. Morris; for county clerk, John F. Kenah, of Elizabeth. For county register, George H. Schlotterer, of Elizabeth. For corner, F. H. Warncke.

The city ticket to be voted for tomorrow at the Republican primaries, include William S. Tyler for member of the Board of Education; William R. Townsend for tax collector; Francis L. Montgomery, W. W. Wilson and Charles C. Randolph for members of the Common Council at large.

In the First ward the candidates for members of the county committee are Amos Andrews and James F. Buckle, and for the city committee the above two and in addition Ralph I. Tolles. W. L. Gloak is candidate for ward councilman.

The candidates for members of the county committee in the Second ward are J. Henry Crane, Robert H. McCready and Howard H. Williams and for members of the city committee, Arthur Lovell, William R. Townsend and Howard C. Tracy. George S. Clay is the ward candidate for councilman.

Frederick E. Mygatt is the candidate for council from the Third ward. The candidates for members of the county committee are William T. Kirk, Frank H. Smith and for members of the city committee, John H. Cose, Edward V. Cox and George W. V. Moy.

Herbert Buxton is candidate for ward councilman from the Fourth ward, and the candidates for members of the county committee are Herbert Buxton, Andrew McCardell and H. C. Runyon, and for the city cimmittee, Herbert Buxton, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Andrew McCardell and Harry C. Runyon. The candidate for constable is Peter V. Weaver.

The Democrats have named Edward W. Davis, Preston P. Goodfellow and Andrew F. Marsh as the candidates at large for the Common Council. William T. Banks for tax collector and John O. Stevens for member of the Board of Education. In the First ward Frank M. Wagner has been named as candidate for the Council and Walter L. Hetfield for member of the county committee.

In the Third ward, Joseph H. Harkins is the candidate for member of the Common Council and Leroy J. Ellis and Frank J. Shattle for members of the county committee. In the Fourth ward the Democrats have named Patrick J. Reville as candidate for the Common Council and member of the county committee. The other offices have been left blank.

The primaries will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening from 1 to 9 o'clock at the usual polling places, which are so familiar to all voters.

The Republicans of Dunellen have named Wilson S. Frederick for member of the county committee; W. H. Sanford for Mayor; Isaac J. Stites, for collector; Oscar Runyon, for assessor; A. F. Todd and John R. Campbell for councilmen and J. W. Gandloff for justice of the peace. The Democratic ticket to be voted for includes Herbert Wyckoff for county committeeman; Charles F. Starker, for Mayor; C. E. Richard and R. F. Bogardus, councilmen; John F. Peters, assessor, William Wyckoff, collector.

WHAT DUTCH DID FOR US

Rev. Mr. Goodrich's Theme "Henry Hudson and Our Debt to the Dutch."

DISCOVERER'S ACHIEVEMENTS.

"Henry Hudson and Our Debt to the Dutch," was the topic of Rev. Charles L. Goodrich's sermon at the Congregational church yesterday morning, and one of the most interesting facts developed from it is that in so many cases men who led the voyages of discovery to this country were not sailing under the flags of their own nation. Hudson was one of these, being an Englishmen employed by the Dutch. Reference was made to Dr. Cook's successful discovery of the Pole and Hudson's voyage through the polar regions in search of a passage to China, which Dr. Goodrich claims to have been more of an actual achievement than Cook's.

In part Dr. Goodrich said: "Three hundred years ago today Henry Hudson, with his ship, the Half-Moon, was descending the noble river which bears his name, having explored it as far as the site of Albany or Troy. It has seemed good to the people of New York to commemorate this event. Seven nations have considered the matter of sufficient importance to warrant them in sending men-of-war to join in the celebration. There seems to be some difference of opinion as to whether there is honor enough at the Pole for two discoverers, but there need be no doubt that there is honor enough in the results of Hudson's voyage both for him and for the men who came after him.

"It is one of the curious and interesting facts in the story of American discovery that in so many cases men who led the voyages were not sailing under their own flags. That the nations who claim the honors won them through the use of men of other nationalities. Spain, among other modern nations must ever have the honor of discovering America, but it was a Genoese that she sent. John and Sebastian Cabot on whose achievements England based her chief claims to her portion of American soil, were Italians. Henry Hudson was an Englishman whom Holland used to open the way for her possessions in the new land. If a Holland company had not employed him French people were ready to do so. After his success in the Holland employ Englishmen were glad enough to back him again. In fact there seems to have been forcible means, or at least regal authority used to prevent his continuing to win honors for the Dutch.

"It is one of the singular coincidences of history also that just in the week of the beginning of this celebration in honor of Henry Hudson, Dr. Cook should arrive in New York just home from the North Pole. For, although all do not think commonly of Henry Hudson as an Arctic explorer, he was pre-eminently

OUR DEBT TO THE DUTCH

Public School System Holland Product Says Trinity's Pastor.

THEIR INFLUENCE IS FELT.

A large congregation listened to a timely sermon by Rev. John Y. Broek in Trinity Reformed church last night and learned a few facts relative to the early Dutch settlers and a great deal about the influence of those people on the future of the then embryonic republic. Mr. Broek took for a text Deuteronomy, 32:7: "Remember the Days of Old," and said the exhortation was a good one, but that God does not want us to live in the past.

"Three centuries have passed since the eventful day when Henry Hudson sailed up the river which bears his name and that dates marks an epoch in discovery while now it is the day of invention. When Hudson went up the historic river our history began. In 1628 the Dutch built the first church in America on Manhattan Island and since then the Dutch Reformed church has had an influence upon the national life of our country, but not all the good of our present civilization is due to the Dutch. England and France have contributed in no small measure toward what is today the highest type of civilization. And this American civilization is destined to be the distinctive civilization of the world! It has only just begun.

"Among the things which the Dutch people have contributed toward our high plane of life are, first, the love of liberty. The rugged sterling character of the early Dutch here laid the foundations of our future character. They had the courage of a profound conviction and today that courage is prominent in every phase of our religious, social and political life. Holland has been blessed above all other nations in the quality of the character of her men.

"As a second contribution they have given us the love of home and of home ties; the ideals of the family altar and piety. Third in the list is the love of industry and enterprise. No other nation has shown superior men in these respects. Fourth, and perhaps the most potent contribution of all is the love of religion and piety. The Dutch have a strong faith in God. The Dutch axiom, 'In Union there is Strength,' is woven into the very warp of this country's history and was its strong bulwark in the early struggles. Theirs is the dominent religious conviction of which we may all be justly proud.

The public school system of today is a product of Holland. That country was the first in Europe to have public schools. The Dutch have exercised an influence which cannot be measured. They were honest, God-fearing men and paid their debts. Their convictions were deep rooted. They were men of charac-

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Daring Attempt to Derail Special No. 211 on the Central R.R. Saturday Night.

OTHER TRAINS ARE STONED.

A daring attempt was made to wreck special train No. 211 on the Central Railroad Saturday night at the Madison avenue bridge and had it not been for the quick action of the engineer of the locomotive a probably fatal result would have to be reported. The train had started west after allowing passengers to alight at the North avenue station, and had picked up considerable speed. It was brought to a sudden stop, jolting the passengers and upon going forward to ascertain the cause, the conductor found the engineer examining a piece of timber which had been fastened to track No. 1. The train proceeded after the obstruction had been removed.

Other trains which had preceded this one were stoned and window lights broken in several of the coaches. No records of injured passengers have been reported to the police. Trains 135, 137, and extra No. 211 were all stoned at about the same place as the attempt at wrecking, but unfortunately there are no clues for the police to work on.

It is supposed to have been the work of some recently discharged employees of the road. Two men were seen by the conductor of train 211 running away from the scene of the attempted wreck just after the train came to a standstill, but no description of them has so far been obtained. Railroad detectives have asked the assistance of the local police department to round up the miscreants, and the police of towns all along the line have been asked to be on the look out for suspicious characters. Train 211 was carrying a large number of returning sightseers from New York, and had it jumped the track another Westfield disaster might have been recorded. There have been no arrests in the case.

MISS MARIE M'GOFF WEDS BROOKLYN NEWSPAPERMAN

Miss Marie McGoff and William Harner, both of Brooklyn, were married yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. A. L. Case, 115 Lafayette place, by the Rev. James Johnes, of Newark. Miss Jessie Brown acted as bridesmaid and Ira H. Case as best man. The bride wore a cream silk over pale blue empire gown and her bridesmaid a white silk gown decorated with small green flowers. The house was decorated with pink and white roses.

Miss McGoff and Mrs. Case have been friends for many years so when she and Mr. Harner decided to be married she immediately suggested that the ceremony be performed here. Mr. Harner is a reporter on the "Brooklyn Daily Eagle" and well known in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Charles Shepherd.

Mrs. Charles Shepherd, 77 years old, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Vail, 242 Somerset street, at 11 o'clock, after a long illness. Mrs. Shepherd was born in Hunterdon county, and came to live in Plainfield thirty years ago. She leaves four children, Isaac and Winfield Shepherd, Mrs. W. Vail and Mrs. George Elwood Sanders. The funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. Vail. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and Rev. C. L. Goodrich will officiate at the services. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

Fanwood Candidates.

Fanwood borough has named as candidates for nomination at the Republican primaries, Thomas Norton, Augustus Sheelen, Spencer Tallmadge, for Council; Charles Sheelen, for collector; Horace G. Young, for assessor, and for member of the county committee, Frank W. Westcott. The Democrats have not named any ticket.

In Fanwood township, the Republicans have named Ira G Walker, for membership of the township committee and John E. Clark and L. B. Coddington for constable. The Democrats have named John Z. Hatfield as its choice for collector for three years.

Opening and Display of FALL MILLINERY

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 29, 30, and Oct. 1.

WE respectfully request the pleasure of your presence on the above dates and ask that every lady in Plainfield and surrounding towns consider this a personal invitation to be present to view the handsomest and most clever ideas in Imported and Domestic Millinery it has ever been our good fortune to bring together. In connection with the models of imported makes, the display and conceptions from our own millinery experts are truly models of exquisite beauty. This season's display is thoroughly representative of what "The White Store" can do and has done in this city to elevate the standard and break down the barriers that has heretofore existed when ladies were obliged to leave their own city and purchase their millinery of houses that were entirely foreign to this city's welfare.

You Don't Have to Leave Your Own City

to make your Millinery selections, for this store has left no stone unturned to make this opening practical, of live interest to women who desire beauty and originality, and at the same time don't have to pay exorbitant extravagant prices for the very highest degree of millinery art.

We have carefully selected what we consider the best examples and most characteristic models of French Millinery, but more important still to our own patrons is the fact that we have tried faithfully to conceive ideas that truly represent the taste of the purchaser in the Hats that find their way from our own workroom.

Another Feature We Lay Stress Upon is Moderation in Price.

No matter how extravagant a price you pay we positively assert that you cannot get more style, more beauty, or more originality than we can give you at a much lower price.

We could continue to write pages on this topic and yet put forth no extravagant claim. All we ask is that you make this department a personal visit, see for yourself, and we are willing to abide by your decision.

Everything will be arranged for your comfort and convenience, extra saleslady will be in attendance to aid you in making your selection. In fact everything will be done to make you feel that the reputation achieved by the White Store in this direction has not been overdrawn.

TAKE ELEVATOR TO SECOND FLOOR.

AUTUMN OPENING OF LADIES' SUITS, COATS, CAPES, Etc.

BEFORE introducing you to the vast stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, you will pardon us if we seem somewhat egotistical in our descriptions of this Department. We have enlarged this popular department to three times its former size, giving us ample space to show to advantage our immense stock. It has been newly carpeted and refitted with the most approved devices for showing Ladies' Costumes, ample daylight is furnished from our new prism light transoms, leaving nothing desired which would tend to mar your shopping pleasure here.

Wonderful Charming Ladies' Tailored Costumes.

This store has never before displayed such an exceptional stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear garments, having now three times the stock previously carried. Ladies who thoroughly appreciate fine artistic tailoring, who wish to feel well dressed in exclusive high grade models, are the ones who will feel more interested in this magnificent assortment of Fashionable Tailored Costumes.

THREE VERY IMPORTANT FEATURES

which has tended to make this department so popular are INDIVIDUALITY, ORIGINALITY AND EXCLUSIVENESS. We make it a point to see that no other dealer in this vicinity can show similar styles. Therefore you are always safe in feeling that nobody else in town can have the exact same garment in style at least that you have bought.

A few of the very many different kinds of materials consist of CHEVIOTS, DIAGONALS, SERGES, HOME SPUNS, WORSTEDS, CHIFFON BROADCLOTH and scores of other popular weaves, faultlessly tailored in the most approved styles. The long modish semi-fitting coats, and pleated skirts seem to take the lead as being the correct thing, while those who prefer the severely made tailored suit we have them in abundance.

TWIN MAGNETIC FEATURES

of which we are the originators, are potent factors in making this department known in every quarter of this county, and that is

THE NEW MILLINERY

Has Met With an Enthusiastic Reception

Our superb Exhibit of Fall Millinery has been showered with admiration by the numbers of women who have visited our beautiful Millinery Department since the Opening. The opinion is unamimous that the showing is the largest and most beautiful we have ever presented, and our moderate prices on the most elegant and exclusive new styles has been a source of general comment. The showing is at once a lesson in Millinery Fashions and Economical Prices—proving conclusively that exorbitant prices do not have to be paid for hat style and beauty.

The New Dress Goods

The busy selling already in progress in our New Dress Goods stock is proof positive of the growing popularity of this department. If you wish to choose your new materials where the variety of weaves and colorings is the most complete and values the best obtainable, come here.

Ready-to-Wear Garments for Fall

The New Suits, Coats and Skirts have also received their full share of praise from our friends. The range of new models is most extensive and the great variety of styles affords the most satisfying selection. One feature which makes this Department especially popular is that we have expert fitters to make alterations FREE. This is an important consideration since our prices are unquestionably the lowest in town for same qualities.

Special Tailored Suit Values

As a remarkable introductory value, we offer new Tailored Suits, made of good quality Broadcloth, with 45-inch Coat, lined with Skinner's Satin---a stunning new model, in black, blue, gray, and green. Special at

WEDNESDAY, THE SIXTH DAY OF OCTOBER, A. D. 1909,

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at the Sheriff's office, in the City of Elizabeth, New Jersey, all those tracts or parcels of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey:

First Tract—Beginning at a point in the middle of Front street, in the City of Plainfield, at the intersection of lands formerly owned by Samuel C. M. Allen, and corner of lands of Franklin Wiley; running south forty-four degrees and twenty-one minutes (44 degrees 21 minutes) east a distance of fourteen hundred and thirteen and eighty-seven hundredths (1413.87) feet to a point on the northwesterly side of Midway; thence south forty-six degrees and thirteen minutes (46 degrees 13 minutes), west a distance of seven hundred and ninety-six and five hundredths (796.05) feet to a point; thence north forty-four degrees and twenty-one minutes (44 degrees 21 minutes) west a distance of twelve hundred and ninety-five and fifty-eight hundredths (1295.58) feet to a point in the centre of Front street aforesaid; thence along the centre of said Front street north thirty-seven degrees and forty-five minutes (37 degrees 45 minutes) east a distance of eight hundred and three and ninety-eight hundredths (803.98) feet to the point of beginning. Containing in all twenty-four and one-half (24½) acres, more or less.

Second Tract—Beginning at a stone in the middle of Front street and corner of lands belonging to Mulford Cole; thence (1) south along said Cole's land forty-six degrees east nineteen chains and thirty-eight links to a stone for a corner in the line of lands of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; thence (2) north forty degrees east five chains and fifteen links to a stone for a corner; thence (3) along the line of other lands of said Cole north forty-six degrees west nineteen chains and sixty-three links to a stone in the middle of the aforesaid Front street; thence (4) along the middle of said Front street south thirty-seven degrees west five chains and thirteen links to the place of beginning. Containing ten acres of land, more or less.

Said first tract was conveyed to said Van Ness by deed of Samuel C. M. Allen and wife, dated December 27, 1890, and recorded in book 225 of deeds for said county, on pages 344, etc. The second tract was conveyed to said Van Ness by deed of Robert L. Harrison, dated April 20, 1891, and not yet recorded.

Excepting, however, that portion thereof released by the said John R. Marsh by release dated June 23, 1889, and recorded in book 12 of releases of mortgages for Union county, on pages 86, etc., being a strip eighty (80) feet wide for the purpose of opening a public street and over which to operate a street railway; beginning at a point in the centre line of the proposed extension of East Second street in the land between the properties of John K. Van Ness and Elias Cole; thence running in a magnetic course of north forty-four degrees and two minutes east a distance of eleven hundred and thirty-two and eight-tenths (1132.8) feet to a stake in the line of property owned by Mary J. McCrea.

The foregoing tracts of land will be sold in lots or parcels in accordance with the order of said Court of Chancery.

Great Furniture Show

Every inch of display space in the great floor devoted to the show and sale of furniture is crowded to the limit with new and beautiful and useful furniture. In many divisions the pieces are two and three tiers high. Aisles have been narrowed almost uncomfortably in our endeavor to present every possible good type of furniture produced— the display is truly magnificent and proves how indefatigably our furniture chief labored and searched the furniture factories of the great Northwest during his trip thru that region last Summer, when most of us were disporting ourselves in the cooling waters of the Atlantic. The result of the furniture man's labor, thought and discrimination is shown in the grand stocks here assembled and awaiting your favors.

Mahogany predominates just now, and our lines of splendid dining-room and bedroom furniture in this rich finish are truly tremendous, affording you widest play for your taste. Types of the periods of long ago, as well as more modern styles, are well represented.

The display of Parlor Suites, beautifully upholstered, far surpasses any we have ever made, which means that this is by odds the greatest stock in the State, if not in the country.

Many of the things you see are exclusive with us and will not be seen in any other New Jersey store.

Five-Piece Parlor Suite

These splendid parlor suites, from one of the best makers on our staff of good people who furnish us our stock, on which we build and maintain our magnificent reputation of good furniture. The frames are of mahogany finish, highly polished. They have fancy shaped feet and carved effect on front of arms. The seats are upholstered plain with fronts plaited; the backs are neatly tufted. We show this suite upholstered in panne plush. We will take your order and make it up in any cover you desire, including silk plush, tapestry, two-tone green damask or silk velour, and guarantee delivery inside of a week.

The regular selling price of suites of this high character is $97.50; special selling price for two days—Tuesday and Wednesday..... $67

A saving of $30.50.

Three-Piece Parlor Suite

Mahogany finish, highly polished; sofa, comfortable arm chair and rocker; backs have fancy panels, just a trifle of carving at the top; has claw feet legs; upholstered in loose cushions, which are tufted and tied to frame with tassels; they can easily be removed to be cleaned and at any time you can have them remade or renewed. Suits are covered in choice of different materials, panne plush, green figured damask, silk plush, silk velour or tapestry.

We display on our floor a sample suit in silk velour; we take your order to have one made up in any style of upholstering. We have indicated above and guarantee delivery inside of a week's time, insuring you a made to order set. Regular price $60; priced special for Tuesday and Wednesday $39.50

THE STATE'S FOREMOST DISPLAY OF

Newest Floor Coverings

When we tell you that there are no better makes of Carpeting and Rugs on the market than those we sell, that we handle only first grade goods, and that we sell at the most moderate prices, you can absolutely rely upon our statement. We have given you every good reason for coming here for such floor coverings as you may need, whether for the simplest little flat built for two or the palatial home in the finest suburbs.

No good reason is left you for seeking what you want elsewhere, and when we add to our claims the advantages of our now celebrated Club Plan which makes it easy for anyone to buy even the expensive kinds of carpets and rugs, there is really no argument that would justify shopping from place to place in search of beautiful and worthy carpets and rugs.

Not only are domestic carpets and rugs of the best grades fully represented, but we show a most satisfying collection of Oriental Rugs in our beautiful Turkish Kiosh—the finest Oriental Rug room in the United States.

BIBLE IS THIS LAD'S PASSPORT TO THEATRE.

Henry Peters wanted to go to the theatre at Trenton Saturday, but Edward T. Haven, ticket seller, told him he looked too young to escape the ban of the State law prohibiting children from going alone to playhouses.

The boy offered to get a birth certificate from Bishop McFaul and hurried away. He returned a few minutes later with the family Bible, explaining that the Bishop was out of town. In the Bible was written: "Henry Peters, born July 5, 1893. Died———."

"You see when I was born, and you see I ain't dead yet; now will you believe I am sixteen and old enough to go to the theatre alone?"

Haven was convinced. He held the Bible for proof while young Peters attended the matinee.

one of the foremost. The most of his voyages were directed toward the Arctic. He was the first man to my knowledge who ever attempted to sail across the Pole. He was nearly three centuries ahead of Nansen in this attempt. Hudson's honors are for his failures while Cook's are for his successes. But Hudson's failures have been far more fruitful than Cook's successes will ever be.

Mr. Goodrich told of other explorer having been ahead of Hudson notably Verrazzano, a Florentine, who went up the Hudson rover in 1523, and Gomez, a Spaniard, in 1525. Frenchmen also are known to have made visits and traded with the Indians. It is well to recall such men as Henry Hudson. It is well that the young should think about him. For apart from the results of his achievements, giving occasion for gratitude there is the enterprise, itself a stimulus for enterprise, and in the character of the man, qualities which the young and older of this age may well remember and emulate. It is this quality of courage in the men who dared, the quality by which the world has progressed. He told also of the adventures of Champlain, the French explorer who with Hudson, in 1609 stopped at Mt. Desert Island. Champlain sailed north while Hudson went south. Champlain fought the Indians while Hudson sought their trade. The Dutch who followed Hudson were a thrifty and God-fearing people and they engrafted their principles into the people who came to the new land.

"Surely," he said, "once in 300 years is not too often to thank God for the Dutch and gratefully acknowledge our debt of gratitude. I must call to mind the signal illustration of the ways of God with men, which my theme presents. Hudson sets out to go to China by way of the North Pole and fails. He tries again by way of Nova Zembla; again he fails. Finally he tries to find a way through America only to be disappointed at the source of the Hudson River. He died in another attempt in the frozen north. But what God meant to do through that man was done. Through him the Dutch were led to this country to have a large and ever memorable share in the founding and moulding of a great nation. So God does overrule in history and in human affairs, and we take to heart from this theme the great lesson of confidence in God's purposes and the deeper assurance that whoever courageously in God's purposes and the deeper assurance that whoever courageously and in the fear of God devotes himself to the best work he can find is sure under God to reap a true success and far better than he knows. We need these lessons in these days, for there are many who take gloomy views of the future of the church, of the true religion, of the cause of all good; views which not only lessen happiness but also discourage the Christian in his work. But God can make the mistakes of men to further His purposes and the Christian may work with courage and a peaceful heart for God will see to it that good results follow the efforts."

Next Sunday night the regular evening services will be resumed in this church and the pastor will take as topics "Sundays in England," the first one being "A Sunday at Clovelly."

WHAT DUTCH DID FOR US

ter. Are we mindful of what they have done?"

Mr. Broek made a strong plea for heredity, and said that the future might be all inspired if we bore in mind our ancestral traits of character and emulated them, and ended his sermon by appealing to the people to make the future of our country greater than its past.

He Just Wandered In.

Michael Young, aged 57, of Springdale, was given a suspended sentence by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. He was up on a charge of being drunk Saturday. He told the court that he had just wandered into police headquarters to rest and he was conducted to a cell to recuperate from his weariness. When released he promised to never drink another drop.

Both Parties May Endorse Him.

John Z. Hatfield, who has been named as the candidate for tax collector on the Democratic ticket in Fanwood township, will doubtless be endorsed by the Republicans at the primary tomorrow. He is very popular with both parties.

FLOCK SHOWS ESTEEM FOR PASTOR AND WIFE

It would have been impossible to have found a more astonished man anywhere than was Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, Saturday evening, when he was asked to go to the chapel and see a few friends. When he arrived he was confronted by more than two hundred of his flock who were waiting for him to commemorate the eighth anniversary of his pastorate as well as the eighth anniversary of his wedding.

Mrs. Howard, of course, was with him and the reception given to the pastor and his wife will long be remembered by them as one of the most touching occasions in their lives. The chapel was beautifully decorated with flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Howard were the recipients of two handsome Axminster rugs each nine feet wide by twelve feet long.

G. Herbert Condict presented the rugs in a speech which carried with it the feeling of the sincere regard and love in which the pastor and his wife are held by the people of the chapel. Mr. Howard responded in a manner which indicated his thorough appreciation of the gifts, as well as the remembrance of the two most important events of his life. In his speech he said that the college does not make the preacher and pastor, but the congregation. He regarded them all as his friends and co-workers in a common cause and he greatly valued their earnest cooperation.

Mrs. Howard also addressed the gathering and, according to one who was there, "she made the finest speech of her life." At any rate when she had finished there was no a dry eye in the room and they were shedding the "sympathetic tear." There is no doubt that Mr. and Mrs. Howard enjoy the love and esteem of the members of the chapel in no small degree and to say that they were gratified by the double remembrance is too mild an expression.

The evening was spent in a thoroughly characteristic Hope chapel way with songs and piano solos and some delicate refreshments prepared by the committee who had the matter in charge. Thomas Henry, Miss Jones and Miss Mary Radford contributed solos and the young people sang some choruses enthusiastically. The affair came to a close at about 11 o'clock and was voted the greatest social gathering in the history of the chapel.

The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of G. Herbert Condict, chairman; Mrs. Robert Hangliter, Mrs. Samuel Cratsley, Mrs. J. Harron, Mrs. George Whyte, Mrs. G. Rittenhouse and Mrs. Donald McInnes.

REV. C. W. F. ATTLEE'S FAREWELL SERMON

The Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, who has been pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church for over three years, preached his farewell sermon last night. Persistent efforts have been made to persuade Mr. Attlee to reconsider his resignation, but his decision was final and his friends parted with him with much reluctance.

Mr. Attlee took for his text, 1st Cor. 2: 2, "I am determined to know nothing among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified," and there were few dry eyes as he commended the sick, the afflicted and the sinful to the care of the church and the Saviour. The congregation was composed of people of every denomination and the parting was regretted. Mr. Attlee has not yet made known his future plans, and is at present attached to the Courier-News in a reportorial capacity.

CATCHER ALBERTS HIT IN TEMPLE BY BALL.

Henry Alberts, catcher for the Scotch Plains baseball club, was hit in the temple by a pitched ball by Brewer Johnson at yesterday's contest between the 'Plains and Cranford, and for a time it was thought that he was seriously injured. The accident happened in the fourth inning. Johnson had given Alberts a curved ball and the latter thought the next one would be the same kind. Instead of that the throw was wild and before Alberts could dodge it, was struck in the temple. He dropped as quick as a flash.

First aid to the injured was administered, but it was ten minutes before he came around. When he did he insisted on going into the game again and did catch for two innings, but then had to give way to Brown, and go home.

Lost Control of Steering Gear.

In trying to avoid a pile of bricks and sand where repairs are being made to the pavement on Park avenue near Front street yesterday morning at 10:50, Joseph Wright, of West Front street, lost control of the steering gear of his automobile and the car jumped the sidewalk, landing with a bang against a pillar of the City National Bank building. Both front and rear springs of the auto were broken and the machine removed to a garage for repairs. No one was injured. A carriage driven by a son of Stonewall Jackson, which was turning into Park avenue, evidently confused Mr. White and caused him to lose his control of the car.

Mr. Trimmer Makes Reply.

James Trimmer, who purchased a farm from Mrs. Caroline Cook, at Scotch Plains last April and against whom ejectment has been started by the former owner, said today that the reports that he had defaulted in agreed payments are false. "When we made the agreement of sale," said Mr. Trimmer today, "it was specified that Mrs. Cook should deliver the deed in April and that I should pay down $1,000. Subsequently I got an extension in the payment of interest from her until a future time and I am ready now to hand her the amount of the interest in question. I have been served with no papers except an ejectment."

The regular preparatory service will be held at Trinity Reformed church Friday night, and the communion service on Sunday morning, October 3.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS and THE DELINEATOR

Enameled Bed Outfits $21.50

At a Saving of $8.

It's a great convenience to many to buy a bed, spring and mattress rightly matched, at a single purchase, so we have made up a special combination outfit that will save every buyer just $8.

The outfit consists of a New Colonial White Enamel Bed with heavy 1 1-2 inch square posts, 3-4 inch filling rods and 1 inch top rods. An all-iron National fabric Wire Spring and Cotton Felt Mattress made in two parts, fully 50 lbs. weight.

Block Pullman Go-Carts $18.50

Made with fine reed body and hood, in 3-4 and full size, full upholstered, splendid steel gearing, steel tubing pushers, white porcelain handles and large rubber tires.

THE AUTO COUCH

is a couch by day and a bed by night; the change is made from couch to bed in a second, and so easy that a child can do it. No more torn rugs or matting or scratched floors. The Auto swings into position. You will note that the Auto Couch has full valance on front and ends, thus eliminating the necessity of a couch cover. Made in three style coverings.

POINT WINNERS ON THE COUNTRY CLUB'S COURSE

The Hudson-Fulton celebration did not attract all of the members of the Plainfield Country club, Saturday, for there was a godly number on the course to take part in the weekly competition for the Fall Handicap cups. There was also a large attendance of members and friends at the weekly dinner-dance at the clubhouse in the evening.

Morris J. Dumont and Leighton Calkins were the point winners for the Class A cup, with score of 77 and 78. The leading scores for the two cups were posted as follows:

Class A—Morris J. Dumont, 87, 10-77; Leighton Calkins, 86, 8-78.

Class B—Hugh F. Fox, 90, 24-66; G. F. Earle, 91, 18-73; Howard Huntington, 96, 21-75; C. C. Burke, 95, 19-76; T. W. T. Maxwell, 103, 27-76; G. T. VanBoskerck, 94, 17-77.

CHAMP. SEMI-FINALS AT PARK GOLF CLUB

In the semi-finals for the fall championship of the Park Golf club, Saturday, W. R. Faber defeated W. V. Byard, 2 up and 1 to play, while R. B. Titsworth won from Charles B. Morse, by default. This will bring Mr. Faber and Mrs. Titsworth together on Saturday in the finals and the winner of that match will play Dr. H. K. Carroll, winner of the Spring championship cup, for the highest honors in the gift of the club. The result is being watched with great interest.

There was a good field out to take part in the weekly competition for the President's, golf club and Oakmont cups. The leading scores follow:

A. H. Vanderhoef, 109, 18-84; Frank Sill, 115, 30-85; W. R. Faber, 99, 13-86; W. V. Byard, 101, 14-87; Charles B. Morse, 101, 12-89; Samuel Townsend, 108, 18-90.

Bold Holdup.

Charles Mattel, 13 years old, of West Third street, was the victim of a bold holdup at 1:30 this afternoon. He was riding on a bicycle under the Plainfield avenue bridge when a tramp jumped out from behind a pillar and grabbed the wheel by the handlebars. The plucky boy held on and cried for help. A policeman coming up scared the man away, and as the policeman was too far away to hear the boy's cries the man escaped.

Valuable Tract of Land Sold.

Joseph T. Vail, the real estate broker, has sold his five acre farm and woodland near the property of Otto Arens on Woodland avenue, to William B. Wadsworth, of West Eighth street. Mr. Wadsworth will erect a bungalow there and make other extensive improvements to the property. This valuable tract of land has been in Mr. Vail's possession for a great many years.

Fell Forty Feet; Only Bruised.

Clarence Bayleau, 55 years old, a carpenter, living on Somerset street, fell from the roof of a house on Lyman place about 2 o'clock this afternoon a distance of forty feet. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was found no bones were broken.

Arranging a Tennis Tournament.

A committee comprising Charles B. Morse, chairman; R. B. Titsworth and R. V. Carpenter has been appointed to arrange for a men's doubles tennis tournament to be held at the Park Golf Club within a short time.

—Among the special offerings at Neuman Brothers' tomorrow will be fancy Delaware, Brighton, Niagara and Concord grapes; also a choice assortment of fine quinces.

Saved a Woman's Life.

Patrolman "Toby" Nolan and Charles Schwartz, night baggageman at the North avenue station, saved the life of a Polish woman last night at 9:30. The woman was confused by the lights of an approaching coal train and was pulled away from in front of the locomotive only in the nick of time.

PIANO CONTEST FAKES EXPOSED!

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR HOLDERS OF GOLD BONDS, PIANO COUPONS AND DISCOUNT CERTIFICATES.

There are several Piano houses which have no prices for their goods except grossly inflated ones arranged expressly for fake discounts in connection with schemes of various kinds. These houses seem to find it impossible to dispose of their pianos in a legitimate, straightforward way, but instead resort to one scheme after another—catch-penny devices, so crude as to be positively insulting to the intelligence of the public. These schemes usually take the form of guessing contests, drawing puzzles and various feats of little skill. In all of them the object is identical to mislead the prospective buyer into the belief that he is getting something for nothing, while at the same time prices are arranged sufficiently high to off-set the allowance to which his prize certificate entitles him.

EVERYONE WHO MAKES A GUESS GETS A PRIZE!

If you have ever answered one of these ads you received a discount certificate. EVERYBODY DOES. It matters not whether the answer is good, bad or indifferent, from adult or child it draws a prize in the shape of a certificate or due bill (generally from $65.00 to $100.00) to apply on the purchase of a new Piano. Of course the price of the Piano is fixed accordingly and the purchaser pays a high price even after the amount of certificate is deducted, usually a much higher price than an instrument of similar quality could be secured for in any legitimate music store.

To test the value of one of these certificates present it in payment for something other than a new piano—say a low priced used piano, music cabinet or a bench, and see how quickly the dealer will turn you down. He will not even give you 50 cents worth of music for it. Try the experiment!

AT $185.00 WE WILL SELL A BETTER PIANO THAN THE SCHEME HOUSES ASK $325.00 TO $400.00 FOR! Such well known and high grade makes as Haines Bros., Brewster, the Genuine Mathushek and others too numerous to mention.

The Men's club of the First Baptist church will hold a banquet at the Park club on Monday night, October 25. There will be several prominent speakers.

The Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel, which now meets in the chapel every Wednesday afternoon, is busy preparing a barrel of useful articles to be sent to Missouri.

At Proctor's.

A fine new bill of vaudeville will be offered at Proctor's theatre, this week, and there will be special interest in the announcement that the films d'art, "The Unspoken Goodbye," taking at Smalley Brothers' quarry by the American Vitagraph Company, will be shown here tomorrow for the first. The marked progress in the production of films d'art from an artist viewpoint is remarkable as shown daily. On Saturday one of the pictures showed Blerlot in his airship crossing the English Channel, a marvelous piece of work. Today's new vaudeville comprises plenty of comedy, music, etc.

A BIT O' GREEN A-GROWING.

I get a moral uplift when I watch the setting sun,
And the chasing o' the storm clouds when the storming o' them's done;
And the very thought o' mountains melting high against the sky
Makes me feel sort o' majestic—and I often wonder why
I cannot keep my thoughts up on that higher holier plane,
And my spirits singing always in a grand, uplifting strain.
But I'm out o' sight o' mountains—and I cannot see the sea,
So I just enjoy the little things a-nestling close to me;
And I think of all the many—that my soul enjoys the best—
A bit o' green a-growing in my window.

Just a bit o' green a-growing, but enough for me to see
The hand o' God a-working and a-doing things for me;
It's a-showing and a-teaching me the whole creation plan,
For I see the life was started long before the world began,
And the life o' man and flower is identically the same—
Just a difference in the makeup and a-calling o' the name,
And God is mindful of it—and He's mindful o' me, too,
And the green just keeps a-growing, and that's what I will do.
I'll just keep on a-turning o' my face toward the sun,
Like the bit o' green a-growing in my window.

CHANNEL WORK BIDS SOUGHT.

State Prepares for Big Improvement in Cape May County.

Bids were advertised for Saturday at Trenton by the Inland Waterways Commission for the excavation of one and one-half miles of channel near Hollywood Beach and Wildwood, Cape may county. The amount of excavation involved is about 145,000 cubic yards, and the cost is estimated at $15,000.

Bids will be opened here October 12. The last Legislature appropriated $50,000 for the inland channel project. The rest of the money is likely to be expended in Atlantic county.

Canning Corn.

Get good corn, not too ripe, cut it from the cob and scrape out the milk. Fill the jars with corn and fasten the lids on lightly. Place a wooden rack or straw in the bottom of the wash boiler, put in the jars and fill the boiler to almost the tops of the jars and boil for two hours. Remove the lids and quickly fasten them again, then boil two hours more. If tin cans are used the lids must be punctured. The boiler must be will covered while the corn boils, for steam cooks more quickly than hot water. It is advisable to can a little at a time.

PEARY'S CONQUEST OF THE NORTH POLE

Copyright 1909, by the New York Times Company.

Leaving this camp the expedition comprised 16 men, 12 sledges and 100 dogs. The next march was satisfactory as regards distance and character of going. In the latter part there were pronounced movements in the ice, both visible and audible. Some leads were crossed, in one of which Borup and his team took a bath, and we were finally stopped by an impracticable lead opening in front of us.

We camped in a temperature of 50 below. At the end of two short marches we came upon Hansen and his party in camp, mending their sledges. We devoted the remainder of the day to overhauling and mending sledges and breaking up our damaged ones for material.

The next morning I put Marvin in the lead to pioneer the trail, with instructions to make two forced marches to bring up our average, which had been cut down by the last two short ones. Marvin carried out his instructions implicitly. A considerable amount of young ice assisted in this.

At the end of the tenth march, latitude 85.23, Borup turned back in command of the second supporting party, having traveled a distance equivalent to Nansen's distance from this far to his farthest north.

From this point the expedition comprised 13 men, 10 sledges and 70 dogs. It was necessary for Marvin to take a sledge from here, and I put Bartlett and his division in advance to pioneer the trail.

The continual daylight enabled me to make a moderation here that brought my advance and main parties closer together and reduced the likelihood of their being separated by open leads.

After Bartlett left camp with Henderson and their division Marvin and I remained with our divisions twenty hours longer and then followed. When we reached Bartlett's camp he broke out and went on and we turned in. By this arrangement the advance party was traveling while the main party was asleep, and vice versa, and I was in touch with my advance party every twenty-four hours.

I had no reason to complain of the going for the next two marches, though for a less experienced party, less adaptable sledges or less perfect equipment it would have been an impossibility.

Last Words to Marvin.

At our position at the end of the second march Marvin obtained a satisfactory sight for latitude in clear weather, which placed us at 85.48 This result agreed very satisfactorily with the dead reckoning of Marvin, Bartlett and myself. Up to this time the slight altitude of the sun had made it not worth while to waste time in observations.

On the next two marches the going improved, and we covered good distances. In one of these marches a lead delayed us a few hours. We finally ferried across on the ice cakes.

The next day Bartlett let himself out, evidently for a record, and reeled off plump twenty miles. Here Marvin obtained a satisfactory sight on latitude, which gave the position as 86.38, or beyond the farthest north of Nansen and Abruzzi, and showed that we had covered fifty minutes of latitude in three marches. In these three marches we had passed the Norwegian record of 86.14 by Nansen and the Italian record of 86.34 by Cagni.

From this point Marvin turned back in command of the third supporting party. My last words to him were, "Be careful of the leads, my boy." The party from this point comprised 9 men, 7 sledges and 60 dogs.

The north march was over good going, but for the first time since leaving land we experienced that condition, frequent over these ice fields, of a hazy atmosphere in which the light is equal everywhere. All relief is destroyed, and it is impossible to see for any distance.

In the next march we encountered the heaviest and deepest snow of the journey, through a thick, smothering mantle lying in the depressions of heavy rubble ice. I came upon Bartlett and his party, fagged out and temporarily discouraged by the heart racking work of making a road. I rallied them a bit, lightened their sledges and sent them on, encouraged again.

A Narrow Escape.

During the next march we traveled through a thick, low lying, smoky haze drifting over the ice before a biting air from the northeast. At the end of the march we came upon the captain camped beside a wide open lead, with a dense black water sky northwest, north and northeast. We built our igloos and turned in, but before I had fallen asleep I was roused out by a movement of the ice and found a startling condition of affairs. A rapidly widening road of black water ran but a few feet from our igloos. One of my teams of dogs had escaped by only a few feet from being dragged by the movement of the ice into the water.

Another team had an equally narrow escape from being crushed by the ice blocks piled over them. The ice on the north side of the lead was moving around eastward. The small floor on which were the captain's igloos was drifting eastward in the open water, and the sides of our igloos threatened to follow suit.

Kicking out the doors of the igloos, I called to the captain's men to pack their sledges and be ready for a quick dash when a favorable chance arrived.

We hurried our things on our sledges, hitched the dogs and moved on to a large floe west of us. Then, leaving one man to look out for the dogs and sledges, we hurried over to assist the captain's party to join us.

A corner of their raft impinged on the ice on our side. For the rest of the night and during the next day the ice suffered the torments of the damned, surging together, opening out, groaning and grinding, while the open water belched black smoke like a prairie fire. Then the motion ceased, the open water closed, the atmosphere to the north was cleared, and we rushed across before the ice should open again.

A succession of laterally open leads were crossed, and after them some heavy old ice, and then we came to a layer of young ice, some of which buckled under our sledges, and this gave us a straight way of six miles to the north. Then came more heavy old floes covered with hard snow.

This was a good long march. The next march was also a long one. It was Bartlett's last hit. He let himself out over a series of large old floes steadily increasing in diameter and covered with hard snow.

During the last few miles I walked beside him or in advance. He was very solemn and anxious to go farther, but the program was for him to go back from here in command of the fourth supporting party, and there were no supplies for an increase in the main party.

In this march we encountered a high wind for the first time since the three days after we left Cape Columbia. It was dead on our faces, bitter and insistent, but I had no reason to complain. It was better than an easterly or southerly wind, either of which would have set us adrift in open water, while this was closing up every lead behind. This furnished another advantage of my supporting parties. True, by so doing it was pressing to the south the ice over which we traveled and so robbing us of a hundred miles of advantage.

Bartlett's Far North.

We concluded we were on or near the eighty-eighth parallel unless the north wind had lost us several miles. The wind blew all night and all the following day. At this camp in the morning Bartlett started to walk five or six miles to the north to make sure of reaching the eighty-eighth parallel.

Bartlett returned in time to take a satisfactory observation for latitude in clear weather and obtained for our position 87.48, and that showed that the continued north wind had robbed us of a number of miles of hard earned distance.

Bartlett took the observations here, as had Marvin five camps back, partly to save my eyes, but largely to give an independent record and determination of our advance. The observations completed and two copies made, one for him and the other for me, Bartlett started on the back trail in command of my fourth supporting party with 2 Eskimos, 1 sledge and 18 dogs.

With the disappearance of Bartlett I turned to the problem before me.

As for my party, my equipment and my supplies, I was in shape beyond my most sanguine dreams of earliest years. My party might be regarded as an ideal which had now come to realization.

Four of them carried the technique of dogs, sledges, ice and cold as their heritage. Two of them, Hansen and Ootam, were my companions to the farthest point three years before. Two others, Egingwah and Sigloo, were in Clark's division, which had such a narrow escape at that time. The fifth was a young man who was if possible even more willing and eager than the others for the princely gifts—a boat, a rifle, a shotgun, ammunition, knives, etc.—which I had promised, for he knew that these riches would enable him to wrest from a stubborn father the girl whose image filled his young heart.

DEFEAT FOR PLAINFIELD

In Last Inning, Mc Nulty Aggregation Snatches Victory Away.

WAS A RATTLING GOOD GAME.

An enthusiastic crowd of over a thousand fans was on hand when McNulty's centerfielder, Dowling, faced Cliff Randolph in the opening inning of Saturday's game on Crescent oval. And their cheers could be heard for blocks when Britt Martin neatly scooped up Dowling's grounder and threw that runner out at first. Crandall the next man up swung at one of Cliff's upshoots sending an easy fly to Barnes. Derosier, the next man, got his base on four wide ones, but was forced at second on McGrath's floater to Carlstrom.

Boyd, Emery and Martin all perished on easy chances, the first two going out at first on easy chances to McGarry and Crandall, and Martin fanning. It was one, two, three up to the fourth session, when some protechnics were unloosened by Plainfield. Martin, the first man up received a pass and immediately stole second. Barnes came along with a neat single to right on which Britt crossed the pan. Barnes going down to second on the throw in. Barnes reached third on Carlstrom's sacrifice and scored a minute later when O'Loughlin laced one to left for a single. O'Loughlin stole second and on the hit and run plan got to third when Seery planked a teaser in right garden.

Right here is where used his gray matter to befoozle most of the McNulty team. With O'Loughlin on third Seery made a bluff at stealing second while O'Loughlin started for home. Up and down the base line, chased by four of the New Yorkers, Seery pranced like a two-year old until O'Loughlin with a Cook dash reached the rubber. Seery then capitulated. It was as neat a piece of headwork as has been seen here this summer.

Until the eighth inning Randolph seemed to have the McNulty crowd hypnotized. In this inning, Pfeifer, the midget, made a run on his onw single, Seaman's sacrifice and McGarry's hit to center, and in the next session came the undoing of Randolph. Five hits in rapid succession, mixed with errors by Barnes and Randolpr put five men over the pan and the game was lost for the home team. The fielding feature was a double play in the sixth, when Edwards nabbed Carlstrom's liner and doubled Barnes, who had got on by his second hit over the first baseman's head. Following is the score.

DEFEATED THE ARIONS

Somerville's Amateur Champions are Beaten by the Plainfield A. C.

THE SCORE, SIX TO THREE.

The Plainfield A. C. defeated the Arion A. C., the amateur champions of Somerville, on the later's grounds Saturday by the score of 6 to 1. Slocum did the pitching for the locals, and Schenck was in the box for the Arions. Slocum was in fine form, getting fifteen strike outs, and allowing but three hits. Hand caught a great game, his accurate base throwing being a feature. Schenck, the Arion twirler, struck out eight, and eight hits were credited against him. Rooney caught well and Davenport at short, also Whelen in centre field, pulled off some fancy plays. For the locals, Alberts at second, put up a fine game, taking care of everything in his territory. Three corking hits were part of his contributions for the day. The rest of the team put up a fast game.

Circles on the Square Dine.

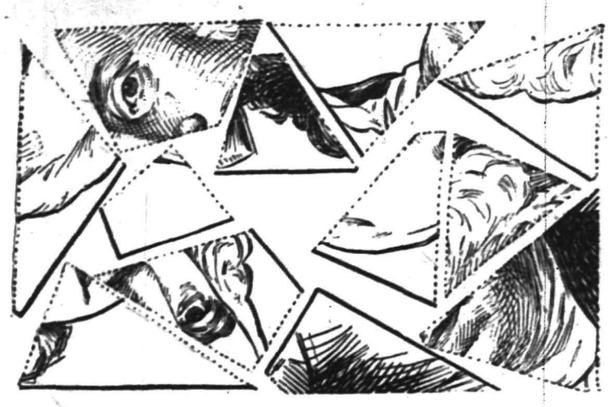
Warren Township Circles on the Square held a banquet in Binz's hotel, Mt. Bethel, Saturday night. William H. Rogers, president of the society presided. William Jeffery originator of the society, made an address and sang a song of his own composition. Other features of the program were phonograph selections and the singing of the National anthem.

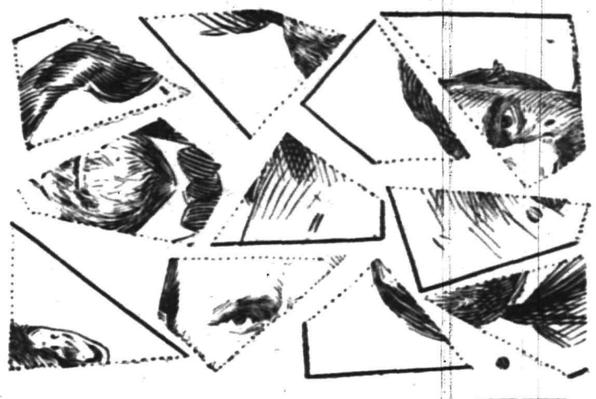
Special Service of Prayer.

A special invitation is extended to all Endeavorers and members of other young people's societies of Plainfield to meet at the Rescue Mission tonight for a special service of prayer that the convention may result in a revival among the young people of the city.

HISTORICAL PUZZLE CONTEST

Can You Put the Two Great American Generals Together?





$300 PIANO ABSOLUTELY FREE

FIRST PRIZE

OVER $8,000 WORTH OF ADDITIONAL PRIZES

NO CHARGE OF ANY KIND TO ENTER. YOU HAVE THE SAME OPPORTUNITY AS ANYONE ELSE TO WIN.

Puzzle pictures for "grown-ups" as well as children are a source of great pleasure, and nearly everywhere you will find someone at this fascinating pastime in their spare moments. But now we have a puzzle picture contest with more than the mere fun of putting it together, a grand free distribution of over $8,300 worth of prizes, all absolutely free.

Cut out the little pieces and paste them together and you will have two of America's greatest generals. The neatest correct answer will be given the $300 piano absolutely free. The next neatest will be given prize certificates as stated below.

There is no catch. Everyone has an equal opportunity. We are making this extraordinary offer direct to piano buyers instead of spending the $8,300 in magazine advertising, as by this method we will introduce our pianos and fair prices to a great many possible buyers.

We want everyone interested in pianos to enter, as we want the piano and prize certificates to go where they will be appreciated. Be sure and enter. There is no excuse for your not striving for one of these prizes. Send your answer in early.

THE PRIZES—First prize—A fine new piano valued at $300. Second prize—A certificate of credit for $125. The next six best answers will be given a credit certificate for $90. Following these in groups of six or more, each contestant sending in the next best answer will be given a credit certificate for $1 less than those previous—that is, six at $89, next six at $88, etc.—until the amount has been awarded.

Special Advertising appropriation. In addition to the above prizes the Company will voluntarily issue to each of the remaining contestants a special certificate of credit, of not less than $25, as an award for their effort in this contest.

These certificates are good on the purchase of any New Hallet & Davis, Conway or Kimball piano or player piano in our warerooms at regular retail price. Time of certificate is limited. Certificates cannot be applied on any purchase made previous to Oct. 7, 1909. Only one certificate may be applied on the purchase of one piano.

THE JUDGING—Disinterested judges will be chosen who will select the winner, and the decision of the judges will be final. All prize winners will be notified. Judges' names will be announced.

SIMPLE DIRECTIONS—Cut out the pieces and paste together, thus making the two well known American generals. Write the names of the general under each picture. Free to anyone except employes of the Company. Only one answer allowed from one family. Send in coupon or exact written copy with your answer, as no answer will be accepted unless this is done. The neatest correct answer will be awarded first prize, others in accordance to their worth.

In case the judges find two or more answers of equal merit, duplicates of the prize offered will be given to each. All answers must be in before 12 P. M., Oct. 7, 1909. Copies of this advertisement will be furnished free on application at this office.

MISS EDNA SMITH WEDS

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Smith the Bride of W. R. Newhall.

REV. MR. GOODRICH OFFICIATES

Miss Christina Newhall Maid of Honor and J. Herbert Smith the Best Man—A College Romance.

Miss Edna Fountain Smith, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forman W. Smith, of West End avenue, and William R. Newhall, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Newhall, of Yonkers, N. Y., were quietly married at 8 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the members of the two families.

The bride was gowned in white bengaline, princess style en train, wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. She also wore a diamond pin, the gift of the groom. She was attended by Miss Christina Newhall, of Yonkers, sistr of the groom, as maid-of-honor, while J. Herbert Smith, brother of the bride, was best man. The maid-of-honor's gown was pink and white organdie and she carried a bouquet of flowers.

The home was attractively decorated for the occasion, pink and green being the prevailing colors. This idea was carried out with pleasing effect in the parlor and the dining-room.

The Mendelssohn Wedding March was played on the piano by James Vail, of this city, a cousin of the bride. After the ceremony, congatulations were offered and supper was served. The couple left on the 9:30 train for a wedding trip. The bride was the recipient of many handsome gifts, including furniture, cut-glass, a check for a substantial amount and other useful articles.

The wedding is the result of a romance begun when the couple were students at Peddie Institute at Hightstown. The bride was a member of the Class '08, the last one in which young women were graduated, while Mr. Newhall was a member of the Class '09. While students at Peddie, the two became engaged and that friendship grew into love and culminated in the wedding of last night. The couple are popular and have a host of friends. Owing to Mr. Newhall's many business interests their place of future residence is not decided upon.

MORE GOOD ROADS THAN ALL EUROPE.

Logan Wallace Page, who is prominently connected with the government road department at Washington, has been making a tour of inspection of the roads in New Jersey, and as a result he announces that there are more roads in this State constructed of bituminous material than in all Europe, and he considers this something of which the people of New Jersey could feel justly proud.

Mr. Page was accompanied on the trip by State Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker, of this city.

PRIMARIES TODAY.

Do not forget the primaries today. The polls will be open from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Prize-Winning Dog Killed.

A valuable prize-winning dog owned by George R. Van Boskerck, of West Seventh street, was struck and killed by an automobile yesterday afternoon. The dog was in the middle of the street and in attempting to escape an auto going in one direction, stepped directly in the path of another machine going the other way. The owner of the dog did not blame the autoist, who expressed his regret over the affair.

Transfers of Local Realty.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has transferred to the New York Telephone Company the property on the northwesterly side of Fourth street, corner Adelia Huff, consideration $1 and the property on Park avenue, corner Bird's land, for the same consideration. The transfers have been recorded in the office of County Registrar of Deeds F. H. Smith.

PLAINFIELD TO SEE WM. COLLIER TONIGHT

An event of unusual interest will be the appearance of William Collier, foremost among the comedians of the day, at the Plainfield theatre tonight in "The Patriot," the three-act farce, written by Mr. Collier and J. Hartley Manners, in which the comedian appeared all last season at the Garrick Theatre, New York city. There is no funnier man on the stage today than William Collier, and his fun is of the sort that appeals especially to American theatregoers. His apeparance in a new play is a matter of much more than ordinary interest.

William Collier in "The Patriot," at Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

Mr. Collier's notable success in "Caught in the Rain," "The Dictator," "On the Quiet" and his earlier plays including "The Man From Mexico" and "Mr. Smooth" is a matter of record. In his new comedy "The Patriot," he has the most pronounced hit of his career. He is not alone seen to better advantage than in his previous successes, but has a play, rich in comedy and appealing in heart interest, that is a distinct addition to stage literature and he creates a character that will not be soon forgotten.

THE HUDSON-FULTON STAMPS ARE ON SALE

The new Hudson-Fulton 2-cent postage stamps have been placed on sale at the local postoffice. There were one or two persons to whom the stamps were handed who remarked about them being too large for general use, but Monday is not a very heavy stamp selling day, owing to business being practically suspended at noon. It is thought that business houses will prefer the ordinary stamps.

The new Hudson-Fulton stamps come sixty to the sheet, while the ordinary stamps arrive 100 to a sheet. This makes some difference to the stamp clerk in counting out the number desired, especially if the purchaser is a large one.

The stamps are of the usual color, oblong in shape, ⅞ of an inch wide and 1⅝ inches long. In the border, at the top, are the words, "Hudson-Fulton Centenary," with the dates 1609 and 1909, immediately thereunder, on either side. Below this inscription, in a curved line, are the words, "U. S. Postage." At the bottom, on each side, is the prominent Arabic number "2," with the words, "Two cents" in a panel between the figures. The design includes a picture, showing the Palisades in the background, with the Half Moon sailing up the Hudson river and the Clermont steaming in the opposite direction. An Indian in a canoe, and another canoe just discernible in the distance, containing four Indians, represent the first means of navigation of the river.

Berkshire Sausage Season.

Smalley Brothers, 147 North avenue, made their first batch of Berkshire sausage for the season today. By tomorrow morning it will probably be all gone so eager are Plainfield housewives to serve it for breakfast. For years, the firm's plant has been taxed to its utmost capacity to supply the growing demands for this, the finest sausage to be had in the State.

Still Alarm of Fire.

A still alarm of fire was turned in from 504 East Front street yesterday morning, the residence of John Rawson. When the firemen arrived they found a pan of meat burning on a stove and no cause for alarm. The inoffensive meat was removed and the firemen returned to their quarters none the worse for the little outing.

—Peaches, fancy grapes, choicest varieties, delicious plums, quinces and apples are included among the many good things to be found at Neuman Bros.

DRAKE HEIRS SEEK GOLD MRS. DUNN SELECTED

A meeting of the "Drake Heir's Association" was held yesterday afternoon in the W. C. T. U. rooms in the Babcock building. Mrs. Eleanor Dunn, the president, presided. Many more heirs appeared yesterday than at the last meeting over 100 members of the association being present. It was decided that they would investigate the claims themselves instead of engaging an attorney in England to look them up as that has been tried before and found expensive and useless.

It was proposed that Miss Mary Board, who has been engaged to investigate the claims of the "Moore Heirs" should act for them, but the majority thought that they would prefer to have one of their own members represent them, so they voted unanimously to send Mrs. Eleanor Dunn. The expenses of the trip are to be paid by a subscription of $5 from each member. Considerable of the money was paid yesterday and the rest will be paid in in a few days, many who have been unable to attend the meetings signifying their intention of helping the good work along. Contributions are expected from all over the country.

"The estate for which we are fighting is not in Chancery," said Mrs. Dunn, "it is now in the hands of indirect descendants of Sir Francis Drake. It has been directed into improper channels and we believe that we have a better claim to it than the Englishmen who are now in possession of the vast estate. We are not anxious to deprive the English heirs of the entire part, even if that is possible, but we do want to get our share."

DR. WOODROW WILSON DISSECTS THE TARIFF

President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, contributes to the October number of The North American Review a striking and searching article entitled "The Tariff Make-Believe." Dr. Wilson will speak here under the auspices of the local Democratic Club on October 11.

President Wilson, in his timely article, thoroughly covers the ground of the recent tariff and in no uncertain terms points out what the Republican party has done. He ends his article as follows:

"Only those undertakings should be given the protection of high duties on imports which are manifestly suited to the country and as yet undeveloped or only imperfectly developed. From all the rest protection should be withdrawn, the object of the government being, not to support its citizens in business, but to promote the full energy and development of the country.

"Existing protection should not be suddenly withdrawn, but steadily and upon a fixed program upon which every man of business can base his definite forecasts and systematic plans. For the rest, the object of customs taxation should be revenue for the government. The Federal Government should depend for its revenues chiefly on taxes of this kind, because the greater part of the field of direct taxation must be left to the States. It must raise abundant revenue, therefore, from customs duties. But it should choose for taxation the things which are not of primary necessity to the people in their lives or their industry, things, for the most part, which they can do without—without suffering or actual privation.

"If taxes levied upon these do not suffice, the things added should be those which it would cause them the least inconvenience or suffering to dispense with. Customs thus laid and with such objects will be found to yield more and the people will be freer.

"There is no real difficulty about finding how and where to lay such taxes when once a just principle has been agreed upon. If statesmen have the desire to find it. The only trouble is to ascertain the facts in a very complex economic system. Honest inquiry will soon find them out, and honest men will readily enough act upon them, if they be not only honest, but also courageous, true lovers of justice and of their country."

Poisons South Orange Police Dog.

Some miscreant who has owed his capture in the past, it is believed, to Duke, the South Orange police dog, managed yesterday to give the animal poison, and after hours of suffering Duke fell a victim to a merciful bullet. There is mourning in the department, and the men, from the marshal down, have sworn to hunt out the guilty one and see that the full penalty of the law is imposed. The limit is a fine of $200 or two years in prison, or both.

"BOBBY" SAYS HE WILL GO OVER NIAGARA FALLS

"Bobby" Leach, formerly of this city, who has gained much fame throughout the country for his achievement in going over Niagara Falls in a barrel and later jumping off the Suspension Bridge, arrived in town today for a short visit to renew acquaintances. Before leaving Niagara Falls "Bobby" sold his hotel business at Chippewa, and a little later plans to open a hotel near the Falls.

His visit here is interesting because he is now planning to go over the Falls on October 11, in a large rubber ball, which has been made by the Bristol Rubber Company, of Bristol, R. I. This ball, or two of them, one being inside the other, measures thirteen feet in circumference, while the inner ball is eleven feet in circumference. It weighs 675 pounds and cost $670 to manufatcure it. In connection with the wonderful feat, the Lubin Moving Picture Company, of Philadelphia, will take pictures.

"Bobby" has deposited $1,000 in Buffalo, on a wager that he will successfully accomplish the trip over the Falls. He will make his start at the mount of Chippewa Creek, a mile and a half above the Falls. He is today exhibiting actual snap-shot pictures of his feat of jumping off the Suspension Bridge, which are wonderful achievements of the photographer's art. "Bobby" will return home tomorrow to prepare for his trip on October 11.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS POLLS ARE OPENED

The primary election polls, both Republican and Democratic, opened promptly at 1 o'clock this afternoon, except in one instance. The voters of the respective parties will nominate candidates for county register, county clerk and assembly, tax collector, member of board of education and coucilmen.

In the second district of the Fourth ward, the election board declined to go to the city clerk's office for the ballot boxes. Abraham Anglemam, one of its members, received the ballots but declined to take the ballot box unless it was delivered at the pools. City Clerk MacMurray took the position that the law did not require him to deliver the boxes at the polls.

The law involved sets forth that "the municipal or township clerk shall deliver to the clerks of the board of registry and election, on the morning of the day preceding the primary election, the ballots and ballot boxes for the respective election districts in his municipality or township."

Mr. MacMurray says that it has been the custom here to deliver the ballots and boxes at his office. The district board says that they should be delivered at the polling place.

The polls in the borough opened promptly. The vote in both city and borough is light.

SWELLING HOSPITAL FUND.

Half-pay Day Collections Pour Into Elizabeth.

The big gain made yesterday in the returns of the lieutenants and captains in the hospital half-pay day collections at Elizabeth indicate that before the end of the week the figures may reach a total of $20,000. Since yesterday the sum has grown to more than $13,000, with several thousands more in sight.

A message was received by the board of directors, who are receiving the contributions in the National Bank Building last night, that the Cranford policemen, who acted as collectors, raised a total thus far of $357, with many of the contributors still to be heard from. No further contributions were received from the suburbs today.

The directors were busy last night until late receiving reports of captains and totalling the district contributions on adding machines. Only ten of the 129 district collectors have completed their work, thus indicating that there will be many more donations during the week.

Ball Player Pleads Not Guilty.

Charles M. Streeter pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with the murder of Louis J. Seimer, who was manager of the New Milford Baseball Club, when arraigned before Judge Demarest at Hackensack yesterday. It is alleged that Streeter, who was pitcher on the team, quarrelled with Seimer and blows were struck. Seimer died on August 30 from the effects of a beating. Archibald Scott, who was arrested with Streeter, is charged with aiding and abetting Streeter. He also pleaded not guilty yesterday. Both men are in the Hackensack jail.

A paradox, a paradox, I've learned it to my sorrow,
That though tomorrow never comes, everything comes to Morrow.
And what today to Morrow comes, to Morrow yesterday
Was sent to get today to Morrow, ready to print today.

JEWISH HOLY DAYS TO CLOSE THIS WEEK

The eight-day Feast of Tabernacles (Succoth), which begins at sunset tomorrow, will end the great autumnal holy season of Hebrews. It is the joyous festival of Booths.

Succoth was originally the vintage time in Autumn, when during the week of ingathering the workers dwelt in the temporary shelter of improvised booths made of intertwined branches of leaves, as is still the custom in Palestine. The time was naturally one of wine drinking, dancing, merrymaking, hospitality and bounteous religious offerings. It was the Harvest Home or Thanksgiving festival of ancient Israel. It is of great antiquity.

The synagogues will be adorned with the lemon-like fruit of the ethrog (citron), and the sprays of lulab—palm, myrtle and willow.

The seventh day of the feast—Wednesday of next week—is known as Hosha'na Rabba (great Hosanna). It was in ancient times the last and great day of the festival. Libations of water were offered on the altar. The water was brought in a golden pitcher from the pool of Siloam, the people accompanying it in procession, chanting Hosanna and waving the green sprays of the lulab, and circling the altar seven times. In the orthodox congregations this old temple festival will be commemorated with processions of palm-bearers, marching seven times around the aisles chanting hymns, beginning or ending with the cry Hosheahna (save now), or marching seven times around the readers, who hold in their arms the Torah scrolls. The members of the congregation will carry sprays of willow, which are a survival today of one of the features of the ancient procession from the Siloam pool.

Special services will be held in the synagogue of the Children of Israel on New street.

Sachar & Sachar Compromise.

Sachar & Sachar, of East Front street, through their counsel, Francis J. Blatz, have made a compromise with their creditors, agreeing to settle with them for twenty-five cents on the dollar. This compromise was confirmed yesterday by Judge Cross in the United States District Court, at Trenton, and the firm will now go on with their business. Judge William Newcorn was the receiver for Sachar & Sachar, being appointed by the court.

Will Form School Battalion.

About thirty-five boys in the Plainfield High School have signified their desire to join the school battalion under the military instruction of John D. MacNab. Last year an effort was made to form a battalion, but without success. A meeting was held yesterday when much enthusiasm was shown. Another meeting will be held soon to decide about uniforms and regular time for drills, etc.

Present Your Bills.

All bills against the city must be in the hands of City Clerk J. T. MacMurray by tomorrow night to insure payment at the October meeting of the Common Council.

TELLS TROLLEYMEN THEY MUST BE POLITE

Superintendent of Transportation Bolen, of the Public Service Railway Company, has addressed an open letter on "Politeness" to all the corporation's trolley employees.

In the course of this letter, Mr. Bolen says:

The company's chief aim is to provide proper service for the people. It is to its own best interests to do so. And, remember that your interests and the company's interests are, in a measure, identical.

Proper service means not only cars operated at frequent intervals, but it means polite and courteous treatment of patrons by employes, as well. Unless the employes are attentive to their duties and comport themselves in a becoming manner the service cannot be what it should be and what the company means to make it.

We admit that now and then a passenger is irritable or out of sorts, and speaks harshly, perhaps, but this is no excuse for you to lose your temper or to retort in kind. Remember it takes two to start an argument and do not forget that the passenger is one of the patrons of the road and that the company wants the good-will of all its patrons and the ill-will of none.

You have doubtless read your book of rules. Read it over again, paying particular attention to Rule 7, on "Politeness." Also give your attention specifically to the following paragraph which you will find under the heading "General Rules."

"All employes are required to be polite and considerate in their intercourse with the public. The reputation and prosperity of a company depend greatly upon the promptness with which its business is conducted and the manner in which its patrons are treated by its employes."

Sneak Thieves at Work.

Two complaints of robberies were reported to the police this morning. Theodore Zeller, of 714 West Third street, was robbed of tools of the value of $30 sometime yesterday. The tool shed where Zeller is at work was broken open and all his tools removed. The thieves left no clue. Aleck Kane reported the theft of some second-hand lumber from the premises, 312 Fillmore avenue. He suspects an Italian neighbor.

Store Closed to Recover Judgment.

As a result of a judgment in favor of Mrs. Minerva Berry, recently recovered in the District court, the store of the Metropolitan Mercantile and Realty Company at 318 Plainfield avenue has been levied upon by Justice Hezekiah Hand and the goods and chattels of the store will be sold at public auction on Monday, October 4, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Sunday-School Rally.

The First Baptist church Sunday-school will hold its annual rally exercises Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. There will be music by an orchestra, a unique program and a souvenir for everybody. The rally will be made of special interest for every department and there will be several short addresses.

JR.O.U.A.M. AND G.A.R.

Reception and Entertainment at Council Rooms—Patriotism the Theme of Speakers.

WILL HAVE TO DEFEND FLAG.

Juniors Told by Comrade Oakley What the Country Expects of Them—Camp Fires Renew Youth.

Patriotism was rampant last night at the reception tendered to Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., by Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., at the latter's rooms on West Front street. Twenty-seven comrades of the Post and a visitor, Aaron Lines, of San Francisco, Cal., were the guests of the council and they were right royally entertained. Past Councillor P. H. Bennett presided and made a speech of welcome which stirred the hearts of the veterans to the last degree.

The G. A. R. men were detained in an ante room until everything was in readiness for their reception when they filed in and were received with a resounding cheer by the members of the council. Following this cordial demonstration came a medley by the Jr. O. U. A. M. orchestra of Elizabeth, who played several patriotic airs. "My Country 'Tis of Thee," was sung by the combined forces and the ceremonies proceeded. Commander H. Craig Smith, who was generalissimo of the veterans, called upon W. W. Coriell for some reminiscences. Comrade Corriell's narrative of the border wars in Kansas were highly interesting.

Councillor Smith of the younger order talked from a Bible text using Matthew, 25:12. "A house divided against itself must fall" and expatiated upon the necessity for united effort in everything pertaining to success in this life. He eulogized the Grand Army for their undivided heroism and praised their devotion and courage.

Others who spoke were H. Craig Smith, Thaddeus O. Doane, Captain William Hand, Aaron Lines, S. W. Reese, J. B. Oakley, of Elizabeth; and Herbert Parker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Captain Hand's little speech was full of sensible advice to the young men of the Jr. O. U. A. M., on preserving their health and becoming strong by temperance in their lives. Comrade Oakley delivered an oration in which he made the prophecy that the time was coming when the Stars and Stripes would have need of their services in its defense. He claimed that his words were not those of a fanatic, but of one whose whole being was wrapped in concern for the welfare of his country. During the evening selections were rendered by a harmonica trio and by the Elizabeth orchestra, all the music being of a patriotic character.

The rooms of the Plainfield Council were handsomely decorated with flags and the stacked arms, tents, camp-fires and lights were arranged to represent a camp during war times. It aroused the feelings of the veterans to a high pitch and they thoroughly enjoyed the little touch of local color to their reception. After the speeches refreshments were served. The following members of the Grand Army were present: T. O. Doane, W. C. Smith, W. W. Coriell, M. C. Dobbins, S. R. Struthers, Captain William Hand, S. R. Braider, J. L. McVoy, Colonel A. G. Perry, N. C. Pennington, I. E. Houston, Joel Coddington, J. Clarkson, Commander H. Craig Smith, J. R. Naylor, J. B. Oakley, of Elizabeth; Aaron Lines, of California; S. W. Reese, John R. Vail, Henry Whitney, William H. Ludlow, E. E. Townley, John W. Wagner, P. B. Goodfellow, E. A. Vanderweg, Edward Willis, W. J. Chittenden and John I. Finley.

At the close of the reception the link was formed around the room and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" sung by members and guests.

PRIMARIES TODAY.

Do not forget the primaries today. The polls will be open from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Freedom Castle to Entertain.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will have an entertainment tonight, including plantation melodies by a colored quartet. The third degree will be conferred and important business transacted.

Opening and Display of FALL MILLINERY

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 29, 30, and Oct. 1.

WE respectfully request the pleasure of your presence on the above dates and ask that every lady in Plainfield and surrounding towns consider this a personal invitation to be present to view the handsomest and most clever ideas in Imported and Domestic Millinery it has ever been our good fortune to bring together. In connection with the models of imported makes, the display and conceptions from our own millinery experts are truly models of exquisite beauty. This season's display is thoroughly representative of what "The White Store" can do and has done in this city to elevate the standard and break down the barriers that has heretofore existed when ladies were obliged to leave their own city and purchase their millinery of houses that were entirely foreign to this city's welfare.

You Don't Have to Leave Your Own City

to make your Millinery selections, for this store has left no stone unturned to make this opening practical, of live interest to women who desire beauty and originality, and at the same time don't have to pay exorbitant extravagant prices for the very highest degree of millinery art.

We have carefully selected what we consider the best examples and most characteristic models of French Millinery, but more important still to our own patrons is the fact that we have tried faithfully to conceive ideas that truly represent the taste of the purchaser in the Hats that find their way from our own workroom.

Another Feature We Lay Stress Upon is Moderation in Price.

No matter how extravagant a price you pay we positively assert that you cannot get more style, more beauty, or more originality than we can give you at a much lower price.

We could continue to write pages on this topic and yet put forth no extravagant claim. All we ask is that you make this department a personal visit, see for yourself, and we are willing to abide by your decision.

Everything will be arranged for your comfort and convenience, extra saleslady will be in attendance to aid you in making your selection. In fact everything will be done to make you feel that the reputation achieved by the White Store in this direction has not been overdrawn.

TAKE ELEVATOR TO SECOND FLOOR.

AUTUMN OPENING OF LADIES' SUITS, COATS, CAPES, Etc.

BEFORE introducing you to the vast stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, you will pardon us if we seem somewhat egotistical in our descriptions of this Department. We have enlarged this popular department to three times its former size, giving us ample space to show to advantage our immense stock. It has been newly carpeted and refitted with the most approved devices for showing Ladies' Costumes, ample daylight is furnished from our new prism light transoms, leaving nothing desired which would tend to mar your shopping pleasure here.

Wonderful Charming Ladies' Tailored Costumes.

This store has never before displayed such an exceptional stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear garments, having now three times the stock previously carried. Ladies who thoroughly appreciate fine artistic tailoring, who wish to feel well dressed in exclusive high grade models, are the ones who will feel more interested in this magnificent assortment of Fashionable Tailored Costumes.

THREE VERY IMPORTANT FEATURES

which has tended to make this department so popular are INDIVIDUALITY, ORIGINALITY AND EXCLUSIVENESS. We make it a point to see that no other dealer in this vicinity can show similar styles. Therefore you are always safe in feeling that nobody else in town can have the exact same garment in style at least that you have bought.

A few of the very many different kinds of materials consist of CHEVIOTS, DIAGONALS, SERGES, HOME SPUNS, WORSTEDS, CHIFFON BROADCLOTH and scores of other popular weaves, faultlessly tailored in the most approved styles. The long modish semi-fitting coats, and pleated skirts seem to take the lead as being the correct thing, while those who prefer the severely made tailored suit we have them in abundance.

TWIN MAGNETIC FEATURES

of which we are the originators, are potent factors in making this department known in every quarter of this county, and that is making a saving to you of at least $2.00 to $2.50 on your purchase.

We will deem it a pleasure at any time to have you come here and ask to be shown through this stock, without any obligation to make a purchase. Finally we would ask you to come here and see what we have to offer you, for we are positive you can save money and time by trading here.

WESTFIELD.

The People's National Bank kept open Saturday afternoon to receive subscriptions to the hospital fund. The accounts have not yet been made up, but it is certain that Westfield contributed generously to the fund.

The members of Westfield Merchants' Association have decided to close their places of business next Thursday to give their employes an opportunity to visit the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

A committee of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union will present a large picture of Frances E. Willard to each of the public schools today.

Ground was broken yesterday morning for the erection of a concrete addition to Von Twistern's building at Westfield Junction.

Hale Was Impolite; Apoligized.

Frank Hale, a carpenter, who was arrested on Friday afternoon on a charge of being drunk and disorderly was allowed to go Monday morning by Judge Runyon after apologizing to the patrolman for using unbecoming language and butting in when the policeman was advising Walter Clark, of Rahway Road to take his horse to some place of shelter. The animal had been standing a long time in the rain and was shivering with the cold. Walter Hetfield, Sr., appeared for Hale.

Arrests at Dunellen.

William J. Ryan, John Donald and George Travis were arrested on Saturday night at Dunellen for disorderly conduct around the circus grounds. They were arraigned Sunday morning before Recorder David S. Campbell who fined Ryan $5 and discharged Donald and Travis.

DUNELLEN FOOTBALL TEAM DEFEATS JAMAICA A.C.

The Dunellen football team opened the season Saturday by defeating the Jamaica A. C. from Jamaica, L. I., in easy style to the tune of 21 to .. The local boys outclassed the Long Islanders in every way. Their goal was never in danger, the visitors being unable to gain through them. Both teams did a great deal of kicking, the visitors so as to keep the ball away from their own goal and the locals to run up a big score.

The forward pass was used many times by the Jamaica boys, but it seldom worked. The passes being wild and the Dunellenites following the ball well. The lineup was:

Dunellen.		Jamaica.
	center.
Gray		Brown
	right guard
Newman		Pierson right tackle
Nonamaker		Roach right end
Caufield		Prendergast

CRANFORD IS EASY FOR SCOTCH PLAINS NINE

The Scotch Plains team had no trouble in defeating the Cranford club in the game at the 'Plains Sunday afternoon. The home team won by a score of 8 to 2. Cranford made its two tallies in the sixth inning. MacLaughlin had good control and allowed but three hits, striking out seven batters. Johnson Brewer, of the Plainfield club, was in the box for Cranford and pitched a good game, but his support was poor. Six hits were made off his delivery, while he fanned six. The lineup and score by innings:

Scotch Plains—Flannery, rf-3b; Baldwin, cf; Alberts, c; Allen, 1b; Frentz, 2b; Reick, lf; Dodge, ss; Brown, 3b-c; MacLaughlin, p; Miller, rf.

THE NEW MILLINERY

Has Met With an Enthusiastic Reception

Our superb Exhibit of Fall Millinery has been showered with admiration by the numbers of women who have visited our beautiful Millinery Department since the Opening. The opinion is unamimous that the showing is the largest and most beautiful we have ever presented, and our moderate prices on the most elegant and exclusive new styles has been a source of general comment. The showing is at once a lesson in Millinery Fashions and Economical Prices—proving conclusively that exorbitant prices do not have to be paid for hat style and beauty.

The New Dress Goods

The busy selling already in progress in our New Dress Goods stock is proof positive of the growing popularity of this department. If you wish to choose your new materials where the variety of weaves and colorings is the most complete and values the best obtainable, come here.

Ready-to-Wear Garments for Fall

The New Suits, Coats and Skirts have also received their full share of praise from our friends. The range of new models is most extensive and the great variety of styles affords the most satisfying selection. One feature which makes this Department especially popular is that we have expert fitters to make alterations FREE. This is an important consideration since our prices are unquestionably the lowest in town for same qualities.

Special Tailored Suit Values

As a remarkable introductory value, we offer new Tailored Suits, made of good quality Broadcloth, with 45-inch Coat, lined with Skinner's Satin---a stunning new model, in black, blue, gray, and green. Special at

The challenge of John I. Taylor, president of the Boston Red Sox, to meet the Giants in a post-season series has been accepted by President John T. Brush of the New York Baseball Club and the final arrangements alone remain to be made for the contests. The rest of the details are up to the National Commission to arrange. Just when the series will start and the number of games to be played has not yet been decided, but it is thought the date for the beginning of play will be set for October 9, a week from next Saturday.

The Giants' season closes in Brooklyn on October 7 and the Red Sox complete their American League campaign on October 4 at home in a two-game series with the Yankees. This would mean the Polo Grounders would have but one day's rest, while Boston would have five. Instead of being a handicap in favor of the Red Sox this may prove a disadvantage. The Sox, of course, will keep up continual practice during the "off" session and in a way the pitching department will be aided. Otherwise the benefit will be with the Giants.

The series will probably be the best four out of seven games and will be arranged along the lines of the world's series. The receipts of the first four contests will go to the players and the rest to the clubs. It may be that the series will be a three-out-of-five affair and the general opinion in baseball circles is that the shorter series would be the better. The National Commission has a busy time ahead of it arranging the details of the various post-season series which are to start at the completion of the major league schedules. Besides the world's series and the match between the Giants and Red Sox the highest court of baseball has the series between the Chicago Cubs and White Sox to arrange.

GOLF.

Much of interest to golfers throughout the country is scheduled for this week. The fifth annual seniors' tournament at Apawamis claims attention on Wednesday and Thursday, and as this year's entry list is larger and more representative than ever the affair is bound to go down as one of the red letter occasions in the history of the Apawamis Club.

An incident decidedly out of the ordinary has been planned by the intending competitors. A committee from the invited seniors will present to the Apawamis Club a beautiful bronze tablet, which will be unveiled at 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

The course has been open to entrants for practice for several days. It has also been announced that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has agreed to stop the 8:50 a. m. express from Grand Central at Rye on both Wednesday and Thursday.

Those who visited the Apawamis links during the recent intercollegiate Golf Association championship tournament need not be told that the course is "fit." It would be difficult to find better turf anywhere, and while the greens are keen, they are also true, so it will be the player's own fault if he does not make a good showing.

At Boston a rather important professional match is on for Wednesday at Brae Burn. Alec Ross, the Massachusetts open champion, who won the national title at Philadelphia in 1907, will couple with his brother Donald against Tom McNamara and M. J. Brady, a pair of Boston "homebreds." It will be recalled that McNamara came near winning the national open at Englewood last June; also that Brady scored consistently well in the same event. There is much local interest in this match, and there are not a few who expect to see the Americans make things interesting for the brothers, who originally came from Donoch, in Perthshire, Scotland.

In Borough Court.

Recorder Dolliver had a busy day yesterday in the borough police court. Herman Johara, 28 years old, a machinist living in Westfield, was fined $3 for intoxication and disorder on Somerset street Sunday; Joseph Bunjuriote, 30 years old, of East Fourth street, was fined $10 for the same offence on Green brook road; G. Scott Baker, 56 years old, of this city, was fined $3 for annoying pedestrians on Manning street and Sheridan Jones, 40 years old, was given ten days for intoxication.

Auto and Trolley Collide.

Charles Schofield, of Newark, driving his automobile, collided with an Arlington avenue trolley car at Park avenue and Front street, Saturday afternoon. The lamps on the machine and other parts were slightly damaged. Mr. Schofield was accompanied by two women and a man. After the repairs were made at a garage, the party proceeded.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., September 28, 1909.

THE ASSEMBLY TICKET.

Pierce, Schwartz and Thompson will be the choice of the Republicans in Union county at their primaries today for nominations for the Assembly. These men are supported by the regular organization of the party and no attempt has been made in any quarter to show that any one of them is not a worthy candidate. In fact nothing derogatory of them could be said.

Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, has amply demonstrated during the last two sessions his capacity as a legislator. His career at Trenton has been scrutinized by his constituants and today will receive their seal of approval. Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, has served one term and during that time demonstrated that he was a man to be trusted by the people to protect their interests. Following party custom, he is a candidate for a second term. Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield, wishes to go to Trenton in place of A. F. Kirstein, of Rahway, who has served two terms already and does not desire to be returned. Mr. Thompson is the town clerk of Westfield and is a lawyer by profession. He possesses both character and ability and enjoys the esteem of his fellow-townsmen.

The fate of the present excellent primary law will largely depend upon the interest shown by the voters in today's election. It is known that an effort will be made at the forthcoming session of the Legislature to have the statute repealed in the interests of the political bosses and should there be a light vote cast today, the enemies of popular government will be given the then unanswerable argument that the people don't want to name their own candidates. The polls will be open from 1 o'clock this afternoon until 9 o'clock tonight.

For the information of the voters we again publish the list of polling places:

First Ward.

First District: No. 125 North avenue.

Second District: No. 545 East Third street.

Second Ward.

First District: No. 319 Watchung avenue.

Second District: No. 443 East Fifth street.

Third District: No. 1103 South avenue.

Third Ward.

First District: Fisk's barn on Arlington avenue.

Second District: Neuman's barn, corner Spooner avenue and Essex street.

Fourth Ward.

First District: No. 204 West Second street.

Second District: No. 672 South Second street.

Third District: No. 921 West Third street.

Following are the polling places in the borough:

First District: 63 Somerset street.

Second District: 90 Somerset street.

Third District: 185 Somerset street.

Commander Peary is drawing his pay as an officer in the United States Navy and his cry-baby and mud-slinging actions are a serious reflection on the discipline of the War Department. It is high time that the bureau at Washington administer to him the same stinging rebuke that he has merited and received from the American press.

As yet no one has come forward to contest with Dr. Eliot the right to be known as the discoverer of the "new religion."

A vote for F. H. Smith, for county register, and a vote for J. C. Calvert, for county clerk, are votes well cast.

HERE AND THERE.

Friends of Tax Collector William R. Townsend are much amused over the questions put to them since The Daily Press announced that W. T. Banks had been named by the Democrats as his opponent for re-election. The "heading" in this paper stated that "Banks Opposes Townsend." Hasty reading caused some to imagine that the "banks oppose Townsend." Not so; the banks of Plainfield know that Mr. Townsend is a capable tax collector and a thoroughly competent collector—although Mr. Banks will not receive that verdict until election day night.

PRIMARIES TODAY.

Do not forget the primaries today. The polls will be open from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m.

GENERAL NEWS SUMMARY

Thousands of persons faced rain and a choppy sea on visits to the war ships in the Hudson yesterday.

President Taft was enthusiastically received yesterday at Butte, Anaconda, Helena and Garrison, Mont.

Historical exhibitions relating to the Hudson-Fulton celebration yesterday were thrown open to the public.

Palisades Interstate Park was dedicated yesterday by Governors Hughes and Fort and other distinguished men.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook delivered his first lecture last night in Carnegie Hall before a large and enthusiastic audience.

Between fifty and seventy-five persons were injured yesterday in an explosion at the Columbian Film Exchange in Pittsburg.

George F. Baer yesterday testifying in the Government suit to dissolve the coal trust, said there was no understanding between his roads and any other.

Robert E. Peary yesterday outlined his charges against Dr. Frederick A. Cook and said he did not believe Cook left his records with Harry Whitney at Etah.

Twelve of the crew of a small freight steamboat lost their lives yesterday, when the vessel foundered in a northeaster off the Chesapeake Capes, six being rescued.

The cornerstone of the Hudson Memorial shaft at Spuyten Duyvil was laid with impressive ceremony, yesterday, visiting dignitaries and Governor Hughes taking part.

HALF BROTHERS BATTLE OVER MOTHER'S ESTATE.

Califon, Sept. 28.—In a fight following a dispute over family matters, George Schuyler and Chrystie Hoover, half-brothers, who live in Vernoy, were both severely wounded Saturday night at the Union House. Cudgels, bottles and a pocket-knife are said to have been used as weapons and both fighters lost much blood.

They have had frequent quarrels, it is said, over the estate of their mother, who died about ten years ago, and similar battles have taken place. Previous encounters have been the subject of consideration by the Hunterdon County criminal courts, but without allaying the two men's animosity. Schuyler, it is said, has just begun legal action to dispose of his mother's home and lot, which is occupied by his stepfather and half-brother.

The killing of Manning Riley, a farmhand, it will be remembered, occured on the street at 9 o'clock one Saturday night, Riley's slayer being John Schuyler, who was convicted and is serving a life sentence. Hoover and George Schuyler are near relatives to John Schuyler and both were conspicuous in his trial.

This town has no police protection, being situated in two townships, Lebanon and Tewksbury. The balance of power being in the townships the village is ignored. To obtain police and fire protection, better school facilities and town improvements the citizens are unanimous for incorporation as a borough. For four years they have appealed to the State Legislature, in vain, praying for incorporation.

Russell Vail, of Elmwood place, who recently underwent an operation for the removal of an injured toe, is able to be about the house and hopes soon to return to business.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE PUBLIC!
There recently appeared in this paper an advertisement by a local piano dealer entitled "Piano Contest Fakes Exposed." This article was intended to destroy public confidence in the Historical Contest which is now being run by this firm. Ever since we originated the contest method of advertising a number of years ago, similar attacks have been made from time to time by petty dealers who are unable to compete.
These attempts are amusing to us and we usually ignore them, but for the assurance of the public, I will give a few facts about our contests. The contest is nothing more or less than an appropriation granted at different times by the company to take the place of magazine and other expensive advertising. If you participate in the contest and are one of the winners, you are entitled to part of this appropriation. Certificates of credit are not given out promiscuously but are awarded according to merit. The judges are prominent business men of this city. In our last contest Mr. C. H. Frost, manager of the Courier-News Publishing Co.; Mr. C. F. Colthar, of The Plainfield Press, and Mr. W. J. Trembath, of the Trembath Press, acted as the judges.
The prices on our pianos are the same the year round, and are always marked in plain figures. PRICES ARE NOT RAISED DURING THE CONTEST. They are factory prices and are advertised from time to time in the local papers.
If you are thinking of buying a piano enter the contest now. You may win the piano. If you do not and your answer is meritorious, it will be rewarded accordingly. Reliable business men of Plainfield will be the judges, and their names will be announced later. The piano which will be given away absolutely free is now on exhibition in our show window. We invite musicians to call and examine the piano and see if it is worth $300. READ OUR LARGE AD CAREFULLY. IT EXPLAINS OUR REASON FOR GIVING THE CONTEST.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Former Governor Stokes has been obtained to deliver an address at Salem on Carnival Day, Tuesday, October 5, at the flag-raising on the county buildings.

The 104th anniversary of the Weymouth Baptist church was celebrated Sunday in special all-day services, in which many former pastors took part.

Efforts are to be made by the people of Gloucester to have the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad Company fence in its deadly third rail through that city.

About to board a trolley car at the Market street ferry in Camden Sunday, Councilman Frederick Kinkeldey, of the Eleventh ward, badly injured his left foot.

House owners to the number of over 200 in Haddonfield are laying themselves open to action for failure to connect with the sewers. The borough clerk has been ordered to give them thirty days' notice.

Kicked in a fight while in the vicinity of Seventh and Baxter streets, Camden, Sunday, Wilbert Jackson, thirty-five years old, was taken to Cooper Hospital suffering from painful injuries to the abdomen. His assailant escaped.

Walking delegates have been busy among the motormen and conductors of the Woodbury and Gloucester branch of the Public Service Railway in an effort to form a union among them, but it is said that they were not successful.

Charles Pheul, aged eighty years, a prominent farmer and well-known resident of Gloucester county, died at his home near Williamstown, Saturday night. For twenty years he was connected with the Whitney gristmill at Glassboro.

Charles Duffield, a farmer, residing near Pitman, sent his hired man to Philadelphia with a load of produce valued at more than $100, and when the man reached Gloucester he sold the truck for $20, put the team up at a livery stable and ran away.

While driving a condensed milk wagon at Henderson and Bay streets, Jersey City, yesterday, Thomas Edwards, thirty-five ears old, of 765 West Side avenue, was thrown to the pavement when an axle broke. His body, right leg and right arm were cut and bruised. He was taken to the City Hospital.

Asserting that she was struck by her husband while she lay ill in bed, Mrs. Thomas A. Fenton, of 805 Fairview street, appeared before Justice of the Peace Roth in Camden Sunday and caused Fenton to be held in $300 bail on a charge of assault and battery. Jealousy is said to have caused the attack.

While members of the family were in another part of the house Sunday afternoon a thief entered the home of Deputy State Comptroller Isaac Doughton, at 327 Penn street, Camden, and carried away a purse containing two keys. Entrance was effected through a side window. A negro was noticed leaving the yard.

The annual sessions of the Philadelphia German Evangelical Lutheran Conference will be held in St. Paul's church, Millville, on October 4 and 5. The conference embraces the churches of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, numbering forty-three. The initial sermon will be delivered by Rev. H. Offerman, of Philadelphia.

John Kennedy, living on a farm near Chesterveld, has sworn out a warrant for a man named Pfeiffer, for an attack on his housekeeper. The woman was recently employed, and Saturday night Pfeiffer made his appearance on the farm, demanding to know if she were there. He broke into the house and beat the woman severely. She finally escaped from him by running through a cornfield.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

In the course of events of importance during the season at the Plainfield theatre it is well to note that on Saturday one of New York's most positive hits, perhaps the greatest and most convincing of its class "Salomy Jane" will be seen here intact, and with a posible few exceptions, the same superior cast and production as presented at the Liberty Theatre, New York, during its remarkable run of one solid year. There are cases where a truly great play is a signal success in the greater cities, yet fails to arouse enthusiasm or interest in the average size city or town where it has thus far been presented. Not so with "Salomy Jane," which is one of those rare exceptions to the rule, that appeals to the masses, and pleases all classes. In Paul Armstrong's dramatization of Brete Harte's famous idyl of the west, he has eclipsed the effort of his brilliant career as a playwright, in arranging so carefully a constructed division in four acts of this charming romance of the west. The cast, an admirable one in its entirety, is composed of the highest salaried artists, headed by Miss Louise Coleman, who was a prominent member of Mr. David Belasco's companies for several years.

MINISTER DEMANDS $100 LESS.

Wants to Work for $700 a Year, but Presbytery Insists Upon $800.

One of the interesting questions that the Newton Presbytery, in session at Washington, N. J., today, will have to decide is whether or not the Rev. F. A. Lott, of Newport, Penn., shall be allowed to accept a pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Marksboro, N. J. The only objection thus far offered to the candidate is that he does not ask for enough money. The Presbytery has made a rule not to appoint a pastor for the church in question at a salary less than $800 a year, whereas Mr. Lott is willing to accept $700.

Mr. Lott has a daughter he wants to educate, and he has figured out that, with the free tuition offered to children of ministers, he can accomplish his desire on the $700. That sum is, therefore, enough for him, and he will not ask for any more, as he hates to be burdened with wealth.

CANDIDATE IN PULPIT.

Rahway, Sept. 28.—Rev. S. A. Meritt, Jr., candidate for school commissioner of both parties in the Third Ward, preached in the Baptist church Sunday from the subject, "Religion and Education." Mr. Merritt said that the time to inculcate the principles of religion was in childhood. By religion, he declared, he did not mean church nor creed, but pure religion in its fulness.

"The home," he added, "is the place to begin the teaching. At the mother knee let the first truths be taught. In the school are located the second and next place for religion to be taught, and the third place is the church and Sunday-school."

PRIMARIES TODAY.

Do not forget the primaries today. The polls will be open from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m.

"To Remind Ye!"

Mr. Seymour Eaton tells a story about "Pat" and "Dublin". Here it is in brief:—We visited one of the show places of Dublin, were given a guide and a pass. On the PASS was printed positive instructions that "tips" must not be given to employees.

Pat showed us around very nicely and when told that we were sorry the rules prevented our giving him a "tip" he said—

"Begorra, that printing is only to remind ye of it."

PIANO CONTEST FAKES EXPOSED!

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR HOLDERS OF GOLD BONDS, PIANO COUPONS AND DISCOUNT CERTIFICATES.

There are several Piano houses which have no prices for their goods except grossly inflated ones arranged expressly for fake discounts in connection with schemes of various kinds. These houses seem to find it impossible to dispose of their pianos in a legitimate, straightforward way, but instead resort to one scheme after another—catch-penny devices, so crude as to be positively insulting to the intelligence of the public. These schemes usually take the form of guessing contests, drawing puzzles and various feats of little skill. In all of them the object is identical to mislead the prospective buyer into the belief that he is getting something for nothing, while at the same time prices are arranged sufficiently high to off-set the allowance to which his prize certificate entitles him.

EVERYONE WHO MAKES A GUESS GETS A PRIZE!

If you have ever answered one of these ads you received a discount certificate. EVERYBODY DOES. It matters not whether the answer is good, bad or indifferent, from adult or child it draws a prize in the shape of a certificate or due bill (generally from $65.00 to $100.00) to apply on the purchase of a new Piano. Of course the price of the Piano is fixed accordingly and the purchaser pays a high price even after the amount of certificate is deducted, usually a much higher price than an instrument of similar quality could be secured for in any legitimate music store.

To test the value of one of these certificates present it in payment for something other than a new piano—say a low priced used piano, music cabinet or a bench, and see how quickly the dealer will turn you down. He will not even give you 50 cents worth of music for it. Try the experiment!

AT $185.00 WE WILL SELL A BETTER PIANO THAN THE SCHEME HOUSES ASK $325.00 TO $400.00 FOR! Such well known and high grade makes as Haines Bros., Brewster, the Genuine Mathushek and others too numerous to mention.

WARREN TOWNSHIP MEN MAKE MERRY AT DINNER

There was a large gathering at the banquet held in Binz's Hotel, Mt. Bethel, Saturday night, under the auspices of the Warren Township Circles on the Square. The tables were arranged carrying out the idea of the society, the round tables being circled by the square ones.

The president of the society, William Henry Rogers, presided and in a humorous talk told how the township voters are flocking into the society and of the necessity for continuing the bond of fealty and friendship, that the society shall stand for all that is good and for the best interests of the entire township of Warren.

William Jeffery, the originator of Circles on the Square, delivered another of his stirring addresses which was frequently cheered. Jeffery had the audience from first to last and later in the evening he sang a topical song of his own composition, entitled "Don't Throw Mud," using the old nursery rhymes of Mother Hubbard and Jack and Jill, etc. The audience seemed to know Jack and Jill pretty well and went wild in their demonstration. It was not long before the audience had leaned the song and all hands were busy singing it.

Frank C. Shaffer, who is a candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket for Township Committee of New Providence, and who is a skilled banjo player, sang several songs, accompanying himself on his famous wooden rim banjo. The music was mellow and the selections beautiful. The audience called Shaffer again and again.

Several selections were played on the fine phonograph owned by Mr. Binz, the proprietor of the hotel, and short speeches were made by the various candidates for offices of Warren township, Messrs. Scott, ex-Sheriff Edward Copper, Guy D. Pack, Township Clerk Brockway and several others, and after a toast to Warren township and the singing of the National Anthem, the banqueters left for their homes at 11 o'clock.

GETTING READY FOR THE C. E. CONVENTION

Under the direction of Charles L. Lewis, the musical director for the State Christian Endeavor convention to be held here, October 6, 7 and 8, a rehearsal of the convention choir will be held in the First Presbyterian church, Friday night, at 8 o'clock. The special convention hymnal, "Jubilant Praise," published by the United Society in Boston, will be used. Copies have been distributed for practice among the various societies in Plainfield.

The choir will sing for the first time the New Jersey Endeavor hymn, written by Miss Nellie K. Foote, of Elizabeth, district secretary for Union county. It will be sung to the air, "The Son of God Goes Forth to War."

The convention program which will contain the names of all of the speakers and general information in regard to the convention, will be issued in a few days. A fifteen minute devotional service will precede each of the sessions on Thursday and Friday. There will be six of these services conducted by the following Plainfield pastors:

Thursday morning, Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church; afternoon, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel; evening, Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church; Friday morning, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church; afternoon, Rev. J. W. Musson, of the Temple Baptist church; evening, Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel.

MISS O'NEAL'S NEW SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND AT SUMMIT.

Miss C. A. L. O'Neal, the blind teacher of the blind, who is to address the International Sunshine Society at Newark on October 23, writes that she has at last secured, through the society, a suitable building at Summit where she will carry on her work of teaching the blind children of the nearby cities to read and write. Pupils as old as nineteen years will be accepted at her school and the latest improved methods adopted.

Miss O'Neal has been a hard worker for the past few years getting people interested in her project and in order to do her best needs the encouragement of those who may be interested in the blind of this city and neighborhood. Information relative to her work may be obtained from Miss O'Neal by addressing her at 135 Prospect street, Newark, N. J.

Poor Peach Season.

"The Peach Exchange at Annandale," says the High Bridge Gazette, "closed its doors last Saturday after a poor business season, less than 6,500 baskets having been sold. The average price was 95 cents per basket. The quality of fruit sold was excellent, but the crop was about one-third the usual size. Luther Apgar, of High Bridge, was the heaviest buyer, he securing over half the peaches sold."

HOW THE FINEST COFFEE IS MADE

Facts Every Housekeeper Should Know.

Most coffee isn't properly aged before it is roasted. Aging coffee in the green state is what gives it a rich, full flavor after it is made; for aging matures the essential oils which are the source of all coffee flavor. Coffee improperly aged tastes harsh and rank—instead of rich and smooth as it should.

One of the reasons Hotel Astor Coffee has such a delicious flavor is because it is thoroughly aged before roasting, a fact which is very evident to any coffee expert who tastes its "full bodied" richness.

To obtain coffee so extraordinary in quality as the Hotel Astor Coffee, every detail of its making is given an amount of care which is almost unbelievable.

The selected parts must come up to a certain standard—the aging process must be continued to a certain point—the roasting done in such a way as to roast the bean through and through without overdoing it—the blending done with scientific exactness—and the coffee excluded from the air from the moment of roasting.

As a result the Hotel Astor Coffee is the delight of coffee connoisseurs everywhere. It has given the famous hotel for which it was originated an international reputation for the coffee it serves. And now that Hotel Astor Coffee is sold generally through the grocery trade, it is in remarkable demand.

It is sold by most good grocers—and doubtless by yours—in one and three pound tins. Each one contains the famous Hotel Astor recipe for making coffee. Should your grocer not keep it write the importers, B. Fischer & Co., 190 Franklin street, New York City, giving your dealer's name and address and they will tell you where you can get it

BEAUTIFUL PALISADES NOW A PUBLIC PARK

The Palisades Interstate Park, for many years the dream of a few devoted people who heard themselves derided as visionaries, was yesterday dedicated to the use of the public. Ten years of constant effort came to glorious fruition when the States of New York and New Jersey united in giving to the people of the two great commonwealths a park whose possession guarantees the protection of the ramparts of the Hudson. Celebrated the world over through hundreds of years, these magnificent walls of rock were in a fair way to be destroyed by quarrymen, who saw in them only roadmaking material in the raw. For a long time the project of saving the Palisades was kept alive by New Jersey women, the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs. Though the greater part of the cash necessary for the acquisition of the Palisades was supplied by New York, this State, because of the foresight, patriotism and energy of these women, has the right to take a full share of pride in the achievement consummated yesterday. In all reports of the work of the interstate commission there has been given to the New Jersey organization a full meed of praise for the work it did in developing and shaping public sentiment.

Rescue Was Timely.

That the rescue of the Palisades from vandals was timely is obvious from the history of the reclamation. In 1899, when the first land was acquired, it was bought hurriedly, the cash coming from the diversion of the appropriation of the State of New York for incidental expenses. There had been no incidental expenses worth mentioning, and $10,000 was thus made available for direct preservation work. The first land was secured from a contractor who was about to destroy, for the stone it contained, one of the very finest stretches.

The new park extends from Fort Lee, in New Jersey, opposite 130th street, New York, across the Jersey line and northward to Piermont, N. Y., a distance of a little over fourteen miles.

With its crags and woodlands, the park contains about 700 acres and is admittedly one of the most beautiful reservations in the East. Plans for its further development include the building of a road along the entire stretch of the Palisades, which, it is said, would rival in natural beauty the most famous drives of the world.

Nearly $200,000 of the cost of purchasing the reservation was given by J. Pierpont Morgan. Mr. and Mrs. H. McK. Twombly gave land valued at $75,000, and a large share of the entire sum required to secure title to the reservation came from private liberality.

States Accept Reservation.

At yesterday's celebration the members of the two State commissions, whose members formed the joint interstate commission, turned over the reservation to the public. Governor Fort, of New Jersey, and Governor Hughes, of New York, accepted the park, each on behalf of his own State. Mr. Perkins presented the report of the commission. General Stewart L. Woodford, president of the Hudson-Fulton celebration commission, delivered an address upon the value of the park as a permanent memorial of the discovery of the Hudson River.

Edwin A. Stevens, president of the New Jersey commission, presided at the exercises which were held at the old Cornwallis headquarters in the park. The opening prayer was by Rev. Howard C. Robbins, of Englewood. A concert by the band preceded the addresses. A feature of the dedication was the salute by the United States warships anchored in the Hudson.

J. DuPratt White is secretary of both the New York and New Jersey commissions. D. McNeely Stauffer is treasurer of the New York commission and vice president of the New Jersey commission. Franklin W. Hopkins is vice president of the New York commission and Abram DeDonde is treasurer of the New Jersey commission. Each man is a member of both commissions. The other members of the joint commission are Nathan F. Barrett, William A. Linn, William B. Dana and William H. Porter.

The various reports and addresses had as the keynote the spirit of the commission's work, set out concisely in the quotation on the program from the legislation creating the commission: "For the selection, location, appropriation and management of certain lands along the Palisades of the Hudson River for an interstate park, and thereby to preserve the scenery of the Palisades."

Equally Long and Deadly.

The amazon chorus was about to march on to the stage.

"Wait," hissed the pretty leader, "We are forgetting our spears!"

"Use your hatpins ladies," cried the fertile stage manager.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Technical Objection.

"You may take the witness stand, madam," said the lawyer.

"Where is the stand, sir?" demanded the austere matron, adjusting her eyeglasses. "I see nothing but a chair."—Washington Star.

PEARY'S CONQUEST OF THE NORTH POLE

Copyright 1909, by the New York Times Company.

He Plans Five Marches.

I had no fault to find with the conditions. My dogs were the very best, the pick of 122 with which we left Columbia. My sledges, now that the repairs were completed, were in good condition. My supplies were ample for forty days and, with the reserve represented by the dogs themselves, could be made to last fifty. I decided that I should strain every nerve to make five marches of fifteen miles each, crowding these marches in such a way as to bring us to the end of the fifth long enough before noon to permit the immediate taking of an observation for latitude.

Weather and leads permitting, I believed I could do this. If my proposed distances were cut down by any chance I had two means in reserve for making up the deficit:

First, to make the last march a forced one, stopping to make tea and rest the dogs, but not to sleep.

Second, at the end of the fifth march to make a forced march with a light sledge, a double team of dogs and one or two of the party, leaving the rest in camp.

Underlying all these calculations were a recognition of the ever present neighborhood of open leads and impassable water and the knowledge that a twenty-four hour gale would knock all my plans into a cocked hat and even put us in imminent peril.

At a little after midnight of April 1, after a few hours of sound sleep, I hit the trail, leaving the others to break up camp and follow. It was a fine morning. The wind of the last two days had subsided, and the going was the best and most equable of any I had had yet.

I set a good pace for about ten hours. Twenty-five miles took me well beyond the eighty-eighth parallel. While I was building my igloos a long lead formed by the east and southeast of us at a distance of a few miles. A few hours' sleep and we were on the trail again. The weather was fine and the going like that of the previous day, except at the beginning, when pickaxes were required. This and a brief stop at another lead cut down our distance. But we had made twenty miles in ten hours and were halfway to the eighty-ninth parallel.

Again there was a few hours' stop, and we hit the trail before midnight. We marched something over ten hours, the dogs being often on the trot, and made twenty miles. Near the end of the march we rushed across a lead 100 yards wide, which buckled under our sledges and finally broke as the last sledge left it.

We stopped in sight of the eighty-ninth parallel in a temperature of 40 degrees below. Again a scant sleep and we were on our way once more and across the eighty-ninth parallel.

This march duplicated the previous one as to weather and going. The last few hours it was on young ice, and occasionally the dogs were galloping.

We made twenty-five miles or more, the air, the sky and the bitter wind burning the face till it crackled. It was like the great interior ice cap of Greenland. Even the natives complained of the bitter air. It was as keen as frozen steel.

A little longer sleep than the previous ones had to be taken here, as we were all in need of it, then on again.

Up to this time, with each successive march, our fear of an impossible lead had increased. At every inequality of the ice I found myself hurrying breathlessly forward, fearing that it marked a lead, and when I arrived at the summit would catch my breath with relief, only to find myself hurrying on in the same way at the next one.

But on this march, by some strange shift of feeling, this fear fell from me completely. The weather was thick, but it gave me no uneasiness.

Before I turned in I took an observation which indicated our position as 89.25. A dense, lifeless pall hung overhead. The horizon was black, and the ice beneath was a ghastly, chalky white, with no relief. A rise in temperature to 15 below reduced the friction of the sledges and gave the dogs the appearance of having caught the spirits of the party. The more sprightly ones, as they went along with tightly curled tails, frequently tossed their heads, with short, sharp barks and yelps. In twelve hours we made forty miles. There was no sign of a lead in the march.

"The Pole at Last!"

I had now made my five marches and was in time for a hasty noon observation through a temporary break in the clouds, which indicated our position as 89.57. I quote an entry from my journal some hours later:

"The pole at last—the prize of three centuries, my dream and goal for twenty years, mine at last! I cannot bring myself to realize it."

The first thirty hours at the pole were spent in taking observations, in going some ten miles beyond our camp and some eight miles to the right of it, in taking photographs, planting my flags, depositing my records, studying the horizon with my telescope for possible land and searching for a practicable place to make a sounding.

Ten hours after our arrival the clouds cleared before a light breeze from our left, and from that time until our departure in the afternoon of April 7 the weather was cloudless and flawless. The minimum temperature during the thirty hours was 33 below, the maximum 12.

The Return Journey.

We had reached the goal, but the return was still before us. It was essential that we reach the land before the next spring tide, and we must strain every nerve to do this.

I had a brief talk with my men. From now on it was to be a big travel, little sleep and a hustle every minute. We would try, I told them, to double march on the return—that is, to start and cover one of our northward marches, make tea and eat our lunch in the igloos, then cover another march, eat and sleep a few hours, and repeat this daily.

As a matter of fact, we nearly did this, covering regularly on our homeward journey five outward marches in three return marches. Just as long as we could hold the trail we could double our speed and we need waste no time in building new igloos.

In the afternoon of the 7th we started on our return, having double fed the dogs, repaired the sledges for the last time and discarded all our spare clothing to lighten the loads.

Five miles from the pole a narrow crack filled with recent ice, through which we were able to work a hole with a pickax, enabled me to make a sounding. All my wire, 1,500 fathoms, was sent down, but there was no bottom. In pulling up the wire parted a few fathoms from the surface, and lead and wire went to the bottom. Off went reel and handle, lightening the sledges still further. We had no more use for them now.

Three marches brought us back to the igloos where the captain turned back. The last march was in the wild sweep of a northerly gale, with drifting snow and the ice rocking under us as we dashed over it.

Traces of Marvin.

South of where Marvin had turned back we came to where his party had built several igloos while delayed by open leads. Still farther south we found where the captain had been held up by an open lead and obliged to camp. Fortunately, the movement of these leads was simply open and shut, and it took considerable water motion to fault the trail seriously.

While the captain, Marvin and, as I found out later, Borup had been delayed by open leads, we seemed to bear a patent charm, and at no single lead were we delayed more than a couple of hours. Sometimes the ice was fast and firm enough to carry us across; sometimes a short detour, sometimes a brief halt for the lead to close, sometimes an improvised ferry on an ice cake, kept the trail without difficulty down to the tenth outward march.

Igloos there disappeared completely, and the entire region was unrecognizable. Where on the outward journey had been narrow cracks there were now broad leads, one of them over five miles in width, caught over with young ice.

Here again fortune favored us, and, no pronounced movement of the ice having taken place since the captain passed, we had his trail to follow. We picked up the old trail again north of the seventh igloos, followed it beyond the fifth and at the big lead lost it finally.

From here we followed the captain's trail, and on April 23 our sledges passed up the vertical edge of the glacier fringe a little west of Cape Columbia. When the last sledge came up I thought my Eskimos had gone crazy. They yelled and called and danced themselves helpless. As Ootah sat down on his sledge he remarked in Eskimo:

The Devil Asleep.

"The devil is asleep or having trouble with his wife or we never should have come back so easily."

A few hours later we arrived at Crane City, under the bluffs of Cape Columbia, and after putting four pounds of pemmican into each of the faithful dogs to keep them quiet we had at last our chance to sleep.

Never shall I forget that sleep at Cape Columbia. It was sleep, sleep, then turn over and sleep again.

Two days we spent here in sleeping and drying our clothes, then for the ship.

We reached Hecla in one march and the Roosevelt in another. When we got to the Roosevelt I was staggered by the news of the fatal mishap to Marvin. He had been either less cautious or less fortunate than the rest of us, and his death emphasized the risk to which we had all been subjected, for there was not one of us but had been in the sledge at some time during the journey.

The rest can be quickly told. McMillan and Borup had started for the Greenland coast to deposit caches for me. Before I arrived a flying Eskimo courier from me overtook them with instructions that the caches were no longer needed and that they were to concentrate their energies on tidal observations, etc., at Cape Morris K. Jesup and north from there.

The Roosevelt's Cruise.

These instructions were carried out, and after their return in the latter part of May McMillan made some further tidal observations at other points. The supplies remaining at the various caches were brought in, and on July 18 the Roosevelt left her winter quarters and was driven out into the channel pack of Cape Union.

She fought her way south in the center of the channel and passed Cape Sabine on Aug. 8, or thirty-nine days earlier than in 1908 and thirty-two days earlier than the British expedition in 1876.

We picked up Whitney and his party and the stores at Etah. We killed seventy odd walrus for my Eskimos, whom I landed at their homes. We met the Jeanie off Saunders island and took over her coal and cleared from Cape York on Aug. 26, one month earlier than in 1906.

On Sept. 5 we arrived at Indian Harbor whence the message, "Stars and stripes nailed to north pole," was sent vibrating southward through the crisp Labrador air.

Praise for His Men.

As to the personnel, I have again been particularly fortunate. Captain Bartlett is just Bartlett—tireless, sleepless, enthusiastic.

Dr. Goodsell, the surgeon of the expedition, not only looked after its health and his own specialty of microscopes, but took his full share of the field work of the expedition as well and was always ready for any work.

Professor Marvin and McMillan have secured a mass of scientific data, and their services were invaluable in every way.

Borup not only made the record as to the distance traveled during the journey, but to his assistance and his expert knowledge of photography is due what I believe to be the unequaled series of photographs taken by the expedition.

Hansen in the field and Percy as steward were invaluable in their respective lines. Chief Engineer Wardwell, also of the last expedition, aided by his assistant, Scott, kept the machinery up to a high state of efficiency.

Mr. Gushue, the mate, who was in charge of the Roosevelt during the absence of Captain Bartlett and myself, and Bos'n Murphy, who was put in charge of the station at Etah for the relief of Cook, were both trustworthy and reliable men, and I count myself fortunate in having had them in my service.

The members of the crew and the firemen were a distinct improvement over those of the last expedition. Every one of them was willing and anxious to be of service in every possible way.

As for my faithful Eskimos, I have left them with ample supplies of dark, rich walrus meat and blubber for their winter, with currants, sugar biscuits, guns, rifles, ammunition, knives, hatchets, traps, etc., and for the splendid four who stood beside me at the pole a boat and tent each to requite them for their energy and the hardship and toil they underwent to help their friend Peary to the north pole.

But all of this—the dearly bought years of experience, the magnificent strength of the Roosevelt, the splendid energy and enthusiasm of my party, the loyal faithfulness of my Eskimos—could have gone for naught but for the faithful necessaries of war furnished so loyally by the members and friends of the Peary Arctic club. And it is no detraction from the living to say that to no single individual has the fine result been more signally due than to my friend the late Morris K. Jesup, the first president of the club.

Their assistance has enabled me to tell the last of the great earth stories, the story the world has been waiting to hear for 300 years—the story of the discovery of the north pole.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Junior Band of the First Baptist church will resume its meetings for the fall and winter this week.

The Sunday-school sessions at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will now be held immediately following the morning service.

The Women's Home Mission Society of the First Baptist church is packing a barrel of clothing for a missionary and his family in Minnesota.

The first Sunday in October, Rev. Dr. Campbell will meet his Bible class at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and begin the year's teaching.

The Board of Trustees of the First Baptist church have placed Robert Sherwin in charge of the church, Edward Maynard, the sexton, being detained at home by illness.

The Men's Bible class at the First Baptist church, taught by Mr. Herrman, is constantly growing in membership and the interest is increasing. It is non-sectarian and men of all denominations or none are invited.

The Young People's Society of the First Baptist church has elected these officers for the year: President, Harold S. Robins; vice-presidents, Gideon Fountain and Miss Helen M. Armstrong; secretary, Guyon H. Fountain; treasurer, Hollis Cubberly.

The quarterly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbtyerian church will be held in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Plans for the fall work will be announced and a large attendance is desired.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, of New Brunswick, was the guest Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue. He attended both the morning and evening services at Trinity Reformed church and extended congratulations to the pastor, Rev. John Y. Broek.

Rev. George Douglas, of Flushing, L. I., who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fountain, of West Seventh street, has returned home.

TWENTY CANDIDATES FOR P. H. S. ELEVEN

The first practice and tryout of the P. H. S. football squad took place yesterday afternoon. Twenty candidates reported and Captain Phillips expressed the opinion that all looked promising. It is the plan to hold practice every day, when the weather is favorable, as the first game will be played in two weeks. Last week the practice had to be postponed on account of bad weather.

Yesterday the practice consisted of getting the players familiar with the signals and the positions they are trying for. Every member of last year's team is trying for the same position this year. Nash looks as though he could do splendid work in right-half and the big Welshman, Widowson, will come near duplicating Benjamin's work at fullback.

The new manager appointed by the board is James Mauger. Letters are coming rapidly from the various teams. Thus far games have been arranged with Westfield, Rutgers Prep., Pingry, Essex Falls, North Plainfield and the Military Academy at Findern. There will be many more games than last year and it looks like a big season for P. H. S.

BOWLING.

Competition in the individual tourney will be inaugurated tonight, with Nash, Campbell and Schaub as the contestants.

The Levering and Garrigues' team are dissatisfied with the outcome of their match against the Pond Tool Works bowlers, and are anxious to roll another series on next Friday night. They will, no doubt, be accommodated.

Several of the local pin knights have organized a bowling club to be known as the Watchung Bowling club and will enter a five man team in the New Jersey National Tourney to be held at the Tuxedo alleys, Newark, beginning about the 10th of October.

FIGHT TO BE MORRIS' SENATORIAL NOMINEE.

Dover, Sept. 27.—Probably no part of the State has ever witnessed a more hotly-fought political battle than is being waged in Morris county this year over the Republican Senatorial nomination. The partisans of Joseph B. Righter, of Denville, and Edward K. Mills, of Morristown, respectively, are bending every effort to obtain the nomination for their respective favorites. The influences back of Righter are the same that landed E. Bertram Mott in the county clerk's office a year ago, while behind Mills are arrayed the same forces, led by Daniel S. Voorhees, which went down in defeat with John M. Mills in last fall's campaign.

Dover and this part of Morris county is considered the battle-ground and both sides are leaving no stone unturned to get out every vote. The trolley cars, fences, trees and telegraph poles are adorned by the photographs of the two candidates.

The personality of the candidates does not cut much figure here. Mr. Righter is widely known in this community, but Mr. Mills is known only as a Morristown lawyer. Righter and his adherents have as their slogan, "Give the people a chance to make their own nominations; a vote for Mills is a vote for Boss Voorhees and to perpetuate boss rule in this county."

The regulars on the other hand, say that Righter lacks the measurement required of Senatorial timber. Neither candidate personally casts any reflection upon his opponent.

Mills in a signed statement in a local paper Saturday, promised to work for the best interests of his constituents, but Righter points to his previous record in the Legislature and pledges himself to work for the great principles of reform for which his party platforms have pronounced and tells his constituents what he will do if the people nominate and elect him to the high office to which he aspires.

COLUMBUS DAY LEGAL HOLIDAY SAYS GOVERNOR.

All question as to whether Columbus day, Tuesday, October 12, will be observed as a legal holiday in this State has been set at rest, Mayor McBride, of Paterson, having received a letter from Governor Fort, in reply to a communication asking the latter as to the legality of the holiday as provided for by the last session of the Legislature.

In his letter the Governor takes the ground that the law creating October 12 a holiday is valid and in force, as the highest court of the State has declared that a law is presumably valid and must be obeyed and enforced until it has been judicially declared unconstitutional.

George R. Rockafellow, of 421 West Second street, is again confined to his bed.

PERSONAL.

Miss Ella Decker, of Elizabeth, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Blatz, of West Front street.

Mrs. Rowland Cox, of West Seventh street, who has been at Kineo, Mosehead Lake, Maine, has returned home.

Mrs. H. R. Batchelor has returned from Vermont, where she spent the summer. She is now stopping at "The Plainfield."

Borough Councilman and Mrs. L. B. Woolston, of Fairview avenue, are expected home today from a delightful trip abroad, during which they visited several countries.

Mrs. W. B. Heidloff, of Westervelt avenue, is entertaining her father, George Johnson and her sister, Miss Frances Johnson, of Norwich, Conn., who are here for an extended visit.

Letter-carrier and Mrs. Daniel Shea and the latter's sister, Miss Nellie Casey, of West Third street, have returned from a two weeks' visit at Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

The Misses Gray, of West Front street, will give a masquerade dance at their home on West Front street, this evening, prior to removal to their new home on East Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, formerly of this city, but now of Bound Brook, are parents of a girl weighing ten pounds. She was born on Sunday. Mr. Scott is an employe in The Daily Press composing room.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas and daughter, Mildred, of New Brunswick; Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Pearson and daughter, Blanche, Miss Coulter, Mr. Counter and Harold Pearson, of Newark, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Randolph, of East Randolph road.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Union prayer service for the State Christian Endeavor convention, which will be held in the Issue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock, will be led by Walter J. Firstbrook, whose topic will be "Soul Winning." This meeting will be of special interest to young people and all are cordially invited to attend. Thursday night the meeting will have H. W. Van Arsdale, of the Trinity Reformed C. E. Society, for leader.

A BABY GIRL OPENS THE INTERSTATE FAIR

Jean Margerum, the twenty-two months-old daughter of J. Fred Margerum and granddaughter of Colonel Mahlon R. Margerum, general secretary of the fair, yesterday officially opened the twenty-second annual exhibition of the Interstate Fair Association at Trenton. She was assisted in pulling the pennant to the top of the flagstaff on the grand stand by Miss Helen Laffen, Colonel Margerum's private secretary.

The buildings are filled with splendid specimens from the farm, the orchard, the garden, from the various departments of the home, from the machine shops and factories, from the dairies and stables of the East. The Midway is crowded with novel amusement enterprises. Horse racing is held daily. The feature of yesterday was the athletic contests arranged by F. C. Benner, physical director of the Trenton Y. M. C. A. Today is Children's Day, when all the school children for miles around are admitted free. Wednesday will be Farmers' Day and Thursday will be Politicians' Day, when it is expected Governor Fort and leaders of all parties will be in attendance. Friday will conclude the exhibition.

WANTS CASH FOR "DUCKING."

Engineer Says School Principal Soused Him in Ditch.

Herbert Cottrell, Rutgers 1900, a civil engineer, was plaintiff in the Supreme Court at New Brunswick yesterday against Asbury Fonntain, former director of the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders and supervising principal of schools for Madison Township, in a $20,000 action for assault. Cottrell, on the witness stand, claimed that he was ordering men who were digging a ditch on his property in Madison Township, off his property, when Fountain stepped up and claimed that the men were there by official right.

An argument ensued and Fountain, it is said, pushed him into a ditch of muddy water, ducked him three times, punched him in the face and then shoved his face into the water again with the heel of his shoe. He says that his health was affected by the ducking.

Dr. Denton C. Straughn, of Matawan, testified that he had been attending Cottrell since March 17, the day after the ducking, and that he believed that the ducking and the other effects of the beating had affected his health. The case was continued today. Another suit for $20,000 against Jacob Gaub, the contractor who was digging the ditch, is pending in the same court.

THOMPSON, SCHWARTZ, PIERCE FOR ASSEMBLY

Organization Ticket Wins Easily at the G. O. P. Primaries in Union County.

The regular Republican primary ticket won out in practically every district in Union county yesterday. The only contest, however, was on the Assembly ticket, and Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford; Lloyd Thompson, of Westfield, and Augustus W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth, having a walk-over. Harold Depew, of Linden, and Schuyler Cady, of Summit, made a fine showing in their own vicinity, but made a very poor fight, as a rule, elsewhere.

There were no contests so far as the Democratic primaries were concerned and their county ticket was nominated as approved by the county committee.

The important returns follow:

Elizabeth.

Assembly—Thompson, R., 1,059; Cady, R., 283; Depew, R., 489; Pierce, R., 1,335; Schwartz, R., 1,235; Hague, D., 3,368; Halliday, D., 3,368; Morris, D., 3,361. Register—Smith, R., 1,816; Schlotterer, D., 3,348. County Clerk—Calvert, R., 1,803; Kenah, D., 3,371. Coroner—Holmes, R., 1,818; Warncke, D., 3,383.

Rahway.

Assembly—Thompson, R., 97; Cady, R., 34; Depew, R., 53; Pierce, R., 109; Schwartz, R., 106; Hague, D., 121; Halliday, D., 120; Morris, D., 121. Register—Smith, R., 152; Schlotterer, D., 122. County Clerk—Calvert, R., 152; Kenah, D., 121. Coroner—Holmes, R., 150; Warncke, D., 120.

Westfield.

Assembly—Thompson, R., 346; Cady, R., 44; Depew, R., 25; Pierce, R., 332; Schwartz, R., 298; Hague, D., 42; Halliday, D., 42; Morris, D., 41. Register—Smith, R., 383; Schlotterer, D., 42. County Clerk—Calvert, R., 389; Kenah, D., 42. Coroner—Holmes, R., 386; Warncke, D., 42.

DR. PROBASCO TO WED.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Koone, of Sandford avenue, announced the engagement of their daughter, Olive, to Dr. Norman Hayes Probasco, of Park avenue, at a pretty luncheon at their home this afternoon at which twenty guests were present. Among them were Mrs. J. P. Probasco, Mrs. W. G. Besler, Mrs. Frank B. Bostwick, Mrs. J. P. Welles Taylor, Miss Mabel Bogardus, Miss Nora Rockwell, Miss Lucile Rockwell, Mrs. Lucius Gilbert, Miss Ida Stewart, Miss Mildred Cone, Mrs. George Cook, Mrs. Frank Clawson, Mrs. Lucius Koons, Miss Helen Davis, Mrs. Robert McCready, Mrs. A. J. Brunson and Miss Margaret Vreeland, of East Orange and Mrs. Richard Muser, of New York.

The color scheme was pink and the decorations pink roses and smilax.

Freedom Castle.

At the meeting of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, held in Odd Fellows' Hall last night, the third degree was conferred on a number of candidates and other business of importance was transacted. Afterwards an entertainment was enjoyed by the members. A colored quartet renderel several selections of plantation melodies, delighting delighting the large attendance present.

Will Celebrate Silver Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindlaw M. Leek, of 1209 South Second street, have issued invitations to the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, to be celebrated Friday night, October 8, at their home.

SMALL VOTE IN BOROUGH

No Contests and But Ninety-Nine Ballots Cast in Both Primaries.

Less than nine per cent. of the voters availed themselves of the franchise at the primaries in the Borough of North Plainfield yesterday, the total votes cast being 99. As a result of the votes cast, as was expected, the Republican candidates had a walkover. Walter Linbarger received seven votes for the nomination for Mayor, which virtually places him in nomination against Newton B. Smalley. He stated today that he would decline the nomination. Mr. Linbarger also received sixteen votes, all in the Third district, for County Executive Committee.

Charles A. Moran polled the largest vote of any of the Democratic candidates, having twenty-seven of the twenty-eight votes cast to his credit. Newton B. Smalley, besides receiving the majority of the Republican votes, also got some support from the First and Third districts from the Democrats. W. W. Smalley, the candidate for Assembly, also received a vote from a Democrat in the First district. Following is the vote by districts:

First District.

Democratic total vote 8.

For Mayor—W. C. Linbarger, 1; N. B. Smalley, 1. For Assembly—C. A. Moran, 7; W. W. Smalley, 1. Executive Committee—J. B. Case, 1.

Republican total vote 26.

For Mayor—N. B. Smalley, 26. For Assembly—W. W. Smalley, 25. Councilmen—M. C. Van Arsdale, 26; B. R. Waldron, 26. Executive Committee—N. B. Smalley, 26.

Second District.

Democratic total vote 5.

For Assembly—C. A. Moran, 5. For Executive Committee—J. B. Case, 3.

Republican total vote 22.

For Assembly—W. W. Smalley, 22. For Mayor—N. B. Smalley, 20. For Councilman—B. R. Waldron, 21; M. C. Van Arsdale, 22. For Coroner—Henry Demott, 1. For Executive Committee—E. T. B. Smith, 21.

DEMOCRATS MEET.

The Plainfield Democratic Club held a largely-attended meeting last night, when five new members were enrolled and a committee was appointed to solve the question whether it was the duty of the city clerk to deliver the ballot boxes to the polling places or whether it was the duty of the election officers to call at his office for the boxes. No decision was reached.

Alfred A. Atterbury and Howard Fleming were appointed a committee to make arrangements for the mass meeting to be held at the Plainfield theatre, October 29, at which time Dr. Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton University, will make the chief address.

The Misses Gray Entertain.

The Misses Maizie, Cora and Katheryn Gray, of West Front street, gave a delightful masquerade party at their home, last night, prior to removal to their new home on East Second street. There were about thirty young people present. Miss May Krewson and Robert Krewson received awards for the most amusing costumes, while Miss Mamie Davenport and Harold Brownell received awards for wearing the most attractive costumes. Dancing was the feature, music being furnished by Miss Ethel Vail.

L. J. Geary Donates Music.

The music department of the Public Library has through the gift of Lewis J. Geary, added about 750 compositions to its collection. The entire department has been catalogued and alphabetically arranged for the convenience of the public. The catalogue is always accessible.

CLEANER CO. PLANT SOLD FOR $75,000

Charles H. Lyman, the real estate broker, closed a realty deal today, the consideration of which is estimated to be about $75,000, disposing of the Vacuum Cleaner Company's valuable tract and plant on North avenue, to the Standard Hair Company, of New York city. Possession will be taken at once. The company employs about five hundred hands and does a big business.

The tract has a frontage of about five hundred feet and a nequal depth, and is especially adapted for the work of the Standard Hair Company, that of making hair.

When the Vacuum Company, of which David T. Kenney and W. G. Besler, of this city, are large stockholders, acquired the Sanitary Devices Manufacturing Company plant in Philadelphia, it moved its plant to that city, where it is maaufacturing the vacuum cleaner with a large force of men.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF HARRY CALVERT EGERTON

The funeral service of Harry Calvert Egerton, late resident manager of the Plainfield theatre, who died at the Hotel Iroquois Sunday night, was held this afternoon from the undertaking parlors of A. M. Runyon & Son on Park avenue, and was attended by a number of friends, including the attaches of the Plainfield theatre. Rev. Morgan Ashley, rector of St. Stephen's church, conducted the service according to the rites of the Episcopal church.

Mrs. Egerton, widow of the late manager, arrived here yesterday, and completed arrangements for the service. She was completely prostrated over the sad affair. Upon the advice of friends, she decided to place the remains in Hillside cemetery, besides those of Major Maze Edwards, who for so many years was a warm friend of Mr. Egerton. The pall-bearers were Emery N. Downs, William Dornan, David Rogers and John A. Gaffney. Among the beautiful floral tributes was one from the attaches of the Plainfield theatre.

CHIEF LAVARETTE KILLED; STRUCK BY C.R.R. TRAIN

Michael C. Lavarette, for many years employed by the Central Railroad in its Detective bureau, and Chief of the Police department of the road, was struck and instantly killed by the locomotive of train No. 511 at Fanwood, last evening at about 7:30 o'clock. Chief Laverette was sleuthing along the road in search of freight car thieves and was so intent on his mission that the noise of the approaching train did not reach him until too late for him to avoid being hit.

He was about thirty-five years old and lived with his family in Jersey City. Several years ago Chief Lavarette while arresting a thief at Bayonne, was severely injured by the criminal who attempted to get away from the officer, after stabbing him. Lavarette pulled his gun and dropped his man before he had gone ten yards, killing him instantly. He was known as one of the most careful men in the employ of the company's police department and had many friends along the line of the road.

Obtained $13 by False Prentense.

Felix Pavlik, of 82 Franklin avenue, North Plainfield, was arrested yesterday at Westfield on a warrant charging him with obtaining thirteen dollars under false pretenses from Arthur Morris, of this city. According to Morris' complaint he gave Pavlik the money as part payment for a suit of clothes which he has never been able to obtain. Pavlik has also refused to return the money. He was brought before City Judge Runyon yesterday afternoon and released on a bail bond of $100, Isaac Schager being his surety.

Christian Endeavor Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel held a social and entertainment in honor of new members, also marking the resumption of fall activities last night. The affair was under the direction of the executive committee.

Airships in Flight.

Wilbur Wright encircled the Statue of Liberty today in his aeroplane. G. L. Tomlinson and Captain Baldwin started before noon in their dirigables from New York for Albany to win a $10,000 prize.

PRIMARY RESULTS HERE

Little Opposition to Regulars' Assembly Ticket in Plainfield.

The local returns from the primaries held yesterday, show that as far as Plainfield was concerned, the voters took but little interest in the primary election. About twelve per cent. of the normal vote was cast in the city. The "regular" Assembly candidates won out in every ward, except the Second, where Harold Depew was tied with Augustus W. Schwartz for third place on the ticket.

Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce was high man in Plainfield, and it was a significant fact that the primary election law advocated by the New Idea Republicans made the poorest showing in the wards where the New Idea men are numerous. There was less interest than was expected.

In the First and Fourth wards there was a relatively heavier vote as compared with the other wards. The total Republican vote cast was 557. The Democrats polled an exceedingly light vote, the members showing practically no interest. Eleven votes cast in the first district of the Fourth, was the greatest number in any one district and the lowest was two in the second of the Third ward. A summary of the vote by wards for county offices follows:

Assembly.

Republicans: Cady—11, 29, 21, 15; total, 76; Depew—15, 33, 31, 18; total, 95; Pierce—120, 74, 77, 206, total, 477; Schwartz—118, 31, 51, 195, total 395; Thompson—117, 46, 64, 199, total, 426.

Democrats: Hague—19, 19, 7, 20, total, 65; Halliday—19, 19, 7, 20, total, 65; Morris—19, 19, 7, 20, total, 65.

County Clerk.

Republican: Calvert—148, 79, 89, 231, total, 547. Democrat: Kenah—19, 20, 7, 20, total, 66.

Register.

Republican: Smith—88, 81, 143, 232, total, 550. Democrat: Schlotterer—19, 20, 7, 20, total, 66.

Coroner.

Republican: Holmes—151, 81, 89, 233, total, 554. Democrat: Warncke—18, 20, 7, 20, total, 65.

There was no contest for the local office, worth speaking of. Francis L. Montgomery, Charles C. Randolph and W. W. Wilson were all nominated for members of the Common Council-at-large on the Republican ticket, while in each ward the party candidates were nominated without any fight as follows: First, William L. Gloak; Second, George S. Clay; Third, Frederic E. Mygatt; Fourth, Herbert Buxton. Tax Collector William R. Townsend received a total vote of 553, while William S. Tyler for member of the Board of Education received a vote of 549.

Mr. Tyler's opponent, John O. Stevens received a vote of 66, and W. T. Banks, Mr. Townsend's opponent, received an equal number of votes. Frank M. Wagner was nominated for councilman on the Democratic ticket in the First ward, receiving 18 votes, while Patrick J. Reville will be Mr. Buxton's opponent in the Fourth ward, receiving 20 votes. There were two candidates for office of constable, Peter V. Weaver in the Fourth ward, who received 233 votes and John Manley in the Second ward, who received 79 votes. The vote in detail:

HEAVENLY REST RECTOR

Rev. Courtland Harrison Mallory Succeeds Rev. Chas. Townsend.

The vestry of the Church of the Heavenly Rest at a special meeting, last night, received the answer from Rev. Courtland Harrison Mallory, of Seawaren, to whom was extended a call to succeed Rev. Charles Townsend. In person he accepted the call. An executive meeting was held first and then Mr. Mallory was invited to appear before the board and give his answer. The clergyman said that he would be glad to enter upon his new duties October 1. The decision was received with much enthusiasm.

Rev. Mr. Mallory is a native of New York city, is about thirty-five years old and has a wife and three children. He has been rector of the Episcopal church at Seawaren for sometime and has been doing a good work. His name was presented to the church by Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, bishop of New Jersey.

Rev. Mr. Mallory is a graduate of the General Theological Seminary. His first service will be on Sunday, October 10.

Rev. Mr. Townsend concluded his services as rector today. He will return to Boston to resume mission work.

HOW PRIMARIES WENT IN OTHER COUNTIES

Alfred N. Dalrymple, the regulars' candidate for re-election as chairman of the Essex county G. O. P. committee, trounced the forces of Colgate, the New Idea leader, and Major Lentz, the has-been chieftain.

In Middlesex county, Voorhees, vonMinden and Hanson had things their own way at the Republican primary for Assembly. Jackson, "Dory" Strong's candidate for county clerk, defeated Conger by about 88.

In Somerset county, W. W. Smalley was renominated by the Republicans for the Assembly. The primaries were poorly attended.

Passaic county was captured by the regulars, Assemblyman Prince being nominated for the Senate by 4,000 majority over Assemblyman Blauvelt.

Mark M. Fagan defeated James W. McCarthy for mayor of Jersey City, it being a signal New Idea victory.

FULLERTON SPANKED.

At New Providence Township, Wm. Jeffery was nominated for member of the Union County Republican the present incumbent, Jeffery receiving 66 and Fullerton 20 votes. The total number of ballots cast at the Republican primary 88, the largest number of Republican votes ever cast in the history of the township. Last year at Presidential election the total number was 79. Frank C. Shaffer received 74 for township committee. George Limmerman, Fullerton's candidate, only received 11. P. Garfield Johnson, present assessor, received only 31 votes.

It was a decisive victory for the society of "Our Men's Circles on the Square" of New Providence Township, of which William Jeffery is president, Frank C. Shaffer secretary and Angelo Deedneo treasurer.

Recital by a Great Singer.

The Musical Club of Plainfield, in pursuance of its policy of giving one concert each year by an artist of the highest rank, announces a song recital on Tuesday, November 30, by Signor Emilio de Gogorza. Signor de Gogorza has won the highest reputation as a concert singer both in this country and in Europe. Last winter Mme. Emma Eames and he gave a series of concerts which won unqualified praise not only from music lovers but from the general public. One of the New York critics said of him: "He offers entertainments of the finest artistic quality, song recitals conceived and executed on a level reached by very few singers." The concert by Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler, which the club gave last year, was a great success, and this song recital ought to prove even more popular.

Miss Mabel Seals.

Miss Mabel Seals, daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late William Seals, died Monday night at her home, 103 Central avenue, following a long illness. She was twenty years old. She is survived by her mother, a sister, Mrs. John Kennedy, and two brothers, Joseph and Wilbert Seals. The funeral will be private.

The regular preparatory service and reception of missionary offering, will be held at Warren chapel, tonight at 8 o'clock and the communion service will be held Sunday morning.

FATALLY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Miss Blanche Lord, Step-Daughter of Dr. W. C. Boone Dies on Way to Hospital.

Fatally injured in an automobile accident in Minneapolis, Minn., last night, Miss Blanche Lord, step-daughter of Dr. William C. Boone, of West Seventh street, died while being taken to St. Joseph's hospital in that city.

In the car with Miss Lord at the time were Mrs. Mitchell and her daughter, Miss Gertrude Mitchell, with whom Miss Lord was visiting, and both were injured. Miss Mitchell's injuries were more severe than those of her mother.

At Dr. Boone's home this morning it was stated that no particulars of the accident had been received and the shock to the family was severe enough to temporarily make further investigation out of the question. Miss Lord's body will be brought to Plainfield for interment.

It is believed that the accident was due to the carelessness of the negro chauffeur who fled from the scene immediately after the catastrophe occurred. The White Bear road upon which the mishap occurred is the finest drive in the city of Minneapolis and is frequented by automobilists in great numbers.

IN DUNELLEN.

Not much interest was taken in the primaries at Dunellen yesterday. Only 156 men voted, 70 Democrats and 86 Republicans out of a registration of nearly 500. The only competition was for the nomination for county committeeman on the Democratic ticket, Peter C. Staats, entering the field at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and giving the regular candidate a pretty good run, getting 28 votes to his 42. The Republicans seemed satisfied with their policy of putting an appropriation on their ticket and voted without a cut for the $4,000 appropriation.

Opening and Display of FALL MILLINERY

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 29, 30, and Oct. 1.

WE respectfully request the pleasure of your presence on the above dates and ask that every lady in Plainfield and surrounding towns consider this a personal invitation to be present to view the handsomest and most clever ideas in Imported and Domestic Millinery it has ever been our good fortune to bring together. In connection with the models of imported makes, the display and conceptions from our own millinery experts are truly models of exquisite beauty. This season's display is thoroughly representative of what "The White Store" can do and has done in this city to elevate the standard and break down the barriers that has heretofore existed when ladies were obliged to leave their own city and purchase their millinery of houses that were entirely foreign to this city's welfare.

You Don't Have to Leave Your Own City

to make your Millinery selections, for this store has left no stone unturned to make this opening practical, of live interest to women who desire beauty and originality, and at the same time don't have to pay exorbitant extravagant prices for the very highest degree of millinery art.

We have carefully selected what we consider the best examples and most characteristic models of French Millinery, but more important still to our own patrons is the fact that we have tried faithfully to conceive ideas that truly represent the taste of the purchaser in the Hats that find their way from our own workroom.

Another Feature We Lay Stress Upon is Moderation in Price.

No matter how extravagant a price you pay we positively assert that you cannot get more style, more beauty, or more originality than we can give you at a much lower price.

We could continue to write pages on this topic and yet put forth no extravagant claim. All we ask is that you make this department a personal visit, see for yourself, and we are willing to abide by your decision.

Everything will be arranged for your comfort and convenience, extra saleslady will be in attendance to aid you in making your selection. In fact everything will be done to make you feel that the reputation achieved by the White Store in this direction has not been overdrawn.

TAKE ELEVATOR TO SECOND FLOOR.

AUTUMN OPENING OF LADIES' SUITS, COATS, CAPES, Etc.

BEFORE introducing you to the vast stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, you will pardon us if we seem somewhat egotistical in our descriptions of this Department. We have enlarged this popular department to three times its former size, giving us ample space to show to advantage our immense stock. It has been newly carpeted and refitted with the most approved devices for showing Ladies' Costumes, ample daylight is furnished from our new prism light transoms, leaving nothing desired which would tend to mar your shopping pleasure here.

Wonderful Charming Ladies' Tailored Costumes.

This store has never before displayed such an exceptional stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear garments, having now three times the stock previously carried. Ladies who thoroughly appreciate fine artistic tailoring, who wish to feel well dressed in exclusive high grade models, are the ones who will feel more interested in this magnificent assortment of Fashionable Tailored Costumes.

THREE VERY IMPORTANT FEATURES

which has tended to make this department so popular are INDIVIDUALITY, ORIGINALITY AND EXCLUSIVENESS. We make it a point to see that no other dealer in this vicinity can show similar styles. Therefore you are always safe in feeling that nobody else in town can have the exact same garment in style at least that you have bought.

A few of the very many different kinds of materials consist of CHEVIOTS, DIAGONALS, SERGES, HOME SPUNS, WORSTEDS, CHIFFON BROADCLOTH and scores of other popular weaves, faultlessly tailored in the most approved styles. The long modish semi-fitting coats, and pleated skirts seem to take the lead as being the correct thing, while those who prefer the severely made tailored suit we have them in abundance.

TWIN MAGNETIC FEATURES

of which we are the originators, are potent factors in making this department known in every quarter of this county, and that is making a saving to you of at least $2.00 to $2.50 on your purchase.

We will deem it a pleasure at any time to have you come here and ask to be shown through this stock, without any obligation to make a purchase. Finally we would ask you to come here and see what we have to offer you, for we are positive you can save money and time by trading here.

GOLF.

Throughout the latter end of the week Philadelphia will be the centre of attraction. The tri-city, or Lesley Cup, matches are on the program for Friday and Saturday over the links of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club. There is also a chance of a team match between the Western and Eastern women at the Merion Cricket Club on Saturday, as most of the leading players will be there practising for the national championship tournament scheduled for the following week.

Returning to the tri-city, it may be said that these affairs have been in order since 1905, and that the metropolitan team has four straight victories to its credit. Handicapped as it was in the past as to territorial limitations, the Quaker City team naturally got the worst of the annual encounters, but it may be different now, for the reason that a Pennsylvania State association has taken the place of the Philadelphia body. Futhermore, the Pennsylvania golfers will enjoy the advantage of longer practice over the difficult course at Noble.

The Huntingdon Valley course needs knowing. Besides being long it has been extensively bunkered during the last two years. In a way this would seem to be Philadelphia's golden opportunity to win the cup, more especially if the Pittsburg experts rally to the standard. It is not known as yet what the personnel of the teams will be, though advance information has it that Boston and Philadelphia will be stronger than usual, while New York will be weaker. It is understood on good authority that Jerome D. Travers, the former national and metropolitan champion, has not been invited to play on the New York team.

Injured Hand Pealing Tomatoes.

Wallace Worthington, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, of the Hotel Kensington, has been suffering some inconvenience from a slight cut of the hand, which happened several days ago while pealing tomatoes. Proud flesh developed and yesterday it was found necessary to have a physician perform a slight operation. The injury is now healing nicely.

Held for Horsewhipping Girl.

Miss Anna McMonagle, sixty years old, pleaded guilty Monday at Millburn to having horsewhipped Augusta McCollium, the thirteen-year-old daughter of George McCullum. The woman told the justice that she had maltreated the child because her father had shot one of her dogs the week before. The prisoner was held in $1,000 bail for the grand jury.

Flushes the Brick Pavement.

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett has abandoned the practice of constantly sprinkling the brick pavement to keep the dust down, adopting the method of flushing the pavement frequently. This is far more satisfactory to the many autoists.

Women Dislike Dust

It ruins everything in the house to have a continual shower of flour-like ashes sifted about. Moreover, it multiplies the work of keeping a house clean. When you shake the

AEROPLANE EXHIBITION.

A Full Size Curtiss Aeroplane Now on Exhibition, 5th Floor.

We have just secured, at a great expense, and for a limited period only, a full size aeroplane, similar to the one in which the famous American avigator, Glenn H. Curtiss, made his record flight at Rheims, France. This aeroplane is not a mere toy or model, but an enormous affair, equipped with engine, ready for flight. Over 900 square feet of floor space on our 5th floor has been given over to it and a competent lecturer will be in attendance to explain its workings. This is one of the most unique exhibitions ever given in Newark, and interesting alike to men and women. We take pleasure in extending to everyone a cordial invitation to come and see it. 5th floor.

THE NEW MILLINERY

Has Met With an Enthusiastic Reception

Our superb Exhibit of Fall Millinery has been showered with admiration by the numbers of women who have visited our beautiful Millinery Department since the Opening. The opinion is unamimous that the showing is the largest and most beautiful we have ever presented, and our moderate prices on the most elegant and exclusive new styles has been a source of general comment. The showing is at once a lesson in Millinery Fashions and Economical Prices—proving conclusively that exorbitant prices do not have to be paid for hat style and beauty.

The New Dress Goods

The busy selling already in progress in our New Dress Goods stock is proof positive of the growing popularity of this department. If you wish to choose your new materials where the variety of weaves and colorings is the most complete and values the best obtainable, come here.

Ready-to-Wear Garments for Fall

The New Suits, Coats and Skirts have also received their full share of praise from our friends. The range of new models is most extensive and the great variety of styles affords the most satisfying selection. One feature which makes this Department especially popular is that we have expert fitters to make alterations FREE. This is an important consideration since our prices are unquestionably the lowest in town for same qualities.

Special Tailored Suit Values

As a remarkable introductory value, we offer new Tailored Suits, made of good quality Broadcloth, with 45-inch Coat, lined with Skinner's Satin---a stunning new model, in black, blue, gray, and green. Special at

Portieres Galore

In the Fall Opening Show.

We would like if we could to go into the fullest details and describe the remarkable beauty of pattern and coloring, and the variety of the portieres we are showing in this Fall Opening of Upholsteries.

Every kind of portiere you might wish for will be found in this stock from the simplest rope to the splendid velours and silk tapestries.

What may be said of portieres is equally true of couch covers—nowhere will you find a greater assortment of domestic and imported couch covers to choose from.

Gordon Rep Reversible Portieres in all colors; fringed top and bottom; $4.75 to $9.00 the pair.

Reversible Armure Mercerized Portieres; some fringed top and bottom; others with cord edge; $4.75 to $17.50 the pair.

Mercerized Portieres with velour or tapestry borders; $4.75 to $18.00 a pair.

Jute, Velour and Venetian Silk Velour Portieres—Imported and most fashionable, in the best combinations of colors that the artist could conjure; figured on one side, and bordered with plain centre on the other; our own importation; priced $29.50 to $40.00 the pair.

Silk Tapestry Portieres—Moire, stained glass and Louis XV. designs; various colors and prices; $15 to $24 the pair.

Rope Portieres—More kinds than all other Newark stores combined; at least 14 color combinations; useful where heavier portieres would keep out the light; in sizes to fit any door up to 6 feet wide, 7 feet 9 inches high; prices $2.50 to $25.

We make a specialty of portieres to order for odd size doors or arches, using your own or our ideas in selecting colors or combinations.

Couch Covers in tremendous variety, including many beautiful imported patterns, at prices ranging from $2 to $25.

With a foresight worthy of him Charles Webb Murphy, president of the Chicago Cubs, has announced that he will not divulge at this time his reasons for accusing Umpire Klem of incompetency and conspiracy in the game between the Pirates and the Cubs on Sept. 7, which the former won 6 to 2. It will be recalled that at the time Murphy was much wrought up by the action of the arbitrator in banishing Johnny Evers and Frank Chance from the game and immediately, following his custom, filed a protest. This objection has been withdrawn and Murphy says at the annual meeting in December he will explain his reason for withdrawing his protest. This means at least one day of publicity for the Chicago club during the "off" season.

The yearly yarn which emanates from no one knows where and expires without anything ever coming of it about Montreal withdrawing from the Eastern League circuit is again in circulation. With a monotonous regularity toward the close of each Eastern League season the story is circulated that Montreal is to drop. If such should ever prove to be the case it is foregone conclusion that the franchise will not be transferred to a Canadian club, yet this season's dream has it that Ottawa magnates are anxious to take Montreal's place. If Montreal should quit it is understood that Syracuse and Trenton would make strong bids for the franchise. It is said that the Montreal club can be purchased for $24,000. The game has not paid in Montreal this season and it is a known fact that the financial backers would not turn down a good offer.

Freeholders Condemn Bridge.

The Union County Board of Freeholders has caused a large sign to be placed on the city side of the Washington avenue bridge, warning travelers that the structure has been condemned and requesting heavy teams and autoists to drive over it with care. It is only a question of time when extensive repairs must be made to the bridge. Plans were discussed with the idea of replacing it with a new bridge, but the Somerset county Board of Freeholders decided against the expense, for the present.

Miss Christina Newhall, of Yonkers, N. Y., has returned home after a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Forman W. Smith, of West End avenue.

MT. ST. MARY'S OPENS.

Studies were resumed at the College of Mt. St. Mary, today, with a large attendance of students, as a long list of applicants had been filed for the new term. All the graduates from the high school department in June last returned to enter the freshman class of the college.

On Monday, October 4, the first of a series of lectures on "The Shakespearian Drama," will be delivered by Dr. Callan, Ph. D., of New York city. During the summer season the college has been put in first-class condition, and with a full corps of instructors comprising the faculty the new year opens with especial promise.

HOPE CHAPEL DEPARTMENT IN SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

The Home Department of Hope chapel Sunday school which was organized about two months ago has now a membership of over 100 and has found a ready response from those who it calculated to reach. The idea is to take the Sunday school to those who through sickness or other disability are unable to attend. For these a special quarterly is issued and they can keep in touch with the lessons as they are taught in the school.

The scheme is in full operation at Hope chapel and under the superintendence of Mrs. Donald MacInnes has been a success from the start. A library privilege is accorded to the shut-ins and this feature is meeting with the support of all those who are receiving the benefit of the home school instruction.

WILLIAM COLLIER SCORES

In "The Patriot," He Hits Fun's Bullseye Continually.

William Collier delighted a great audience at the Plainfield theatre last night, appearing in "The Patriot," a three-act comedy written by the star and J. Hartley Manners. In it Mr. Collier has a role that suits him right down to the ground, that of an Englishman who has spent all his life in a rough Western mining town and who is thoroughly American at heart in spite of the fact that he bears the title of Sir Augustus Plantagenet Armitage. There is an immense amount of local color and picturesque scenes and the daintiest sort of a love story that of course ends happily.

The scenes of the three acts of "The Patriot" are laid in Bull Frog, Navada, and London. The first and last acts show a miner's cabin styled "Armitage Manor," in Fir Tree Hill in Bull Frog, and the second act Sir Augustus Armitage's flat in Buckingham palace mansions, Buckingham palace road, London, S. W., England. The action takes place during the spring, summer and autumn. Sir Augustus is a big hearted, likeable mining promoter, easily the leader in the community in which he dwells.

There is one little girl in whom he is particularly interested and their romance has much to do with the story of the play. A day comes when an unusual event calls Sir Augustus to London and he insists upon taking along with him several of his Bull Frog companions. Transferred to a London drawing room in the most fashionable part of Mayfair the opportunities for Mr. Collier's fun-making can be readily pictured. In the last act the characters are back in Bull Frog, and Sir Augustus is given a welcome that is not to be forgotten. The romance is taken up and the play comes to a happy ending. As Sir Augustus Mr. Collier has never been seen to better advantage. He supplied the big audience with one continual laugh.

Announces the Latest Autumn Fashions in WOMEN'S APPAREL

Consisting of Women's and Misses' Suits, Coats, Capes, Dresses, Skirts, Waists & Furs of Rare Style & Beauty at Very Special Prices

These are the days in which you find the Women's Apparel section most charming. All the newness and smartness of Autumn reflected in the rich Tailored Suits, the warm Coats with their tinge of militaryism, and the stunning Capes that have such vogue this Fall and withal are so practical.

Our stocks have been selected with our usual care, and mirro the latest hints of fashion, many of the garments being replicas of originals which had their inception in the mind of some Paris genius.

The distinction that lifts OUR garments to an international and commanding position among all houses of fashion is because "The Paris has been and is today leaders—never imitators and followers."

We appeal to you, LADIES, and invite you to call and get your garments at the latest and most expertness of world wide experience, which we are proud to say is ours.

Thanking you for your past favors and hoping to be patronized by you in the future, as we were in the past, we beg to remain

Very sincerely yours,

J. A. FASS, Prop.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE PUBLIC!

There recently appeared in this paper an advertisement by a local piano dealer entitled "Piano Contest Fakes Exposed." This article was intended to destroy public confidence in the Historical Contest which is now being run by this firm. Ever since we originated the contest method of advertising a number of years ago, similar attacks have been made from time to time by petty dealers who are unable to compete.

These attempts are amusing to us and we usually ignore them, but for the assurance of the public, I will give a few facts about our contests. The contest is nothing more or less than an appropriation granted at different times by the company to take the place of magazine and other expensive advertising. If you participate in the contest and are one of the winners, you are entitled to part of this appropriation. Certificates of credit are not given out promiscuously but are awarded according to merit. The judges are prominent business men of this city. In our last contest Mr. C. H. Frost, manager of the Courier-News Publishing Co.; Mr. C. F. Colthar, of The Plainfield Press, and Mr. W. J. Trembath, of the Trembath Press, acted as the judges.

The prices on our pianos are the same the year round, and are always marked in plain figures. PRICES ARE NOT RAISED DURING THE CONTEST. They are factory prices and are advertised from time to time in the local papers.

If you are thinking of buying a piano enter the contest now. You may win the piano. If you do not and your answer is meritorious, it will be rewarded accordingly. Reliable business men of Plainfield will be the judges, and their names will be announced later. The piano which will be given away absolutely free is now on exhibition in our show window. We invite musicians to call and examine the piano and see if it is worth $300. READ OUR LARGE AD CAREFULLY. IT EXPLAINS OUR REASON FOR GIVING THE CONTEST.

"That's the laziest rubber I ever saw," criticised the patron in the Turkish bath parlors. "Why, he looks as if he were asleep."

"Oh, I'll fix that in a few minutes," assured the proprietor.

"Going to give him a call?"

"Yes, I am going to tell him to stretch himself."—Chicago Daily News.

"To Remind Ye!"

—o—

Mr. Seymour Eaton tells a story about "Pat" and "Dublin". Here it is in brief:—We visited one of the show places of Dublin, were given a guide and a pass. On the PASS was printed positive instructions that "tips" must not be given to employees.

Pat showed us around very nicely and when told that we were sorry the rules prevented our giving him a "tip" he said—

"Begorra, that printing is only to remind ye of it."

PIANO CONTEST FAKES EXPOSED!

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR HOLDERS OF GOLD BONDS, PIANO COUPONS AND DISCOUNT CERTIFICATES.

There are several Piano houses which have no prices for their goods except grossly inflated ones arranged expressly for fake discounts in connection with schemes of various kinds. These houses seem to find it impossible to dispose of their pianos in a legitimate, straightforward way, but instead resort to one scheme after another—catch-penny devices, so crude as to be positively insulting to the intelligence of the public. These schemes usually take the form of guessing contests, drawing puzzles and various feats of little skill. In all of them the object is identical to mislead the prospective buyer into the belief that he is getting something for nothing, while at the same time prices are arranged sufficiently high to off-set the allowance to which his prize certificate entitles him.

EVERYONE WHO MAKES A GUESS GETS A PRIZE!

If you have ever answered one of these ads you received a discount certificate. EVERYBODY DOES. It matters not whether the answer is good, bad or indifferent, from adult or child it draws a prize in the shape of a certificate or due bill (generally from $65.00 to $100.00) to apply on the purchase of a new Piano. Of course the price of the Piano is fixed accordingly and the purchaser pays a high price even after the amount of certificate is deducted, usually a much higher price than an instrument of similar quality could be secured for in any legitimate music store.

To test the value of one of these certificates present it in payment for something other than a new piano—say a low priced used piano, music cabinet or a bench, and see how quickly the dealer will turn you down. He will not even give you 50 cents worth of music for it. Try the experiment!

AT $185.00 WE WILL SELL A BETTER PIANO THAN THE SCHEME HOUSES ASK $325.00 TO $400.00 FOR! Such well known and high grade makes as Haines Bros., Brewster, the Genuine Mathushek and others too numerous to mention.

TELLS WIFE TO USE FISTS.

Judge Says She is Big Enough to Whip Husband.

"You are a big, strong, healthy woman, weighing at least a third more than your husband, and if he attacks you again go at him with your fists and give him a good beating," said Police Justice Harris at Trenton Monday when Mrs. Joseph Green had her partner for life arraigned on a charge of assault.

"But he would have me arrested," said the woman.

"Well, if he does you will be arraigned before me and I will see that you are not punished," was the justice's answer, as he dismissed the case with a warning to Green that he would be sent to prison if he appeared in court again.

Pastor's Farewell to Church.

Bayonne, Sept. 29.—Rev. H. W. J. Schulz preached his farewell sermon Sunday as pastor of the Third Reformed church here. He has accepted a call from the First German Presbyterian church of Paterson. He is the second Bayonne Reformed minister to embrace the Presbyterian faith, Rev. William H. Boocock having quit the First Reformed church to take charge of a religious educational work in the First Presbyterian church of Buffalo.

Committed Suicide.

A man believed to have been Arthur Stone, of Gloucester, committed suicide at Three Bridges Sunday by shooting himself. In his possession was found a recommendation saying that Arthur Stone had been employed for five years as a weaver by the Fries-Harley Company, of Gloucester.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Plainfield.

Scores of Plainfield people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Robert Love, 44 Duer street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For eight or nine years I was a victim of kidney complaint. Every cold I contracted settled in my kidneys and caused my back to ache severely. Any heavy lifting or much standing gave me additional pain. In the morning upon arising, my back was very lame and this did not disappear until I exercised for some time. I doctored and used several so-called kidney cures, but it was only a waste of money. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in the newspapers, I procured a bog at Randolph's Pharmacy and began their use. When I had taken about half the contents of the box, my condition was greatly improved and before long the pain left me entirely. I will always stand ready to speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Gigantic Sale High-Grade Willowed Ostrich Plumes
At a saving of $2.15 to $15.15 on each plume, according to size.

The demand for high grade ostrich willowed plumes is so great now that manufacturers are working overtime. The process is slow, as each piece of ostrich strand is hand knotted. We foresaw the trend of Fashions and demand for these beautiful sweeping willow plumes months ago and placed a large order far in advance at a marked saving from regular wholesale cost. We have made a decided saving through the early placing of this order with the manufacturer who was thereby able to keep his force employed and to finance his factory over a dull period. This saving and much more is taken from what would be the regular prices, all of which we give back to our customers. Rich, glossy stock, full flues, broad and sweeping; black, white and colors; actual saving of $2.15 to $15.15 on each plume, according to size. Reservation made upon reasonable deposit until November for those who do not wish to purchase outright now.

Regular price $8.00; save $2.15 by buying at the special price of $5.85
Regular price $11.00; save $3.15 by buying at the special price of $7.85
Regular price $15.00; save $4.15 by buying at the special price of $10.85
Regular price $19.50; save $5.65 by buying at the special price of $13.85
Regular price $23.50; save $6.65 by buying at the special price of $16.85
Regular price $30.00; save $8.15 by buying at the special price of $21.85
Regular price $35.00; save $8.15 by buying at the special price of $26.85
Regular price $45.00; save $11.15 by buying at the special price of $33.85
Regular price $55.00; save $15.15 by buying at the special price of $39.85

N. B.—These special prices are lower than the wholesale prices and should interest every milliner, and every woman far and near who will have any use for a plume for the next year to come.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

An all important theatrical event announced for Saturday, matinee and night, at the Plainfield theatre, will be found in "Salomy Jane," which is the same great scenic production, and with a few exceptions, the original cast as seen at the Liberty theatre, New York, during its record breaking run of one solid year, during which time it was the one legitimate dramatic hit of Broadway. "Salomy Jane," which is Paul Armstrong's dramatization of Bret Harte's fanciful romance, "Salomy Jane's Kiss," is said to be the most masterful and convincing drama seen in a decade. This season's production is under the exclusive direction of Messrs. A. G. Delamater and William Norris, who have thoroughly equipped the company scenically and with every attention to detail, presenting it in this city exactly as seen in New York. The principal character, "Salomy Jane," is played by Miss Louise Coleman, a magnetic actress who has had several seasons under the careful training of David Belasco, and is said to give a remarkable performance. The supporting company, numbering twenty-five, is composed of artists of the highest class, all of whom have had long and varied careers with the best of stars and attractions.

PERSONAL.

Miss Jeanette Giley, of Jersey City, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Miss Myra Emmons, of Washington avenue, has returned from a sojourn at Belmar.

Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Davis, of Park avenue, returned home yesterday from a delightful three weeks spent at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips, of West Front street, who have been sojourning at Belmar, are expected home this week.

Mrs. Frederick Phillips, of Clinton avenue, is in Brooklyn, where she was called by the death of her brother-in-law, Albert E. Marsland, a well known druggist of that city. The funeral services were held Monday night.

Clarence Bilyeu, of the borough, who fell off the roof of a house on Monday, receiving severe contusions and bruises, is reported at the hospital to be improving slowly. A remarkable thing was that no bones were broken.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Miss Mary Collier, alto, and Miss Irene Dunham, soprano, have become members of the choir at the First Baptist church.

The sextons of the First Baptist church have been Gershom Manning, 1818; Platt Drake, Frazee Whitehead, Peter Wyckoff, William Sims, Albro Lyons, Edward Maynard, 1889.

Beginning Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, will preach the first of a series of sermons on "Sundays in England." He will deliver these sermons Sunday nights.

The Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest is planning for an active season. The officers are now planning several social functions and entertainments to increase the membership.

Metuchen Club to Hold Dance.

The Metuchen Football Club held a meeting this week when a list of fifteen names were handed in. The club expects to have a strong 135 pound team this year as the majority of the old players of two years ago have placed their names on the try-out list. On the evening of Friday, October 22, the club will hold a dance in Robbins' Hall, Metuchen. Music will be furnished by Opple's orchestra, of New Brunswick. The committee is composed of David Kramer, P. Kampson, H. Gilbert and Bert Trotter.

Miss Lucie Palmer Davis to Wed.

One of the early fall weddings will be that of Miss Lucie Palmer Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Davis, of Union street, and Wilfrid Nelson Houghton, of New York city. The date has been set for Saturday afternoon, October 16, at 4 o'clock, at the home of Miss Davis' brother, Robert W. Davis, 963 West Front street. Owing to the protracted illness of her father, Daniel E. Davis, who holds a responsible position at The Plainfield Trust Company, the wedding will be very quiet.

Y. W. C. A. "Open Day."

The Young Women's Christian Association, 208-212 East Front street, will hold an "open day" Tuesday afternoon and evening, October 5. During the opening weeks there will also be held the following: Sunday afternoon, October 2, 4 o'clock, vesper service; October 11, Miss Lucy Chaplin will speak on "The Best Things Our Association Has to Offer;" October 14, Advertisement social; October 18, classes in all departments open.

John B. Frazer Elected Colonel.

By a vote of 24 to 23 Lieutenant Colonel John B. Fraser was Monday night elected to the rank of colonel of the First Regiment of Newark over Arthur Rowland, inspector of small arms practice. General Henry W. Freeman presided. Frazer had been acting colonel since General Freeman received his commission.

BOWLING.

In the opening games of the individual tourney last night at Campbell's alleys, Johnny Campbell was successful against both of his competitors.

Against Nash, Campbell took two out of three games. Schaub proved to be an easy customer for both Nash and Campbell.

The scores:

Nash	177	204	225
Campbell	200	187	239
Campbell	189	172
Schaub	147	143
Nash	173	224
Schaub	170	176

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

In South Plainfield, justice of the peace and constable were the only contests at the Republican primaries and the voting was light. Archie Steengraffe got 5 votes for justice of the peace against 1 vote for Thomas Linnabury. R. W. Horn defeated Steengraffe by the same vote for consatble on that ticket. Many votes on the appropriation for the fire hydrants at the Democratic primaries were not counted because of improper marking of the ballot. Only three votes were counted. One in favor of and the two against it.

Republican.

For Senator, Edward M. Hicks, 56; members general assembly (3), Louis J. Belloff, 44; John Hanson, 5; Rene P. F. vonMinden, 46; William C. Voorhees, 42; John V. B. Weykoff, 3; coroner, Elas S. Mason, 56.

For County Clerk, John H. Conger, 12; William H. C. Jackson, 40; for Freeholders, (5) Martin G. Ashley, 5; George S. Bunting, 21; William S. Dey, 46; Alpheus L. Mundy, 42; William Oberman, 46; J. Fred Orpen, 27; Frank H. Pownall, 9; William T. Stacey, 47.

For county committee, William Hamilton, 56; justice of the peace, A. Steengraffe, 5; T. Linnabury, 1; constable, R. W. Horn, 5; A. Steengraffe, 1; for surveyor, (2) Albert L. Boice, 56; Rufus Delafield, 56.

Democratic.

For Senator, George S. Silzer, 14; for Assembly (3), Edward Burt, 14; John V. L. Booraem, 14; William E. Ramsay, 14; for coroner, William Morgan, 14; for county clerk, Bernard M. Gannon, 14; for freeholdres (5), Garrett Brodhead, 14; Andrew Ely, 14; Anthony J. Gebhardt, 14; Peter H. S. Hendricks, 14; Alfred T. Kerr, 14.

For assessor, Frank O. Nelson, 14; for collector, Frank R. Conover, 14; for township committeeman, John Geary, 14; for justice of the peace, W. Coulter, 1; for constable, E. Teeple, 1.

HUNT CLUB PROGRAM.

The Watchung Hunt club has arranged its schedule of meets for October. The announcement is of special interest because the first annual fall race meet will be held at the club grounds on the afternoon of Saturday, October 23, with an attractive card. Landowners and farmers over whose lands the club hunts are cordially invited to participate.

The hounds will meet as follows: Saturday, October 2, Oak Tree, 4 p. m.; Wednesday, October 6, Belvidere and Woodland avenues, 6:15 a. m.; Saturday, October 9, Dog Tavern, 3:30 p. m.; Wednesday, October 13, Kennels, 4 p. m.; Saturday, October 16, Water Tower, Netherwood, 3 p. m.; Wednesday, October 29, Grant and Rockview avenues, the borough, 6:15 a. m.; Saturday, October 23, Mt. Pleasant Schoolhouse, 9:30 a. m.; Wednesday, October 27, Kennels, 6:15 a. m.; Saturday, October 30, New Market pond, 3 p. m.

WARREN TOWNSHIP.

The battle in Warren Township was the fiercest ever experienced in the memory of the oldest living voter and the old-time politicians were completely routed by the Circles on the Square. John C. Cooper, as the Republican primary candidate for nomination of freeholder, was defeated by Jacob Schomp, Cooper receiving only one vote and Schomp fifty-five. Joel Codington, the present freeholder and treasurer of the Township Committee, was defeated by Robert Zergeibel. Codington received 79 votes and Zergeibel 86. Alfred Binz won the nomination on the Republican ticket and John Gunten, the present Township Committeeman, received the Democratic nomination by the narrow margin of eight votes.

Ex-Sheriff Edward E. Cooper was elected a member of the Republican executive committee and John D. Bornman for Democratic executive committee.

In Borough Police Court.

Charles Gear, of West Front street, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by George Lematty, of Somerset street, before Recorder Dolliver in the borough police court, charging him with disorderly conduct. He was arrested by Marshal Weiss, afterwards released in the custody of his counsel, Craig A. Marsh. Robert N. Crane this morning asked on Gear's behalf that the hearing be held on Friday.

False Pretense Alleged.

Felix Pavlik, of 82 Franklin avenue, North Plainfield, was arrested yesterday at Westfield, on a warrant charging him with obtaining thirteen dollars under false pretenses from Arthur Morris, of this city. He was brought before City Judge Runyon yesterday afternoon and released on a bail bond of $100. Isaac Shrager being his surety.

Mrs. William H. VanWinkle, of 28 Park place, who has been very ill, is slightly better.

Watchung Club to Hold Annual Event Saturday, October 23.

FIVE RACES ARE SCHEDULED.

Many Prizes Are Offered, Race Committee Announces—The Judges Are Not Yet Selected.

The first annual fall race meeting under the auspices of the Watchung Hunt Club will be held at the club's grounds, Plainfield avenue, Saturday afternoon, October 23, beginning promptly at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting will be under recognition of the Hunts Committee of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association rules. As the club is putting up big purses, the best horses throughout this section will doubtless be attracted here.

The race committee comprises C. E. S. Bellows, chairman; Charles J. Wildey, Jr., Charles W. Fisk, Lewis E. Waring and Rufus C. Finch. Excellent accommodations will be provided for those attending and the club extends the usual courtesies to farmers over whose lands the members hunt during the season. There will be five races, the card being as follows:

First race—For galloways; 15 hands and under; four years old and upward. $100 purse or plate, of which $20 to second; third horse $10. Entrance fee $10. To carry 150 pounds; professionals 7 pounds extra. About three furlongs on the flat.

Second race—Steeplechase; for bona-fide hunters, qualified under the rules of the N. S. & H. A. $125 purse or plate, of which $25 to second; third horse $10. Entrance fee $10. To carry 175 pounds; half-breds allowed 10 pounds. About three miles over fair hunting country.

Third race—Open race; for horses three years old and upward. $100 purse or plate, of which $20 to second; third horse $10. Entrance fee $10. Three years olds to carry 130 pounds; four years olds 143 pounds; five, six and upwards 148 pounds. Winner of a race on the flat in 1909 to carry five pounds extra; two or more, 10 pounds. Sex allowances as by rule. Gentlemen riders allowed five pounds. About six furlongs on the flat.

Fourth race—Hunters' steeplechase; for hunters qualified under the N. S. & H. A. rules. $125 purse or plate, of which $25 to second; third horse $10. Entrance fee $10. To carry 175 pounds; half-breds allowed 10 pounds. About three miles over a fair hunting country. Gentlement riders in pink.

Fifth race—Hack and hunter race; for horses four years old and upwards. $100 purse, of which $20 to second; third horse $10. Entrance fee $10. To carry 165 pounds. About one and one-half miles on the flat.

Co. K to Resume Drilling.

Co. K will meet in the armory on West Front street, Monday night, to resume drills for the fall and winter, under the direction of Captain H. B. Kitchell. The members will appear in blue uniforms with cap, olive-drab shirt and black shoes. The new olive-drab service uniforms will be issued to the members at that time. All men having rifles and camp equipment are requested to turn them in Monday night.

Not Related to Lexicographer.

Samuel Johnson, a colored laborer from Whitehouse, thirty-nine years old, who, when questioned by City Judge William Runyon, said that he was not in any way related to the great English lexicographer of the same name, was allowed to go this morning after suffering arrest for intoxication. He was picked up helplessly drunk on Park avenue last night. He promised to make tracks for Whitehouse at once.

Miss Fannie Bullock a Bride.

Miss Fannie Bullock, of this city, and Chapman Johnson, of Brooklyn, formerly of Plainfield, were quietly married by Rev. Mr. Powell, pastor of the Bethany Baptist church, Brooklyn, Saturday, September 25. The bride and groom expect to leave about November 1 for Virginia, where they will live for the winter.

Sent Up for Sixty Days.

Catharine Cahill, an old offender, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail this morning by Judge Runyon in the city court for being drunk and disorderly on Second street at the corner of Park avenue last night. She was arrested by Patrolman Tobias Nolan by direction of Chief Kiely.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Nichols will remove from Arlington avenue to their home on 933 Union street, next week.

TACKED ADV. SIGNS ON THE CITY TREES

Joseph Milani, a West Front street grocer, hired a man to tack some wooden advertising signs at Dunellen, Scotch Plains, and other rural districts last Saturday and was contentedly and confidently awaiting the inrush of customers sure to follow his enterprising method of calling attention to his wares. Unfortunately for Mr. Milani, his hired man made the mistake of decorating some of the trees on Park avenue and other thoroughfares of the city with the announcements of his fine stock and he was compelled to face Judge Runyon in the city court this morning and tell how it all happened.

Mr. Milani's explanation was in the main satisfactory to the judge and he suspended sentence on Mr. Milani's promise to remove the offending signs. As to the increased business that may come later.

COUNTY'S OFFICIALS GUESTS AT CLAMBAKE

The members of the Union County Board of Freeholders, together with other county officials, were guests at a clam bake given at Bender's Hotel, Lorraine, yesterday afternoon by Clarence H. Winas, of Linden. Mr. Winans, who is a contractor, and who at present is engaged in doing some county work at Rahway, gave the bake as a purely complimentary affair and it was informal.

The bake was prepared by Freeholder George B. Cladek, of Rahway, in his customary first-class style and everyone agreed that they had never enjoyed a better one. There was an abundance of good things to eat, including clams, chicken, fish, squabs, lobsters, together with all the fixins.'

Among those present from Plainfield were Freeholders J. Hervey Doane and S. P. T. Wilbur; County Attorney W. R. Codington, County Engineer Frank J. Hubbard. The invitations to the bake were sent out by County Engineer Jacob L. Bauer, of Elizabeth, for Contractor Winans. During the afternoon a picture of the group was taken by Freeholder Doane.

TRANSFER FRAUDS TO BE STOPPED BY P.S.R.

New conditions governing transfers issued by the Public Service Railway will go into effect tomorrow, October 1. For the first time the little identification slips by means of which passengers are carried over connecting lines for the one carfare will bear the words "not transferable" and efforts will be made to enforce the meaning the words carry.

Although the transfers are intended only for the benefit of persons to whom they are issued there are instances where a regular traffic in the slips has been conducted by individuals who make a practise of collecting the little papers. Some of these persons encourage newsboys to beg for transfers and then buy them from the youngsters for a cent or two cents. Others have a sort of exchange for swapping transfers so that they get rides both ways on the same line for one fare.

The arilway company has been gathering evidence of the manner in which it has been defrauded and the new rule is the first step towards breaking up the practises. The rule which is printed on the reverse side of the transfer reads: "Not transferable." This transfer subject to the rules of the company, entitles the person to whom it is issued, and no other, to a passage over the connecting line at or before the time and at intersection or junction with issuing line. The passenger must examine transfers, as same will not be accepted unless properly punched.

Attention is directed on the transfers to the fact that lines operating over a joint route between a terminus and a junction will neither issue nor accept transfers from each other while on that portion of the route.

DE BRIGARD & COLLLIER MAKE ASSIGNMENT.

DeBrigard & Collier's art and sporting goods store on Park avenue was closed this morning, the firm having made an assignment to William G. DeMeza, counselor-at-law. The concern is said to have many creditors and within a few days a statement of the assets and liabilities will be made.

The partners are Louis DeBrigard, of New Market, and Paul R. Collier, of this city. They have been doing business for about a year.

OYSTER DEALER FINDS A VALUABLE PEARL

It has been affirmed by some representative theologians that there is no such thing as "luck," and on the other hand poets maintain that "it were better to be born lucky than rich." In either event Garret Van Name comes in for the congratulations of his friends and others. Mr. Van Name opens oysters and sometimes he finds other substances between the two parts of the crustaceous exterior.

That the latter assumption is correct was demonstrated yesterday when Mr. Van Name opened one of the biggest of the species brought from Great South Bay. In the folds of the fatty part of the bivalve he discerned nestling cosily a substance which closely resembled a brilliantly polished pebble. A closer investigation of the foreign substance developed a pearl which for brilliance and contour surpasses anything found under similar circumstances in this neighborhood, and, as a matter of fact, anywhere else.

It is related that Mr. Van Name has found other pearls of value in oysters from the same grounds, but he has never come across one of the value of the present one found. It is variously estimated, it is said, to be worth from $350 to $450. Happy man!

TEACHERS' TICKETS ARE ONLY A DOLLAR

The Young Men's Christian Association has decided to offer public school teachers special rates for its star course entertainments. The regular price of season tickets for this series of lectures and entertainments is $2, but as a special inducement to school teachers a special rate of $1 has been made.

A new "Victor Talking Machine" has been added to the equipment of the boys' department.

Dr. Lyman Beecher Sperry, of Oberlin, Ohio, the most eminent lecturer in America on sex problems, has been secured by the association for a series of addresses to be given to young men and older boys in Y. M. C. A. hall. The first of Dr. Sperry's lectures will be given on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, when he will speak on the topic "Male or Female or the Significance of Sex." Admission will be free to all men and to boys fifteen years of age and over.

"THE SMART SET" WALKED 3 MILES AFTER DANCE

Under the auspices of "The Smart Set," a social organization, of which Miss Nellie Callahan, of East Fifth street, is chairman, held a successful dance in Washington Hall, South Plainfield, last night. There were about two hundred young people from this city and vicinity present. Music was furnished by Charles Suhr's Imperial Orchestra.

The affair terminated about 3 o'clock this morning, when the only disagreeable part of the affair occurred. The auto 'bus was to have been at the hall to bring the Plainfielders home, but it failed to appear and the whole crowd was obliged to walk home. It was a tired lot of young people that come into town about 4 o'clock this morning.

Carried Concealed Weapon.

States Titsworth, of Piscataway Township, was fined twenty dollars by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning for carrying concealed weapons. His misdemeanor was aggravated by the fact that he was drunk and driving a hay wagon into town recklessly, and while in that condition ran into and damaged a wagon driven by Mrs. William Stiles, of Mountainside, throwing Mrs. Stiles out and shaking her up considerably. Judge Runyon declared that th practice of carrying arms by unauthorized persons, no matter what their nationality, must be stopped. Titsworth was represented by Judge William R. Codington.

Instituted Suit for $500.

David A. French, aged 12 years, through his father, Barzilla French, has instituted a suit for $500 against Richard J. Rogers, for being attacked and bitten by a dog owned by the latter a few days ago. The Frenchs live on the road leading from Union Village to New Providence and Mr. Rogers resides in that vicinity. Attorney Horace Codington has been retained as counsel for the Frenchs.

—Neuman Brothers have fancy peaches, Bartlett pears, grapes, apples, plums, quinces, etc., which they are selling at reasonable prices. An excellent opportunity for canning.

TRAIN WRECKING EPIDEMIC

Another Attempt to Derail Central Railroad Train Late Last Night.

LOCOMOTIVE STRIKES TIMBER.

Twelve-foot Plank Thrust Aside by Pilot of Engine West of Rock Avenue—No Clues.

Another attempt was made to derail a Central Railroad train last night a little after 10 o'clock, just west of Rock avenue. A twelve foot plank was placed on track 4 in front of train No. 216, but the expected crash did not occur. Police headquarters were immediately notified and Chief Kiely accompanied by Sergeant Ovenbaugh made an investigation without results.

It is believed by Chief Kiely that the attempts of last night and Saturday are the work of a demented man or of some one bearing a grudge against the railroad company. No other hypothesis has suggested itself to him. He said this morning that it is altogether unlikely that boys are implicated in the attempts to wreck trains. The reason the chief assigns for this opinion are that at that time of night boys are at home in bed, and besides it would be impossible for small boys to handle the timbers which have been used.

A force of detectives as well as the local police force are on the track of suspicious clues which may lead to an arrest within a few hours. Every approach to the tracks will be watched with extraordinary care in the hope of apprehending the would-be wreckers. The pilot of the engine of train 216 threw the timber to one side last night, but not so quickly but that the engineer could see it and make a report of the occurrence.

R. HENRY DEPEW BUYS A VALUABLE TRACT

The property on Watchung avenue between Marshall's laundry and the tailoring establishment of John G. Bantle, was purchased yesterday by R. Henry Depew, through the agency of Charles H. Lyman. This tract of land which lies directly in the path of the city's growth was bought as an investment by Mr. Depew and will prove to be a valuable piece of property within a short time.

It was purchased from a syndicate composed of Harry Marshall, Woolston & Buckle, L. H. Manning, W. R. Codington, George J. Tobin, J. P. Manning, Laing & Milne and F. L. C. Martin, who obtained the property by purchase from the Catharine Webster estate about six months ago. The consideration involved at that time was in the neighborhood of $25,000. The price of the property as sold yesterday is not known except by those directly concerned in the transaction, but it is assumed that it was a figure considerably higher than the amount of the original purchase.

P. C. C. HOUSE OPENING ON SATURDAY, OCT. 9

The Plainfield Country Club has issued invitations to a "house opening and field day" to be held at the clubhouse on Saturday, October 9. Club members and all members of the Park Club, Park Golf Club and the Watchung Hunt Club are included among the invited guests.

The privileges of the golf course and tennis courts will be extended to all guests throughout the day and there will be a house committee reception from 3 till 6 o'clock in the afternoon with music and dancing in the evening from 8 till 11 o'clock. Stages will connect with all cars, afternoon and evening.

Guests as well as members may obtain luncheon or dinner, or both, at the usual rates by telephoning their orders to Superintendent John Hilton, not later than Friday, October 8. Tables will be reserved for parties, to the full capacity of the club, in the order of application. This entertainment is according to the annual custom of the country club it serving the purpose of bringing all the members of the various clubs of the city together and the day is usually one of great enjoyment.

Mrs. E. C. Cloyd and family, who have been spending the summer on Grove street, the borough, left today for New York, where they will spend the winter at the Massasoit apartment house, West 129th street.

STONY HILL MISSION IS LARGELY ATTENDED

The attendance at the mission which opened last Sunday at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, of Stony Hill, and is being conducted by the Franciscan fathers of Paterson, has far exceeded the expectations of the pastor and missionary. The edifice was filled to its utmost capacity at all the masses on Sunday as well as in the evening, notwithstanding the weather. Such has been the rule since. But the most edifying spectacle is the large attendance at the 5 o'clock mass in the morning, to which some of the men come four miles to attend.

The program of the mission as announced by Rev. Father Raymond Walsh follows: Masses at 5 and 8 o'clock in the morning with instructions. Instructions for the boys from 10 to 17 years on Monday and Tuesday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Instructions for boys under 10 years on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock the blessing of the infants and babies. At 7:30 in the evening, rosary, missions, sermon, benedictions and instructions. Rev. Father Raymond's discourses on the several subjects of the missions are highly appreciated as is testified to by the large attendance in the evening and at the morning masses.

CONVENTION DETAILS ARE BEING ARRANGED

The date for the rehearsal of the Christian Endeavor convention choir in the First Presbyterian church, has been changed from tomorrow night to Monday night, October 4, at 8 o'clock. Charles L. Lewis will be in charge as musical director and Clifford A. Braider will preside at the organ. A platform will be erected in the church for the accommodation of the choir of fifty voices. The church will be decorated with American flags and the Christian Endeavor colors.

The meeting for prayer for the convention to be held tonight at the Rescue Mission will be led by H. W. Van Arsdale, of the Trinity Reformed church society. The meeting on Saturday night will be in charge of Percy W. Cannon, the blind man, from the Temple Baptist church. All young people interested in the revival work among young people in Plainfield are cordially invited.

WANTS HER RESTRAINED FROM REMOVING TRUNK

Howard Cobbs, a tailor, of East Fifth street, asked the assistance of the police this morning in preventing Mrs. Leslie Cobbs from removing a turn containing valuables to a considerable amount from the home of his mother, 637 West Third street. Mrs. Cobbs senior, owns and occupies the house at the above number and until recently her son Leslie and his wife lived there.

Leslie Cobbs sold his tailoring establishment to his brother Howard, who took possession yesterday. Lelie promptly disappeared and it has been said that he had been having trouble with his wife and that he has departed leaving no clue to his whereabouts.

Howard Cobbs, the present owner of the business, when seen this morning said he had asked the police to interfere with Mrs. Leslie Cobbs' removing the trunk from the room of his mother because the turnk was packed with silverware belonging to the latter. He stated that he was quite willing that Mrs. Leslie Cobbs should take what belonged to her from the trunk in the presence of his mother and a policeman. The parties to the trouble are all colored.

LOCAL COUPLE MARRIED AT "DEEGAN'S," SCOTCH PLAINS.

A wedding took place at Deegan's hotel, Scotch Plains, Tuesday afternoon, in which the principals came from this city. The arrangements for the ceremony were arranged by Charles A. Rau, head clerk for Chris Gloekner, and were successfully carried out. Miss Irma Horway, of New York city, and Julius Hoefly, of 104 West Front street, were the happy couple and they were married by Justice of the Peace Hezekiah Hand.

A sumptuous repast was furnished by Mr. Deegan in the dining-room of his hotel to which about twenty guests did ample justice. Many toasts were drunk to the happiness of the newly married pair, who shortly after the dinner departed on a wedding trip to last a couple of weeks.

YOUNG HAMILTON SENT TO NEWARK PROTECTORY

Edward Hamilton, the fourteen-year-old boy, who has been on probation for the past few weeks for various misdemeanors, including truancy, was sent to the Catholic Protectory at Newark this morning by Judge William Runyon, whose patience in this case is exhausted. Young Hamilton was accompanied to court by his mother and the parting between mother and son was affecting.

Judge Runyon in determining to send the boy to a place where he will be compelled to attend his studies, did so with reluctance, but believes that the measure was the only way in which corrective training can be given with some chance of lasting good results. All the other boys who have been on probation, comrades of young Hamilton, have reported regularly and have apparently reformed.

WM. E. MARSH DEAD AT SAN FRANCISCO

William E. Marsh, aged 54 years, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marsh, and brother of A. L. C. Marsh, the architect, of this city, died yesterday at his home in San Francisco, Cal., following an operation for appendicitis. He was well-known here prior to thirty-five years ago, when he went to San Francisco.

Mr. Marsh was born in Cincinnati and he spent his early life in this city. Thirty-five years ago he entered the engineering department of the Southern Pacific Railroad and was with that road up to the time of his death. He had charge of the many great improvements made by the company during that time, the most important of which was the supervision of the new Lucine cut-off for forty miles across Salt Lake. He was considered one of the most valuable men in the employ of the company.

He is survived by a wife and two sons, the latter being engaged in the same work as their father for the Southern Pacific Railroad; also two brothers, A. L. C. Marsh, of this city, and Richard Marsh, of Spokane, Wash., and one sister, Miss Anna W. Marsh, of this city. The funeral and burial will be in San Francisco.

MISS PUGH THE BRIDE OF J. PETER KIRCH

Miss Alice A. Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Pugh, of 954 West Fourth street, and J. Peter Kirch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kirch, also of this city, were married last night at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. George S. Bolsterle, of West Lyden, N. Y., brother-in-law of the bride.

The bride, gowned in white silk, trimmed with Irish lace, and carrying a shower bouquet, was attended by Miss Marguerite T. Blair, of Jersey City, as maid-of-honor. She also wore a gown of white silk, and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The best man was Fred A. Kirch, brother of the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Flora Kirch, sister of the groom.

The house was decorated for the occasion with flowers of the season, the arrangement in the parlor and dining-room being especially attractive. After the ceremony there was an informal reception, during which congratulations were offered and supper was served.

Mrs. Kirch was the recipient of a large collection of gifts, including silverware, cut-glass, furniture and four checks for substantial amounts. Later in the evening the couple left on a wedding trip. They will reside in the Netherwood section. The groom is engaged in business as a contractor in Newark.

The bride is a member of Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school, where she has been active in religious work. Both she and her husband have a host of friends with whom they are popular.

MISS MILDRED BOYLAN BRIDE OF J. D. AMMERMAN.

Miss Mildred Boylan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Boylan, of Regent street, the borough, and John D. Ammerman, of Mountain avenue, were quietly married last night by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey at his home on Grandview avenue. They were unattended.

The bride is interested in religious work at Warren chapel. The groom holds a position in New York. The couple will reside in the borough.

PLAN FOR PUBLIC MARKET

Durlach Estate Arranging to Make Improvement in East Front Street.

DETAILS ARE ANNOUNCED.

J. Fred MacDonald Agent for the Estate—Another Market for North Avenue.

Elaborate plans for the establishment of a public market on the Durlach property at East Front street and Watchung avenue, are now being considered by the Durlach Estate, and if sufficient encouragement is given the estate will erect an attractive and thoroughly up-to-date building on the corner for the purpose.

A preliminary diagram has been prepared and has been shown among those interested in the project. The diagram provides for a building 250 feet long on Watchung avenue and forty feet on East Front street, with thirty-six stalls, fourteen feet long, to rent at $18 a month. According to the proposed plans the building would be unusually attractive for it would have an almost solid glass front on both sides and merchants would have the great advantage of having th ir stalls face the street in the open.

The details call for a solid concrete floor, with all modern appliances in each stall such as running water and an equipment for flushing the stalls with water. There would be an entrance on Watchung avenue and East Front street as well, with a wide passage way extending the full length of the structure.

The Durlachs did plan to erect about fourteen small stores on the corner, but have since reconsidered the matter and now believe that a public market would be mere advantageous. J. Fred MacDonald, the local representative of the estate, has the diagram and if a sufficient number of merchants show an inclination to lease stalls the estate will at once go ahead with the building and have it completed before winter sets in. Already several persons have shown an interest in the proposition.

The Quoin Investment Company, of which Ira L. LaRue is a prominent stockholder, has acquired the property now occupied by the Plainfield Cab Company and it plans to convert that building into a public market by December 1. Stalls will be erected in the building extending from North avenue to Second street, and the second floor will be removed, allowing an abundance of light and air.

ALLEGED PLAINFIELDER KILLED AT NEW HAVEN

A newspaper story sent out from New Haven, yesterday, tells of the death by accident of "Edward Thompson, twenty-five years old, of Plainfield, N. J.," but no such person of that name can be found as residing here. With four of their comrades buried beneath many tons of sand and rock a hundred workmen employed by the New Haven Water Company, in making the new tunnel at Woodbridge, near Maltby Lake, started out early yesterday morning to dig for them. Among the men lost is said to be Edward Thompson, of this city. Careful inquiry made throughout the city fails to disclose the name of any such person and it is believed here that some mistake has been made.

According to the story Abner Tyler and Henry Coleman, of New York, were in the tunnel when the water broke through and they raced with death along the dark hole and grabbed a ladder's rungs just as the water rushed about their legs. Had they been five seconds later they would have been engulfed. The tunnel work is being done by the Gore-Meehan Company, of New York city.

Opening and Display of FALL MILLINERY

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 29, 30, and Oct. 1.

WE respectfully request the pleasure of your presence on the above dates and ask that every lady in Plainfield and surrounding towns consider this a personal invitation to be present to view the handsomest and most clever ideas in Imported and Domestic Millinery it has ever been our good fortune to bring together. In connection with the models of imported makes, the display and conceptions from our own millinery experts are truly models of exquisite beauty. This season's display is thoroughly representative of what "The White Store" can do and has done in this city to elevate the standard and break down the barriers that has heretofore existed when ladies were obliged to leave their own city and purchase their millinery of houses that were entirely foreign to this city's welfare.

You Don't Have to Leave Your Own City

to make your Millinery selections, for this store has left no stone unturned to make this opening practical, of live interest to women who desire beauty and originality, and at the same time don't have to pay exorbitant extravagant prices for the very highest degree of millinery art.

We have carefully selected what we consider the best examples and most characteristic models of French Millinery, but more important still to our own patrons is the fact that we have tried faithfully to conceive ideas that truly represent the taste of the purchaser in the Hats that find their way from our own workroom.

Another Feature We Lay Stress Upon is Moderation in Price.

No matter how extravagant a price you pay we positively assert that you cannot get more style, more beauty, or more originality than we can give you at a much lower price.

We could continue to write pages on this topic and yet put forth no extravagant claim. All we ask is that you make this department a personal visit, see for yourself, and we are willing to abide by your decision.

Everything will be arranged for your comfort and convenience, extra saleslady will be in attendance to aid you in making your selection. In fact everything will be done to make you feel that the reputation achieved by the White Store in this direction has not been overdrawn.

TAKE ELEVATOR TO SECOND FLOOR.

AUTUMN OPENING OF LADIES' SUITS, COATS, CAPES, Etc.

BEFORE introducing you to the vast stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, you will pardon us if we seem somewhat egotistical in our descriptions of this Department. We have enlarged this popular department to three times its former size, giving us ample space to show to advantage our immense stock. It has been newly carpeted and refitted with the most approved devices for showing Ladies' Costumes, ample daylight is furnished from our new prism light transoms, leaving nothing desired which would tend to mar your shopping pleasure here.

Wonderful Charming Ladies' Tailored Costumes.

This store has never before displayed such an exceptional stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear garments, having now three times the stock previously carried. Ladies who thoroughly appreciate fine artistic tailoring, who wish to feel well dressed in exclusive high grade models, are the ones who will feel more interested in this magnificent assortment of Fashionable Tailored Costumes.

THREE VERY IMPORTANT FEATURES

which has tended to make this department so popular are INDIVIDUALITY, ORIGINALITY AND EXCLUSIVENESS. We make it a point to see that no other dealer in this vicinity can show similar styles. Therefore you are always safe in feeling that nobody else in town can have the exact same garment in style at least that you have bought.

A few of the very many different kinds of materials consist of CHEVIOTS, DIAGONALS, SERGES, HOME SPUNS, WORSTEDS, CHIFFON BROADCLOTH and scores of other popular weaves, faultlessly tailored in the most approved styles. The long modish semi-fitting coats, and pleated skirts seem to take the lead as being the correct thing, while those who prefer the severely made tailored suit we have them in abundance.

TWIN MAGNETIC FEATURES

of which we are the originators, are potent factors in making this department known in every quarter of this county, and that is making a saving to you of at least $2.00 to $2.50 on your purchase.

We will deem it a pleasure at any time to have you come here and ask to be shown through this stock, without any obligation to make a purchase. Finally we would ask you to come here and see what we have to offer you, for we are positive you can save money and time by trading here.

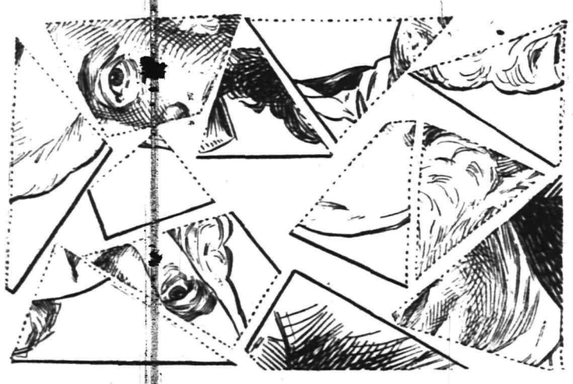
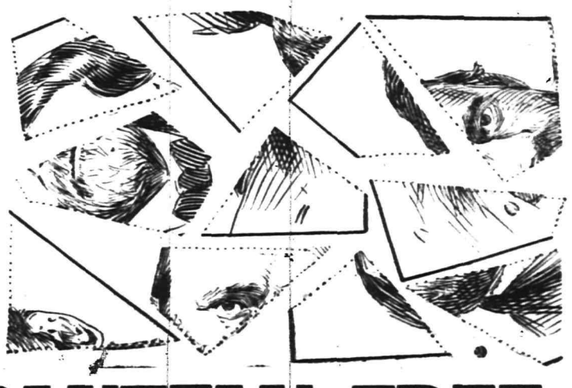
HISTORICAL PUZZLE CONTEST

Can You Put the Two Great American Generals Together?





$300 PIANO ABSOLUTELY FREE

FIRST PRIZE

OVER $8,000 WORTH OF ADDITIONAL PRIZES

NO CHARGE OF ANY KIND TO ENTER. YOU HAVE THE SAME OPPORTUNITY AS ANYONE ELSE TO WIN.

Puzzle pictures for "grown-ups" as well as children are a source of great pleasure, and nearly everywhere you will find someone at this fascinating pastime in their spare moments. But now we have a puzzle picture contest with more than the mere fun of putting it together, a grand free distribution of over $8,300 worth of prizes, all absolutely free.

Cut out the little pieces and paste them together and you will have two of America's greatest generals. The neatest correct answer will be given the $300 piano absolutely free. The next neatest will be given prize certificates as stated below.

There is no catch. Everyone has an equal opportunity. We are making this extraordinary offer direct to piano buyers instead of spending the $8,300 in magazine advertising, as by this method we will introduce our pianos and fair prices to a great many possible buyers.

We want everyone interested in pianos to enter, as we want the piano and prize certificates to go where they will be appreciated. Be sure and enter. There is no excuse for your not striving for one of these prizes. Send your answer in early.

THE PRIZES—First prize—A fine new piano valued at $300. Second prize—A certificate of credit for $125. The next six best answers will be given a credit certificate for $90. Following these in groups of six or more, each contestant sending in the next best answer will be given a credit certificate for $1 less than those previous—that is, six at $89, next six at $88, etc.—until the amount has been awarded.

Special Advertising appropriation. In addition to the above prizes the Company will voluntarily issue to each of the remaining contestants a special certificate of credit, of not less than $25, as an award for their effort in this contest.

These certificates are good on the purchase of any New Hallet & Davis, Conway or Kimball piano or player piano in our warerooms at regular retail price. Time of certificate is limited. Certificates cannot be applied on any purchase made previous to Oct. 7, 1909. Only one certificate may be applied on the purchase of one piano.

THE JUDGING—Disinterested judges will be chosen who will select the winner, and the decision of the judges will be final. All prize winners will be notified. Judges' names will be announced.

SIMPLE DIRECTIONS—Cut out the pieces and paste together, thus making the two well known American generals. Write the names of the general under each picture. Free to anyone except employes of the Company. Only one answer allowed from one family. Send in coupon or exact written copy with your answer, as no answer will be accepted unless this is done. The neatest correct answer will be awarded first prize, others in accordance to their worth.

In case the judges find two or more answers of equal merit, duplicates of the prize offered will be given to each. All answers must be in before 12 P. M., Oct. 7, 1909. Copies of this advertisement will be furnished free on application at this office.

SOMERVILLE.

Work on the Lord memorial fountain has been stopped by the architect, it being claimed by him that the grade is too high by nine inches, some one having made a mistake in building the concrete foundation. A request was made at the meeting of the Borough Council last night to raise the grades of Grove and Main streets to that of the fountain, but the Council refused.

Alvah A. Clark, who has been spending a few days with his brother, George Clark, of Lebanon, has returned home.

Miss Clara Stryker has taken a position as secretary to Dr. William A. Ackerman, principal of the public schools.

William Moorhead, of New Brunswick, has rented one of the new Sargeant houses on East Main street.

The Tuesday Club was entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Cornelius Whitenack on High street.

Miss Emma Young, who has been spending some time in Newark, has returned to her home here.

Miss Cora Rinehart returned yesterday from a week's visit to Miss Besline, of Pottersville.

RARITAN.

Job C. Kenyon is attending the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York and yesterday paraded with the New York exempt firemen.

Miss Jennie Hickey has resigned as stenographer in Nolan & Swinton's office in Somerville.

Mrs. E. F. Williams, who has been making a visit in Boston, returned home yesterday.

Miss Flossie Skillman is now employed at Bound Brook.

SPLIT IN MIDDLESEX.

New Brunswick, Sept. 30.—Theodore Strong, Republican boss in Middlesex County, led his faction Tuesday against the Conger, Carson, Groves faction in the party, with the result that he captured the county clerkship nomination for former Senator W. H. C. Jackson, "regular," over his Republican rival, County Clerk John H. Conger. The "regulars" got one, and probably two, Assembly nominations, but lost the freeholders.

The Conger, Carson, Groves adherents gave the Republican Senatorial nomination to District Court Judge Edward W. Hicks, of this city. The present Senator, George S. Silzer, was renominated by the Democrats without opposition.

Three is Middlesex's quota of Assemblymen. For the Republican nominations the seekers were Assemblymen R. P. F. von Minden, of New Market, and William C. Voorhees, of Cranbury, and Dr. Louis J. Belloff, of New Brunswick; John A. Hansen, of Perth Amboy, and John Wicoff, of Plainsboro. The indications are that von Minden was renominated. Voorhees, with six districts missing, has but a slight lead over Wicoff. Hansen, an anti-Strong man, was nominated.

Democratic Assembly nominees are: Dr. William E. Ramsay, of Perth Amboy; John V. L. Booraem, of Milltown, and Edwin L. Burt, of New Brunswick.

The present county clerk, John H. Conger, who was nosed out of a renomination on the Republican ticket by former Senator Jackson, has held the office twelve years. Bernard M. Gannon, who wants to hold the job down, is the Democratic nominee.

The old Board of Freeholders was renominated by the Republicans. Two of them, W. S. Dey and George S. Bunting, ran on both factional tickets, while Freeholders T. H. Pownall, A. L. Mundy and W. F. Stacey defeated the Strong candidates, who were Martin Ashley, Woodbridge; J. Fred Orben, this city and William Oberman Deans, by 1,100 majority.

The Democratic freeholder nominees are Garret Brodhead, Perth Amboy; Anthony J. Gebhardt, Highland Park; Andrew Ely, Dayton, Peter H. S. Hendricks, this city; Albert S. Kerr, South Amboy.

In the fight against "Boss" Strong a part was taken by Prosecutor and former Judge Theodore B. Booraem, who, as told, charged that Strong had frequently endeavored to make the courts of Middlesex subservient to the political machine. Strong replied by accusing Booraem of base ingratitude and asserting that no one could point to a single dishonest act on his (Strong's) part. In his reply, Strong also took a rap at the Governor.

THE NEW MILLINERY

Has Met With an Enthusiastic Reception

Our superb Exhibit of Fall Millinery has been showered with admiration by the numbers of women who have visited our beautiful Millinery Department since the Opening. The opinion is unamimous that the showing is the largest and most beautiful we have ever presented, and our moderate prices on the most elegant and exclusive new styles has been a source of general comment. The showing is at once a lesson in Millinery Fashions and Economical Prices—proving conclusively that exorbitant prices do not have to be paid for hat style and beauty.

The New Dress Goods

The busy selling already in progress in our New Dress Goods stock is proof positive of the growing popularity of this department. If you wish to choose your new materials where the variety of weaves and colorings is the most complete and values the best obtainable, come here.

Ready-to-Wear Garments for Fall

The New Suits, Coats and Skirts have also received their full share of praise from our friends. The range of new models is most extensive and the great variety of styles affords the most satisfying selection. One feature which makes this Department especially popular is that we have expert fitters to make alterations FREE. This is an important consideration since our prices are unquestionably the lowest in town for same qualities.

Special Tailored Suit Values

As a remarkable introductory value, we offer new Tailored Suits, made of good quality Broadcloth, with 45-inch Coat, lined with Skinner's Satin---a stunning new model, in black, blue, gray, and green. Special at

Arrangements are being made by the Plainfield Baseball club to bring McNulty Bros.' team to Crescent Oval, Saturday for another game. The New York boys are popular here and would doubtless draw a big crowd.

It is rumored that Hughey Jennings will manage the Philadelphia Nationals next season and that Billy Murray will be retained in another capacity.

There are many local fans who are pleased that Rochester won the Eastern League championship race. It is many years since the New York State boys captured the flag and they deserve it this year.

Manager Stallings, of the Yankees, has brought out and developed more young material this season than any other major league manager and the chances are that next year he will have a crack-a-jack aggregation. There are strong probabilities that Lajoie will be found in the lineup.

Bound Brook and Somerville will come together again on Saturday, when "Lou" Wiltse hopes to turn the tables on Manager Newhouse's fast bunch. Wiltse is planning to bring his brother, George, and possibly Marquard and Meyers of the Giants, to Somerville to play for him in some of the games of the series.

FOOTBALL.

The Holy Cross football team will hold pactice and tryout on the Cricket Field, tonight. Miller has been elected captain of the team and will play his old position, left halfback. Tillotson, a new quarterback, has shown up well in practice and will prove an addition to the team. The team will play any eleven averaging 135 pounds with a guarantee. D. L. Patterson, 36 Mariners place, is temporary manager. Among the players at practice are Coyle, Blazier, Vail, Sharrott, Harriman, Wilson, Harrigan, Brakeley, St. Clair, David, Bechtel. Others of the club are urged to be present at practice tonight.

At Proctor's.

There was a record-breaking attendance at Proctor's theatre Tuesday night, to witness the first presentation of the life motion picture, "The Unspoken Goodbye," which was taken at Smalley Bros.' quarry by the American Vitagraph Company. The picture is a perfect one, and there was great interest over the appearance of local people in it. The management has arranged to keep it here a day or two longer. At 8 o'clock last night, the throng at the theatre was so great that it was necessary to stop selling tickets for awhile.

C. L. Hall, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Newark, has been visiting friends here.

JERSEY INCORPORATION TO RUN DRUG STORES

The plan to operate a chain of drug stores on the same system as the United Cigar stores has been practically launched by officers of the cigar corporation, who have opened three stores under the management of the Lauer Drug Company, which is regarded as a subsidiary concern of the United Cigar Stores Company. George W. Whalen, of this city, is president of the Cigar Stores Corporation. With one store in Flushing, Long Island; another in Jersey City and a third in Perth Amboy, the Lauer company, of which Benjamin J. Lauer, an expert pharmacist, is the head, was incorporated in the State of New Jersey with an authorized capital of $10,000.

While the officers of the United Cigar Stores Company have refused to give out the details of the plan to open popular priced drug stores all over the city, it is understood that negotiations are now under way for the leases on stores to be absorbed. William T. Posey, vice-president of the Cigar Stores, is also vice-president of the drug stores. Thomas R. Taylor, a former officer of the retail tobacco concern, is treasurer of the new organization, which has its headquarters in the office of the United Cigar Stores Company, at No. 44 West 18th street.

The United Drug Consumers' Company, which was incorporated under the laws of New York with a capital of $1,000, it is understood has another plan for organizing the individual stores. With both of these corporations in the field, many independent drug store owners are perfecting an organization of their own, which is also expected to operate throughout the city. A committee of the New York Retail Druggists' Association has been appointed to investigate the plans for the new companies.

STRIKES HIS MOTHER; IS FLAYED BY JUDGE.

"One year in State prison is not enough punishment for a man who would lay a hand on his mother," declared Judge Mahon yesterday at Elizabeth, when Thomas Flannigan, of 229 Pine street, was arraigned before him charged with striking with his fist, Mrs. Hannah Flannigan, his mother, who was in court. Despite the fact that the blows given her had blackened her right eye, she requested the Judge to give her son another chance.

Flannigan was arrested on his mother's complaint. In view of the woman's request the Judge gave Flannigan his discharge. He warned him, however, that if brought before the court again he would be given the limit of the law.

Wilbur Wright yesterday sailed around the Statue of Liberty in an aeroplane and Glenn H. Curtiss made a trial flight around Governor's Island.

Justice Gaynor ignored District-Attorney Jerome's broadside. A friend said the justice would reply after he had quit the bench and gone stumping.

Professor Stroemgren, of Copenhagen University, yesterday said Commander Peary is under a misapprehension in regard to Dr. Cook's alleged artificial horizon.

General Fred D. Grant declared yesterday in answer to a critic that it was through a sense of duty that he took part in the Chicago parade, and held that he had a right to wear his uniform.

Harry Whitney cabled the Associated Press from St. John's N. F., yesterday explaining why he did not return to Etah for the belongings of Dr. Cook and saying that Commander Peary did not know what was left.

In a sermon delivered yesterday at the consecration in Baltimore of the Rev. Dr. John G. Murray, as Coadjutor Bishop of Maryland, Bishop C. K. Nelson, of Atlanta, attacked the religious attitude of Dr. Eliot, of Harvard.

Plans for today's military parade in New York were completed, with questions of precedence settled, and, foreign marines and sailors in line, the procession was started at 1 o'clock over the same line taken by Tuesday's pageant.

James Bates, mechanician of the Apperson car in the Long Island Automobile Derby, was almost instantly killed and Herbedt Lytle, the driver, seriously injured yesterday when the steering wheel broke and the racing machine crashed into a tree.

In their attmept to win The New York World's $10,00 Fulton Flight prize in New York, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin fell into the Hudson with his dirigible balloon ten minutes after the start and a mishap forced George L. Tomlinson to descend north of White Plains.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

There is a spot in Plainfield
Where alarm clocks you don't need,
In order to rise early,
When the little birdies feed.

For at just 5 in the morning,
When people want to sleep,
They're awakened from their slumbers,
When the sweeper starts to sweep.

The water wagon's bad enough,
The trolley's hard to beat,
And railroad trains you cannot hear,
When sweeper starts to sweep.

If you want to rise at 5 a. m.,
When the "finest" quit their beat,
Move to brick-paved Park avenue,
And hear that sweeper sweep.

You may talk about the fire-gong,
And brass band music sweet,
But they're beaten to a "frazzle,"
When the sweeper starts to sweep.

I've been 'wakened in the morning,
From a calm and peaceful sleep,
And I've cussed the City Fathers,
When I heard that sweeper sweep.

Now I'm no chronic kicker,
But it almost makes me weep,
To be aroused at 5 a. m.,
By that constant sweep, sweep, sweep.

A. VICTIM.

—William Campbell has removed from 81 to 108 Somerset street.

—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eaton and son, of Codington avenue, have removed to New York city.

—Those who contemplate taking the trip to Gettysburg Sunday and want to take a lunch along can leave their order for it with Timbo and it will be ready when wanted.

NATURALIZATION PAPERS ARE DENIED TO 2,067

Naturalization was refused to 2,067 aliens during the past fiscal year—a material increase over the rejection of would-be United States citizens during the preceding year.

These cases have presented many and varied interesting questions. Occasionally the disappointed foreigner has turned to the courts for relief from the action of the Naturalization Bureau of the Department of Commerce and Labor at Washington, and Chief Campbell, of that bureau, is drafting a measure which if enacted would provide for authority for the bureau, through the judicial officers of the Government, to appeal from the action of the State courts.

"When is a foreigner—a Turk, for instance—a white man?" is one of the problems that the naturalization officials have worked out.

In a case that will be tried in the United States Circuit Court at Cincinnati next month the Government has opposed the naturalization of a Turkish citizen on the ground that he is not a white person with the meaning of section 2,169 of the Revised Statutes.

That section declares that its provisions "shall apply to all aliens being free white persons and to aliens of African nativity and to persons of African descent." The courts have construed this as meaning only those so specified, and as barring Chinese and Japanese and their half breeds and Burmese, and have held that an Asiatic is neither a white person nor a person of African descent within the terms of the statute that governs.

The Massachusetts courts have held that Congress, in lesignating the class of persons who could be naturalized, inserted the qualifying word "white," and so intended to exclude from the citizenship privilege all alien races except the Caucasian.

In its memorandum of cases defining the words "free white persons," the naturalization bureau cites an opinion from Chancellor Kent, the commentator, that "it may well be doubted whether the copper-colored natives of America or the yellow or tawny races of Asiatics are white persons within the purview of the law."

PREDICTS HARD WINTER FROM EQUINOX WEATHER.

Coming out at least two months ahead of the usual crop of weather prognostigators, goosebone prophets and others, John T. Roberts, of Darby, Pa., who declares he has never made a mistake in fortelling the weather for the last forty-two years, makes the unpleasant assertion that a winter of unusual severity is ahead of us. He says:

"I predicted that last winter would be mild with an early spring, despite the fact that the goose-bone prophet of Reading declared a big blizzard was booked for around January 15 or 20, with February unusually cold. I take my observations on the first three days of the fall equinox, September 20, 21 and 22, and base my calculations on the direction of the wind for these three days. The first day, September 20, give us the weather for the first winter month, December; the second, the weather for January, and the third day for February."

Warren Doctors Congratulate Cook.

Washington, N. J., Sept. 30.—The Warren County Medical Society at a special meeting held at the Hotel Windsor Tuesday, besides listening to able papers by several members, were favored with an address by Dr. Grey, of East Orange, who is counselor to the State society. The society adopted resolutions congratulating Dr. F. A. Cook on being the first person to reach the North Pole and assuring him of absolute faith in his claims. The letter of congratulation also speaks of the society's esteem for him as a physician and expresses appreciation of the fact that in the controversy in regard to the discovery of the North Pole Dr. Cook has upheld the dignity of the profession.

C. B. PIERCE HIGH MAN ON ASSEMBLY TICKET

Of the Republican candidates for nomination at the primaries on Tuesday Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce led his ticket with 3,217 votes. Assemblyman A. W. Schwartz followed him with 2,976, while Lloyd Thompson, a new candidate for the office, polled 2,739 votes.

Harold Depew, with 1,111, ran ahead of Schuyler M. Cady, who received 949. These two independent candidates for nomination were defeated by about three to one.

All the Assembly candidates showed unusual strength in their home towns, although Mr. Schwartz did not quite keep up with Mr. Pierce in Elizabeth. Mr. Cady ran ahead of the whole ticket in Summit, where he lives, receiving 136 votes.

In Westfield, where Mr. Thompson lives, he ran ahead of his ticket by nearly fifty votes.

The Linden township vote is worth noting. Depew lives there, and he rounded up 122 votes for himself, 127 for Cady, and Pierce got about all the rest of them—141. Voting was similar in Summit. Cady and Depew drew most of their votes from these two districts and from Roselle, New Providence and the uptown wards of Elizabeth.

Frank H. Smith, candidate for registrar, was the high man on the Republican ticket with 4,259 votes. Charles B. Holmes, candidate for coroner, received only two votes less than Mr. Smith. James C. Calvert, candidate for county clerk, polled 3,254, only five less than Mr. Smith and three less than Mr. Holmes.

Dr. Frank H. Warncke, candidate for coroner, led the Democratic county ticket with 2,809 votes. John F. Kenah, for county clerk, had 3,798, and George H. Schlotterer, for registrar, 3,775.

Joseph T. Hague, Franklin Halliday and Abram P. Morris averaged about 3,787 votes each.

ABRAM M. VAIL DEAD; FUNERAL TOMORROW.

Abram M. Vail, one of the oldest members of the Society of Friends, and a carpenter of high ability, who was known to every contractor in the city and who has as monuments to his skill, many of the finest structures in this city, died Tuesday night at his home on West Third street, in his eighty-second year. Mr. Vail had been a sufferer from gangrene for the past few weeks and his death was not unexpected. He was born at Greenbrook on a farm and has watched with pride the growth of Plainfield and loved to see the city of his adoption progress.

He was married thirty years ago to Sarah A. Drake, who survives him. He also leaves a son, Edgar A. Vail, of Westchester, N. Y. The funeral will take place tomorrow from his late residence and will be conducted by the Friends Society. The interment will be in the Friends' cemetery.

Borough School Meeting.

At the meeting of the Board of Education, of the borough of North Plainfield, last Monday night, arrangements were made for renting, through a committee, Debele's Hall, on Chatham street, to be used as a gymnasium. Bills for repairs amounting to $6,238 were ordered paid and suggestions regarding the inspection of pupils' teeth were received from Drs. French and Stevens representing the Plainfield Dental Association, who recommended that the method pursued in other cities be adopted here. This afternoon the Somerset school is closed for the purpose of allowing the teachers and pupils to see the Hudson-Fulton parade in New York city.

The Theatrical Twins in Paris.

William Jerome Counihan, formerly manager of the Plainfield theatre, and his partner in the former management of the Perth Amboy theatre, Michael Lucille Shannon, are seeing the sights in Paris. "Bill" writes that "Broadway has Paree beaten to a frazzle," and that "there is no place in the world like the gay white way."

MAKES BITTER ATTACK ON MARY BAKER EDDY

San Francisco, Cal., Christian Scientists and anti-Christian Scientists are talking of nothing else today than the bitter excoriation of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy by Frederick Peabody, a Boston lawyer, who spoke to an audience in that city Tuesday night that filled the Dreamland Rink there to the doors.

Peabody accused Mrs. Eddy of "standing before the public in the guise of a benefactress and bringing suffering, pain and death to thousands of children and deluded dupes.

"Were it not for the public character that she assumes," Peabody said, "I would not attack either her or her religion, for she is an old woman and the task is distasteful. Nothing justifies a man in attacking a woman in private life, but she has become a public character and is duping the public. Knowing the real facts, I consider it my sacred duty to oppose the machinations of this adventuress and charlatan."

Peabody said that Mrs. Eddy's book, "Science and Health," had been stolen from the manuscripts of P. P. Quimby and rewritten by Henry Wiggins, of Boston, who later wrote sermons for Mrs. Eddy. Peabody enlivened his address by frequently calling upon Frank Gale, one of Mrs. Eddy's lieutenants in San Francisco, was was in the audience, to refute the charges that he made against Mrs. Eddy. Gale, however, refused to be drawn into debate.

ENDEAVORERS' REQUEST IS GRANTED BY TRINITY.

At a meeting of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church last night, it was voted to grant the request of the committee in charge of the entertainment of delegates to the State Christian Endeavor convention, to allow the use of the Sunday-school room for the serving of meals on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. Trinity Reformed church will also be used for an overflow meeting on Friday night, when Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark will speak at the First Presbyterian and First Baptist churches.

Should it be impossible to accommodate all at these two churches, Trinity will also be used.

Charles L. Hyde in New Company.

Charles Livingston Hyde, of this city, is one of three incorporators of the Tackums Investment Company, which has been granted a charter at Trenton. The corporation is capitalized at $100,000 and will develop a tract of land in Tennessee. Mr. Hyde is the brother-in-law of Counselor John A. Montgomery, of Trenton, who together with J. Irving Davidson, also of Trenton, are the other two incorporators.

Will Hold All-Day Meeting.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance will hold an all-day meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow. Thomas R. Francis, of Jersey City, will be in charge. There will be a prayer service at 10:30, a song service at 3:30, followed with an address by Mr. Francis. No refreshments will be served at the noon hour. The meeting of the Rescue Mission in the evening will be conducted by Mr. Francis.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy Return.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murphy, of Watchung avenue, returned home on Tuesday on the Kronprinz Wilhelm, after a delightful trip abroad. They left here on July 10, going to Gibraltar, Naples, Athens, Constantinople, Smyrna, then back to Athens and Greece, Cettigne, Montenegro, Venice, through the Italian lakes, Switzerland, Paris and London, leaving Southampton for home on September 22.

PIANO CONTEST FAKES EXPOSED!

IMPORTANT FACTS FOR HOLDERS OF GOLD BONDS, PIANO COUPONS AND DISCOUNT CERTIFICATES.

There are several Piano houses which have no prices for their goods except grossly inflated ones arranged expressly for fake discounts in connection with schemes of various kinds. These houses seem to find it impossible to dispose of their pianos in a legitimate, straightforward way, but instead resort to one scheme after another—catch-penny devices, so crude as to be positively insulting to the intelligence of the public. These schemes usually take the form of guessing contests, drawing puzzles and various feats of little skill. In all of them the object is identical to mislead the prospective buyer into the belief that he is getting something for nothing, while at the same time prices are arranged sufficiently high to off-set the allowance to which his prize certificate entitles him.

EVERYONE WHO MAKES A GUESS GETS A PRIZE!

If you have ever answered one of these ads you received a discount certificate. EVERYBODY DOES. It matters not whether the answer is good, bad or indifferent, from adult or child it draws a prize in the shape of a certificate or due bill (generally from $65.00 to $100.00) to apply on the purchase of a new Piano. Of course the price of the Piano is fixed accordingly and the purchaser pays a high price even after the amount of certificate is deducted, usually a much higher price than an instrument of similar quality could be secured for in any legitimate music store.

To test the value of one of these certificates present it in payment for something other than a new piano—say a low priced used piano, music cabinet or a bench, and see how quickly the dealer will turn you down. He will not even give you 50 cents worth of music for it. Try the experiment!

AT $185.00 WE WILL SELL A BETTER PIANO THAN THE SCHEME HOUSES ASK $325.00 TO $400.00 FOR! Such well known and high grade makes as Haines Bros., Brewster, the Genuine Mathushek and others too numerous to mention.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

After October 4 Williamstown dealers will raise the price of milk to eight cents a quart.

The cannery at Glassboro is having the biggest rush on tomatoes in its history, and is running night and day.

The September term of the Cumberland county courts convened Tuesday in the South Jersey Institute. Charles W. Wilson, of Millville, is foreman of the grand jury.

Accused of refilling registered milk bottles, James P. Daley, a dealer of Third and Mt. Vernon streets, paid a fine and costs before Justice of the Peace Schmitz in Camden yesterday.

Rev. Harry Bright, evangelist, of New York City, has been given a call to the pastorate of Calvary M. E. church, East Camden. He will preach there next Sunday and then give his decision.

"Gump," a Maltese cat, reputed to be twenty-eight years old, belonging to Joseph Winonse, of near Beverly, met death Tuesday in a game fight with a rat in the barn. The cat was a playmate of Mrs. Winonse when she was a girl.

Arrangements are being perfected for the annual Methodist Protestant Conference to be held in Bridgeton beginning October 20. Rev. Dr. Louis D. Stultz will preside and will probably be elected to the presidency for the fourth successive year.

Despondent over the loss of her position, Pearl Sheets, sixteen years old, of Front and Erie streets, Camden, attempted suicide with laudanum and was sent to Cooper Hospital early Tuesday morning, but was soon able to leave the institution.

Repairs to the heaters in the old school on Broad street, Woodbury, not being completed, it was necessary to adjourn the sessions Tuesday because of the cold. Four rooms in Green's block were dismissed also because the heating apparatus was not in working order.

In response to petitions sent him by Mayor Cresse, Commander Bispham, of the United States Navy Department, at Philadelphia, has sent word that he will recommend the placing of a bell buoy off Great Egg Harbor. This will be a great convenience to those who have occasion to use the bay, both for business and pleasure, and the bell will make it easy to locate the inlet in the dark or fog.

Such importance is attached to the Mt. Holly Fair, to be held next week, that Judge Horner has decided to postpone the trial of criminal cases connected with the September term of court until the week following. This decison was announced at the opening of the term yesterday, and it will give general satisfaction. In the past when the fair and court conflicted it has been difficult to get satisfactory service from witnesses and jurors, and sometimes counsel.

MARRIED TWENTY YEARS, WIFE SEEKS ALIMONY.

Trenton, Sept. 30.—Their hair whitened by age, Franklin Davenport and his wife sat in the Camden Chancery Court Tuesday to testify that, after living together happily for twenty years, they wanted to separate. Mrs. Davenport asked the court to order her husband to pay her alimony and alleged he had treated her unkindly.

Davenport, in his reply, admitted that he and his wife lived happily for many years, until Aaron Hurff appeared on the scene. Then there was a change in his wife's demeanor. She seemed to care nothing for either him or their home, he alleges. Davenport asserts that his wife met Hurff in Bridgeport, Woodbury, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and other places. Mrs. Davenport is alleged to have had a habit of leaving her home sometimes for several days.

On one occasion, the husband declares, his wife determined to leave him. With Hurff, she packed up her belongings, insisting on her husband giving assistance. She became so wearied in the packing process, however, that she was finally coaxed to remain with her husband.

During the reading of the various affidavits friends of the Davenports conveyed messages back and forth until it was announced that they might become reconciled. In view of this the case was adjourned until December 31.

FARMER WHO DISOBEYED COURT IS PUT IN JAIL.

Belvidere, Sept. 30.—Sheriff Wieder Tuesday went to Summerfield, Warren county, and served the order of the Court of Chancery on farmer William Sarson, who was arrested and brought here and locked up in jail to serve a ten days' sentence for disobeying the injunction of the court in the matter of polluting the waters of the Buckhorn Creek. Sarson accompanied the sheriff and his deputy without protest. He insisted, however, in saying that he thought a man ought to have a right to do as he pleased on his own premises.

His wife burst into tears when he left home, and he himself was visibly affected. He says he will rot in jail before he pays the fine, which amounts to between thirty and forty dollars. He was a former school teacher.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The approaching engagement here of "Salomy Jane," which occurs on Saturday afternoon and night, has already aroused considerable interest among our local theatregoers, and that the attendance will be of the capacity order is almost an assured fact. The play of "Salomy Jane" is the famous Paul Armstrong dramatization of Bret Harte's widely read western idyl, "Salomy Jane's Kiss," and has the record run in New York of one solid year at the Liberty Theatre. Nothing more artistic in the dramatic line has been written in years, than this inspiring, frank and altogether sincere play of the west. Divided into four acts, permeating with breezy, brilliant dialogue, exciting situations, and true ringing reflexes of natural life, "Salomy Jane" is recorded as the important hit of the many and varied successes of the pen of Paul Armstrong. Now on its second triumphal tour of the principal cities, this season's production, more elaborate than ever, and an excellent cast, including Miss Louise Coleman and many of the original company. There is little doubt but what all records of the past will be broken notwithstanding the magnitude and heavy expense of this attraction. Regular prices will prevail.

Charles K. Champlin, rightly named "The man who wins them all," and his big stock company of thirty people are booked to appear at the Plainfield theatre all next week, starting Monday with a matinee. This season Mr. Champlin has the largest and strongest company in the history of his theatrical career and the plays are all high class royalty plays. In every city where Mr. Champlin has appeared he has been accorded nothing but the highest praise by critics who seem to be of the unanimous opinion that he has reached the zenith of success in the presentation of high class plays at popular prices. The vaudeville features with the Champlin show this season are the strongest ever seen in any repertoire company.

At last the hero of our boyhood days has found his way to the stage and when "Deadwood Dick's Last Shot" comes to the Plainfield theatre November 3 we will have a chance to form his acquaintance again. This time Dick is surrounded by a number of new characters, lovable and otherwise, in an entirely original melodrama. The production is by Chas. H. Wurz, one of the best known purveyors of this style of entertainment. The play, which is by Owen Davis, is in four acts, and eight scenes and, according to all accounts, is one of the best this prolific playwright has turned out thus far. Deadwood Dick figures in a number of hair breadth adventures and escapes. He eludes all of his enemies and eventually wins the love of the girl of his choice. Those who were amused and entertained by Deadwood Dick's exploits in days gone by will certainly find considerable to interest them in the new play with its endurable sensations, startling stage effects, thrills, pathos and wholesome comedy. The piece is admirably staged and cast.

BEAUTIFUL GIRL "GHOST" HAUNTS A CLUBHOUSE.

Riverton, Sept. 30.—Members of the Riverton Country Club are excited over the appearance of a "ghost" that so far has baffled all attempts to capture it.

The "ghost" first appeared at the clubhouse at midnight about ten days ago, and according to Samuel Conwell, the steward, rapped on the door, and as soon as he opened it the figure disappeared.

Conwell, as soon as he recovered his nerve, summoned several of the members who had not returned to their homes and a search was made. The clubhouse stands in the middle of a large lawn, without an obstruction of any kind on the ground, behind which the "ghost" could have hidden, but no trace of any one or anything could be found.

Four nights later the "ghost," which makes its appearance in form of a beautiful young woman, all dressed in white, again appeared at the house, about an hour earlier than the first appearance, and after rapping on the door led the steward, his mother, Mrs. Samuel Conwell, and several other people nearly a square across the links and then disappeared. The party even searched the ground where the "ghost" had last been seen, but without success. Its third appearance was similar to the others.

Chief of Police William Major was then called on the telephone, and placed William Quigley, who through his good work, has won the title of "Old Sleuth," on watch at the clubhouse. The sleuth has spent three nights on watch, but thus far has not seen the "ghost."

History as Made in New Jersey!

By REV. JOHN KELLER.

Relevant to the Hudson-Fulton celebration, Rev. John Keller, secretary of the Newark Episcopal Diocese, gave a review of a historical nature in Grace church the other day. He told of the pioneer work in this State accomplished by settlers statesmen, scientists, inventors and churchmen, and the leading parts they took in the progress not only of the State but of the country. His subject was "Humane Progress and Great Inventions in New Jersey."

"When Henry Hudson," said Rev. Mr. Keller, "looked upon the shores of what is now Navesink Highlands, he pronounced it a very good place to fall in with and a pleasant place to see. In 1648 it was called New Albion and at that time generous praise was bestowed upon its fertility and its air, so that it is a matter of no wonder that later disputes arose over its possession. When the Duke of York first made known his intention of giving it to Berkeley and Carteret, Governor Nicholls, of New York, protested 'because he would be parting with the best of his possessions in fertility of soil and fair hope of rich mines.'

"A long and bitter controversy over the northern boundary line of the State followed the protest. Jerseymen accepted the two points from which the imaginary line should be drawn and so did the New Yorkers, but the time came when our friends over the river refused to abide by the agreement and after many years our forefathers thought it better policy to stand a proposed loss and settle the matter; at the same time losing 20 miles of boundary on the Delaware River and 210,000 acres of territory.

"Beautiful and valuable as the territory may be," declared Mr. Keller, "our State can be proud of her dealings with the men who owned the territory by the God-given right of possession. The Hon. Samuel L. Southard, in presenting a claim of the remnant of the early possessors of these lands, made the following statement before the legislative committee: 'It is a proud fact in the history of New Jersey that every footstep of her soil has been acquired from the Indians by a fair and voluntary purchase and transfer—a fact that no other State of the Union, not even the land which bears the name of Penn, can boast of.'

How State Eliminated Slavery.

"The history of humane progress in New Jersey should also state that while slavery was early introduced in the province, it was never popular with the people. On April 19, 1784, Jefferson proposed to exclude slavery from all the West, South as well as North. The effect would have been to confine slavery to the southeastern corner of the country. The measure was lost by a single vote. Had that New Jersey delegate been present, whose illness kept him at home that day, the history of this country might have been wholly changed.

"The slave traffic between this and other States was prohibited in 1798. In 1804 an act was passed for the gradual abolition of slavery, which provided that all children born in the State after that date should be free. In 1860 there were only 30 slaves in the commonwealth. What hundreds and thousands of lives might have been spared, what untold misery and ruin might have been averted if other States had followed where New Jersey led the way?"

The Soldiers' Home, now in Kearny, but established in Newark in 1866, the speaker told, was the first institution of its kind in America, and the life-saving corps along the coast were originated in New Jersey. The plan for operating them was devised and inaugurated by Governor Newell in 1841.

"The familiar red soil reminds me," said the clergyman, "that the life blood of many a patriot and of many a foe has stained the land. Like the Caesarea of the olden time, a garrison town on the Mediterranean, midway between Mt. Carmeel and Joppa, and the Nova Caesarea of the Channel Islands, this Nova Caesarea has a glorious history of patriotic deeds and heroic action."

Mr. Keller recalled that when Louis Philippe came from France and was permitted to hold land at Burlington a cry arose that New Jersey was out of the Union, and also that because Newark had a grant with the South when the Civil War broke out, it was asserted that the State would give little support to the Union. The record showed, however, that the people pledged their utmost resources, that the banks were liberal, and that every fireside shone with patriotism.

Record in the War.

The State was called on to supply four regiments of 780 men each, but within a few days 10,000 volunteered, and the Legislature, in the extra session, appropriated $2,000,000 and levied $100,000 annually as a military tax. After Theodore Runyon was made brigadier-general the Federal Government could not furnish equipments and arms, and the State clothed and provided for the men. As the troops were about to move the Federal Government found itself unable to provide ammunition. Then the State provided 5,000 musket balls and 100,000 percussion caps. The troops from this State were the first brigade of volunteers to arrive in Washington, May 6. Their presence inspired security in the War Department, and the State never stood higher in the estimation of the loyal people of the country.

With a population in 1860 of 672,000, the State marshalled 83,304 men, not counting thousands who went to other States to enlist. The State itself gave 10,057 more troops than it was called on to provide. Its troops alone were greater than any English-speaking army Great Britain had ever had. At Gettysburg the State had 12 regiments of infantry and one of calvary, besides two batteries, and the conduct of the men through the war was summed up as excellent.

When the constitutional convention assembled in Philadelphia, May 25, 1787, Mr. Keller asserted, "the controlling influence was that of New Jersey's men." This State was the first to adopt the proposed Constitution without amendment, and this action was taken unanimously by the Assembly, December 18, 1787.

A Victory of Peace.

"Let me, however, recall to your minds a matchless victory of peace," pursued the clergyman. "In 1780 the Supreme Court of New Jersey, after patient hearing of argument and careful deliberation, announced the doctrine that an act of the Legislature when weighed in the balance of the Constitution and found wanting, is no law. This judgment, rendered in a country village in the middle of New Jersey, was the first in the series of decisions which introduced into the American system of government a principle of prime importance, hitherto and elsewhere unknown."

Speaking of the meeting at Annapolis in 1786, called to reform commercial regulations, and New Jersey's demand for a uniform system, became the watchword of Hamilton for the Federal convention in Philadelphia.

"James Madison sketched the national plan," said Mr. Keller; "William Patterson claimed and secured through the temporary Jersey plan the permanent and equal recognition of the States, and Oliver Ellsworth cleared the way for the blended plan in which the highest life of each of these forces is conditioned upon the welfare of the other. Madison, Patterson and Ellsworth each received their first lessons in State craft at Princeton.

"While speaking of work of college graduates in national affairs, we must remember that it was Simon De Witt, graduated from the New Jersey College (Rutgers) in 1776, who in 1784 wisely suggested the national system of meridian surveys introduced by Jefferson to promote the development of the West, and to fix the boundaries of the prairie farm by the everlasting stars.

"In the earliest days of provincial life the people of New Jersey contended for the freedom of commerce within national boundaries. After the Declaration of Independence, New Jersey alone, from the first constantly demanded for the central government a grant from the States of power over commerce.

"It was fitting, however, that New Jersey should supply the materials in the case of Gibbons vs. Ogden, in 1824, when Webster pleaded and Marshall held, that commerce between New Jersey and New York and among the several States of all the Union should pass untroubled.

"In 1860 the representatives in Congress, after a struggle of eight weeks, by a bare majority chose William Pennington, of New Jersey, to be the Speaker. Thus, again, by our State, the even scales of the national fate were tipped."

Pioneers of Industry.

Reviewing industrial progress, Mr. Keller described how the first steam engine on the Western Continent was erected at the copper mines, Arlington, in 1753 by Hornblower, 16 years before Watts began his investigations, and told that the first steamboats driven by a single and twin-screw propeller were constructed by John Stevens at Hoboken in 1802 and 1804, and that the Pheonix the first steamboat to navigate the ocean, was designed, constructed and navigated by Jerseymen, John Stevens and his son, Robert L. Stevens, in 1807-08.

The first charter for a railroad in America was granted by the Legislature in 1814 for a railroad from Trenton to New Brunswick during the War of 1812; the machinery of the Savannah, the first steamship to cross the Atlantic Ocean, was constructed at the Vail Works, Speedwell, near Morristown, in 1818; the first steam locomotive in America to convey human beings on a railroad track was constructed at Hoboken in 1825, and the first successful experiments with the electro-magnetic telegraph based upon the discoveries of Professor Henry, of Princeton College, were made by Vail & Morse, at Speedwell Works, near Morristown, in 1838.

Mentioning some of the State's greatest men, Mr. Keller recalled John Stevens, statesman and commissioner to treat with the Indians; Colonel John Stevens, of Hoboken, lawyer, statesman, inventor of many improvements in steam engineering, marine architecture and improvements in railroad construction; Robert Livingston Stevens, of Hoboken, and Edwin Augustus Stevens, engineers and designers, who ably assisted their father in developing transportation facilities between Philadelphia and New York by the famous Union Line and later by the construction of the Camden and Amboy Railroad; Washington A. Roebling, of Trenton, engineer, of Brooklyn Bridge fame; Vail, of Morristown, who furnished Professor Morse, of Princeton, with materials for the first successful experiment in sending a message through a wire.

"The great-hearted Bishop Doane, of New Jersey, who in 1841 officiated in England, being the first American bishop to be permitted to do so, was also one of the originators and an enthusiastic member of the New Jersey Historical Society.

"Time fails to speak more particularly of the work of Commodore Robert F. Stockton, of Princeton; Captain James Lawrence, of Burlington; James Fenimore Cooper, of Burlington; Captain William Bainbridge and R. Earle Anderson, of Princeton, in connection with great historical battles and improvements on the ships of our navy.

Growth of Episcopal Church.

"To us churchmen it is a source of gratification to find that all, with possibly one or two exceptions, were members of the church, and found time in their busy and eventful lives to remember Christ and His church. Of these some were able to give largely for the spread of the gospel and the cause of good manners."

In conclusion the speaker called attention to the fact that the Episcopal church in New Jersey a century ago was very weak in numbers. In 1815, out of a population of 250,000, there were only eight clergymen and 400 communicants. Yet from the earliest times the Episcopal church had within her membership great inventors, statesmen and public-spirited men generally.

Allusion was made to the fact that the laymen present at the meeting in New Brunswick, May, 1784—John Stevens, Richard Stevens, John Dennis, Colonel John Formar, Colonel Hoyt and James Parker—were all Jerseymen. It was by their vote that another convention was called for October in the same year to meet in New York. In that body John De Hart, of New Jersey, one of the best lawyers of his day, penned the famous resolution, "That there should be a general convention of the Episcopal church in the United States; that the said church shall adhere to the Liturgy of the Church of England so far as shall be consistent with the American Revolution and the Constitution of the respective States."

"It was the diocesan convention of New Jersey that strongly protested against the adoption of the proposed book,'" said Mr. Keller, "and to the conservative laymen of New Jersey we owe the first efforts to bring the church in the United States into national unity. They took deep interest in the organization and work of the general convention, and they strove earnestly to preserve the integrity of the Book of Common Prayer."

GOLF.

The long looked for team which will represent the Metropolitan Golf Association in the coming Lesley cup competition over the links of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club at Philadelphia Saturday was given out Tuesday night. In making its selection the committee met with several disappointments, and it is not surprising that the local aggregation appears to be somewhat weaker than usual.

The team will unquestionably miss the services of Jerome D. Travers, the former national and metropolitan champion, who is at present out of the game, while George T. Brokaw, of Garden City, and W. Fellowes Morgan, jr., of Baltusrol, both of whom were invited, found it impossible to accept. The team will be made up as follows:

Findlay S. Douglas, Nassau Country Club; C. A. Dunning, Nassau Country Club; Howard J. Gee, Fox Hills Golf Club; Fred Herreshoff, Westbrook Golf Club; F. C. Jennings, Nassau Country Club; Archie Reid, St. Andrews Golf Club; John F. Shanley, Jr., Deal Golf and Country Club; W. R. Thurston, Apawamis club; Walter J. Travis, Garden City Golf Club; F. R. Upton, Jr., Baltusrol Golf Club; C. C. Van Vleck, Jr., Montclair Golf Club; John M. Ward, Westbrook Golf Club.

Dunning, Jennings, Shanley, Thurston, Upton and Van Vleck are strangers to the tri-city match, and while they may fill the places acceptably, their presence is bound to cause more or less uncertainty, especially as both the Boston and Philadelphia teams are said to be stronger than usual. Travis has again been chosen captain of the metropolitan forces.

In accordance with the conditions, Philadelphia and Boston will meet in the preliminary match tomorrow, the winner to earn the right to line up against New York on the following day. Singles will be played each morning and old-fashioned foursomes in the afternoon.

Last year at Garden City the Massachusetts team defeated Philadelphia 8 points to 7. The singles were 6 to 4 in favor of Masachusetts and the foursomes 3 to 2 in favor of Philadelphia. In the decisive match New York beat Massachusetts by an 8 to 7 margin. The singles were 7 to 4 in favor of New York, but the Bay State representatives rallied in the foursomes and won four out of five matches.

It is certain that Massachusetts will take down a strong team, for the following have already promised to play: H. H. Wilder, Vesper Country Club; Percival Gilbert, Brae Burn; P. W. Whittemore, Brookline Country Club; W. C. Chick, Brae Burn; Hugo R. Johnstone, Myopia; T. M. Claflin, Wollaston; A. G. Lockwood, Allston, and J. G. Anderson, Woodland. Others expected to compete are T. G. Stevenson, C. T. Crocker, Jr., A. L. White and F. H. Hoyt.

As Philadelphia will have all of Pennsylvania to call upon, it is easy to see that there is trouble ahead, more especially as the leading amateurs of that territory are at present engaged in the Pennsylvania State Golf Association championship tournament at Huntingdon Valley. The likely players for the inter-city team are W. G. Pfeil, Dr. Simon Carr, A. W. Tillinghast, W. T. West, Edward Satterthwaite, R. E. Hansen, W. C. Fownes, Jr., H. W. Perrin, J. S. Alcorn, H. B. McFarland, E. M. Byers and George Ormiston.

FOOTBALL.

The Acorn A. C. football team, of Brooklyn, one of the best in the metropolitan district, will play the Dunellen team at Dunellen Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

P. H. S. NOTES.

The board of athletic directors at its last meeting appointed the various committees to look after athletics. The committee to arrange for the track meet this fall is composed of Russell Miller, Thomas Ricketts and Clifford Vail. They also hope to organize a successful track team, which the High School has been trying so long to do.

Clyde Doane has been appointed to select a committee for the annual entertainment of the athletic association. With little doubt, the old costum of having a minstrel show will be carried out.

At the next meeting the basketball and baseball managers will be appointed. The tennis committee has not been chosen yet as the tournament will not come off until next spring.

The High School orchestra has been started for this year under the head of M.. Howe. Many pupils have brought their instruments and expressed their willingness to join. In former years the orchestra has been a great success.

The Sophomores have elected Frederick Kron, president.

GOVERNOR INVITES COOK TO VISIT NEW JERSEY

Governor J. Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, was on the train which took Dr. F. A. Cook, the explorer, from New York to Philadelphia yesterday. He passed twenty minutes with the explorer. He extended the welcome of the State to the doctor and expressed the hope that he would honor Trenton by a visit.

One passenger on the train shook hands with the doctor so heartily that he caused the explorer considerable pain. Dr. Cook's right hand is literally flayed with so much handshaking, and he is now compelled to offer his left hand.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The regular communion service will be held at Warren chapel Sunday morning.

The various societies of the Temple Baptist church have resumed their regular meetings for the fall and winter.

The quarterly meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will be held in the church parlor tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Plans for the fall work will be announced.

At the union prayer service, held in the W. C. T. U. rooms Tuesday night, the attendance of young people was noticeably small. However, those who were there listened to an interesting talk by Walter J. Firstbrook. Mrs. L. R. Howard sang a solo and special prayers were offered for the coming convention. Tonight H. W. VanArsdale, of Trinity Reformed church Christian Endeavor Society, will lead the meeting and on Saturday night Percy Cannon will lead.

Funeral of Mrs. Shepherd.

The funeral of Mrs. Lydia Shepherd took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from her late residence, 242 Somerset street, North Plainfield. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. The pallbearers were N. C. Pennington, Herman K. Tych, J. S. Lunger, J. T. Case, Bateman Thatcher and Lucius Shepherd. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Capacity Audiences at Proctor's.

The life motion, "The Unspoken Goodbye," which was made at Smalley Brothers' stone quarry, continues to draw capacity audiences to Proctor's theatre this week. The picture will be shown every day up to and including Saturday. Today a first class new bill of vaudeville will be presented, including a spectacular act of trained birds. The other acts are equally good and comprise comedy, music and a sketch.

SOMERSET RENOMINATED EFFICIENT ASSEMBLYMAN.

Once more the Somerset county Republicans renominated Assemblyman William W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, on Tuesday. The Democratic antagonist chosen TTuesday is Charles A. Moran, of Bernardsville.

There was no contest for the nomination of Assemblymen, as the foregoing candidates were the only aspirants to file petitions with the county clerk.

In the borough of Somerville there was a spirited contest despite the efforts to eliminate party lines from the nomination of borough officers by running the present borough Mayor and councilmen on both the Republican and Democratic tickets.

The Republicans who believe in running the borough election on party lines succeeded in nominating their candidates, Elmer Richards and Garret W. Van Cleef, by small majorities, defeating Lewis A. Bellis and William E. Maxwell, present members of the Borough Council on the Republican ticket.

Bellis and Maxwell, however, were nominated on the Democratic ticket and Mayor Charles E. Kenyon and Councilmen Walter Durling, Joseph Barras, Charles Schwed and Albert B. Cline were renominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets.

The closest contest was between Josepr Fitzga and James Brown, Republicans, for the nomination of borough representatives in the Somerset county Board of Freeholders. Fitzga, the present freeholder, was defeated by one vote and he has declared his intention of applying for a recount.

Leases the Gross Home.

Mrs. F. M. Gross has leased her handsome residence at 722 West Seventh street, for two years to E. P. Thomas, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas took possession today. He holds a responsible position with the United States Steel Products Export Company at 30 Church street, new York. Mrs. Gross has not made her plans for the future but will either spend the next two years in Europe or in California.

Miss Lord's Funeral Saturday.

The funeral of Miss Blanche Lord, who died as the result of an automobile accident at Minneapolis, Tuesday night, will be held at St. Mary's church Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. No further particulars of the accident which caused Miss Lord's death have been received by the family.

Arrange for a Dance.

The Children of Mary, of St. Joseph's church, is planning to hold a fair and dance in Saengerbund Hall for a week, commencing November 11. The proceeds will be placed in the church building fund.

"To Remind Ye!"

Mr. Seymour Eaton tells a story about "Pat" and "Dublin". Here it is in brief.—We visited one of the show places of Dublin, were given a guide and a pass. On the PASS was printed positive instructions that "tips" must not be given to employees.
Pat showed us around very nicely and when told that we were sorry the rules prevented our giving him a "tip" he said—
"Begorra, that printing is only to remind ye of it."

We pay for this space to REMIND you of our willingness to PAY interest on SAVINGS and other DEPOSITS.

Daly—Duffy.

Miss Mary Duffy, daughter of Mrs. Bridget Duffy, 194 Grove street, and Francis Daly, of Elizabeth, were married yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, by Rev. William H. Miller. Miss Elizabeth Duffy, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, with James Duffy, her brother, as best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride.
